

Things We Think Things Others Think and What We Think of Things Others Think
—BILLY SMITH

As Predicted
The large vote given Congressman Lister Hill, candidate for United States Senator, last Tuesday over the state is sufficient evidence to convince the opponents of the President and the New Deal that Democracy still reigns supreme. It was a true expression of what the voters think of this Democratic form of government and its efforts to hold this nation up out of depressions. It was as we had predicted and believed.

Good News
We were in the capital city the other day and were informed through the State Highway Department that contracts for hard-surfacing approximately six miles of county roads in Chilton County had been forwarded to the Commissioners Court several days ago. This is indeed, good news to this county as it will probably mark the beginning of a program of hard-surfacing of county roads in this county.

Hardy Coming Out
We engaged Sheriff J.R. Hardy in conversation the other day and learned that he had definitely made up his mind to enter the race for Tax Collector of this county on the Democratic ticket in the coming primary election to be held in May. Sheriff Hardy had been mentioned sometime ago as a prospective candidate for this office but only recently decided to throw his hat in the ring. Sheriff Hardy has a large number of friends and supporters over the county who will be glad to learn of this. He also told us that he would make an official announcement at the proper time.

Burdette For Sheriff
Our office received a pleasant visit the other day from Tom J. Burdette and we informed him his name had been linked with those who may be candidates for Sheriff of this county. We have heard some very favorable comments on that. Mr. Burdette told us he was seriously considering the race and that he would decide definitely within a few days. Frankly, it is our personal opinion that Mr. Burdette will be a candidate for Sheriff. We base this opinion on statements made by persons who say he will make a good Sheriff. It will be his first experience of running for office.

Mr. Mullins Retires
"I'm retiring for the boys now, instead of them working for me," is the comment given us this week by our friend, J.R. Mullins, when the announcement was made that he had retired from active connection with his large mercantile establishment here. To John and Edwin Mullins and Frank Scott, the members of the new firm of Mullins and Scott, we extend our very best wishes. The firm of Mullins and Scott will continue to grow as rapidly as the firm of Mullins & Moore and the firm of J.R. Mullins & Sons. Under the leadership of these progressive young business men.

McKee Running
The official announcement from Tax Collector T.L. McKee that he is a candidate to succeed himself to that office is made this week. Mr. McKee no doubt, believes that "the early bird catches the worm" as he is the first candidate to announce on the Democratic ticket in this county.

Nivens Getting Ready
The race for Sheriff of this county will take on some new light when deputy sheriff J.A. Nivens makes his announcement as a candidate for that office. Mr. Nivens is being mentioned over the county considerably now as a prospective candidate, although he has not yet made a definite statement.

Spring And Wars
We should have learned this in school but we didn't, and were told of it the other day. That the Revolutionary war, the Civil War and the World War were all entered into in the month of April. That doesn't necessarily mean anything, particularly since the President is working toward peace in such a manner that looks mighty promising.

Dr. and Mrs. H.M. Nix and family, who have been spending several days in the West and in Mexico City, are expected to return to their home in Maplesville this week.

President Tells Big Business To Reform

TAX CHANGE SEEN AFTER HIS ADDRESS

"Harmful Practices" Are Condemned; Says He Will Cooperate

Washington, Jan. 3. — President Roosevelt asked the newly convened Congress today for legislation to end "harmful" business practices, and appealed to business itself to help in the stamping out.
In a personally delivered message broadcast to almost the entire world he promised business that if it would cooperate with government in this way, it could count upon government to cooperate with it "in every way."
Here are some of the objectives which President Roosevelt outlined in his annual message to Congress:
A strong national defense.
Limitation of the new farm program's cost to the amount of current Federal outlays for agriculture.
Legislation to end "Starvation wages and intolerable hours."
Reduction of the annual Federal deficit in the fiscal year beginning next.

McKEE IS FIRST CANDIDATE TO AN'OUNCE HERE

Seeking Second Term As Tax Collector On His Past Record

The official announcement of Hon. T.L. McKee that he is a candidate to succeed himself as tax collector of this county, subject to the action of the Democratic primary to be held in May, appears elsewhere in this issue of the News.
Mr. McKee is the first to announce as a candidate on the Democratic ticket in this county this year, although the field seems to be full of prospective candidates. He has served well as tax collector during the past four years and has made many friends through his courtesy and accommodating manner in his office, while adhering strictly to the law at all times.
His interest in the welfare of the county has also made him many friends who have found him always ready and willing to aid the taxpayers to the extent of his ability. In commenting on his candidacy, Mr. McKee stated he had no intentions of seeking a third term of office and sincerely hoped.

Devaughn, who tendered his resignation on account of ill health. Mr. Devaughn, however, will assist in the store on Saturdays and on other busy days. Mr. Devaughn is forced to spend more of his time out in the open, and for this reason, he cannot longer be under the confinement that is necessary for one to manage the store.
Mr. Eason, the new manager, comes from White City, where he has been operating a large mercantile business for the past ten years. The People Of Alabama vs. Governor By Proxy

(AN EDITORIAL)

Recent rumors that have been circulating throughout the state, and this newspaper believes they are based on facts, should serve as a warning to the people of Alabama who are satisfied with our democratic form of government and who do not believe in a man serving as Governor of Alabama by proxy.

These rumors, which undoubtedly have a very good foundation, would indicate that the Honorable William F. Feagin is seeking another term as Governor of Alabama by proxy through the medium of Honorable B. M. Miller, of Camden, Ala., and under whom Mr. Feagin served before. This record is well known.

The attention of the people of Alabama should be called to the fact that information tends to show that Mr. Feagin has been touring the state asking people to write former Governor Miller to enter the race for Governor this year.

This newspaper means to cast no reflection upon the Honorable B. M. Miller, but being opposed to the principle of government by proxy we feel it is our duty to warn the people of Alabama that unless our information is incorrect, they can expect a well-planned dramatic entrance into the governor's race by Mr. W. F. Feagin through the former governor B. M. Miller in a last-minute attempt to stampede the people of Alabama.

It is too early to go into the merits of the respective candidates but, this newspaper believes in a progressive government and one where the Governor is the Governor. So, if our information is correct, then the people of Alabama should know of the schemes of the would-be Second King, the Honorable W. F. Feagin, ex-governor of Alabama by proxy.

If prohibitionists of the state are interested, then they should be warned that if they desire a candidate they should get a real prohibitionist and not a candidate for Governor who would perhaps claim he could not enforce the prohibition law because he did not have the appropriation to do so. The people of Alabama want results, not excuses.

Prohibitionists and others in our democratic form of government should now take notice of this apparently inevitable scheme, and see that government by remote control does not take place again in the State of Alabama. At the proper time, this newspaper expects to discuss the candidates specifically.

Prominent Young Lady Victim Of Pneumonia

Pneumonia claimed as a holiday victim last week one of the most promising and certainly one of the most likeable young women of our city, Dorothy Dean Sessions, age 23. Death claimed her Wednesday afternoon, December 29, at 2:30 o'clock, following an illness of about a week. Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock from Clanton Baptist Church, conducted by Dr. S. J. Ezell. Burial was in Liberty Hill cemetery, Spigener in charge.

Funeral services were held at the home of the deceased, Misses Christina Bosworth, Ethel Mae Jones, Edith Hand, Mabel Harris, Margaret Johnson, Elizabeth Yarborough, Charlie Verne Tunney and Hazel Gray. Honorary pallbearers were V. J. Elmore, O. M. Webb, Ira Smith, W. W. Wingard, Raymond Duffy, H. F. Downs, Dr. W. C. Golden and Mr. Zan Golden.

Serving as flower girls were the following close friends of the deceased: Misses Christina Bosworth, Ethel Mae Jones, Edith Hand, Mabel Harris, Margaret Johnson, Elizabeth Yarborough, Charlie Verne Tunney and Hazel Gray.

Surviving are the father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Sessions, of Clanton; two sisters, Miss Ruth Sessions and Sarah Nell Sessions.

The bier was banked with lovely flowers as long as a spot could be found to lay them; and the large auditorium, upstairs and down, was filled to capacity: all of which attested to the esteem in which the young lady was held. It was said to be the largest gathering ever to attend a funeral at the Baptist Church.

COUNTY BANKS SAY 1937 WAS A GOOD YEAR

Report Increased Loans To Offset Shrinkage In Normal Bond Profits

As local bank executives made preparations yesterday for the annual meetings of their shareholders and directors next Tuesday, Jan. 11, they announced that a profitable year had just closed. Without an exception, the bank officials who expressed themselves declared normal earnings from loans were larger in 1937 than in 1936, but bond profits were negligible.

One leading banker said the greatest need of the nation today was removal of the nervous tension now existing. Better cooperation between the executive and administrative branches of business would to a large measure solve the nation's economic ills and remove this feeling of fear, he asserted. The bankers expressed the hope that a right-foot-forward policy would be taken to avert another recession and restore prosperity over the land.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Lande, and son Irvin, are expected to return from a two weeks' visit with friends and relatives in Chicago, sometime during the latter part of this week.

Mr. Lande, while in the East, also visited some of the important clothing markets in the interest of his store here, The Leader.

SAFE MARGIN IS GIVEN HILL BY CHILTON

Small Turnout Is Noted Over Entire State As Returns Come In

WINNER WAS BACKER OF NEW DEAL POLICIES

Chilton County gave Lister Hill a safe margin of practically 200 votes ahead of J. Thomas Hefflin according to incomplete unofficial returns Wednesday morning, although it was predicted here that a Republican vote would throw the county to Hefflin.

Alabama Democrats nominated Lister Hill for the United States Senate by a landslide vote in Tuesday's special primary, said an emphatic "No" to Tom Hefflin's plea for another change, and took scant notice of C.W. Williams, whose candidacy led some opponents of President Roosevelt to hope for a run-off.

When 1,508 of the State's 2,200 boxes had been tabulated, the count stood:

Hill	76,371
Hefflin	41,521
Williams	4,437

Roy F. Parker, secretary to former Senator Hefflin, conceded at 9:50 p.m. the nomination of Hill on the basis of incomplete and unofficial returns.

The groundswell for Hill which set in about two weeks ago indicated to political observers that he would be nominated but hardly furnished an inkling of the one-sided result.

J.R. MULLINS RETIRES FROM LOCAL FIRM

Sons To Head Store To Be Known As Mullins & Scott In Clanton

After twenty years of being actively engaged in the mercantile business in Clanton, J. Renfro Mullins, widely known merchant and business man, is retiring and the store which has been formerly known as J. R. Mullins & Sons, is now doing business at Mullins & Scott.

Those comprising the new firm are John D. Mullins, Edwin Mullins, who are sons of J. R. Mullins and Frank N. Scott, formerly of Huntsville, and son-in-law of Mr. Mullins.

The two young Messrs. Mullins have been connected with their father in a number of years and know the business from the ground up. Mr. Scott is well known here and has moved his family to Clanton to make their home.

The Mullins name has been prominently connected with business in Clanton for approximately fifty years. In 1889, the late W. L. Mullins, father of Renfro Mullins, entered business here and was one of the most successful business men of the county. In 1917, the firm was known as Mullins & Moore, with J. Watts Moore and J. R. Mullins partners. After then in 1924, Mr. Moore retired from the business, disposing of his interest to Mr. Mullins and his two sons.

Mr. Mullins, who announced the change in the firm name effective as of January 1, 1938, stated he would still be at the store, looking after his own business and assisting the younger members of the firm. "In other words," Mr. Mullins stated, "I will be working for the boys now instead of them working for me."

The Champion Claim

When Franklin D. Roosevelt and Herbert Hoover rode together down Pennsylvania Av. March 4, 1933, we thought an era in which the Republican Party had claimed the copyright on prosperity. But political memories are short and of the making of claims there is no end. So now out of the grave-rises Walter H. Newton, President Hoover's patronage secretary. He shakes his shroud and proclaims:

That the panic which closed the banks before Mr. Hoover left the job was all Mr. Roosevelt's fault.

When Mr. Roosevelt took the oath, every bank in the nation was closed or closing. Even the money temples in New York, the citadel of the nation's finance, were locked and barred. New York hadn't even been able to hold out until after inauguration day. Millions of despairing Americans, even though they possessed bank passbooks—could not get their hands on enough cash to pay the grocer.

It seemed then that those who left their seats of power said such economic desolation would never again assert kinship to omnipotence yet Mr. Newton and his literary associate, William Starr Myers, now inform us in the current Saturday Evening Post that the depression had hit bottom in June, 1932, and that the peerless Mr. Hoover was leading the nation back to sound recovery—until that fatal day in November when the people made the mistake of electing Mr. Roosevelt.

Thereafter, they say, came doubt and darkness, not because the people lacked confidence in Mr. Hoover, but because they distrusted Mr. Roosevelt.

Let's look at the record.

In the 12 years ending the last of December, 1932, 10,816 banks closed their doors. The number up to Nov. 1, 1932, a few days before the people voted to end Republican rule was 10,562.

In 1929, Mr. Hoover's first year, 569 banks closed. In 1930, 1352 banks closed. In 1932, 1456 banks closed.

The tempo of clicking bank doors continued to mount early in 1933. On Feb. 14, 1933, the first bank holiday was declared, in Michigan. It is, perhaps, too cruel to recall what happened from that date to the hour Mr. Hoover evacuated the White House on March 4.

So we'll just skip from the middle of February to the middle of March, when President Roosevelt licensed the banks to reopen. During the rest of 1933, 179 banks had to close again. In 1934, 56 banks closed. And, in the first four months of 1935, nine banks closed.

Now, having looked at the record, let us rise and pay tribute to Mr. Newton and Mr. Myers as the holders of the all-time, all-American high in political claiming.—Bham Post.

Getting Fed Up

Since Hitler came to power in Germany it has been customary for citizens to greet one another with "Heil Hitler" instead of the former customary salutations. But recent reports are to the effect that the sensible German rank and file are getting tired of all this heiling. The Nazi leaders, however, insist on its continuance, in the mistaken idea that such lip service to the dictator will insure his permanent popularity.

It is characteristic of the average human being to become weary of hero-worship after so long a time. For that reason the wise hero doesn't encourage his admirers to overdo it. In our own country we have seen popular persons publicized to an extent that has been no less ridiculous.

Enough of anything is a plenty, and when people get fed up with someone, that someone is usually on the way out.

Cleveland's Founder

Because an editor's type did not fit the intended heading of his newspaper, the spelling of the name of Cleveland, Ohio, was permanently changed according to a recent writer. The town was originally Cleveland, named after Moses Cleveland, its founder, who was born in 1754 and died in 1806.

When the Cleveland Advertiser was established in 1830, the editor found the line of type he desired to use as a heading was too long for the page, so he omitted the silent "a" from Cleveland's name. The new spelling was soon adopted generally, and has been used ever since.

Moses Cleveland was graduated from Yale in 1777 and served in the Continental Army, later practicing law in his native town of Canterbury, Conn. In 1796 he led a surveying expedition for a land company in which he was a shareholder, and also negotiated with the Indians, along the Great Lakes in the Western Reserve country.

On July 22, 1796, he selected the present location of the city as a site for a permanent settlement, and his party named it in his honor. Cleveland is now the sixth city of the United States in size, with a population of more than 900,000.

O-O-O

The Ways Of Crooks

An interesting sidelight on the ways of professional criminals is given in a magazine article which declares that cities where these gentry habitually congregate to spend their loot are seldom the scene of their banditry.

The writer cites the case of Toledo, long known as being unusually free from underworld crime, yet all the time the rendezvous for safe-crackers, hold-up men and other desperate crooks. It is an unwritten law among them that no "jobs" were to be pulled off in Toledo, and although the police knew of their presence, they were not molested, because, as the chief said, "We never bother them because they never bother us."

Finally, a new public commissioner was appointed, and when he learned of the situation he ordered a clean-up. Then, to quote the article: "There were immediate retaliations. Safes began to explode like fire-crackers on the Fourth. Hold-ups became as common as measles. Cops shot crooks and crooks shot cops. Today Toledo is no longer immune."

One difficulty said to be experienced in catching present-day criminals of the professional class is that many of their old underworld haunts which were formerly well-known to the police have been broken up. The crooks are scattered throughout the cities, often living in security in high-class neighborhoods. Thus a new and serious problem has arisen, for which no solution appears to be forthcoming.

Making A Child Eat

Parents who coax and coddle and threaten when a child refuses to eat are on the wrong track, according to Dr. Frank Howard Richardson, a noted child specialist. They are merely causing the child to become neurotic and self-centered by paying too much attention to his whims.

Instead of humoring the child by urging or bribing him to eat, he should be made to sit down at the table five times a day, for 30 minutes at the three regular meals and for 20 minutes at mid morning and mid-evening lunches.

Suitable foods are to be placed before him each time, but no effort whatever is to be made to induce him to eat. He may eat or he may not as he chooses. But at the end of the time set he should be made to leave the table whether he has eaten or not.

Dr. Richardson declares that there is no danger that a child will starve himself under three days the "cure" will be underway. Under such circumstances, but that within two days the relief afforded sorely tried by parents by this course of action is so genuine that parents usually wonder why they waited so long before adopting it."

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

John Pym was a great statesman when the Commonwealth of England was undergoing a great civic change. He stood up like a man and spoke the truth as he understood it. His friends went to him and informed him that the opposition was so keen that if he persisted in repeating his contention that he would suffer for it. When he learned of this intention on the part of those who did not appreciate his stand, the grand old gentleman lifted himself erect and gave utterance to this immortal truth, "Gentlemen, I had rather suffer for the speaking of the truth than to have the truth suffer because I had failed to speak it." Show me a man who has fought the battles of truth who was not threatened. The Christ was Truth and He taught the truth and they took his life. Men may revile you and persecute you, and say all manner of evil against you, but it is better that you suffer for speaking the truth than that the truth should suffer because you fail to speak it.

In the early morning hours I had an unusual dream. I thought that a man approached me with a package and delivered it into my hands. Being a little astonished and yet being proud of my possession, I at once proceeded to remove the wrapper. On the inside I found a bundle of filthy rags. I know nothing that is more repulsive to me than filthy rags and so I flung them to one side with disgust and cried my indignation at the man who was disappearing in the distance. My eyes opened and then I started to meditate on the dream. I said to myself, "If you do not like filthy rags then be careful how you make your deal this day." Early in the morning we start out on our rounds to deliver deeds, to deliver language, to deliver ourselves to those we meet. How unkind it is for us to carry filthy rags and place them before our friends. Why not carry a smile, why not speak clean and clear language, why not carry silken deeds to mankind? While I have been wide awake I have had men to deliver me a package of filthy rags.

Have you ever observed the head of a turkey gobbler? It appears to be burned and blistered. The American Indian legend. He said, "Once upon a time all the fire in the world had been extinguished except one little spark in the hollow of a tree. The turkey gobbler found this and started to fanning it with his wings. He kept up the exercise for some time and then he turned around and stuck his head into the hollow of the tree to see if the fire was still burning. It was red with heat and the poor turkey got his head blistered and since that day he has had no feathers on his head. He had saved fire to the world but he had lost the beauty of his topknot." To the Indian the red head of the turkey was his crown of glory. There are deformed men and women carrying scars and banded bones that make them ugly, but if the truth were known these very things are their crown of honor. How many badges of honor do you carry with you?

A mother went into the music room to find Mary Ellen all upset over her lesson. It was a beautiful day and she wanted to be out in the yard playing with the other children. She fumed and fussed at the music and was all pestered with the piano. Nothing was going well with her. It seemed impossible for her to make harmony. Her mother seeing that she was all out of humor placed her hand upon her shoulder and with a smile said, "Mary Ellen, don't you remember how your father loves music and just calm yourself and for his sake be happy at your task." This went into her heart like an arrow and she went on with her music saying to herself, "For his sake I can learn to play." And she did. You may not want to go to church on Sunday, you may not want to part with that money for the kingdom, you may not want to help that one in need, but just remember how your Father in Heaven likes to see you doing these things and for his sake do these with a glad heart. When we are doing things for God's sake it seems that we should always be willing and happy at our task.

While watching a game of ball that decided the championship for a large area of the country I had many serious thoughts. The umpires were wise on the question of ball law and made many a close decision. Many a time the grandstand would boo the decision of the umpires and cry hard to shame them into the dust because it was thought that a ball law had been violated. So far as I was able to see the umpires were impartial and fair in all of their decisions. The thing that astonished me so much was that men and women were so anxious that the very letter of ball law be obeyed that justice might shine in every decision, and yet many of that same bunch did not seem to care a thing about the laws of the nation and the laws of God being observed in any matter. Tell me why some folks will boo a judge to shame when he decides a case of law, why some folks will boo a preacher to shame when he preaches the correct law of God and yet those same folks will get as mad as hornets when the umpire of a ball game fails to make a decision in harmony with the law. Preachers, judges and umpires alike are expected to stick to the law.

down. Olen Shanneyfelt, said a poem at a visit from St. Nicols. Hildon Bussey read the Bible, Olen Shanneyfelt read the story of "Tiny Tim." We sang "Jingle Bells", "Silent Night," and then we gave out the calendars. We ended the meeting by saying our 4-H Club Pledge. Then we went back to our regular meeting.

ANNUAL B. T. U. REPORT

Is the B. T. U. in your church going forward or is it slipping backward? In answer to this question I wish to call to your attention the present condition of the B. T. U. work in the Chilton Association.

Did you know that our thirty-eight Missionary Baptist churches have a total of 567 members, which is a larger membership than any other denomination in this county? The sad part is that we are not training them for religious work. The 1937 B. T. U. report shows that the work has been neglected. Following is a comparison of the work done in 1936 and 1937:

Department—1936, 10; 1937, 9—loss of 1.
B. A. U.—1936, 8; 1937, 6—loss of 2
Senior—1936, 22; 1937, 20—loss of 2
Intermediate—1936, 10; 1937, 9—loss of 1

Junior—1936, 14; 1937, 13—loss of 1
Story Hour Class—1936, 14; 1937, 1
In 1937 we had only 919 enrolled in B. T. U. work. Where were the other 4,658? They were in some place where they had no business to be because the place for them was in B. T. U. Why were they not there? Because the last they attended it was so poorly organized and the program presented in such a manner that they didn't care for another dose.

These difficulties can be overcome only by the churches and pastors co-operating with the associational officers.

We urge that each pastor be present with a large delegation from each of his churches on next Sunday afternoon, January 9, at 2:00 o'clock at Friendship. We have a program on an associated wide training course that we expect to present and it needs the attention of every pastor.

At secretaries fill out the report in the back of your quarterly and send to Mr. Chester L. Quarles, Montgomery, Alabama.

Yours for better service.
Rev. Horace Kendrick
Associational Secretary-Treas.

CONGRESS SHOULD GIVE ALABAMA MOTORISTS TAX RELIEF

After contributing many millions of dollars in special automotive taxes to the federal since 1932, the motorists of this and other states should be given preference by Congress in any tax relief programs. J. B. Kelley, Vice Chairman of the Alabama Petroleum Industries Committee, said in a statement commenting upon the proposals made to eliminate luxury taxes on gasoline, lubricating oil, motor vehicles and accessories.

"In 1936 the motorists of this State paid $3,336,000 in automotive taxes to the federal government. Those taxes were additional to the high burden of automotive taxes imposed by this State," said Mr. Kelley.

"The federal gasoline tax and the other motor levies were enacted in 1932 when internal revenue was at its depression low. Congress indicated that they were only temporary and would be repealed when revenue from other

THORSBY TO PLAY COOPER

Coach Bradley will carry his Jr. High School basketball team to Thorsby for a game with the Thorsby Jr. High basketball team tonight, (Thursday, January 6).

The Thorsby lads defeated the Cooper team in an earlier battle of the season, so you may expect the latter team to be out on the court to square up matters.

If you like basketball, be there, get a choice seat, lean way back, light the old pipe and watch the youngsters fight it out. The Auditorium will be warm and comfortable. Admission is ten cents for everybody.

There is a possibility that the Cooper Jr. High girls team will be there for a game with the Thorsby Jr. lasses.

sources returned to its depression level. In 1937 the federal government collected more than $5,000,000,000 in internal revenue. If Congress really wishes to bring about some measure of tax relief, it should start by eliminating the federal taxes on motorists, who are already being heavily taxed by the states.

"Contrary to popular thought, motorists as a class extraordinary ability to pay taxes. Studies by government agencies indicate that more than half of the motorists of the United States have incomes of less than $30 a week. Only two out of five of the motorists of this country have ever purchased a new car. The majority of the motorists own cars with a value of less than $200. To subject these motorists to excessive taxation by both the State and federal government is unfair, and contrary to the principles of taxation which have prevailed for centuries.

"Instead of thinking about taking taxes off certain luxuries, Congress should remove the federal gasoline tax and the other automotive levies. The motorists of the nation have contributed approximately $1,500,000,000 in those special taxes to the federal government. Patiently they have borne these taxes, as well as all the other general taxes. They are entitled to relief."

Clanton Methodist Church

In this column we often stress the work we should do for the church and thereby for our Master and our Lord's Kingdom. We should work. We should work ceaselessly. We should work tirelessly, we must, but after a man is saved, he manifests his salvation by waiting to work for Christ, and the testimony to the saving power of Christ in every possible way. We have selected leaders who are eager for our church and Sunday school to grow, to thrive. They manifest their eagerness by their efforts, but they can't solve all the problems and make complete success without the backing, the help, the encouragement for each member of church and Sunday school. May each of us put, and keep, our shoulders to the wheel, so to speak, and we shall soon realize that an all-powerful, all-wise, and all-merciful Lord will certainly do all things well with those who are His and who trust under the shadow of His wings.

Now, our Sunday school is really a good one and one of which we are happy to be a part. Let's all strive to maintain its growth to a higher degree of efficiency. We can by team work. Church services last Sunday were a great blessing to those who shared. We trust many more will worship with us next Sunday. Our choir rendered excellent music and we always appreciate its contribution to the worship services. May we depend on each of you who were at church last Sunday at all services to be in your places next Sunday lending the same inspiration to our preacher who deserves it, who appreciates it; and, remember, you are doing yourself an injustice when you fail to be present. Church services at 11:00 A.M. and 6:30 P.M. and also come to Sunday school at 9:45 A.M. Try to see that others come also.

The Young Peoples Organization will meet Sunday at 5:45 P.M. Each member be sure to attend. Bring visitors and new members.

The Methodist Missionary Society of the Methodist Church held its first business session for the year Monday afternoon at the parsonage. It was a meeting full of inspiration and pep. The Rev. J. C. Mullins, president, presented, from the Clara Mullins, from the No. 1 and ten from Circle No. 2. The subject of the program was "Our Gifts For World Missions." Mrs. Truett was leader. Mrs. Gore read the scripture from the twenty-fifth chapter of Matthew. Mrs. DeLoach gave a leaflet on "The Immortal Dollar." Mrs. Stearns read a letter from the council. Mr. J. C. Jones, president, outlined her plans for the year. Mrs. Macey Jones presented the Auxiliary budget for 1938.

Mrs. Davis read the news from the bulletin. Mrs. Armstrong, Mrs. Lawrence and Mrs. Gore beautifully sang "We've a Story To Tell The Nation." They were accompanied by Mrs. Pitts.

Mrs. Joe Mullins gave a reading, "Putting Our Dollars To Work." Then came the pledges with everyone giving as God had blessed them. The following new officers were elected: Mrs. Ernest Grant, superintendent of social service, and Mrs. Percy Pitts, superintendent of supplies.

At the close of the program a song was sung by all the members, "God Bless Our Gifts."

Highlights Of E.J.H.S.

We have resumed our school work after a week of an enjoyable vacation. We hope that every school in the county started the new year off with as much enthusiasm as we did.

A great deal of interest is being shown in the new science equipment that is beginning to come in. We have hopes of all this equipment and the new library books being in in a very few days. We are looking for its arrival with interest. We expect to use this material in a way that will benefit us most, so far as we know, as well as enjoy it.

The basket ball boys and girls played the new games before we retired for the Christmas holidays that have not been reported in this column. The first game the boys played that was not reported was with the Baker team on the Enterprise court. The scores were Baker 21; Enterprise 32. The Enterprise girls played the Cooper girls at Cooper the same date. The scores were Cooper 6; Enterprise 10. Both were interesting games.

The boys and girls went to Marbury and played the Marbury seniors there on Wednesday night, December 22. The scores for the girls were Marbury 5; Enterprise 13. Enterprise made the first score and led Marbury all during the game. It was an enjoyable game with good sportsmanship shown.

The scores for the boys were, Marbury 22; Enterprise 28. This game was very thrilling. It made the enthusiastic spectators wonder Clara to the end of the game, which team was going to win was not known. Marbury was leading once but Enterprise stepped up a bit and the scores were tied for a while. Then Enterprise got in the lead and led Marbury the last few minutes. The victory for Enterprise was well won.

The Enterprise boys and girls are going to play Thomas Jr. at Enterprise January 8. The first game will be played at 1 o'clock. Admission will be five cents. Don't miss these games.

Social Items of Interest

Attractive Visitors Entertained At Mitchell Dam

One of the loveliest social affairs of the holiday season was the beautiful luncheon at which Miss Sara Hollis entertained on Friday at 1:00 o'clock at the lovely home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Hollis, at Mitchell Dam. The occasion honored Miss Mary Louise Hyde and Miss Marion Ware of St. Louis, charming guests of Miss Mary Courtney Jones.

Throughout the entire home the adornment was in the colorful holiday motif. The buffet table was in exquisite setting, and held in the center an antique crystal bowl in which were massed the giant crimson poinsettias and snowy mistletoe.

On the table were glass fruits and bon-bons, accentuating the chosen color scheme, and at intervals were tall crystal holders in which burned red and white tapers.

After the luncheon the guests made an interesting tour of the Dam.

Miss Gowan Entertains At Bridge Honoring Visitors

A very beautiful holiday affair was the bridge party at which Miss Ruth Gowan entertained at her attractive home in Clanton on New Year's day. The honorees of the occasion were Miss Marion Ware and Miss Mary Louise Hyde of St. Louis, the attractive guests of Miss Mary Courtney Jones.

The reception rooms, where the tables were placed for bridge, were in decoration of choice flowers and other seasonal adornment. High score prize was won by Miss Sara Hollis. Beautiful gifts were presented to Miss Hyde and Miss Ware, the honorees.

After the games, which were enjoyed by all the young college set, a radio party was staged for the Rose Bowl game. A lovely salad plate was served.

Miss Myra Taylor spent part of the Christmas holidays as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Morgan, in Montgomery.

Theatre Party Compliments Two Lovely Visitors

Another beautiful holiday party honoring Miss Marion Ware and Miss Mary Louise Hyde of St. Louis, was the delightful theatre party at which Miss Celia Gerald entertained on Wednesday evening. The guest list included all the young college contingent. The young people assembled at the home of Miss Gerald where every room was in lovely holiday array.

After the show the guests enjoyed delightful refreshments.

Miss Mary Louise Hyde and Miss Marion Ware, the attractive house guests of Miss Mary Courtney Jones during the holidays, have returned to their homes in St. Louis, to resume their studies at Webster College, where they are classmates of Miss Jones. During their stay in Clanton they were the recipients of many delightful social courtesies. Among the informal affairs were interesting motor trips to Montgomery as the guests of Mrs. Jack Hayes and to Birmingham and Montevallo as the guests of Mrs. Farnk Callen.

AN ARMY for SERVICE

SOUTHERN BELL telephone employees are constantly training to keep pace with a changing business. They work individually, yet as cooperative parts of an organization, knit together by loyalty to the service. In these respects they are like a vast army, an army for public service.

Their ranks numbered some 20,500 men and women at the end of 1937, growing by 1,600 over 1936. Their payroll was four million dollars higher than for the previous year, reaching close to $26,000,000, most of which was spent in their home communities.

During the year, this army not only maintained the telephone "plant" for your use, but constructed over $27,500,000 worth of new facilities to meet the increased demand for service. At the end of the year, there was about $235 invested in your telephone "plant" per telephone.

An average of 8.6 local calls per day per telephone were handled in 1937, or nine million calls a day. In addition, some 45,000,000 toll and long distance calls were completed in 1937.

A gain in telephones in 1937 brought the Southern Bell Company's total to 1,080,000 by the end of the year.

Taxes increased by about $575,000, amounting to $7,900,000 paid to Federal, State, County and Municipal governments in 1937.

Important figures, these. But more important to telephone users is the army for service, whose sole aim is to give the "most telephone service and the best, at the lowest possible cost consistent with the financial safety of the business."

NEW INDUSTRIES ENTER ALABAMA IN PAST YEAR

25 Start Operations With 5 Million Yearly Payroll And 50 Million Invested

The Alabama Chamber of Commerce reporting establishment yesterday of 25 new industries within the State in 1937, viewed 1938 business prospects as "promising."

The last year was registered as "a good one," in the chamber's review which said that last quarter recession was not as great in Alabama as in some sections of the country as a whole. Industrial payrolls and employment the review said, "reached 1929 levels during the year and in some instances reached an all-time high."

The 25 new industries employ an estimated 5,000 persons, and the chamber said their annual payroll would approximate $5,000,000 annually. Their capital investment was figured at $45,000,000 to $50,000,000.

"In most cases the new plants will manufacture products not heretofore made in the State, thus showing that Alabama industry is yearly becoming more diversified and that the State is approaching a better balance," the review said.

Among products that will be manufactured by the new plants are tin plate, ferro chloride, aluminum oxide, insulating board, compound wood veneer, ladies silk underwear, dress shirts, cottons, knitted fabrics, dry ice, wood-working products, naval stores from pine stumps, kraft paper, cooking and salad oil and vinegar.

New Plants Utilize Raw Stuff

The new industries, the C. of C. said will not only but will utilize quantities of Alabama raw materials including coal, iron ore, sand and gravel, lime and limestone, pine, hardwoods, cotton cloth, pine stumps, and many of the products now made by existing industries.

"With the paper industry coming South," said the review, "Alabama has benefited greatly not only from mills which have located in this state furnishing a market for native pine and producing payrolls for Alabama, but the Birmingham district has received large orders for such materials as pipe and fittings, cement, tanks, digesters structural steel, nails, etc., used in the building of paper mills that have located in Louisiana, Arkansas, Texas, Florida, and Georgia. In addition, quantities of lime from the Birmingham district will be consumed when these plants begin operation."

"While industrial development has been distributed over the state as a whole, the Mobile district has led the way in landing the largest number of major industries in the year."

Included in the important developments of the year are: Anniston yarn mills, Anniston; Vanity Fair Silk Mills Monroeville; Tin Plate Mill, Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company, Birmingham; Meyercood Compound Lumber Company, Mobile; National Gypsum Company, Mobile; Aluminum Ore Company of America, Mobile; Electro-Metallurgical Corporation, Muscle Shoals; Alabama Carbon Dioxide Ice, Inc., Abolaster; Mohawk Silica Corporation, Birmingham.

"Cooperating in locating and establishing these industries have been local chambers of commerce throughout the state, the new industries division of the Alabama Power Company, the Alabama State Docks Commission under the leadership of General R. E. Steiner, and other groups."

Miss Grace Thanks Friends

"I want to take this opportunity to thank each and every one for the many fond remembrances extended me during the holidays and I trust that each and every one of you have had a Merry Christmas and that the new year holds much in store for you. There is no end to the many possibilities that the new year holds for us; as we, as individuals do our part both individually and cooperatively in helping to make the new year better than the past has been. In reviewing the events of the past year perhaps many of you are wondering if 1937 was a successful year. Before you have decided definitely, pro or con, won't you please read these following lines that have recently come to hand on what success is:

"He has achieved success who has lived well, laughed often, and loved much; who has gained the respect of thinking men and the love of little children; who has filled his niche and accomplished his task; who has left the world a better place; who has related a perfect poem, an improved poem or a ransomed soul; who has looked for the best in others and given the best he had."

The Verbeha girls and boys 4-H Club met together December 13, 1937, having a joint Christmas program, which gave everybody a Christmas spirit. After the program the boys club was dismissed for their regular meeting. Miss Grace gave everyone new ideas for making Christmas cards at home.

The meeting adjourned until the new year, which we think will be a successful one.

Mapleville 4-H Club

A Christmas program was put on by members of the girls club. After the program the members drew names and exchanged their gifts with the person whose name they had drawn. Some received nice gifts which the members had made.

Miss Grace gave the club the work they were to do at home, and also some very good recipes. The meeting adjourned wishing everyone a Merry Christmas.

What's New in Radio?

By J. F. Witkowski

Principal, School of Radio, International Correspondence Schools;
Associate Member, Institute of Radio Engineers

TWO-WAY, short wave radios installed in police department automobiles, and a portable, two-way station set up on the roof of a building at Fifth Street and Fifth Avenue, proved valuable aids in the New York police in handling the enormous crowd, estimated at 3,000,000 persons, that gathered to view the recent American Legion parade. Radio communication enabled police officials to shift their point of point to point along the route of the parade, with a minimum of delay and confusion.

Miles of pipe line laid down in Oklahoma and Texas during the oil boom days, and long since forgotten, are being unearthed and sold for salvage with the aid of a radio detector which reveals the location of the lost lines. The detector makes it possible to follow the route of any pipe with a diameter of one-eighth inch or larger, even though it runs through a maze of other lines.

An armored, radio-controlled motor boat, recently completed for the British air force, provides a fast-moving, elusive target for bombing and machine gun practice. The British Royal Corps of Signals has recently tested, with satisfactory results, a field radio transmitting and receiving set that operates while strapped to a soldier's back.

Listen, he continued, do you think I'd be here if that was so? D'you think I'd risk my skin come for trade? It's a woman this time, I'm to say, and there's none at our establishment to stand by her! Listen!" he said as Rodney's hold relaxed. "It's all he's planned on for days. It's all his life for this chance at her! It drove him wild when she came, callin' the military back. 'Nd he schemed to kill you so he could have not only the trade but her!"

"Military? She called them back?"

"For God, Shaw, didn't you know? But how could you? No, you couldn't! . . . Listen! Rickman went back for the military to come and drag you out of here to stand trial. They come. Capes. And Annette knewed it. She'd worked for you back yonder. She'd got Leslie's Giles to take your part so they'd kill the warrant. But Capes was on th' way and there was nobody else to send to call him back so she come . . . th' night we fired your place, here. That's what touched Rickman off. I tell you, man! It drove him wild. She, standin' tellin' him as how she was lyin' when she begged him to stay at Mackinac; as how she only done it to give you a chance to get free and here ahead of us. He went mad, I tell you, man, 'nd ripped her cloak off and she had to run for it . . ."

He paused again, panting, and Rodney stood before him, jaw loose.

"She didn't come . . . to . . . him?" he asked in a whisper.

"Eh? Him? You didn't know? She didn't tell? When she was nursin' you she didn't give it away? Him? 'Twas you she come for, Shaw? It's you she loved! And she's goin' back here he's after her and it'll be like devils from hell tearin' at her tender flesh if he ever gets—"

Shaw was past him, then, spinning him to one side with an arm thrust, jerking open the door, crying:

"Jacques! . . . Jacques!"

Two men and a light canoe! Now, Jacques, now!"

An hour's start, miles of advantage, had Burke Rickman.

Rodney cut his canoe to the southward to have the strategic shelter of the chain of islands, he made the other out, far, far off.

An hour passed, and two, without further sight of Rickman. The last island of the chain was a full league in length and beyond lay much open water. When they breasted this final shelter he cursed his boatmen and the canoe quivered as they drove blades deeper.

Jacques, in the bow, spoke guardedly.

"They have not passed beyond."

Out there was steel-blue water, sudden under clouds the hue of new snow. Upon it, as far as they could see, floated no other craft.

"Turn . . . back!" Rodney extended his left hand; the bow swung toward the reed bed at the foot of the island. He picked up a rifle and examined the priming critically. Reeds hissed against the birch bark as they slipped into their covers, making on toward the far edge where, from concealment, he could watch for approach.

The channel between island and mainland was narrow. This oncoming canoe would pass within a stone's throw.

"Be ready!" he muttered, slowly lowering his head for better screening.

"Ready, Jacques . . . The paddle on the bottom . . . Sol . . . Sol . . . at first . . . Now . . . Now!"

The bow swung outward; with stout shoves of the paddles they followed the point of the reed bed, but toward deeper water, out to cross the course of that other canoe.

They glided from their shelter into full view and Shaw rose to his knees, swinging the rifle to his shoulder, apper in the split instant consumed by this movement he saw Rickman's face; amazement, bewilderment, high fright and vengeance.

Shaw hated.

The bow boatman, yonder, cried out in alarm, lifting his paddle high, and went overboard to escape this menace.

The lurch caught Rickman off balance as he lunged forward and grasped a gun lying on packs before him. He cursed sharply, tried to hold the weapon and clutch for the rail at once; the rifle slid into the water with a splash and upward until they touched the canoe bottom.

He spread his feet wide, he shot them forward, he brought his heels together.

Almost before his legs gripped Rickman he saw surprise and chagrin sweep the man's face. He hooked his own knees across the water. He crossed his feet and jerked his legs inward with all the m-left in them, with all the steel and courage in his heart. Rickman cursed sharply, once, a curse that had begun with contempt and ended with fearful surprise. He had not reckoned that in those weakened muscles was a strength like this.

The man let go the canoe with his knife and stabbed downward to cut the legs dragging at him. His other hand could not hold him safe. In a trice he was under water, direction of the slashing blade going wrong, dragged beneath the canoe, feeling hands grapple for him . . .

Rickman's blade slashed out but Rodney caught the wrist. He closed and they rolled over once and came up face to face, both strangling, free hand of each gripping the knife hand of the other.

Rodney's head was under his adversary's chin, now, forcing him backward; legs twined about one of Rickman's thighs, binding it close, giving purchase for the boring of that head. His back was gradually forced against the side of the canoe.

With a quiver Rickman went limp. His arm flexed, his body twitched . . . And then Rodney was rising, rising slowly, almost lazily, commencing to swim indifferently, as in a dream . . .

Jacques was staring hard at him. "It is done, master," he said. "One may now return in peace."

"We do not return, Jacques, we march on."

It was on the second night that they rounded a bend of the great Mississippi to see the point of fire on the dark point of land before them.

They approached without hail, silently, but Annette's men had detected them. One was standing there in the half shadows, rifle at ready, as Jacques leaped out.

"Shaw!"

"Ay!" He swallowed, as if the next were of tremendous import. "The m'am'selle . . . She is where?"

"Around the point . . . She walked as I prepared food."

Rodney moved slowly past the small fire, heedless of the stares of the men clustered there. He went on along the narrow strip of stony flat beneath the towering heights, moccasins making no sound while his heart failed his ribs.

He stopped suddenly. She was standing there, cloak drawn about her. She was very still but after a time he could see that her hands worked slowly, caressing something they held.

"Annette?" he said in a whisper, almost timidly.

She tilted her head as if the sound had been so faint that she could not distinguish the direction from which it came.

"Annette!"—louder.

The girl turned and one hand touched her throat.

"Rodney? Rodney? Is . . . you?"

He could only nod. Beholding her through new eyes, with honestly despairing eyes, he had no words. She was so lovely!

"I found your letter," he said simply.

She waited silent and motionless. "I've come to say, first, Annette, that things which do not matter elbow themselves in. Like trade. These things, these trifles, should have mattered. Habit, like, made them matter. Or blindness . . . Whatever it was, this trade and what it represented, stood in the way of important things . . . No things . . . He lifted a hand in a gesture of futility. "Why try to explain? I was a fool. I was arrogant, unthinking, ignorant of values. I hurt and tortured you. I struggled to awake you and then turned away. I know now, Annette, that the things I believed to be true in my last hours at Mackinac were not true. Without you, I would be under guard, on my way to a cell. Without you, I would be lying dead, buried among the Pillagers. I know what happened . . . Some of it . . . Rich told me . . . And I have come this way to tell you . . . to say to you . . . to thank you for my life, Annette . . . my life!"

His voice sank to a whisper.

"Rodney! Oh, Rodney! I claim the responsibility for mischief; you demand it. Can it ever be decided? No! Neither will grant the other responsibility. I know I will not . . . But does that matter?"

"It does not matter . . . now," he said and for the first time touched her.

His hands trembled on her arms, on her shoulders. She stood rigidly, however, without response.

"But you came this way, Rodney, just to say these healing words. And you left your establishment with Rickman near? Was that wise? Might he not do you harm?"

"Rickman," he said, "is gone."

"Gone?"

"Forever." He felt her shudder and grayed then. Gently, he drew her close with one arm, feeling for her hand with his other. He found it, clasped on a limp and formless shroud.

The hand opened, depositing in his what it had held.

"What's that?" he asked, puzzled.

"The black feather, Rodney . . . The plume Crows gave you on your arrival. Symbol of invincibility!"

She laughed softly at his astonishment.

"You dropped it when they arrested you. I found it, dear Rodney. I have kept it since as a symbol . . . a symbol, perhaps, of hope. That some day you might long for an attainment which cannot be measured in the powers of men's bodies or the depth of their courage

Farmers Can Reduce Feed Costs In 1938

Alabama farmers can materially reduce their feed costs in 1938 by improving their pastures, advises J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist, in calling attention to the fact that 430 farmers in the Tennessee Valley watershed area reduced their feed cost by 28 per cent through pasture demonstrations in 1937.

"The demonstrators report that on an average their pastures were improved by 61.5 per cent due to the land being properly prepared, phosphate applied and seeds with mixtures of grasses and legumes in accordance with recommendation of the Alabama Experiment Station," he says.

"These demonstrations are resulting in hundreds of farmers improving pastures to meet needs of livestock, for home and farm use, and for expansion of the livestock industry. The improved pastures and the increased wintered plantings are benefiting the individual farmer and the public by protecting the land against erosion and flood damages.

"The pasture demonstrations are being conducted by the county agents and

ALABAMA ODDITIES

BITS OF ODD FACTS ABOUT ALABAMA AND HER PEOPLE

BY Clint Romber

This being the first installment of our series, suppose we start with something pleasant; something we all like to talk and think about; that grand old subject we all love so dearly—taxation.

Until the beloved sales tax fell on the shoulders of us Alabamians the ever zealous "pie eaters" and demagogues who spent half their time spending the state's money and the other half devising new ways to replenish they did not care for the fact that Alabama had the lowest per capita tax of any state in the union. That is now a thing of history—since the sales tax. But the other half of the story, (which no one dares mention) is the lamentable, nevertheless true, fact that Alabama also has the lowest per capita income of any other state. The Chamber of Commerce may not like that been admitted to the union only four years, when the Legislature passed a law providing for a three-mill sales tax. However, it was short lived and soon became as dead as J. Caesar's, as Caesar and his dead ox bring to mind cemeteries and for some reason the thought of cemeteries calls to mind some of Alabama's odd tombstones. Probably some of our readers haven't heard of the marker with its unique epitaph found among the weeds a few miles from Wetumpka. This odd moss-covered stone indicates the burial spot of a Revolutionary War soldier. The inscription over this grave of one Mr. Solomon Peace bears the rather poetic memorial:

"Here lies the body of Solomon Peace, Beneath the daisies and beneath the trees, Peace is not here, only the pod, Peace shelled out and went home to God."

Don't like that one? Well, we have quite a "stock and store" so maybe this suits your fancy better:

"Blessed be the man who placed these stones; Cursed be the man who moves my bones."

That one is found in more than one place in the State; one, not so far from Gadsden. Then, there is that ever famous epitaph which bobs up in several places over the United States as well as Alabama:

"Harken man as you pass by, As you are now, so once was I; As I am now, so you will be, Prepare for death and follow me." So much for that, but on one of the gravestones bearing that inscription in Lamar County, some would-be engraver-pod added the lines:

"To follow you I'm not content, I'm not so sure the way you went." Lamar County and gravestones suggest that the slab marking the resting place of Alabama's noted outlaw, Rube Burrows, has been replaced three times. So we are informed, due to souvenir seekers chipping it away.

Alabama seems to have more than its share of odd laws, but "truth is stranger than fiction" and some of these laws that seem so paradoxical are very simple when we dig down to the reason for their being.

For example, if you should sprinkle salt on a railroad track in Alabama you would be placing yourself as liable for the "hot chair" as if you threw a bomb into a crowded audience.

"But," you query, "will salt wreck a train?" Certainly not, no more than would sand or meal, but—down on the P. D. Q. railroad, a few miles from the Suedunk lives Isham Jones, a cattle raiser. Speaking generally Isham's herd turned out pretty fair, except for a few scrub cows; two or three had a touch of T. B. Needless to say the cattle brokers would turn these down flat. But Isham raised them; he has his money in them, hasn't he? Isham does a little thinking on the quiet. His thoughts lead him to the salt sack in his crib. Then, about dark that evening he herds the scrubs down to the lower end of his pasture. For some unknown reason the fence is broken down close to the railroad where it makes that sharp curve. Of course Isham doesn't know why the fence is down nor why a hole is in the salt sack, but he strolls through the gap leaving a trail of salt leading right up onto the tracks. More salt is sprinkled along the railroad, enough to keep the cows licking away merrily until the P.D.Q. company makes a nice settlement for the cows that were killed by the speeding express train. So, that's the story of why the Alabama Legislature passed a law in 1911 making it a death offense for sprinkling salt on a railroad track. Not because of the cows, of course, but because of the danger to passengers and crew of the train.

If you have a mule or a sack of peanuts to sell, and you do not operate an established place of business for such commodities, then do your selling before the evening sun goes down over the hills of Alabama. If you wait until after dark, you will be a subject for the constable. This law applies likewise to corn, cotton, okra or soy beans—in fact any farm product from eggs to hay.

The reason for this is simply to prevent the stealing and selling of farm products under the shadows of night. I am told that such practices were rather lucrative in years gone by among some of our less righteous citizens.

So after all, our East-side Bronx friends shouldn't laugh so loudly when someone remarks that "It's against the law to sell a sack of peanuts after dark in Alabama." We just know our peanuts, that's all—or is it our oats?

JUNE MOON and WILL SHINE work at the Sayreton mines, and Mr. FISH SALMON lives at West Clanton; but, two birds got caught in the trap of matrimony when Police Chief MARTIN married MISS CROWE at Ft. Payne a few months ago.

Typical of the ignorance of what Alabama has done and is doing is seen in the crack made by a far-Easterner that "most of the federal money spent in the State went for the building of

TEN ARRESTS REPORTED BY SHERIFF'S FORCES PAST WEEK

The past week has been rather an ordinary one as far as arrests are concerned in Chilton County. Only ten arrests were made as reported by the office of the Sheriff. Two prisoners were committed to jail on Federal charges; four for public drunkenness; one for reckless driving and one for operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated. One arrest for each of the following charges was listed: Assault with intent to rob; assault with intent to murder.

privies and to improve general sanitary conditions. Maybe that fellow didn't know that Walker County had the second highest County Health Department in the United States. The set-up was the forerunner of the county health system after which the whole nation has modeled.

And everybody knows, or should know, that Alabama had the first laws in the country governing the practice in dentistry—and the whole world has copied it almost from A to Z.

The last report we had of him, "Oh, grave where is thy victory; Oh, death where is thy sting" was still cooking at the Athens College. The girls there call him "Plum" for short.

Wonder if he is related to the colored boy in another section of North Alabama named "I will arise and go unto my Father." The latter is "one of the Jones boys" and the citizens of the section make short work of it by calling him "Riser Jones."—And so it goes and so it goes.

MERCHANTS OF THORSBY AFTER MORE BUSINESS

Plan Put Into Effect To Boost Trade During First Of Year

Leading merchants of Thorsby have banded together and inaugurated a plan intended to boost trading in that progressive Chilton County town, and at the same time make it worthwhile for people of that section to trade with the merchants who are interested in the plan.

The trade-boosting plan opened with a bang last Monday with more than a dozen of the leading places of business taking part. Awards will be made each Saturday afternoon at Thorsby during the plan and it is believed that town will soon feel some splendid effects from the idea which is gladly explained by those participating in it.

Thorsby firms who are taking part in this interesting trade and profit-sharing plan are: Marcus & Hayes Grocery and Market, Miskelly Grocery, G. F. Harper, Thorsby Market & Grocery, Thorsby Ice Company.

Wright Drug Company, The City Cafe, Wyatt Drug Co., Made & Eric Grocery, Franklin Garage, Thorsby Garage (E. N. Bentley and the Thorsby Hardware Co.

Gov. Graves who threw his support behind Hill expressed satisfaction with the result, which, he said, "proves beyond peradventure that Alabama is for the New Deal all the way."

The governor's statement, issued from the executive mansion:

"The State administration exerted its utmost power to elect the champion of the New Deal and the result proves beyond peradventure that Alabama is for the New Deal all the way."

the voters would see fit to give him a second term. Following is a statement from Mr. McKee:

TO THE VOTERS OF CHILTON COUNTY:

In making my announcement as a candidate for nomination to succeed myself as tax collector of this county, I do so with the satisfaction of knowing I have strictly complied with the law governing the operation of my office, and that I have been as courteous and as accommodating as was within my ability, and should the voters of this county see fit to re-elect me to this office for a second term they may be assured of receiving the same courteous treatment as the past.

This year will bring to a close my first term as tax collector of your county and I would like very much to serve a second term which will be as last as I have not intention of asking the voters to elect me to a third term if I am fortunate in securing the second.

My campaign before the Democratic primary election next May will be based wholly upon the merits of the conduct of the affairs of my office and not upon any demerits of any candidate who may oppose me in this election. I did not expect to "survive-slugging" in my last campaign and I have no intentions of doing so in this campaign. However, I reserve the right to defend the principles of democracy at any time as I believe that the democratic principles are larger than any man, or group of men.

From time to time during the course of my campaign for re-election, I will probably have statements to make to the people of this county.

Thanking you for past favors and also for your consideration in behalf of my candidacy, I remain, Respectfully,

T. L. McKEE.

President's Speech

July 1. (The goal of a balanced budget in that period was abandoned, however.)

Continuation of work relief, instead of a dote, for the able-bodied unemployed.

Revision of taxes which have been proved to work definite hardship, especially on small business men, but continuation of provisions against tax "abuses."

Measure to end the "misuse of the powers of capital or selfish suspension of the employment of capital."

The President criticized these practices:

1. Tax avoidance through corporate and other methods.

2. Excessive capitalization, investment write-ups and security manipulations.

3. Price-ripping and collusive bidding.

4. "High pressure" salesmanship.

5. The use of patent laws "to enable larger corporations to maintain high prices and withhold from the public the advantages of the progress of science."

6. "Unfair" competition.

7. "Intimidation" of local or State Government "to prevent the enactment of laws for the protection of labor by threatening to move elsewhere."

8. The shifting of production from one locality or region to another "in pursuit of the cheapest wage scale."

Alabamians Cheer

World Peace Move

Washington, Jan. 3.—Alabamians in Congress praised President Roosevelt today for what they termed a constructive program for world peace.

Most Alabama members withheld comment, however, on sections of the President's message to Congress having to do with the dead-locked wage-hour bill.

Senator Graves (D.), Alabama, was very much impressed with the reassurance that the government is doing everything in its power to preserve peace.

Representative Starnes (D.), Alabama: "It was a clear-cut message, and expressed my sentiments exactly on the international situation."

Senator Bankhead (D.), Alabama: "It was a clear-cut message, that part of the President's speech in which he took a firm position for stabilization of the income of farmers."

TRAIN STRIKES SCHOOL BUS KILLING ONE

Childress Dies Following
Crash At Crossing

The critically injured man was picked up by Spigener's ambulance and brought to Central Alabama Hospital, where he died as soon as the operating room was reached.

Funeral services were held at Mt. Carmel Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock conducted by Rev. Nix, Spigener directing. Besides the widow, Mrs. Glennie Foshie Childress, surviving are three small children; the father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Childress.

James Alfred Childress was a regular school bus driver for the county schools.

GOWAN BEING MENTIONED
AS POSSIBLE CANDIDATE

The editor of the News was informed this week that Dr. J. E. Gowan, well known dentist of the county, is being mentioned by a number of citizens as a candidate for the office of representative in the legislature.

It is understood that Dr. Gowan has discussed local matters pertaining to legislation affecting the county and a number of his friends request him to enter the race.

A. D. MARTIN IS CANDIDATE TO SUCCEED SELF

Will Ask Voters For Next Term As Assessor Of Taxes In County

The first candidate to announce for the office of Tax Assessor of Chilton County, on the Democratic ticket, is Hon. Arthur D. Martin, who seeks to succeed himself in that office.

Mr. Martin is one of the foremost Democrats of the county and was among those who were elected here. The people of the county have found him to be capable and accommodating in carrying out the duties as tax assessor and in announcing this week Mr. Martin stated that he was placing before the voters his record as a successful assessor in the past.

Friends of Mr. Martin stated that they have found his reputation as a square dealer and efficient office holder is known throughout the county and they are predicting his re-election this year as tax assessor. They also state that a second term in the office will mean much to the county from Mr. Martin.

Clanton, Alabama, January 12, 1938

To The Voters of Chilton County: In announcing as a candidate to succeed myself as Tax Assessor of Chilton County, I place before the people my record of carrying out the duties of this office in the past.

I believe the people of the county who have had dealings in my office during my first term of office will agree that they have received the very best of service and that my office has given them every consideration possible. If I am fortunate enough to be re-elected then the people will be assured of another four years of the same accommodating and efficient service in the attention of the tax assessor's office.

Due to the duties of the office causing me to remain in the courthouse a great deal of my time during the campaign, I will not be able to get out in the county to see as many voters as I would like to. I do not believe in allowing the duties of the office to go without proper attention in order to solicit votes.

So, I am making an appeal for your vote and support in the coming primary and if I do not get around to see you, please remember that I want to, but find that my work will prevent that.

Respectfully,
ARTHUR D. MARTIN.

Candidate For Tax Collector Of County

R. M. (ROY) ROPER
Whose official announcement as a candidate for Tax Collector appears in this issue of the News.

ROY ROPER IS CANDIDATE FOR TAX COLLECTOR

Is His First Time To Ask For Public Office; Is Well Known Here

A newcomer in politics in Chilton County makes his formal announcement this week as a candidate for the office of tax collector. This is R. M. (Roy) Roper, who is one of the county's well known and liked farmers and citizens.

Mr. Roper has never been a candidate for any office and states that he comes to the voters of the county with a clean record and a will to do what is best for the county in the line of duty attached to the office of tax collector. Although he has never asked for a public office, Mr. Roper is widely known through his activities in the interest of the farmers and in the furtherance of the strawberry growing in the county. He was recently elected president of the strawberry growers association of the county and is considered a splendid business man.

In making his announcement, Mr. Roper stated he would have a statement to make to the voters at a later date and in the meantime hoped to see as many as possible before the May primary. He is the son of Mr. O. O. Roper, one of the leading democrats of the county and one of the county's well known and liked citizens.

To the citizens of Chilton County: In announcing my candidacy for the office of Tax Collector of my County, I wish to state that this is my first attempt to seek political office, although have served and supported the Democratic Party for 29 years, being born in this County just fifty years ago this past October. I have taken no part and (Continued to back page)

ABC Stores Turn Waste Into Profit

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 11.—(Special) Alabama's ABC Board has broken the record of the stockyards where they boast that even the squeal of the pig is used as a by-product.

Court Outlaws Whiskey Taken To Dry Counties

There can be no legal possession in a "dry" county in this State of alcoholic beverages legally purchased in a "wet" county, the Alabama Court of Appeals held Tuesday in opinion by Judge James Rice. The ruling was unanimous, Presiding Judge Charles R. Bricken and Judge William H. Samford concurring.

This important holding was made in affirming judgment of the Walker Circuit Court of the case of Walker Williams, found guilty of possessing some 20 cans of beer or ale which officers found in a restaurant operated by the accused. The specific offense of which he was convicted was having "prohibited liquor" in his possession.

A fine of $50 and costs was assessed. At his trial, Williams contended he had legally purchased the beer in a neighboring "wet" county; that all of it bore the State stamp; and that under the Alabama Alcoholic Beverage Control Act his possession of it was, therefore, legal.

On appeal the question was raised of whether a person could legally possess alcoholic beverages banned under the prohibition statutes, in a "dry" county where those statutes were in full force and effect, even though the beverages were given in a "wet" county where the A.B.C. Act made their purchases and possession legal.

It was the first time since the Act went into effect that the point had been presented to either of the State's high courts for consideration and decision.

Party Leaders In Placid

Chance At Succession

Alabama's Democratic Executive Committee fixed dates and laid down regulations Saturday for primary elections in what promises to be a bumper political year.

Harmony prevailed more generally than usual, the committee declining to expand its powers, electing to membership a man it removed in 1928 because of opposition to Alfred E. Smith, and voting "wholehearted approval and endorsement" to the Roosevelt administration.

A $600 check was ordered drawn against a $1,600 committee surplus for the national party treasury, and several of the committeemen remained last night to attend a Jackson Day dinner at $25 a plate. This also will go to the national chest.

HARDY TO RUN FOR OFFICE OF TAX COLLECTOR

Sheriff Seeking Term In Primary Election To Be Held In May

One of the county's most widely known citizen and office holders makes the announcement this week that he is a candidate for the office of tax collector of the county. This is Sheriff J. R. Hardy, who has been mentioned for sometime as a prospective candidate for that office.

Mr. Hardy stated that he is seeking the office of Tax Collector offering his record of service as evidence that if given that office, the people will find him at their service to best of his ability.

Mr. Hardy has a large following of friends throughout the county who know of his record of service and who have been urging him to make the race since a sheriff in the state of Alabama is not allowed to succeed himself in that office.

In the very near future, Mr. Hardy stated, he would have a statement to make to the voters of the county in behalf of his candidacy.

Reminding Of Deadline
For Exemptions

To The Taxpayers of Chilton County: "The Attorney General ruled last week, which makes it a law, that you must assess your taxes, (if you have not already assessed), by next Saturday night, January 15, 1938, or you will not get your Homestead Exemption for 1938 taxes.

"I hope all of you will take advantage of this opportunity to save your money, as the law requires a penalty of ten percent after the above date.

"Yours truly,
ARTHUR MARTIN,
Tax Assessor."

"To The Delinquent Taxpayers of Chilton County:

"I wish to advise you that the law makes it compulsory for you to pay your taxes before March 1, 1938, or you get credit for the Homestead Exemption on the 1937 taxes. This is worth your attention, it saves you 32½ cents on the dollar of Homestead Exemption tax. To illustrate the savings, if your taxes were $10.00 you would get credit of $3.25 or equal credits up to $40.00 tax. I believe you can afford to borrow the money and pay your taxes rather than lose the Homestead Exemption.

"Thanking you for past favors, I am,
"Yours for service,
T. L. McKee,
Tax Collector."

NIVENS ENTERS AS CANDIDATE FOR SHERIFF

Well Known Deputy Pledges
Himself To Enforce Laws In County

In this issue of the News appears the official announcement of J. A. Nivens as a candidate for sheriff of Chilton County subject to the action of the Democratic primary to be held on May 3rd.

Mr. Nivens is one of the well known citizens and law-enforcement officers of the county and has been actively interested in affairs of the county since coming to Clanton in 1916, although he has been a resident of the county longer than that.

For the past three years he has rendered excellent service as chief deputy sheriff of the county and during that time has carried out the duties of his office and has made many friends. He was also a member of the Clanton police force for sometime before becoming connected with the sheriff's office. Both places have given him an experience that will be worth a great deal to him and the people if he is elected to the office of sheriff.

ALEX HAYES BAGS TWO DEER IN HUNT RECENTLY

Among the big Game hunters in this County is Alex Hayes, son of Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Hayes of Clanton. Alex, according to reports recently bagged two deer while on a hunt near the Allison reservation in the Western part of the State. One of these deer was a four-point buck. [The limit for deer in this State is three a season, and it looks as though Alex has only one to go in reaching his quota for this season.

What Repeal Has Done

That repeal of Alabama's prohibition law has brought about a decrease in drunkenness and disorderly conduct is plainly evident in reports from the state's 24 wet counties.

In former years, Eufaula's Police Court had heavy dockets for the last 15 days of December, but this year the story is entirely different. The city recorder's docket shows three cases of drunkenness and one disorderly case up to Dec. 28. Since that time not a case has been docketed.

Col. William P. Screws, police commissioner of Montgomery, reported: "The improved condition was especially noticeable on Monroe Street where in past years drunks congregated on the street and embarrassed church-goers. This year we found not a single drunk in that section. It is my personal opinion that the control board system of handling liquor, which has eliminated dives, is the chief cause of this great improvement."

This sentiment was echoed by Mayor Gunter, of Montgomery, by Commission President Jimmy Jones, of Birmingham; Mayor Cecil Bates, of Mobile, and others.

Especially noticeable was the moderate drinking at clubs and dances, where people showed more consideration for others in the crowded lounges. They sat in good fellowship at tables with none of the hard drinking so common in past years. Hotel and restaurant men reported the "troublesome crowd" had almost vanished.

Another report comes from train conductors who said the crowds on trains during the holidays were far better behaved than in past years, that knowing they could not drink on the train under order of the states had reduced to a minimum the number of drunken passengers and the amount of fruiting of the law.

It is also noticeable that drinking has been reduced in Eufaula as well as in all other cities, but it is this paper's candid opinion that the legalization of liquor has brought about the reduction. It is also our observation that numbers of liquor drinkers have turned to the milder beverages, beer and wine.

And there is another reason for the absence of drunkenness—it comes from Police Chief Harry McCullohs—and that is the pure grade of beverages sold in liquor stores. The occasional drunk now is not the wild-eyed, fighting terror of bootleg days. It is a rare thing now for officers to have trouble with an intoxicated person, and women and children are not complaining about the brutality of husbands and fathers.

The bootleg menace has not been entirely removed, but the law is slowly closing in on them, and when the last one is driven out we expect to see even greater improvement in the behavior of men and women.—Eufaula Tribune.

O-O-O

As always, the chief problem facing Congressmen is that of getting reelected.

We shall perhaps hear less and less of that old-fashioned talk about a balanced budget.

Business letters should be written with a view to their effect on the investigating committee.

Professor Daniel of Paris says he has succeeded in grafting garlic and cabbages, but doesn't explain why.

Many motorists seem to think warning signs at grade crossings are intended for the locomotive engineer.

A bridge expert advises that one should never criticize a partner's play, but adds in the same breath that he knows he is asking too much.

We read that members of a recently discovered savage tribe are so heathenish that they never try to reform their neighbors.

Misfits On The Farm

Everyone knows that farmers have not had a bed of roses for several years, and many of them are sorely pressed at present in spite of the numerous legislative acts designed to aid them.

Still, regardless of the difficulties of their general situation, there may be found in nearly every community a number of farmers who have made progress, or who have at least held their own, even during the depression. These, it is needless to say, are men who really know farming, and plan their operations in an intelligent manner.

A leading banker in the Northwest, after checking up a large number of farmers in his community, has come to the conclusion that farm failures are largely due to lack of experience on the part of those who failed. He found that among those who have been least successful are a number of persons who do not belong on the farm, and lists a few as follows:

Two circus musicians, a paper hanger, a sailor, a sea-going engineer, a race horse man, a bricklayer, an undertaker, a deep sea diver, a milliner, a professional gambler and three old maids.

All of these failed as farmers, of course, as might have been foretold, and their unfavorable experiences illustrate the futility of much of the "back to the farm" propaganda that has been spread about.

The farmer needs training and experience in the management of agricultural affairs, just as those in other walks of life must have training and experience before being entrusted with important activities. A misfit on the farm will be a failure as he will be in any other calling for which he is unsuited.

"No Better Will Be Made"

Looking back only a comparatively few years, we may remember or have called to mind many things which were taken seriously then, but which cause a smile today.

Such a smile may be evoked by an advertisement appearing in the Review or Reviews in 1899.

Properly displayed and accompanied with an illustration that looks very much like an ordinary rubber-tired runabout buggy without a tongue, the advertisement said in part:

"The latest and best Horseless Carriage. Complies with all requirements for an ideal and practical pleasure or business vehicle. No motor will be made. Time cannot improve it. Deliver in sixty days. Send for illustrated catalogue and interesting reading matter about self-propelled vehicles."

The fellow who wrote that advertisement took in quite a lot of territory. "No better will be made. Time cannot improve it." Think of that—39 years ago.

Personal property in Alabama was assessed at $240,688,978 in 1917. In 1936 it was assessed at $99,376,061. This is a net shrinkage of $141,312,917 during the nineteen years. Real estate in 1917 was assessed at $429,478,654. In 1936 the assessments on this class of property had increased to $608,768,684, or an increase of $179,290,030.

During the fiscal year ending September 30th, Alabama has built 499 miles of road and all of it is paid for. There are now under construction 657 miles, of which 36.2 miles is paving.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

An artist was asked to paint a picture of a decaying church. To the surprise of those who looked upon the finished product they did not see a tottering building. On the other hand they saw a stately structure, finished inside and out with all of the modern grandeur. Highly polished seats were in position, a hand carved pulpit sat in place and a magnificent organ and beautiful stained glasses were in evidence. There were scores of fashionable worshippers pressing toward the door, and many doubted the reality of the picture. Its truth was not seen until they glanced over and took a look at the collection plates. "For Missions" was carved on those handsome plates. But over the top of each one a spider had woven his web. The web was broken by a collection from anyone Verily I say unto you—a decaying church is one that has lost its Missionary enthusiasm.

At Washington we have a Secretary of War. We also have a Secretary of the Navy. Why not have a Secretary of Peace? We need a man at our national Capitol whose duty it is to stand on the watchtower and look for every man and every nation that would infringe upon our peace. If I am not in error that is the one outstanding need of our day. The murdered souls of the past, the cries of heartbroken widows and bereaved orphans reach to high heaven and the Christian world should demand that we have every protection possible from the war lords who tread the earth. Let us have a Secretary of Peace. We need a man to let him be the most important man in the president's cabinet. Give him power to chase down and utterly annihilate all greed for gain through war, and to forever chase the "War Propagandist" from the face of the earth. If we put forth as much effort to have peace as we do to have war, we would make a long step toward civilization.

Suppose that all the nutritious food that I ate all during the time that I was growing into manhood had gone into the making of a monster instead of my body. I would have been a monster instead of a man. The real part of my being would have been dwarfed. I would have been mostly arm and that arm would have been attached to a weak support. And yet, my friends, that is what is going on in our national life today. Seventy five per cent of all our national income and national strength is going into wars past and present. We are not only putting seventy five cents of every tax dollar into the making of war, but we are sending the flower of our young manhood to be shot to death on the battlefield. That is why our nation, and other nations are growing into monsters in place of real men and nations. So long as we are willing to spend a thousand times more to bring hell on earth, than we are to bring heaven down among men, just so long we must continue to say with Sherman, "War is Hell."

In London there is a building that is rated as being among the most beautiful buildings of the world. One of the walls in this building there is this inscription, "If you would see the monument erected to the Architect of this building, look around. St. Paul in all of its glory stood there in the midst of this great city as a monument to the one who had planned and built it. That is what I would like to say of many things that I see in this world in this our day. If you want to see the monument erected to the whiskey business, just look around. If you want to see the monument erected to war, look around. If you want to see the monument erected to the gambling den, the road houses, the dance halls, just look around. These things do not fail to build what they are into what they bring to pass. Even if you want to see the glory of the church as she serves just look around.

There are two ways of opening a safe. One is to be trustworthy and honest, and learn the combination and then open it to protect and use its contents. The other way is to be a thug and take tools and high explosives and go there and drill and blow it open, and then rob it of all its valuables belonging to someone else. There are two ways of getting in this world. One is to be honest and upright and deal fairly and squarely with mankind, and take only what is yours, and leave the rest to be the property of those to whom it belongs. The other way is the way of modern warfare. If you want Ethiopia then take it by the way of robbers. If you want parts of China, then blow it into smithereens from the sky and take it by force. If there are treasures, if there are possessions in the world that we should have, Christianity can furnish the combination without the use of high explosives. O my Lord, when will we learn to war no more.

ALABAMA OODITIES

BITS OF ODD FACTS ABOUT ALABAMA AND HER PEOPLE

BY Clint Bonner

To us of the State "Alabama" implies a place of friendly neighbors and blue skies. To natives of other sections of the country the mention of Alabama brings to mind the heart of the deep South, the home of the Negro and the land of cotton. But, be that as it may, it will probably surprise some of our own folk (in the land of steel and ores) to know that a negro was actually the first permanent settler within the bounds of what is now Alabama, excluding the native Indian, of course.

That statement could not pass without explanation. When DeSota made his historical march through Alabama in 1540 there numbered among his army of warriors and priests an African servant. Now, it seems that the glamorous and cruel leader of the Spanish expedition was obsessed with rather taking ways. That is, upon leaving an Indian encampment he simply took what he wanted, but he also seemed to have somewhat of a chivalrous streak in his makeup, he left in exchange those of his supplies for which he had no further need; and which would be burdensome to carry on—lame horses, sick cattle, and the like.

During a sojourn of a couple of fortnights on what is now Maxwell Field near Montgomery, this African servant became seriously ill. Realizing that the negro was of no further value and fearing that he would die in his hands, DeSota made the nearby encampment of a tribe. Thus, you have briefly the story of Alabama's first permanent settler—a negro.

"Here we rest" is often mistaken as being an interpretation of the word "Alabama," but actually the name of the State comes more nearly the meaning "Here we work".

When early invaders came into the State they found settled among a large river tribe of Indians which they called the "Alibamos." Later this section became known as "The land of the Alibamos." Still later the name evolved into "Alabama." Thence, the "Alabama" River, and from the river came the name of the State. The original word "Alibamo" means, in Indian language, "thicket clearers." So, as thicket clearing is nothing more than a matter of work, you can readily see how misleading it would be to say that Alabama means "Here we rest". The motto was adopted 21 years after the State was admitted to the Union.

If you should be near a certain cemetery in South Alabama and happen to hear of an old timer, with no provocation whatever, yell loudly the price of cotton, think nothing about it.

Several years ago a cotton dealer of the section in mind made a request on his death bed that he be kept informed as to the current price of the lint. So while passing the graveyard, which borders a little dirt road, to this day many of the older citizens thoughtfully cry aloud the price of cotton and continue on their way. We're wondering if he'd be interested to know about the government loans on cotton.

That's What I Think

—O—O—O—

Saul M. Goldstein

In the hustle and bustle of the holiday season, and the let-up which followed it, we quite forgot the concluding installment of the story of Pompey Demigras and his political difficulties in the far country of Reston. But it has been called to our attention, and so we are offering this week this final installment—with this tongue-in-the-cheek reminder: That a fable, after all, is drawn from life, in which the only concluding installment is death; and that, here, there really can be no final installment, but merely a final word—"to be continued."

You will recall from the preceding installments of this story that Pom was waging a political battle to the death along certain lines which a man of his age and experience should long ago have learned were no longer applicable to the situation. In a day when political office was gained by demagogic orations directly before the people, and when personality plus the direct appeal had its immediate effect at the ballot box, Pompey's methods were sure fire hitters; but the advent of the radio was a feature which Pom failed to reckon with. He continued to stress his interests in the apple industry, and guaranteed his hearers an enormously high return for their apples should he be elected to the State, despite the fact that neither he nor any other single man or small group of men could guarantee a price that was seriously affected by apple crops in other countries, by the fluctuating crops, and by the sway of sentiment for or against apple products. He blasted in spoken and printed word his opponent's temerity in supporting the party's proposal to establish a minimum wage per week, with a maximum work-week. His day of reckoning came with the casting of the ballots.

The members of the party, mindful of his desertion at a previous hour of need, and mindful of his present opposition to the national party interests in the face of his repeated statements that he was with the party entirely, delivered the final blow to Pompey Demigras' political ambitions. By an overwhelming majority they gave his young opponent the right to represent the province in the national Senate. Indeed, Pompey might have made himself somewhat of a hero, even if only in the eyes of his friends, had he retired gracefully from active politics when he had finally patched up matters between the party and himself; but his overwhelming defeat left no such beautiful end . . . merely the picture of an old man who went high and fell low.

Since all politics in all countries is of close kin, it is not too far-fetched to draw a parallel between the fable of Pompey Demigras and the recent political events which have been disturbing the surface of our own local conditions. The current battle of Hefflin and Hill comes uppermost to most of those who took the trouble to read the troubles of Pompey Demigras.

Thomas Hefflin might have been a bigger man than he was; but we are sorely afraid that much of his bigness lay in his mouth, and that his great powers were dependent entirely upon his pompous oratory and his appeal to mass ignorance and superstition. The farmer of Hefflin's younger days might be led to believe that his own chosen representative could accomplish miracles with the seed of cotton; but to-day's farmer, better informed through our provisions for universal education and through the ever-present radio, could not be led aside by such cheap promises. The Democrats of Alabama showed their disappointment in Tom Hefflin by giving his opponent, Lister Hill a vote almost double that of Hefflin's.

In so doing, Alabama not only rejected the cheap demagoguery of Hefflin, but endorsed the new trend in national political consciousness which has characterized Alabama affairs in the past ten years. To the average American not from Alabama, the name Urdeword came representative of that which was fine in statesmanship from Alabama, and the name Bankhead was one to be reckoned with. Alabama has seen her Bankhead made Speaker of the House of Representatives and her Black made Justice of the Supreme Court. An Alabama man, Pitt Tyson Mager, commands the councils of the younger element of the party in power; and now, Alabama entrusts that tradition of marked ability to a man who has proved himself by fourteen years of service in the House of Representatives.

We have added Lister Hill to our growing roster of high-standard public servants. Let us keep up the good work until Alabama shall not only have but maintain a record for high statesmanship and public service.

At least, that's what I think.

W. M. DEVAUGHN HAVING FINE SCHOOL IN GEORGIA

A letter from Prof. W. M. Devaughn at Dalton, Ga., says: "Am ok, and in the midst of a real normal. W. Devaughn and his wife are expecting to reach 80 or more. There are two seasons each day, and those classes are really singing; sounds like a real singing convention every session."

"I am boarding with Mr. Lee Higgins. We two attended a singing out at Selma Hospital. I believe these Georgia Crackers really sing. I spend the afternoons in the Showalter printing plant assisting in looking over new songs. The new Showalter book will be out February 20th, and we expect Chilton County singers to use lots of them. Sincerely, W. M. Devaughn, Box 51, Dalton, Ga."

Less Monthly Discomfort
Many women, who formerly suffered from a weak, run-down condition as a result of poor assimilation of food, say they benefited by taking CARDUI, a special medicine for women. They found it helped to increase the appetite and improve digestion, thereby bringing them more strength from their food.

Naturally there is less discomfort at monthly periods when the system has been strengthened and the various functions restored and regulated.

Consult, practiced by thousands of women, is well worth trying. Of course, if not benefited, consult a physician.

Thorsby Jr. High School News

The Christmas holidays were apparently highly enjoyable to everyone. Attendance has been good since resuming our studies.
The faculty spent the Yuletide season as follows: Mr. J.D. Griffin, principal, spent his holidays in Thorsby. Mr. Percy Johnson, fifth grade teacher, spent his holidays at home. Mrs. Mims spent the holidays making preparations to move into her new home. Mrs. Taylor spent her holidays visiting relatives in Cooper.
Mrs. Williams spent part of the holidays in Mr. Creek, Montgomery. Bessemer. Miss Jones spent the holidays at home—Plantersville. Coach Robert B. Johnson spent his holidays partly in Verbena and Birmingham, and the rest he spent at home and out hunting squirrels and birds.
The Jr. Three English class is now engaged in a series of debates. The subjects center around practical everyday topics. It would be quite worthwhile as well as entertaining to drop by at 10:40 each morning and listen to the students engage in a verbal battle, each endeavoring to defend his position and ideals relative to the question. The students are judged on the following points, namely: (a) Posture; (b) Style of presentation; (c) Argumentation; (d) Quality of subject matter; (e) Expression.
The first of the series of debates was the popular subject: Resolved, that the country life is more healthful than city life. Mary Alma Goodgame and Clara Smith upheld the affirmative side, while Edward Nations and Thomas Kincaid defended the negative. The arguments were all carefully drawn with precision, but the affirmative speakers overshadowed their opponents on the points of delivery. The other debates will be reported on later.
We wonder if you realize that this school year is now one-half gone. Are you doing your part to prepare up to the definition of a loyal, conscientious and diligent student?
From the athletic department comes the following information: The boys basketball team suffered their second loss out of thirteen games played when on last Friday night the Mt. Pleasant Juniors edged out by the score of 25-22, in the C.C.H.S. gymnasium. Our team drew first blood, and held a 4-2 lead at the first quarter, but the second quarter saw our defense completely unfold and the Mt. Pleasant eagles roll up a lead which we were never able to overcome. This lead was 18-9 at the half. The starting lineup for Thorsby never once clicked during the game, and it was a couple of substitute players the last half that began to deal misery to their opponents by gently but surely closing the wide gap on the score board. The closing four minutes of the game found A. Colliers in there stripping the net from all angles, but the Mt. Pleasant defense managed to stave off defeat by resort-

Stop! Look! and Listen!
A warning. A warning we have seen often. A warning never placed where not needed. A warning for the protection of life and limb; and, if heeded, ample warning.
For the protection, health, and growth of the spiritual life of not only Clanton Methodist Church or not only Methodist, but of Christianity everywhere, may we add the triple word warning: "Stop, Look, and Listen," a triple word motto. "Stop, Meditate, Pray!" It would mean joy to our individual hearts, faithfulness to our God and the services of the churches, churches full to overflowing of worshippers.
Sunday school was well attended last Sunday. We are having a general assembly in the auditorium each Sunday at the end of the class period. Come to your class next Sunday and every Sunday at 9:45 and let your class have excellent attendance in the general assembly report. Boost your department.
There are times when words adequate to express one's thoughts aren't forthcoming. That is the trouble with this mention of last Sunday's preaching services. (The sermons were too stirring to describe. We can only tell our preacher we appreciate the messages and urge the absent ones not to be absent.) Sunday at 11:00 A.M. and 6:30 P.M.
The young people are urged not to miss their service at 5:45 P.M. next Sunday. Attend and boost.

The Enterprise 4-H Club met with the Grange last Friday for the first meeting of the new year. The meeting was called to order by the president and the secretary checked the roll. We enjoyed some beautiful speeches by some 4-H members. After the program was over, we resolved to make 1938 a more successful year than 1937, and to make each meeting better. We then went into the discussion of our lesson which was on Calories. After the lesson was finished, we were dismissed until February.

FARMERS SPEND MORE ON CAR THAN ON CLOTHING

Average farm families in the United States spend more on their automobiles than they do on their clothes, show figures compiled by the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics.
Next to food, the average farm family spends more on the family car and its upkeep. In former years, clothing was the item of expense for farm families next to food, but clothing has dropped to third place.

IN MEMORY OF ROBERT EDGAR BAILEY

God in His never-failing power called to His heavenly home on Monday morning, December 27, our loving brother, Ed. He was killed in a truck accident at Sylacauga. He was rushed to the hospital, but lived only fifteen minutes.

He leaves to mourn his loss, his wife, Mrs. Grace Bailey; four children, Frances, Josephine, Mackie Pearl and Robert Edgar, Jr.; His father, Rev. J.G.W. Bailey; a step-mother, Mrs. Lula Bailey; three brothers, Floyd, Lonza and Curtis Bailey and a great host of other relatives and friends to mourn his loss. But our loss is heaven's gain. God needed just one more angel.

Our hearts are broken with a wound that will take long years to heal. That vacant place and empty chair can never be filled, for Ed was a boy that loved his home. He was a loving and kind friend to everyone.

Ed was loved by everyone who knew him. The large crowd and beautiful flowers was but a small way in which they could prove their love for him. Dearest Ed, you have left us, For that heavenly world so fair, Safely in the arms of Jesus, You are free from toil and care. We saw not the white-robed angel, As it entered with folded wings, To summon home our loved one, To the arms of our Heavenly King. Heaven now retaineth our treasure, Earth the lovely casket keep, And the sunbeams love to linger, Where our loved one sleeps. When I leave this world of care, I will find my missing loved one, In my Father's mansion fair. He is gone, but not forgotten, Never will his memory fade; Loving thoughts forever linger Round the grave where he now is laid Safe in the arms of Jesus; Safe on His gentle breast, There by his love overshadowed, Sweetly his soul shall rest. A precious one from us is gone, A voice we loved is still, A place is vacant in the home, Which never can be filled. Dearest Ed, how we miss you, How we miss your smiling face, But we hope we will soon meet you, In that land of love and peace. Asleep in Jesus, far from thee Thy kindred and their grave may be, But thine is still a blessed sleep, From which none ever wake to weep.

—A Brother, Floyd Bailey.

F. H. A. HOLDS REGULAR MEETING FRIDAY, JAN. 7

The F. H. A. of Chilton County High School had its regular meeting last Friday, January 7. We were very glad to have as our guests the Senior I Home Economics Class. Since there was no business to be brought before the club the meeting proceeded with a program. The program was presented by the Publicity Committee on "The Outstanding Events of 1937." The meeting then adjourned.

RESOLUTION

"Whereas, it has seemed well to the Almighty to remove from our midst and services our late worthy and esteemed teacher, E. L. Smith; and

"Whereas, the services rendered by the deceased, as both a teacher and minister has endowed him in the hearts of his associates and friends; therefore,

"Be It Resolved, that the Chilton County Board of Education deplore the loss of E. L. Smith, with deep feeling of regret, softened only by the confident faith that his spirit is resting in the bosom of his Teacher, and with those who, having fought the good fight here, are enjoying perfect happiness in a better world;

"Be It Further Resolved, that a copy of this resolution be spread upon the minutes of the Board of Education, a copy given to the press, and a copy given to the family of the deceased."

State Now Has All County Health Units

Organization of county departments of health in the 11 Alabama counties not having such departments at the beginning of the year was characterized today by Dr. J. N. Baker, State Health Officer, as the outstanding achievement of 1937 in the field of public health in this State.

"The action of the Bibb County board of revenue in making financial provision for the establishment of a local health department in that county, effective January 1, brought to a successful conclusion the long campaign to provide the benefits of local health departments to every resident of the State," he said. "This work of county health organization began in 1914, when Walker County became the first county in Alabama and the second in the United States to establish its own health department. Only two other states, Delaware, with only three counties, and Maryland, with 23, have local health departments for every county."

The 11 counties in which local health departments were established during 1937 are Butler, Choctaw, Fayette, Bibb, Clay, Autauga, Clarke, Geneva, Greene, Hale, and St. Clair.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

ENDORSES T. L. McKEE
Stanton, Alabama.
January 11, 1938

Editor,
Chilton County News,
Clanton, Alabama.

Dear Sir:

Please allow me space in your paper this week to make some statements to the voters of the county about what my opinion is about the duties of the Democrats of this county.

Back in 1934 when the campaign was going on here, Mr. T. L. McKee, who is now our tax collector, made a fine campaign and I believe, and have heard many comments, saying that he did more hard work and continuous canvassing in the county for the party than any other man. And, I have also heard from other people who stated that he played a great part in the victory of the party in 1934.

I just want to remind the Democrats and others in the county about the contest Mr. McKee was known to defend himself on. It caused him to be out lots of money for lawyers' fees and lots of time, as well as having to work on the records, spending six or eight months preparing for a defense of the lawsuits of his opposing candidate.

I have heard and, I believe that our present tax collector, Mr. T. L. McKee, ought to be nominated again in the primary election in May for the same office and without any big expense or worry on his part.

He is the most accommodating officer in the courthouse and that statement has been heard more than once. He is thoroughly competent and qualified to handle the duties of his office and his experience of his first term will help him to serve the people better in the second term.

I thank you very much for allowing me this space in your paper.

Respectfully,
ERNEST DAVIS.

ROY ROPER

have not been a party to any political faction within my party, being content to register my approval or disapproval at the polls at the proper time. I wish to assure the good citizens of my County that my candidacy will be conducted on the basis of the most honest and fair dealing possible. I want this to be known to all. I will not try to win by any means, but I will win by the honest and fair dealing of my party. I have been in the industry with all my heart and I want the good farmers and citizens will bear witness to that statement.

My record and past is an open book and I will let the people know me. I state to you that as the negotiator, I have been able to know what I am doing and I want you to ask me.

Please do not let your support and influence go to any other man.

STATE COMMITTEE

May 3 and June 14. Democrats will nominate a senator, a governor, all congressmen and legislators, all State constitutional officers, two public service commission members, and several county officials in these. Nomination is tantamount to election in a state race.

Provision was made for sheriffs, now prohibited from succeeding themselves to enter May 3 primaries. Voters will decide that same day on a proposed constitutional amendment which would remove the bar against sheriffs.

The committee decided that if the amendment failed the June 14 primary should be considered the "first" for the sheriffs in the counties where incumbents won majorities or ran second in the May 3 balloting. A run-off, necessary wherever one man fails of a majority, was set for July 19 where necessary in event of amendment failure.

All candidates, the rules provide, must not have voted for candidates other than Democrats in the 1936 general election and must not have "openly and publicly" opposed party nominees.

Chairman John D. McQueen brought a quick end to proposed new rules to increase powers of the State committee.

Among the new rules were those which would have: Permitted the State committee to remove and appoint county committeemen; allowed the State chairman to reject qualifications of any candidate; reduced committee membership from 72 to 54.

McQueen announced "as I understand it, no member of a subcommittee which drew the proposals was pressing for adoption."

State Representative E. C. Boswell, General, quickly moved to operate under the "old rules," and R. E. Jones, Anniston, a subcommittee member, seconded him. There was no dissenting vote, and McQueen added: "The chairman also votes aye."

Draper Readmitted

Hamp Draper, State Convict Department chief, who lost his committee membership because of opposing Smith for president, was elected to fill a Fourth District vacancy. He won 352 over R. Clarence Williams.

Second Congressional District members were empowered to fix dates and regulations for special primaries when Representative Lister Hill, of Montgomery, resigns his House membership to accept a Senate post to which he was nominated Tuesday.

Silas D. Cater, of Montgomery, made the motion, announcing he had approval from committeemen representing all of the district's counties.

George M. Grant, of Troy, an announced Second District congressional candidate, resigned from the committee and W. M. Hodgson, of Bay Minette, was elected in his place. State Senator Lamar Kelley, of Evergreen, and R. T. Goodwyn, Sr., of Montgomery, also announced candidates, were present.

The Roosevelt administration endorsement came on a resolution by Louise O. Charlton, Birmingham, only woman member of the committee.

tion of alcoholic beverages, it was ruled, though nowhere in the A.B.C. Act is there any restriction or prohibition against possession of legally purchased alcoholic beverages in any county. It is pointed out, however, that the A.B.C. Act specifically prohibits the manufacture, sale and distribution of alcoholic beverages in "dry" counties.

It was not the intent of the Legislature in enacting the A.B.C. Law, it is held, to repeal prohibition of possession of alcoholic beverages in "dry" counties. As to the insistence that the Court conclude there was such an intent, the opinion states that the binding force of the valid enactments of a prior Legislature "is not, we believe, to be gotten rid of by any such method."

In its concluding paragraphs, Judge Rice's opinion states the ruling that there can be no legal possession of alcoholic beverages in a "dry" county that were legally purchased in a "wet" county, does not apply to Railroads or Pullman car companies being permitted under license, to sell alcoholic beverages in dining, club and buffet cars, to passengers for consumption while en route; or the licensing of steamship companies to sell such beverages in dining compartments.

FACTS FROM THE RECORD

Motor Vehicle Registration and Gasoline Consumption

The registration of Motor Vehicles in the United States during the past year reached the enormous figure of 30,095,000. The consumption of gasoline was over twenty billion gallons.

The registration figures for 1937 exceed the 1936 registration by six and one-half percent and the consumption of gasoline was up nine and seven-tenths percent.

South Dakota is the only state that shows a decrease in registration and the decrease is less than one-tenth per cent. Mississippi shows the largest gain in registration, a gain of 13.28 per cent, while Alabama is a close second with 13.11 per cent.

In the consumption of gasoline South Carolina takes the lead with a gain of 18.62 percent with New Mexico taking second place with a gain of 18.51 percent. Alabama takes the third place with 16.89 percent. The only state showing a decrease in gasoline consumption was Nebraska which shows a decrease of only six one-hundredths of one percent.

The record shows that 218,869,732 gallons of gasoline were consumed in Alabama last year as compared with 187,230,280 gallons in 1936. The taxes collected on this gasoline and petroleum products by the State of Alabama amounted to $13,340,914.18, one-half of which went to the counties for road and bridge construction and maintenance and $1,503,341.50 was used to pay interest on and for the retirement of highway bonds.

The 1938 outlook for livestock feeders, dairymen and poultrymen is much more favorable than at any time during the past marketing year when feeding conditions were generally unfavorable to livestock producers.

WILL INTRODUCE UNIQUE FOOT RELIEF SERVICE

Dr. Scholl's Scientific Shoes
Will Be Demonstrated Jan.
22, At Levine Brothers

They say that Truth is stranger than Fiction and that old adage may be aptly applied to this story. To build shoes that would satisfy the most discriminating taste and at the same time fit comfortably has been the despair of shoe manufacturers.

Years ago Dr. Scholl, the well-known Foot Authority, began to work on a line of shoes that would completely solve this knotty problem. When he gave to the foot-suffering public his famous line of Scientific Shoes, his efforts were crowned with success.

Dr. Scholl's Foot Comfort Appliances and Remedies has arranged to be at Levine Brothers Store on Saturday, January 22. Dr. Scholl's Foot and Shoe Experts will bring with them advance showings of the complete line of Dr. Scholl's new style shoes. There will be 622 fittings to meet the most fastidious tastes and all types of feet, in sizes for men from 6 to 14; for women from 2 1/2 to 13; in widths from AAA to EEE.

Unless one has made an intensive study of the feet, one would never realize how many different kinds of feet there are. Here is a woman who has a short, stubby foot; the next is a man with a long, slim foot with a narrow heel; the next customer has a high arch and his friend, weak, broken down arches. Then there are legions who have foot troubles; such as, corns, callouses, bunions, crooked, overlapping toes and those who continually run their heels over. In short many people will tell you "I have the hardest foot in the world to fit." It is this class, Mr. Levine says, who should be vitally interested in Dr. Scholl's Scientific Shoes.

With this array of shoes there will be included the latest model X-ray machine, the Podo-graph and Dr. Scholl's Automatic Shoe Sizer. In testing feet and fittings these shoes all guesswork is eliminated.

Dr. Scholl has given the growing feet of children the same careful consideration as he has adults. He claims that many of the foot ailments from which men and women suffer today can be traced back to improperly made or fitted shoes when their feet were in their tender, plastic stage of childhood.

ALABAMA NEEDS MORE AND BETTER GARDENS

Auburn, Ala.—"Alabama farmers should produce a $20,000,000 crop of vegetables, in addition to what they have been growing, to feed themselves," reports W. A. Ruffin, horticulturist of the Alabama Extension Service.

"Statistics on the production of vegetables for home consumption in Alabama show that these crops can be more than doubled and the minimum requirements will not be filled," he says.

The 1935 census shows 273,455 farm families in Alabama. Of this number, 22,212 reported a garden; almost 50,000 families did not have a garden. This condition does not seem possible when all of the people are sure to have had some experience in growing collards, cabbage, onions, peas, potatoes, and turnips.

"From the same report it is found that the average farm garden produced only $34.00 worth of vegetables, a total for the state of $7,500,000 worth."

"A careful study of the food requirements for the average farm family in this state shows that a minimum budget for the purchase of fresh, dried and canned vegetables would be approximately $105.00 per family. On this basis the minimum requirements of the state for vegetables would amount to over $28,000,000."

"Alabama farmers spent in 1935 eight million dollars for vegetables that could have been grown at home."

"These figures show that farmers in this state can increase their income and enjoy a more abundant life by applying good farming practices, such as proper fertilization, rotation, and succession of plantings, to the home garden," he concludes.

Fargo, N. Dak., requires all women to remove their hats while dancing.

1938 Farm Program Discussed At Auburn

Work on the Alabama Extension Service was discussed last week here at Auburn by the Alabama Extension Service, which is the largest and most important of the state's extension agencies.

The meeting was held at the Auburn Hotel, and was attended by a large number of farmers and extension workers from all parts of the state.

The program for the year 1938 was discussed, and it was found that the most important problems facing farmers are the lack of money, the lack of labor, and the lack of knowledge.

The meeting was very successful, and it was hoped that the farmers would be able to solve their problems by following the advice of the extension workers.

The meeting was also attended by a number of representatives of the federal government, and it was found that the federal government is very interested in the problems of the farmers.

MUCH HEADWAY MADE IN CONTROL OF EROSION IN 1937

108 local farmers at the close of 1937 were cooperating with the Soil Conservation Service in the Clanton erosion control demonstration area in perfecting and demonstrating a sound, long time soil and water conservation program for this section.

The demonstration area was started October 2, 1935, and Camp Supt. James H. Wood, reports that during the last year more progress in the development and demonstration of effective erosion control practices was made than has been made in any previous year.

Cooperating farmers in the area have increased the acreage of erosion resisting crops on their farms 729 acres since they set out with help of the Government to set their farms up as living erosion control demonstrations. They have protected 2190 acres with approved terraces, planted 1,088,000 trees, and have adopted approved crop rotations on 2,465 acres.

Those figures however, reflect only a part of the work they are doing in the unified erosion control program, which includes contour cultivation, strip cropping, pasture improvement, woodland management, wildlife encouragement and other practices needed to control erosion and make the best use of every acre on the farm.

Mr. Wood suggested that nearby farmers visit some of these demonstration farms, talk with the farmers and see for themselves. Information about the best erosion control farming practices for this section can also be obtained from the local county agent or the workers at local Soil Conservation Service project office.

Need For Sanitation Cited By Health Officer

A plea for more widespread cooperation of property owners with the local health department in the manner of installing approved facilities of excreta disposal in homes was made today by Dr. S. D. Sturkie, Chilton County Health Officer.

"This applies, especially," he stated, "to a majority of our rural homes which are still without sanitary toilets. More than 90 per cent of the homes outside of Clanton, Jamison, Thorsby, Verbena and Cooper either have no toilets or the old insanitary open back surface privy. As a result of this condition, there is still an unnecessarily high incidence of fly-borne diseases such as typhoid fever and bacillary dysentery in the community."

A frequent cause of the death of young infants, diarrhea, can often be traced to the lack of screening and a sanitary toilet in homes. The hookworm problem which stays with us despite the many treatments which have been given by physicians and the County Health Department owes its existence to our lack of sanitary toilets.

"The health department at present," he added, "is in position to render assistance to property owners in the building of pit toilets by providing WPA labor and supervision. With this free labor, it is now estimated that a standard, concrete type pit privy can be installed for the modest sum of $17.50 in homes having running water, a septic tank with a sub-surface disposal field is to be preferred. While labor is not available for the construction of septic tanks, the sanitation officer of the health department, is prepared to assist property owners by laying out the disposal field and by the loan of forms if needed."

TENNESSEE VALLEY WILDLIFE AGREEMENT IS GIVEN APPROVAL

A significant step in the development of the vast potential wildlife resources of the Tennessee River Valley in Alabama was taken last week when Commissioner I. T. Quinn, of the State Department of Conservation of Game, Fish and Seafoods, approved a co-operative agreement between State and Federal agencies for a definite wildlife program in the area. The co-operative agreement is the Alabama Department of Conservation, the Tennessee Valley Authority, the U. S. Bureau of Biological Survey, and the U. S. Bureau of Fisheries.

The program includes the construction of a fish hatchery on TVA lands and the establishment of raising ponds by TVA. This work will be directed by the U. S. Bureau of Fisheries, the same agency that operates the big hatchery at Marion, Alabama. The planting of fish from this place will be supervised by the Alabama Department of Conservation.

Further developments will include the establishment of refuges for wildlife, including waterfowl, on lands owned by TVA, and their management, operation and development by the U. S. Bureau of Biological Survey and the Alabama Department of Conservation. Negotiations have been under way for several months looking toward a definite program, and with approval of the plan it is believed development of the area will proceed satisfactorily in the near future.

ALABAMA ODDITIES

BITS OF ODD FACTS ABOUT ALABAMA AND HER PEOPLE

BY Clint Bonner

History, just plain history, is sort of a bad dose for most of us. But when one runs across such a character as the colorful Reverend Lorenzo Dow, Alabama's pioneer Protestant minister, there is a certain flavor of entertainment that makes dry historical records less difficult to swallow.

To more fully appreciate the oddity to follow, it may be well to know a little of the background of the unusual Dow.

A roaming disciple of the Word of God, Dow first appeared in the Alabama territory in 1803—16 years before the state was admitted to the union—and visited the section at irregular intervals for several years thereafter. The eccentric Methodist minister had little use for houses, in fact so little use did he have for them that he slept nightly beneath the tall pines on piles of straw. It was here, on the pine straw that he conceived the idea for the soon-to-become-famous camp meeting.

Always alert in thought and quick on decisions, the missionary made engagements as far as two years in advance on the spur of a moment—but invariably kept them to the split minute. It is said that on one occasion he returned to fill an appointment, which he had made many months before, and that his congregation, long since forgetting the date, failed to show up and Dow preached a full length sermon without a single listener.

St. Stephens, as you who are up on your Alabama history know, was not only No. 1 city of the region in politics during the infancy of the state but also ranked first in wickedness and vice. Dow unhesitatingly took it upon himself to convert the "modern Sodom and Gomorrah." Auctioneering off his watch for $25 he established there with this meager financial beginning the first Protestant Church in Alabama.

For months he hammered away at the task of driving the devil from St. Stephens, and as the months passed so passed his patience with the indifference of the wicked populace.

More appreciative audiences awaited across the Tombigbee in lower Mississippi and Dow departed thence, leaving notice with his few followers and non-believers alike that it would be "just too bad" if they didn't have a change of heart before his return two years later.

The general population placed little significance in Dow's warnings and less in his far advanced appointment. Nevertheless, those who knew him better bore well in their minds the date and met at the church on the hour. Time for his arrival narrowed down to a matter of minutes. The congregation, who had heeded the underbrush amid the tall trees in lower southwest Alabama marks the spot where once stood Alabama's number one town and first capitol of the state—St. Stephens.

You may call it coincident, if you like, but the echo of Dow's pitched voice had hardly died to fade into the walls of that little church when an epidemic of yellow fever and siege of malaria combined literally wiped Alabama's first capitol from the face of the globe. In less than a fortnight after disease had gripped the city the entire populace had either met death or fled lest they die of the plague. And St. Stephens soon was as it is today, and it has been for more than a century, nothing more than "the habitation of bats and owls."

Only a stone slab, placed not so many years ago in the underbrush amid the tall trees in lower southwest Alabama marks the spot where once stood Alabama's number one town and first capitol of the state—St. Stephens.

Getting back to coincidents (after all if it weren't for them there would be few oddities) J. R. L. and Geneva Kelley were both born in the same house on the same day. One was born in Chilton County however, and the other first saw the light of day in Bibb County. But that's easy. The county line simply runs through the place where the oddity is, that their mothers were sisters and their fathers were brothers. At least that's what we're told by Mrs. W. W. Kelley of Maplesville.

Then for another coincident—on November 18, last, Mr. J. C. W. and Jasper J. were both born in the same house on the same day. One was born in Chilton County however, and the other first saw the light of day in Bibb County. But that's easy. The county line simply runs through the place where the oddity is, that their mothers were sisters and their fathers were brothers. At least that's what we're told by Mrs. W. W. Kelley of Maplesville.

Mr. and Mrs. Omaha Evans, residents of Florence, named their little 22-months-old son NEBRASKA. The boy, however, has never been in that western state.

One peculiar thing about Alabamians is that they have a way of doing things that "can't be done."

"A man can't stay under water more than four minutes and live to tell it," say some people, but Birmingham's airport manager, Steadman Ackers, remained beneath the aquatic surface of the Gulf of Mexico for five and one-half minutes. He was pronounced dead but will tell you the story of how he fell in an airplane while training students at Pensacola during the World War, and of how the time was recorded before he was taken from the water, if you ask him.

Birmingham's John Q. Eaton recently set a record by swimming 107 yards and reversed his course six times for good measure—under water.

Fifteen different times within the past few years Mr. George Morrison, of Birmingham, has had to have medical assistance in unlocking his jaws, as a result of yawning.

That's an appropriate one to close with—only I hope your jaws don't lock. And so it goes and so it goes.

FOR TAXI, Phone 78—Popwell Taxi Co., Clanton.

Kudzu and sericea lespedeza are becoming popular in Alabama. Many farmers are at present making plans to grow these crops in 1938.

What does Kiwanis want in 1938? Briefly this: a paved highway for Main Street beginning at the State Highway, meeting the city paving at the Thomson Hotel, leaving it at the Court House and extending right out to Lay Dam; a substantial increase in the number of blocks of paved road within the city limits outside of this course; the further extension of railroads; a Recreation and Community Center, providing a gathering place for young and old; the establishment of a Public Library; the maintenance of the Crippled Children's Clinic, the establishment of the County Fair as an annual event; the further extension of railroads; accommodations to include making Clanton a regular stop on all trains now making it a flag stop and making it at least a flag stop on those not now stopping at Clanton; the establishment of a separate and independent Western Union office in Clanton; the extension of industrial development to bring new industries and new employment to the members of the community; the continued cooperation with the agricultural element of the population to provide for more meeting in conjunction with small agricultural communities, for 4-H Club work, for participation in state and federal government agricultural objectives.

You will agree that the Kiwanis has tackled a big proposition in assembling all these objectives in one year's program, but you cannot fail to agree that all these things are sorely needed by the community; and with that agreement must come your silent promise of cooperation with this program. Kiwanis can set out objectives, and the members of the Club can join together to help achieve them, but it takes all the members of the community working together to really get there.

And if, when December 31, 1938, rolls around, all these objectives have not been attained, no one should point a finger of scorn and criticism at Kiwanis for its failure because it is a certainty that each and every one of these points will be kept on the books until they become actual realities. If you have a real pride in your community, you will not hesitate to cooperate with Kiwanis in bringing all this and more about.

At least, that's what I think.

That's What I Think

SAUL M. GOLDSTEIN

Very few will dispute the statement that the citizens of every community are almost unanimously proud of their community. They are pleased to see it make progress, to grow, to achieve new heights of civic reputation. What Californian does not swell with pride at his native state's wonderful climate, although everyone knows that he had nothing to do with bringing about that climate? What New Yorker does not constantly boast about that city's schools, its high buildings, its modern traffic arrangements? On the other hand, it is just as true that people feel some sentiment of shame when their community lags behind in some field—providing they realize that they are lagging behind.

We people of Clanton and Chilton County are not different in that respect than those of any other community. We are justly proud of our airport, our new city hall, our new post office, and of several other features which our community can boast; and we are somewhat ashamed to have outsiders view our city streets, particularly after a siege of rain; we are somewhat embarrassed to admit that there is not a single of reading material to which a person may go for entertainment and enlightenment; and those of us who like to swim must certainly hang their heads each time they make a trip to some other community for that purpose.

So it is with a definite feeling of pride that one surveys the objectives of the Clanton Kiwanis Club for 1938. Ambitious? Certainly. Hard of attainment? Just as certainly. Will the Kiwanis get there? Well, that's another story. Nothing for an entire community can be achieved unless the entire community gets behind it; but on the other hand, one has only to point to a host of Clanton Kiwanis achievements for the community to realize that it may take time, but Kiwanis usually gets where it is heading: Airport, City Hall, drainage system, County Fair, Crippled Children's Clinic, improved railroad accommodations, change in the telephone system (the Public Service Commission has passed its approval on the project, and work is going forward on it now), and many others.

What does Kiwanis want in 1938? Briefly this: a paved highway for Main Street beginning at the State Highway, meeting the city paving at the Thomson Hotel, leaving it at the Court House and extending right out to Lay Dam; a substantial increase in the number of blocks of paved road within the city limits outside of this course; the further extension of railroads; a Recreation and Community Center, providing a gathering place for young and old; the establishment of a Public Library; the maintenance of the Crippled Children's Clinic, the establishment of the County Fair as an annual event; the further extension of railroads; accommodations to include making Clanton a regular stop on all trains now making it a flag stop and making it at least a flag stop on those not now stopping at Clanton; the establishment of a separate and independent Western Union office in Clanton; the extension of industrial development to bring new industries and new employment to the members of the community; the continued cooperation with the agricultural element of the population to provide for more meeting in conjunction with small agricultural communities, for 4-H Club work, for participation in state and federal government agricultural objectives.

Commissioner of Internal Revenue Guy T. Helvering today called attention to the fact that all employers of eight or more persons during the calendar year 1937 must file their Federal unemployment insurance tax return on Form 940 on or before January 31, 1938, or be liable to penalty for delinquency. The tax rate for the calendar year 1937 is 2 per cent of the pay roll.

Mr. Helvering pointed out that no general extension of time for filing returns on Form 940 would be granted this year. A year ago conditions were such, due to recently enacted State Laws, that a general extension of time was granted to April 1, 1937, in which to file returns on Form 940 for the calendar year 1936.

It was also pointed out by Commissioner Helvering in the announcement issued today that all contributions to State unemployment funds for employment during the calendar year 1937 must be made before January 31, 1938, to enable such contributions to be used as a credit against the Federal liability. State contributions made on or after January 31, 1938, cannot be used as a credit, and the full Federal tax at the rate of 2 per cent of the pay roll will be assessed.

21 Arrests Made By Sheriff's Office

The office of Sheriff Hardy reports 21 arrests during the past week. This is somewhat of a record as it is more than double the usual number. Seven prisoners were lodged in the county jail by the Federal authorities. Two arrests were made for reckless driving; two for manufacturing whiskey and two for illicit distilling. One arrest for assault and battery and one for each of the following charges: V.P.L., carrying pistol without license; abusive, indecent and obscene language; burglary and grand larceny. Three persons were committed for public drunkenness and one for driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated. These commitments together with the prisoners remaining in the county jail brings the total number there at the present time to nearly forty prisoners.

The City of Clanton reports only five arrests this week. Three for public drunkenness and two for disorderly conduct.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

FOR ROY ROPER

Clanton, Ala., Jan. 17, 1938.
Editor, Chilton County News, Clanton, Ala.

Dear Sir:
Please permit me space in your paper to say a few words in regard to my friend and neighbor, Roy Roper, who is a candidate for Tax Collector. I have known Roy Roper all of his life and for a few years he was my next door neighbor. He is clean, honest, friendly and a hard working dirt farmer, worthy of the honor he seeks and the citizens of this County will make no mistake in electing Roy Roper to this office. He is the kind of man I like to see running for office and he is the kind of man the people would do honor to themselves by electing to office.

Yours truly,
H. L. DAVIS.

STATE LIQUOR

cent wrong and that on the side of receipts rather than expenditures. Under the law they can jail a State Comptroller who estimates, and pays out more on his estimate, than the treasury gets in.

Saved Education
"But for the receipts from liquor, wine and beer tax this fiscal year," said Comptroller Lee Monday, "the educational trust fund would be short for the year exactly $1,500,000. The State's portion of the receipts from these three commodities will amount in the budget to be on the safe side. In other words the schools of Alabama would lack $1,500,000 this fiscal year of getting their appropriations but for the legalizing of intoxicants and their taxation."

The statement of State Comptroller Charles Lee about the revenue from intoxicants being the salvation of the schools this year, or should, put an end to the false propaganda of the political dregs that schools are not receiving a penny from such money. If the $1,500,000 the schools will get from legalized intoxicants this year were subtracted from the total appropriations, the school terms in the State would be cut short from four to six and eight weeks and probably more.

"Were it not for the general fund receipts from legalized intoxicants this fiscal year," said Comptroller Lee, "it would be utterly impossible for the State to pay the $1,500,000 annual legislative appropriation to schools from the State's general fund. There would have to be a doubling of the sales tax or some other tax raise to meet such appropriations if they were met."

Estimate Profits
"We will pay 100 per cent of all appropriations this year," said Comptroller Lee. "I estimate the State's general fund will receive $900,000 from liquor and wine profits and $600,000 from profits from beer taxes."

It might be interesting to the public to know that the general fund of the State of Alabama, from which the $1,500,000 in liquor profits will go this fiscal year to schools, is not the only fund that will benefit from legalized intoxicants rather than from illegal and untaxed intoxicants. Every county in Alabama will get money for human welfare and health and so will every city where legal liquor is sold and illegal liquor is banned.

One of the finest pieces of budget estimating ever done in Alabama or probably in the Nation was done by State Comptroller Charles Lee, of Alabama, when he came to making an estimate of receipts of the general fund of Alabama for the fiscal year 1936-1937, now a matter of history. He estimated receipts of the general fund as $8,239,308.31, including refunds and transfers and his collections for that fund amounted to $8,289,313.57. In other words, he missed the receipts by $50,005.36. That meant he hit his estimates by a correct percentage of 99.4. No brain trust of the Federal Government has ever done so well.

Well Known Resident Of Thorsby Passes

The passing of Mrs. Norton early Friday came as a shock to the whole community as she seemed to be getting better from a three-weeks' illness. She became worse Thursday night but seemed to be relieved of her suffering—went to sleep from which she did not awaken.

Mr. and Mrs. Norton came to Thorsby in the early days of its history. With them came two sons, Sereno, the older, and Edwin. Edwin died at the age of twelve. Sereno was one of the first graduates of Thorsby Institute, which school was started in 1906 largely through the efforts of Mr. and Mrs. Norton. When it was started there was no high school in the county. Through the years their interest in Thorsby Institute has been continued. Mrs. Norton taking Mr. Norton's place as a trustee after his death.

They were charter members of the Thorsby Congregational Church. Mrs. Norton had recently resigned as Superintendent of the Primary Department of the Congregational Church. She had been superintendent for thirty-two years. She was a deaconess at the Congregational Church for several years, until her death, and was secretary of the Ladies Guild. She was interested in anything promoting worthwhile things in Thorsby.

Last May she celebrated her 80th birthday and many friends called. Very recently she gave the church a beautiful pulpit Bible.

Instead of sending flowers the Ladies Guild and friends plan to give the church some memorial in her honor. We know that a life of good work means an abundant entrance into the life hereafter.

WOOD LAND PASTURES DO DAMAGE TO LAND, TREES

A woods pasture is a poor pasture and a poor woods, according to Mr. James H. Wood, forester in the Soil Conservation Service near Clanton.

Cattle get very little food value from grazing woodland in comparison to the damage they do to the forest reproduction. This damage is especially severe in hardwood forests. If continued,

Young People Urged To Pay Poll Tax And Vote

"To The People of Chilton County:

"This is an election year and the kind of government, good or bad, that you have depends upon the kind of people you elect for your offices, so if you have good government then you used good judgment in voting, or the reverse, so you see, after all your government comes back as your responsibility and to accept same you must vote and to be qualified to vote you must pay a poll tax on or before the first day of February each year.

"This is a very important election year. We elect our Governor, Lieutenant Governor and all the minor state officers, our Senator and Congressman to the national government as well as our State Representative and Senatorial body. As you know, we elect several of our county officers and you know in most of these offices the nomination in the primary means the election, consequently, for you to be a part of your national, state and county government it is important that you pay your poll tax and vote in the primary.

"As I have before insisted, I fully appreciate the responsibility that is shortly coming on our young people of our county and state and I especially ask you young people to let me plead to you to pay your poll tax and commence to perform your duty in voting and management of your government, since it will not be long until you will have it all to do and no doubt you will feel proud and perhaps perform a duty that will be a lasting influence for the betterment of our government.

"I hope you will consider this in the spirit of the writer, and that is to elect officers who are honorable, capable and willing to fill your offices.

"Thanking you for giving your prompt attention to your poll tax, I am

"Yours respectfully,
T. L. MCKEE.

BEST COTTON VARIETIES FOR PLANTING IN 1938

In order to realize the greatest returns for the 1938 crop, Alabama farmers should grow varieties that will produce staple 7/8 inch or better in length, say officials of the Alabama Experiment Station in announcing results of cotton variety tests in Alabama for the period 1935-37.

The Stoneville 5 and D. P. L. 11 and 144 and Dixie Triumph are good yielding wilt-resistant varieties that produce staple around 1 inch in length. The grazing will destroy all the understorey of trees which should be present in any good woodland area, Mr. Wood said.

Destruction of this young growth reduces the accumulation of humus-forming litter on the forest floor, and thus induces rapid run-off and erosion. The picking of the ground by animals further contributes to loss of water and soil.

The ideal woodland, Mr. Wood said, consists of a well distributed growth of trees of various ages from seedlings to mature timber, such as will provide a sustained yield of woodland products. Young trees and shrubby undergrowth in such a stand also provide protection and food for wildlife.

Recognizing the value of developing improved pastures for grazing and using their woodland for production of wood products, cooperators in the Clanton area have fenced 75 acres of woodland to protect it from grazing, Mr. Wood said.

"The prevalence of cotton wilt disease in central and south Alabama makes it necessary to plant only a wilt resistant variety of cotton, especially on the sandy soils. The Clevevilt, Cook Wiregrass Cook and Cook 1255 Auburn are good yielding wilt-resistant varieties that produce staple around 15/16 or an inch in length. The Cook 307 is a high yielding wilt-resistant variety that will produce staple 7/8 to one inch in length under favorable moisture conditions but in very dry seasons it will produce staple less than 7/8 of an inch in length."

The cotton variety tests were conducted by H. B. Tisdale and J. B. Dick, Auburn, in cooperation with J. T. Williamson, Auburn, J. P. Wilson, Headland, K. G. Baker, Marion Junction, R. C. Christopher, Crossville, Fred Stewart, Elberta and E. L. Mayton, Auburn, on the experiment station and experiment fields in Alabama.

Things We Think

Mrs. Jarman

When the charming wife of a fine fellow goes to such a city as Washington, the nation's capital, we naturally expect that society would immediately make bids for her company. And, that is what has happened to Mrs. Jarman, wife of our own Congressman. In glancing through the columns of The Washington Evening Star, we find that Mrs. Jarman was among those attending the reception given at the White House by the President's wife. Mrs. Jarman is one of the popular wives of representatives and Alabama is justly proud of her in her position in the nation's capital.

For Big Families

In a talk with our friend, W. C. Robinson, well known lumberman of Clanton, we learned that he is in favor of large families, especially those families residing on farms. Mr. Robinson finds that small families, that is, with one or two children, do not get along as well as families of twelve or more children. He says that large families seem to make more money and can do so much more on a farm, thereby making it easier for each member of the family. You may have something there, Mr. Robinson, but personally, we would like to remain a small family.

Errors In Newspapers

Recently we across a rumor that when boiled down, turned out to have no foundation whatsoever. The rumor started merely through gossip and was doing a person some grave and unjustified damage of reputation. We abhor such goings-on.

"That brings us to the point that a newspaper makes errors—not intentionally, and is subject to hundreds of errors in each issue. The newspaper, every newspaper, is unjustly criticized by those who know nothing of what it takes to publish a newspaper, when an error may occur. If a newspaper makes an error about you, or would publish something distasteful to you, the best way of not doing yourself and the newspaper an injustice is to go straight to the editor and show him where he is wrong. Most newspaper editors are just human beings and will welcome suggestions and constructive criticisms. Try it sometimes.

Luther E. Little

This newspaper has never taken any sides in a Democratic primary election. This newspaper has at all times endeavored to shoot straight with all candidates in a Democratic primary and has succeeded in that endeavor and will continue to do so. But, when the writer knows what goes on behind the scenes with an officeholder who are apt to speak our minds in print if we find that officeholder is doing our county a great service. We find that in the record of Hon. Luther E. Little as superintendent of education. We find, and have long known, that he is a splendid citizen to have in a county; that he works for the progress of our county; that he is not aligned with any political faction of his party; that he keeps politics away from the operation of the Board of Education; that he takes a keen interest in social, civic, religious and educational matters of the city, county and state and that he is a man who is uncannily suited and qualified to hold the place of superintendent of education of Chilton County. Frankly we hope the people of this county will aid in placing him back as superintendent and that no one will oppose such a man for the office this year.

Sims Will Run

We received a most pleasant visit from our friend, T. C. (Clyde) Sims, of Jemison, the other day and he advised us he would be a candidate for members of the Commissioners Court from District No. 1. Mr. Sims, the son of the late J. A. Sims, well known business man of Jemison, has been connected with the road department of the county for sometime and is well liked by all who know him. He stated he would announce at the proper time as a candidate and hoped to get around to see as many voters as possible.

Cox Undecided

In checking up from comments we are able to report we find that Representative C. B. Cox has not yet stated whether he would be a candidate to succeed himself. We haven't been able to see much of him as he is away most of the time attending to his own business matters but we find there is considerable interest over the question

Dixon Receives Strong State-Wide Support

STATE TURNS EYES TOWARD FRANK DIXON

One Of State's Leading Mayors Says He Will Support Dixon

Though the gubernatorial candidates thus far qualifying consists only of Rep. Chauncey Sparks, of Eufaula, and a political unknown—James H. Arnold, Birmingham Clothier, impetus to the campaign for Frank M. Dixon, Birmingham attorney and runner-up in 1934 was received late last week with the announcement by Mayor William A. Gunter, of Montgomery, that "it is my present intention to support Dixon."

Since the announcement last week from Camden by former Gov. B. M. Miller that he would not be a candidate for chief executive, political observers believed Mayor Gunter's endorsement of Dixon placed the latter in the forefront.

Judge James S. Parrish, Montgomery city attorney, has announced he would enter the race for Lieutenant Governor, thus competing with Attorney General.

DR. LAWRENCE CANDIDATE FOR BOARD MEMBER

Prominent Physician Seeks To Serve County In Education Line

The number of candidates announcing this week includes the name of Dr. C. O. Lawrence, one of the county's widely known and popular physicians. Dr. Lawrence has announced on the Democratic ticket as a candidate for membership on the Board of Education of this county.

The record of service of Dr. Lawrence along educational lines has been splendid. When he moved to Clanton from Calera, this county gained an outstanding citizen and his former home lost one. He was chairman of the local board of trustees of schools at Calera and was instrumental in the erecting of a fine modern building in that town and his work along educational lines there was most outstanding.

Since moving to Clanton to make his home several years ago, Dr. Lawrence has become well known for his interest and work in civic, religious and educational activities and his decision to seek a place on the county Board of Education will meet with hearty approval by a large number of citizens of the county.

Classified Ads Must Be Paid In Advance

Due to the small charge made by the News for advertisements appearing under the heading "Want Ads," which includes for sales, for rents, etc., it becomes necessary that these advertisements be paid for in advance. The cost is only 25 cents for each insertion provided the number of words does not exceed 25.

In the future unless a want ad is accompanied by cash, money order or check, or unless the sender has an account with the News, the advertisement will not be used. Bookkeeping costs and the expense of mailing statements also make this ruling necessary.

His Own Boss

During 1937, the agricultural cooperative marketing movement made consistent progress with a steadily rising membership running into the millions, and with material increases in its turnover of produce.

The movement was never so strong as it is today—which means that the farmer was never in so sound an economic position, so far as carrying on his business on proven principles under his own direction and control, free from political dictation.

—O—O—O—

Will Your Own Town Be Next?

Great oaks from little acorns grow—and a conflagration may begin with a spark. Since 1900 there have been one hundred conflagrations in the United States and Canada. Will your city be next in line for complete destruction?

It may be if adequate precautions are not taken. But fortunately a conflagration, like less serious fires, can be prevented. A certain water supply, an efficient fire department, a reliable fire alarm system, an up-to-date building code—these are fire's most potent enemies. In very small towns and rural areas, similar safeguards may be created through district fire departments strategically located where they may serve a wide surrounding territory, and by telephonic alarm communication.

According to tradition, the great Chicago fire started when Mrs. O'Leary's cow kicked over a lantern. It is a known fact that the great Berkeley fire started in a vacant lot. Most great fires began from similar apparently unimportant events. Adequate protection can prevent them from spreading.

If the average holds true, there will be two or three conflagrations in the United States and Canada this year. Take care, for our own isn't on that unhappy list, and that your home and family don't become victims of the Fifth Horseman—uncontrolled fire.

Cash Dividends For Safe Driving

The careful motorist is to be financially rewarded for safe driving, according to an announcement from the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters.

In the past, motorists have paid the same price, based upon the accident experience in the localities where they live and the type of car they drive, for Automobile Bodily Injury and Property Damage Liability Insurance. This has penalized the careful motorist—though he might operate his car year after year without mishap, his insurance cost him as much as it did the driver who was periodically involved in accidents. Now member companies of the National Bureau have decided to write insurance on an entirely new basis.

The new basis is the "safe driver reward plan" which guarantees to automobile policy-holders a 15 per cent return of their annual premium provided no claims are brought under policies during the twelve months after the effective date of the plan. The reward will be payable thirty days after the expiration of the policy year thru the agent or broker. All private automobiles covered with bodily injury and property damage insurance by the member companies will be eligible, with the exception of those who are subject to the automobile fleet plan, the experience rating plan, or some other special plan.

It will be highly interesting to watch the effects of this new plan on the accident rate. Under it, to drive safely means that you are directly putting hard cash dollars into your pocket, as well as preventing accidents.

Dispelling The Fog

About twenty years ago Senator "Jim" Reed of Missouri, exasperated at what he considered the hypocrisy of his Congressional colleagues in both Houses, loosed a measure forbidding the transportation of alcoholic liquors from wet territory into dry.

National Prohibition had not yet been enacted, but the reign of terror was on. A bibulous Congress was passing everything the Drys demanded, while taking care of their individual appetites by bringing the banned sunshine, and moonshine, from wet Baltimore to arid Washington. The Congressmen realized that they had to vote for the Reed amendment, but found comfort in the thought that the President would veto it. But the cynical Reed took care of that. He offered his amendment as a rider to the Post Office Appropriation bill. Woodrow Wilson had to take the wet Senator's dry rebuke to his colleagues or veto a bill necessary to the conduct of the Government. So the satiric rider became the law of the land.

That happening was one of the picturesque examples of the dangers of a system that gives the President of the United States the hard dilemma of vetoing a good law or accepting a bad rider.

It is doubtful if there ever has been passed a measure—such as the Rivers and Harbors bill—that did not carry with its appropriations and provisions the inadvisability of which the simplest common sense could not disregard, but the White House had to connive at the improvement of Wild Goose creek, inserted to solidify some way-back Representative with his constituency, or let the dredging of our most important harbors go by the board.

Pretty nearly all the Presidents have called attention to the waste and other damage that has resulted from the process, without getting anywhere, but it looks as if the anachronism would be corrected this time.

The most recent example of the system of incorporating non-related provisions to necessary measures was the inclusion of the Miller-Tydings amendment in the District of Columbia Tax bill. The added matter had to do with a sort of price-fixing, to avert a form of unfair trade practices. It may be a really meritorious bill—at least there are valid arguments for as well as against it—but it has no more relation to local taxation than the aurora borealis.

Of course, the project of permitting the President to veto individual items of a bill without rejecting the whole of it is hailed by some few of those who see behind every act of Franklin D. Roosevelt a covert seeking of more power, and the old cry of usurpation and abandonment of Congressional functions is once more heard in the land, but that childish nonsense is pretty threadbare now.

The veto of an item means no more than any other veto. Congress could overrule the item veto if a President attempted to block anything that Congress deemed important enough to merit reversal. Moreover, the advantage of having an acceptable law in operation promptly, while any doubtful provision was held in abeyance until Congress acted on a veto, is worth something. It may take a Constitutional amendment to accomplish what ought to be a very simple thing, but to a layman, it would appear that the measure now before Congress, which has already passed the House and apparently will be passed by the Senate shortly, ought to be sufficient. At all events, it will probably put a stop to the practice while the matter is pending in the Supreme Court sustains the act that, of course, settles it. If not, it will undoubtedly be offered to the country as a Constitutional amendment.

The modification of the President's present veto power in this respect is so slight, the necessity for it is so compelling, and the objections to it are so trifling and technical, that it ought not take very long to have the amendment ratified, if it comes down to that.

Up to date, nobody has suggested that the enactment of this reform is going to plunge the country into chaos, destroy American initiative, vitiate the cardinal principles of government, or lead us straight to communism or fascism. However, the administration's opposition has still time to get to work. An outfit that could see in the President's declaration of the iniquity of the holding company system an assault on all business and the wreck of all the operating utility companies may be able to discover something equally invidious in a reform that has been advocated by Presidents of all parties for the better part of a century.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

While I sat in the moving Picture Show I observed the wife of a doctor as she called up her busy husband at the Hospital and urged him to come home. The star taking the leading part in the picture was a very beautiful woman and should have made an attractive wife. After the phone conversation this woman walked to a table and poured out a glass of whiskey and drank it and then she lighted a cigarette and sat down to smoke while she waited for her husband to come home. As I looked at that picture I had many thoughts. What a pity that a beautiful woman would ruin her personality and detract from her character by the use of whiskey and cigarettes. The doctor at the hospital frowned when she urged him to come home to her and when I saw how she prepared herself to await for his coming I was not surprised. No man who is a real man wants to go home to a wife to find her tipsy with whiskey and all fumed with nicotine. There are no wives who if they would make more out of themselves, would not have so much trouble in getting their husbands to come home to be with them.

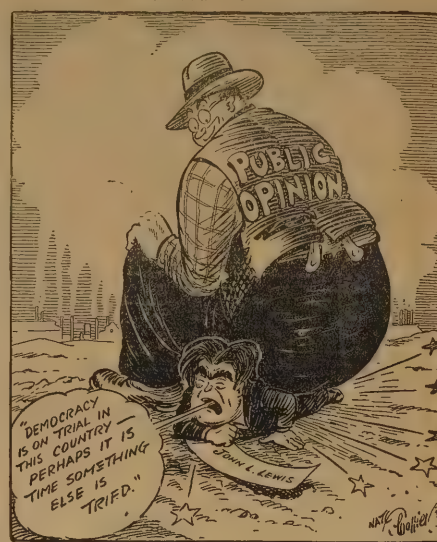

I stationed myself on the street corner a block away from the whiskey store and for a long time I watched carefully the personnel of the folks who entered the whiskey store. During my stay there I did not see one customer who went in to buy who was comfortably clad. I saw men clad in tattered garments as they shambled down the sidewalk and entered the place. State after I saw them come out with a package in their possession. The money spent for whiskey should have been spent for food and clothing. Do I hear you saying, "Yes, but that man was a free citizen. It was his money and he had the right to spend it as he pleased." If that so? Would you give a six month old baby a razor because it was free and had a right to have what it wanted? When people do not have enough sense and enough character to know it is good for them, we have no right to let them do as they please. It is just as guilty before God when we sell a poor deluded man whiskey, as would be a father who gave his crying baby a razor to hush its cries. Shame on us when we fail to let our intelligence function to the good of deluded humanity.

If you want to meet with an "Eye Opener, just sit with a group of deacons, a board of stewards, or a session of elders and study with them the name of people who are members of our different churches and see who are supporting the churches. Many of those who are prominent members, those who spend money freely for pleasure trips, party entertainment, and club gatherings and not a dollar for the church. It is astonishing how often people will be liberal and loyal to other things and yet so stingy and niggardly toward their churches. It is nothing unusual to find well-to-do members in every church whose names do not appear on the treasurer's book of that church. Few things in this world reveal the character of folks more completely than the treasurer's book of a church. You may shine ever so brightly at clubs and in social ways, but if your record is dark on your church register, the darkness that gathers around your real self is dark indeed. The best place to shine is where the real lives.

There was once a bird that was known as the Dodo bird, but it became extinct about the year 1681. This bird had a downy covering, but had no feathers and could not fly. Being the size of the American goose it strolled about and lazily gathered up what it could find to eat. It is said that the reason why the Dodo species went extinct was because the hens refused to lay and sit on their eggs an hatch their young. They grew independent and refused to produce. The cry in America today is that of the American goose. We are clamoring for shorter weeks and increased pay. We want to do as little as we can and get as much as possible. This has produced a Federal waste such as has never been known in any nation before. This is what put the Dodo out of business. Look out this is what will put us out of business also. We have too many Dodo birds covered with down, stalling lazily about gathering up everything in sight and producing nothing.

In mid-ocean the grand old ship, The Republic, was rammed by another ship while they travelled in a dense fog. The vessel striking the Republic drew back into the fog and left for parts unknown. Captain Stealey, who was in command, saw that his ship was fatally injured, and sent his passengers away in boats. Then he gathered his crew to him and said, "Men, there are the remaining boats, lower them and make for safety." His men shouted at him, "But what about you, Captain?" The old man saluted them in military form and replied, "I shall stand by the ship." For a moment there was silence and then a chorus of voices said, "That being so, Captain, we are going to stand by you and the ship." That is what I call loyalty to the last. Some people are loyal as long as money lasts and then they leave us. Some folks will stick until criticism is heard, or until social standing is in danger, and then they leave us. God bless that form of loyalty that will stick until the ship goes down. It was beautiful of Ruth to

Cotton Production Pointers For 1938

Auburn, Ala.—Alabama farmers can make the greatest profit from cotton in 1938 by properly preparing their land, growing the right variety, correctly spacing stalks and using the proper fertilizers.

To help farmers with some of their cotton problems, J. C. Lowery, agronomist, Alabama Extension Service, offers the following suggestions:

1. Break land thoroughly and prepare seedbed so the beds will have time to settle before planting. Avoid planting on fresh, loose seedbeds.
2. Grow varieties producing 7-8 inch staple, or longer.
3. Plant four to six pecks of seed per acre.
4. Space 18 inches in the drill with from two and one-half to four and one-half rows, where liberal applications of fertilizer are used, may vary from two and one-half to four and one-half feet. Under conditions of low fertility, or where only moderate applications are made, the width of rows should not be more than three and one-half feet apart.
5. Apply 35 pounds of nitrogen, 48 pounds of phosphoric acid, and 24 lbs. of potash per acre. These amounts of plant food may be supplied by:
(a) Home-mixing, by using 225 lbs. of nitrate of soda, or the equivalent, 300 pounds superphosphate, and 48 pounds of muriate of potash.
(b) Ready mixed, by using 600 lbs. per acre of 6-8-4 fertilizer.
(c) By using 600 pounds of 4-8-4 with a side dressing of 75 pounds per acre of nitrate of soda, or equivalent, or by using 600 pounds of 3-8-5 with a side dressing of 112 pounds of nitrate of soda, or the equivalent.

Uncle Natchel Wins New Radio Friends

The new Uncle Natchel radio program, sponsored by the Natural Chilean Nitrate folks, is rapidly winning a large audience. Broadcasts began late in November and will continue every week throughout the winter and spring, over leading Southern stations.

Uncle Natchel, played by Frank Wilson, one of America's leading colored actors, takes the star role in this half-hour entertainment, as he has in all previous programs sponsored by the Natural Chilean Nitrate people. His homely "natchel" philosophy is an important part of the broadcast, and the nature story which he tells in every program is a novel feature.

In the dramatic part of the program, Helen Claire, an Alabama girl, who has won star rating on Broadway and whose work in the films has attracted favorable attentions, plays the feminine lead. Her characterizations change with each broadcast.

The public has been quick to sense the naturalness of the Chilean Nitrate program. That quality is one of the distinguishing features of the entertainment, and most favorable comment has been heard on the authenticity with which the all-Southern cast portrays the Old South dramatizations that make up much of each broadcast.

The role of Sonny Miller, who is Uncle Natchel's charge and constant companion, is played by Eddie Ryan, Jr., young son of Virginia parents, who currently is playing in the stage success French Without Tears, in New York. Other members of the cast are Geoffrey Bryant, Leslie Bingham, John Griggs, Virginia Morgan, Adelyne Hood, Helen Walpole, Charles Cantor, who plays various roles, sometimes two and three in one program, is considered one of radio's most versatile performers.

The programs are written by Ethel Park Richardson who came to New York from Nashville, and the musical arrangement and direction are by Frank Wilson.

MRS. JAMES POWELL GIVEN A MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER

Mrs. James Powell, a bride of a recent date, was the honoree at a miscellaneous shower Wednesday afternoon, January 12 at the home of Mrs. Ernest Wilson.

Lovely flowers were tastefully arranged in the living room where the guests assembled. As the guests entered, they registered in the bride's book.

At the conclusion of the display of gifts the hostess, assisted by Mrs. O. N. Williams served tempting refreshments.

Mrs. Powell, who was formerly Miss Rena DeVaughn, has a very charming personality. She and Mr. Powell are unusually popular in church activities.

The many useful and attractive gifts received by the honoree testified to her popularity.

VERMONT CLUB NEWS

The Vermont Club met Thursday, January 2, with an attendance of 30. One of these was a new member. The President opened the meeting by having two songs, led by the Club Song Leader, "Swing Low Sweet Chariot" and "The Church In The Wildwood."

The Club discussed buying 4-H caps for the annual rally. After the discussion a vote passed to purchase the caps.

A potato roast and peanut parching was planned for Friday night, January 21. The Social Committee was in charge of this and everyone expects to have an enjoyable time.

Poultry was discussed as the program. Printed sheets were given to all members pointing out the most important points. Our next meeting will be in February—E.J. Rosenberry, reporter

CHILTON HAS LARGE GOVERNMENT TREE NURSERY

183 ACRES COMPRISE LARGEST FOREST NURSERY IN THE SOUTH

Nursery Near Thorsby Is Only One Actually Owned By The Government; Visitors Are Welcome To Visit Grounds

By Bonnie Hand
Chilton County has a magnificent Pine Tree Nursery. Located west-southwest of Thorsby near the old Birmingham-Montgomery Highway, this nursery displays the pride of every resident of Thorsby and even Chilton County. It is a tract of approximately 183 acres of pine land purchased from citizens of the county by the United States Department of Agriculture for approximately twelve thousand dollars. This work is being furthered by the Soil Conservation Department, which at present employs the Civil Service men, nursery local laborers of this county and CCC enrollees from the CCC Camp at Clanton.

Land Purchased by Government
In the six regional states, which are Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Mississippi and Alabama where nurseries are located, the one at Thorsby is the only one which cannot be the Government-owned being bought and not leased. Although this county loses the taxes heretofore collected on this land, she will benefit in many more ways, and it was through the cooperation of Probate Judge J. Lee Smith and the County Commissioners that this land was purchased.

F. R. Bricksenfelder is Nursery Manager, and it is plainly seen that he really knows his pine trees. A residence is soon to be erected for Mr. Bricksenfelder along with residence for others to be permanently connected with the work. At present four buildings have been erected, and at the time of this writing the work of extracting the seeds from the pine cones was in full swing.

Extracting Seeds Interesting
Four varieties of pines are being planted. The cones are brought here from the southern part of the state. Recently a shipment was received consisting of ten thousand bushels. These cones are placed on racks in the three buildings used for drying them out. A wind-blown machine comes next.

which is circulated through the building by powerful fans. After a sufficient lapse of time these cones are placed in a large net-wire cylinder about 30 feet long by five feet in diameter. This cylinder turns continually and is one inch lower at one end than at the other, causing the cones to gradually work toward the lower end and out of the cylinder. Containers are placed underneath to catch the seeds as they fall from the cones. This process is continued until all seeds are extracted from the cones.

The seeds are then run through machines which clean them of all particles of trash and the "wings." Soon a cold storage house will be erected so that the seeds may be preserved indefinitely. At present they have to be planted almost immediately before decay on the field the seeds are planted, fertilized and cultivated in beds—each bed having about six rows. Pines grow slowly and several months must elapse before they are large enough to be transplanted. They are sent to different parts of the country to be used for the control of erosion—the major purpose of the Soil Conservation Department.

When asked the number of trees they expect to raise this year, Mr. Bricksenfelder stated that they expect to furnish nine million young pine trees for reforestation this year. He stated that work is already underway to install an irrigation system for the coming summer months when rainfall will be scarce. This will consist of a network of pipes covering the fields and water will be used from a nearby creek. A reservoir will soon be built and a huge pump capable of pumping 500 gallons of water per minute will be used.

At present power from trucks are being used to run the machinery, but soon electricity, which will be furnished by the Alabama Power Company, will be installed.

Visitors Welcome

Mr. Bricksenfelder stated that visitors to the project will be welcomed at all times, and that every courtesy will be shown them. However, he requests that visitors do not disturb any of the equipment around the nursery.

A. S. Smith has asked the mayor of Clanton to find her a husband, and she is strong, refined and affectionate.

Hints to Gardeners

by Gilbert Bentley
Flower Expert
Ferry Seed Institute

Flowers and Their Soils

If you have a variety of garden soils available, plant flowers in the soil best suited to them. If your choice of soil is limited, select flowers that will grow most satisfactorily in the soil you have. Recommended soils for popular garden flowers are listed here. Soil nourishment and consistency will be indicated by two letters, such as PC, or MS. The first letter of the combination refers to nourishment, and may be either P, poor; M, medium; or R, rich. The second refers to consistency and may be either C, clayey; M, medium; or S, sandy.

Thus, the recommended soil for morning glory is PS, poor sandy; for pansy, RC, rich clayey. MM soil is medium rich and neither sandy nor clayey predominantly. Some flowers prosper in almost any soil. In such cases, the word "any" is used.

The list of flowers and their soils follows: Ageratum, RM (rich medium); Alyssum, any; Aster, RM; Bachelor's Button, any; Calendula, any; California Poppy, any; Calliopsis, any; Camellia, RM; Cardinal Climber, MS (medium sandy); Chinese Lantern, any; Cockscomb, MM; Columbine, MM; Coreopsis, MM; Cosmos, PS; Delphinium, MM; Dimorphaea, MS; Forget-Me-Not, PC; Four O'Clock, any; Gaillardia, MC; Gypsophila, any; Helianthus, MM; Hollyhock, MS; Larkspur, MM; Lunia, MC; Marigold, RM; Mignonette, MS; Morning Glory, PS; Nasturtium, PM; Pansy, RC or nuck; Petunia, RM; Phlox Drummondii, MM; Poppy, MS; Portulaca, MS; Salvia, RM; Scabiosa, MM; Snapdragon, MC; Stock, RM; Sunflower, MS; Sweet Pea, MC; Sweet Sultan, MM; Sweet William, MM; Verbena, RM; Vinca Rosa, any; Zinnia, RM.

Soil richness is indicated by the growth produced. Rich soil gives lush growth, an abundance of foliage at the expense of flowering.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

An announcement of wide interest in Chilton County today is that made by Mr. and Mrs. John Henry McClure of the engagement of their daughter, Janie, to Robert Atkins Leland, of San Francisco. Miss McClure has made a large circle of friends since she came here two years ago from the West Coast and has been a popular and attractive addition to Clanton's social and musical circles.

On her maternal side, Miss McClure is connected with the Faulkner family of Alabama, her great-grandfather having been Judge Faulkner, prominent in the early history of Montgomery. Her great-uncle, Jefferson Faulkner, will be remembered for having been instrumental in the founding of the State's Home for Confederate Veterans and giving the land for its location. On her paternal side, Miss McClure's family has been long outstanding in Cullman County. Her father is a retired Railroad official, having been general freight and passenger agent for the Southern Pacific Company for a number of years. Since his retirement, he has returned to Alabama to make his home and Chilton County is most fortunate to number this family among its residents.

Miss McClure received her education at the University of Arizona, Colorado College, and the University of California and later at the University of Grenoble in Grenoble, France. She also spent some time in Italy studying voice. Her travels have been extensive in this country and abroad.

Mr. Leland is of a family prominent in both New England and the West. His father, W. S. Leland, held an important post at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology for several years and later founded Engineering Firms in San Francisco and Los Angeles. Mr. Leland is associated with his father in business. He is a graduate of Leland Stanford University.

Mr. and Mrs. McClure will leave Alabama February 1, to attend their daughter's wedding, which is to take place on February 26, in San Francisco.

MRS. ROBERTS HOSTESS TO MUSIC CLUB TUES.

Mrs. Barney Roberts was hostess to the Music Appreciation Club last Tuesday afternoon.

A delightful program of music by the two composers, Nevin and MacDowell, was given by the following club members: Mrs. Ross, Mrs. Glasscock, our new member, Mrs. Parnell of Maplesville and a guest, Miss Ruth Shepherd.

At the business meeting each member pledged to give a crepe myrtle bush to the drive that is being made to beautify the highway. Mrs. Grady Hefflin was appointed as our representative to the committee that is being formed of representatives of all the local clubs to work for the formation of a public library.

Mrs. Ross and Mrs. Reid Mullins were chosen as a committee in charge of the Music Extension Library.

burn, Ala.—By growing forage grain, Alabama farmers can make production a permanent source of income, advises F. W. Burns, extension livestock specialist.
For growing requires less preparation expense, less equipment, and capital turnover than most other
"livestock," he says.
While most markets will take hogs at any weight and conformation, most is usually paid for well-bred hogs weighing from 180 to 240 pounds, he says, in giving four suggestions for successful hog production:
1. 5 per cent of the cost of making the feed. A succession of forage crops, including oats, soybeans, and ei-corn or peanuts, will materially reduce the cost of pork production in the state of Alabama.
2. Hog health determines profit or loss. Hogs that are diseased or harbor parasites require more feed to make

LOW COST SOIL INSURANCE
PROVIDED BY LOCAL AREA

Conservation farming practices in the Soil Conservation Service area near Clanton, Ala., are providing farmers with low cost "insurance" against loss of their farming "capital," the soil, according to Mr. Wood.
The premium farmers pay for this form of insurance is in the form of labor involved in constructing and maintaining effective terraces, improving pasture sod, setting up good crop rotations, planting summer and winter cover crops, properly managing their woodland, and arranging their whole farming plan to give the most effective control of erosion, he explained.
The use of strip rotations is one of the outstanding forms of soil insurance, Mr. Wood said. Woods protected against fire and overgrazing prevent soil washing on the steeper slopes.
Permanent hay meadows and good pasture and sod give protection to soil of other slopes, and strips of close-growing crops, combined with terraces and contour cultivation provide bulwarks against erosion in cultivated fields.
Like premiums on many other forms of insurance, these soil insurance premiums often pay large dividends in addition to the protection they afford.
Mr. Wood said. Properly managed woodland provides many valuable wood products, sod crops and meadows which protect the land against erosion also provide grazing and hay, and legumes used in rotations build up the fertility of the soil and promote increased yields at the same time they protect the soil against erosion.

Apple Tapioca Scores
As Winter Dessert

WINTER is the season for oven dinners. This means that apple tapioca which can be baked while the main part of the dinner is in the oven is popular with the housewife, for it eliminates a top of the stove dessert and makes double use of the oven heat.
Children and husbands also approve the appearance of apple tapioca, for this combination of apples, tapioca, brown sugar and spice, provides a glorified version of an otherwise plain dessert. The tested recipe follows:
Baked Apple Tapioca
3 cups water
2 tablespoons lemon juice
3 tart apples, pared and sliced
1 cup quick cooking tapioca
1 cup light brown sugar, firmly packed
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon mace
3 tablespoons melted butter
Combine water and lemon juice and pour over apples in greased shallow baking dish. Cover and bake in moderate oven (375° F.) 15 minutes, or until apples are partially cooked. Mix together quick cooking tapioca, 1/2 cup sugar, salt and mace. Sprinkle over apples, mixing thoroughly. Add melted butter.
Continue baking 10 minutes. Then stir well, sprinkle remaining sugar over apple mixture, and bake 5 minutes longer. Serve hot or cold with cream.
Yield: 6 servings.

FERTILIZER HIGH IN Potash

A HEALTHY start in life is half the battle. Plants, like animals, need plenty of food to get the vigorous start which will help them to ward off diseases and other harmful factors. Experiment stations have found that cotton particularly needs plenty of potash. Cotton fertilizers applied at the rate of 400-600 pounds per acre should contain from 6-10% potash to insure young plants receiving enough of this necessary plant food. Where rust and wilt occur, 8-10% potash should be used.
Later in the growing season, more potash can be added in a nitrogen-potash top-dresser, if required.
Consult your county agent or experiment station about the fertility of your soil. See your fertilizer dealer about the right amount of potash in your fertilizer. Write us for further information and literature.

That's What I Think

—Saul M. Goldstein

"Parting is such sweet sorrow. That I could say goodbye 'til it be morrow."
—Shakespeare.

This is no lover's fond farewell, or brief parting; yet there comes a time when even the coldest, most practical business man must find it a solace to be sentimental. The departure of a man from one city to another is hardly to be compared with the brief separation of the world's two greatest lovers, Romeo and Juliet, as suggested in the quotation above; still there is some analogy.

Fifteen months residence in a city is a brief period in a man's lifetime, and in the existence of a community; and so brief was the few months acquaintance between the young couple, but Shakespeare's part seemed to form a love that knew no barrier—not even that of death.

I have lived here but fifteen months and that is a brief time by all measurement, but it has been long enough to make my leaving a step decided and I shall not regret, on leaving, as I said, to leave within the bounds of a community without that community being part and parcel of him, and to leave it is to leave something behind that cannot be measured in dollars and cents.

That fifteen months has been long enough to see a County Fair an established reality in Chilton County; to see a first-class airport part of the city's accommodations; to see the initial steps being taken to provide a Free Public Library, with a promise that soon will be a reality in a short time; to promise of contract awards on a paved highway leading toward Lay Dam. It has been long enough to cover an era of prosperity with twelve-cent cotton, and an era of recession with the price dropping as low as seven and a half cents. It has been long enough to see many children born and many adults die; but mainly it has been long enough to make parting difficult.

I leave shortly for another city, where what I feel to be a greater personal opportunity beckons me. I shall not leave the place, and it has been a great pleasure—of putting my thoughts on paper in the News each week after this issue; unless the Editor desires to take a mail contribution card; once in a while; but I shall always be interested in Clanton, and I can say, on leaving, as I said, in advance, that it is destined for a great future; how soon that greatness will arrive is dependent only on the activity of the citizens here.

Alabama is still home to me, so I shall not say goodbye, but merely "Au Revoir."

C.C.H.S. Alumni Ass'n Plans Are Being Made

For some time discussion has been under way by various former students at Chilton County High School relative to the organization of an Alumni Association for that institution.

There are hundreds of old grads and former students at C.C.H.S. who, no doubt, would be glad to see such an organization in existence. I you have attended Chilton County High School at any time in the past turn this matter over in mind and see what you think of it.

If there is enough interest shown among local prospective members, a meeting will be called in the near future, to draw up proper rules and regulations, set fees, name an annual Homecoming Day, and attend to other matters of this kind, including the election of necessary officers for this year.

Look for announcement about this matter, and if and when a meeting is called, be sure you attend. The local organization will be perfected at this meeting, after which an attempt will be made to enlist every former student at Chilton High.

The school needs the help of such an organization, and, no doubt, every student of Chilton County wants to be a member and do his or her share to help in keeping their alma mater one of the greatest schools of its kind in Alabama and the nation.

FORD OFFERS TWO NEW CARS and keeps their PRICES LOW

THERE are two new Ford cars for 1938—the De Luxe and the Standard—differing in appearance, appointments and price—but built on the same dependable Ford chassis.

Both bring you the basic advantages of a V-type 8-cylinder power-plant—smooth performance and compact design. The De Luxe Ford has the 85-horsepower engine. The Standard Ford provides a choice of 85 or 60 horsepower.

Both new cars are economical to operate. The Standard, with thrifty "60" engine, costs less to run than any other Ford car ever built.

And both new cars are priced low. Low price, like economy, is a Ford tradition. Ford founded the low-price field 30 years ago and keeps Ford prices low.

The De Luxe Ford costs slightly more than the Standard Ford, but provides more style with extra room in the closed sedans. Both cars, in proportion to price, represent unusual values. Both are built to the same high standard of mechanical excellence. There's a dealer near you.

THORSBY JR. HIGH SCHOOL DEFEATS MT. PLEASANT 19-17

On last Friday afternoon the Thorsby Jr. High cagers invaded the Mt. Pleasant court and forthwith proceeded to crack their enviable record of no defeat by defeating them 19-17.

The game opened with neither team showing the speed and pass-work they are capable of, but as it progressed, things really began to take on color.

At the end of the first quarter the Mt. Pleasant boys held a 5 to 0 lead, with the Thorsby team making little effort to score, but confining the play to strict defense. The second quarter found both teams making concerted efforts to register points, thus bringing the first half to a close with the home team still leading by the score of 12 to 8.

As the second half began, both teams entered with a real spirit to win. The Thorsby quintet began driving a wedge into the four point lead and soon pulled to a tie. At this point of the game the Mt. Pleasant players tallied four points to Thorsby 1 to close out the third quarter leading 16 to 3. The first quarter was filled with tension and excitement for the Thorsby defense clamped down and prevented further scoring except a foul shot. They then went to work and scored two field goals and with two minutes to play, the Thorsby team gained possession of the ball, and with the scoreboard pointing out a 17-17 tie, Kincaid dribbled up 8 feet from the center mark and with set muscles, and dead-eye accuracy, gave the ball a looping twirl, high up into the air, and floating beautifully it traveled to the backboard and with apparent magnetic attraction it fell through the hoop for the winning margin over Coach Curley's swift-breaking and undefeated team. It was one of those rare games which was hard to lose, but which was scored to the team most deserving.

The Mt. Pleasant players made a courageous effort to keep their record sheet clean, but they failed in a hard, slick game, but the visiting team simply played a better game the last two quarters, scoring 11 points to Mt. Pleasant 5. Daniel was high point man for Mt. Pleasant, looping the ball for 7 points, while Hayes was hawking 14 for Thorsby.

On next Tuesday night, February 1, Coach Veazey will bring his Vermont boys to Thorsby to play the latter. This will be the first game between these two teams this season. Thorsby goes to Vermont for the return game on Friday afternoon, February 18.

day so appointed for the hearing thereof is hereby given to you.

ALABAMA ODDITIES

BITS OF ODD FACTS ABOUT ALABAMA AND HER PEOPLE

BY Clint Bonner

For all these years you and I have lived in Dixie. We love the South, and like our fathers before us, we never give serious thought to leaving the sunny Southland for an other section (at the time of this writing the thermometer is hovering slightly above 10 degrees). There is something, which isn't in the dictionary, that just binds us here—but, through all these years we have referred to and heard our neighbors from the North, East and West refer to, our home as "Dixie," but did it ever occur to you that the original "Dixieland" is probably New York City?—Just whence comes this word "Dixie" anyway?

There are three schools, with three different contentions on that subject. There are those who claim that the word had its origin from Dixon, of Mason and Dixon fame. Others claim that it comes from the "Dix" bill, issued some hundred years ago to a New Orleans bank. These ten dollar notes are said to have been the only legitimate bank notes issued by a Southern banking house of that period—that is, they were actually worth their face value—the "Dix" being printed in large letters on one side, meaning "ten" for the French, and "TEN" on the other side for the English speaking citizens. The origin of this Dix bill being the South, some contend that our section soon became known as the "Land of the Dixies"—then "Dixieland."

ALABAMA ODDITIES

BY CLINT BONNER

But, to me, the third school seems to say the least of it, a more romantic explanation. According to tradition there lived many years ago on Manhattan Island a prominent slave owner by the name of Dixie. This Mr. Dixie's plantation is said to have been a literal paradise for his Negroes. The work was easy, the master gentle and considerate. There was even time for

IN MEMORY OF JAMES VERNON

As little Vernon went to school, and also read the word of God.

Little Vernon with a smile,
Seemed to enjoy the path he trod.
And Vernon when around the place,
Seemed to want to do something worthwhile.

Now, Vernon, mother misses your little face
That wore the sweetest smile.

There is a vacant place in the home
That no one can fill,
But God always wants us
To be submissive to His will.
It seemed so hard to take him,
And put him under the cold clay,
But we want to meet you, little Vernon,
Up in Heaven some sweet day.

But as we returned home,
You, little Vernon, we could not see,
But God in His goodness knew best for you.

And he knows best for me.

Hints to Gardeners

by Harm Dreves
Vegetable Expert
Ferry Seed Institute

Locating Vegetable Crops

GARDENERS can usually grow a fairly good crop of vegetables in almost any kind of soil, as long as there is good sunlight and moisture.

This is fortunate, as some gardeners have little choice of soil, and must use the small plots at their disposal. Crops of best quality and high productivity can be produced, however, when the soil best suited to a vegetable is used.

For those who have various kinds of soil available, or for those who wish to grow only vegetables that are suited to the soil they must use, the following suggestions are presented:

In heavy or clayey soils grow beans, beets, broccoli, Brussels sprouts, cabbage, cauliflower, chicory, corn, kale, peas, pumpkin, rhubarb, spinach, squash, Swiss chard and rutabaga.

DENTAL CARE PROBLEMS DISCUSSED BY HEALTH DR.

Fully 60 per cent of the elementary school children of Chilton County have one or more decayed teeth, it was pointed out today by Dr. S. D. Sturkie, local county health officer. A summary of physical defects occurring in 1388 grade school children in 1935-1936 reveals that 760 or 54.6 per cent had decayed teeth, according to the health officer.

"Failure of parents to provide regular dental care for their children is largely responsible for this situation," said Dr. Sturkie. In order to insure sound well formed teeth in the child, the mother should take precautions even before the child is born during prenatal period by consuming large quantities of milk and other foods rich in calcium or lime. Beginning early during the pre-school period, the child should be given a well balanced diet including milk, cod liver oil and orange juice. A visit to the dentist should be made at least by the end of the second year and thereafter regular visits should be made at least once a year. Not only can small incipient cavities be detected early and filled, thereby saving the tooth, but valuable instruction in the proper method of brushing teeth can be obtained. A common mistake among parents is to regard as unimportant cavities in the "baby" teeth. Leading dental authorities, however, now emphasize the importance of care of the "baby" teeth. The premature loss of a baby tooth often results in improper alignment and development of the permanent teeth."

"We are handicapped in our efforts to make progress in remedying this situation, added the local health officer," by the fact that many parents are not financially able to pay the cost of dental care for their children. In order to surmount this obstacle a plan is being considered to establish a free dental clinic in Clanton for needy school children of the county. Interest in this plan has been manifested by a majority of dentists throughout the County."

FARMERS TOLD HOW TO STOP "HARDWARE HEART" OF COWS

Auburn, Ala.—"Hardware-heart, or traumatic pericarditis, causing the death of thousands of valuable cows each year, could be prevented if farmers would devote a day to picking up nails, broken glass, and sharp metallic objects around their cow lots, says a warning issued by Dr. I. S. McDady, State Veterinarian.

Cows are like crows in their liking for bright, shiny, or odd-shaped articles, which they pick up and swallow, he says. These articles, such as nails, fence staples, buckles, wire, feed tags, and broken glass, lodge in the cow's "second" stomach. From there they penetrate forward into the heart causing the death of the animal.

"Symptoms of hardware heart are loss of flesh, lack of appetite, painful breathing, stiff, cautious movements, and sometimes a large swelling of the brisket," says the statement.

"Valuable animals can sometimes be saved by an operation, but it is difficult to perform, and the death rate from the operation is high. A veterinarian should be called immediately, if a cow shows any of the above symptoms."

Cattle should always be penned away when carpenter work is being done, and should be latched from old lumber piles, dump heaps, and debris, the warning suggests.

reputation of fair dealings has made many friends for him.

"I am the repeal candidate," Mr. Walker states to the News this week. "And I stand for the repeal of laws that are objectionable to the people and that were passed during the past Legislature. Especially am I in favor of the repeal of the Chilton County road laws," he continued. "If I am elected I will not pass any local laws until I have found that by a vote a majority of citizens voting in the county on local laws say they want the laws passed. And I shall be a true representative of the people."

Mr. Walker will no doubt have a statement other than this to make to the people at a later date.

citizens of the county. His hundreds of friends know there has been no criticism of the stands he has taken in regard to matters affecting the county's government. He has been praised for the work he has done in his district and has always taken a leading interest in his community schools and churches. He is a resident of the progressive Isabella community.

Mr. Oden has oftentimes gone out of his way to aid financially and with his time in work that tends toward progress for his community and country. He is the type of man who thoroughly enjoys these things.

At a later date, Mr. Oden stated, he would have other statements to make to the voters of the county prior to the primary election next May. In the meantime, he stated, he would not allow his race nor commission to interfere with his present duties in that office.

Miss Ione Cox had as her guest last week end Miss Mary Stern from Anniston and Miss Gertrude Vinson from Seale, Alabama. They all three attend Montevallo College.

the entire state.

His initiative in working out problems facing the educational system of the county and his aid in problems of the state, have attracted wide attention. Other county superintendents have even followed many of Mr. Little's ideas and suggestions finding them to be most helpful.

Mr. Little is entirely too well known over the county for the News to attempt to tell the people who he is. He is well liked. His term of office has been most successful and has shown the citizens of Chilton County that the educational system can be kept free from politics and criticism through proper management. And that kind of management usually works to the best interest of the schools and education in general.

Free Of Debt

A recent financial statement of the Board of Education of Chilton County submitted by Mr. Little, showed that this county could boast of an educational system that was free of any back debts and was meeting the payrolls on time. Many counties of the state have not been so fortunate. This condition of Chilton County's schools is attributed to the proper management given by Mr. Little as superintendent and his board members.

Shows Progress

Progress has been most outstanding during Mr. Little's term as superintendent. And, during this progressive administration, there has not been the slightest sign of criticism.

affairs and knows the problems of the farmers as he has been an outstanding farmer of the Isabella community for a number of years. He stated to the News that he believed his past record of service to his county in any capacity he has been placed would warrant the support of the voters in placing him in the Commission of the Court of this county. He also stated he would make another statement to the people at a later date.

"To the Voters of Chilton County: In announcing as a candidate for commissioner of the second district, I wish to say to the voters of the county that this is my first time to ask for any public office.

"If I am elected to this office I will do the right thing at all times, in dealing with the county's affairs, if I know what right is.

"I shall put forth my most efficient service in helping to spend the taxpayers' money, that every taxpayer will feel the benefit of his money.

"Your support in the coming primary will be appreciated and I shall endeavor to prove it so, by my dealings with your affairs.

"Respectfully,
"ARTHUR J. LECROY."

General A. A. Carmichael, E. Homer Brooks, Birmingham, and Representative R. F. Hammer, of Selma. Neither Parrish nor Hammer have qualified with Secretary of State Howell Turner, but are expected to do so this week. Other candidates to qualify were John Brantford, treasurer, to succeed Turner who will be opposed by George Cameron, Tuscaloosa, for Secretary of State; Judge Charles E. McCall, state auditor, for state treasurer. Dr. H. G. Camp, Jasper, has signified his intention to oppose Turner for state Auditor, and a handful of other possible aspirants are marking time.

Though Sparks and Dixon and other prospective candidates for Governor have expressed the belief that the Alcoholic Beverage Control act should be altered to provide more stringent regulations to protect so-called "dry" counties, their statements are not construed as criticism of the Graves' administration or the ABC board. On numerous occasions during the past five months the Governor and officials of the ABC board have pointed out flaws in the law and acknowledged the need for legislative remedies. Only last week Gov. Graves announced that officers of the State Highway Patrol would be mustered into service to enforce prohibition in "dry" counties as well as stamp out gambling throughout the State.

LOCAL HEALTH DEPT. WAGING FINE BATTLE

Work Among Schools Will Be One Of Outstanding
1938 Objectives

An intensive drive by the local health department to immunize Chilton County's school population against smallpox and diphtheria was to begin early this week, it was revealed in a release by Dr. S. D. Sturkie, county health officer. Plans for a visit to each school for the purpose of offering protection against the diseases to the children have already been drawn up. "Special emphasis will be laid on the smallpox vaccination, declared the health officer. Only a small percentage of the children in the County having been successfully vaccinated against this dread disease.

"There is no justification for the abnormal fear of the smallpox vaccination manifested by some parents," stated the local health officer. "The method of vaccination employed today is quite a harmless procedure attended with only mild local and systemic reaction. Despite the limited prevalence of smallpox today, there is still need for everyone to be protected against this one-time universal scourge. Only recently twenty cases of smallpox were reported in Talladega County. Infants should receive the vaccination at one year of age, again prior to school entrance, and thereafter every 5 to 7 years. Vaccination at an early age has the advantage of being attended with less risk of secondary infection.

"In several Alabama counties," said Dr. Sturkie in conclusion, "the smallpox vaccination has been made compulsory among school children. It is hoped that in Chilton County parents will be sufficiently cooperative so that there will be no necessity for adopting such a regulation locally."

MAYOR SEEKS PAYMENT BACK ASSESSMENTS

Letter Of Interest To All Citizens Mailed To Property Owners

Mayor Jones has mailed the following letter to all property owners who have not finished paying assessments, and due to the information contained in the letter, and believing that this information is of vital interest to the citizens of the city, the News has taken the liberty of publishing the letter. Mayor Jones advised the News that if the assessments had been paid, the city would forego ahead with proposed improvements. The letter follows:

"You are one of several citizens who have not finished paying the assessment placed on your property thirteen years ago for sidewalk and street improvements. This debt is an obligation of the City authorized in the bonds, but your property is directly liable for it.

"Two years ago I made a special effort to collect all these assessments, and did collect more than $13,000, but this sum is unpaid $17,000. Only about $8,000 of this is due by individuals, and the balance will have to be paid out of the general funds when the money is available. Your part of the $8,000 is the amount I am asking you to pay now. I appreciate very much the splendid cooperation given me when the $13,000 was due. Such a large collection as that in so short a time, and with no very little unpleasantness, is certainly a compliment to the people who paid it.

"Only one piece of property was advertised for sale. The sale was ordered made for the simple reason the property owner ignored, by absolute silence, every appeal I made to him for understanding when he would pay, or if he wished his property to sell for the amount due, and no word came until after the property was advertised, then he paid.

"I wish to call your attention to the fact that the debts made against the City fifteen and twenty years ago, and unpaid today, are deterring the City now in paying the streets and doing much needed improvement. Suppose we did not have the $17,000 mentioned, and the $25,000 for the (Continued to Back Page)

ANOTHER FAIR FOR COUNTY IS BEING PLANNED

CLYDE SIMS IS CANDIDATE FOR COMMISSIONER

Well Known Jemison Man Seeks Place From
District No. 1

Another candidate on the Democratic ticket, comes into the political picture this week in the announcement by T. C. (Clyde) Sims, of Jemison, that he is seeking a place as member of the Commissioners Court from District Number One.

This is the first time Mr. Sims has sought a public office. He is well known having been a resident of the county for a number of years and has been connected in the mercantile business. For some time now, he has been connected with the road department of the county and through this place has gained considerable experience in road construction which is added to by former work along this line.

A statement to the voters from Mr. Sims, which gives more in detail of his life and intentions, follows:

"To the People of Chilton County:

"In declaring myself a candidate for the place as Commissioner of District No. 1, and as such a member of the Commissioner's Court of Chilton County, Alabama, I am offering myself, not as a master but as a servant of the people—to serve the interests of all the people of Chilton County to the best of my ability and understanding, and without committing in any manner.

Saul Golustein Will Leave Clanton Soon

Clanton will lose one of its most outstanding citizens this week, when Saul M. Golustein, manager of Mazer's Dept. Store, leaves for Evansville, Indiana, to become engaged in business in one of the larger stores in that city.

Democrats Present A Solid Front

(An Editorial)

Recent meetings of Democrats of Chilton County have been most enthusiastic and encouraging, throwing into oblivion any comments that this political party is not as strong as it has been in recent years.

The Democratic Party of Chilton County will present a solid front in the elections this year just as it has over the state and nation during recent years.

This is strongly evidenced by the great amount of interest being shown in this county and by the early group of candidates who are now in the field, with many more to come. Many of these men have never sought a public office before and now, in aspiring to public office, they place their names on the ticket of the party that is strongest.

That in itself, is sufficient evidence that the Democratic party of Chilton County is much stronger than it was in the years of 1934 and 1936 when the voters gave that ticket an overwhelming majority.

Another thought worth mentioning to the voters of the county is the fine calibre of men who are offering themselves as candidates on the Democratic ticket this year, and others are to announce.

Truly, the Democratic party of Chilton County is more united and stronger than in many, many years before. The voters of Chilton County are helping the South remain the solid South and safe for democracy.

Winners Named In "Who's Who" Contest

Large Number Of Entries In "Who's Who In Chilton" County's Business World Contest Causes Judges
To Do Considerable Thinking On Decisions

The "Who's Who In Chilton County's Business World" contest which opened last week, sponsored by the Chilton County News and leading firms of Chilton County, attracted wide attention as was indicated by the large number of entries in the contest.

Winners Are Announced

This was a most novel contest and while the four winners of the cash prizes were almost perfect in information, other entries denote that several of Chilton County's business men are not any too well known. The page containing the pictures of local business people appears in the News again this week with the correct name of each person and the name of the firm he or she represents.

Winners in the contest are: First Prize, Miss Edith Mae Jones, Clanton; Second Prize to Maurice Wyatt, Clanton; Third Prize to Mrs. Willie Hayes, South Clanton and Fourth Prize to Mrs. Jim Roberts, Clanton.

Honorable Mentions

The contest was carefully judged by disinterested parties who prefer their names not to be known, and according to the amount of study they went through with in making decisions, they had some close calls. In the final winding up, the following entrants were deserving of Honorable Mention for apparent worth while efforts:

Miss Reita Thomas, B. W. Farley, Miss Antonette Smith, Miss Maude Hester Mahan, Miss Maxine Nelson, Miss Louise Sanson.

If the prize winners will call by the News office Saturday, they will be given the prizes. The winning entries are on display in the News office.

Legion Post Resumes Activities In County

A special meeting of the Chilton County Post of The American Legion which was held at the courthouse last Sunday afternoon, was attended by a large and enthusiastic crowd. The meeting was called by the post commander, Vaughn McKee.

Several important business matters were discussed and it was decided to hold another meeting on next Monday night, February 7th, at seven o'clock at the courthouse. Commander McKee is urging all ex-service men to be present at this meeting.

A CORRECTION

In the advertisement of the Hill Grocery Co., of Clanton, which appeared in the News last week, the item of sugar was listed as ten pounds for 25 cents. This was an error on the part of the News. The price should have read 52 cents. The News regrets the error and trusts no one was inconvenienced.

According to a statement filed with the Secretary of State it cost Lister Hill $9,364.84 to be nominated for United States Senator in the Democratic primary held on January 4.

CHAMBER COMMERCE AIDING IN BROADCAST

Clanton and Chilton County will be advertised to the world on next Thursday morning, February 10th when the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce, in cooperation with radio station WAFB, comes to Clanton to engage in an hour's broadcast about this thriving Chilton County metropolis.

Selected as one of the ten cities of Alabama for these broadcasts, Clanton should and does, feel honored in being a member of the group.

While a definite program has not yet been arranged completely, it is understood that the Clanton Kiwanis Club, cooperating with Mayor C. Fean Jones and the city council, has taken a large part of the program arrangement.

Band To Be Here

With approximately thirty members of the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce, will come the large band of the Avondale Mills dressed in full uniform, to furnish musical numbers during the hour broadcast.

J. Mell Martin, secretary of the Kiwanis Club, stated that tentative plans call for the club to be host at a luncheon honoring the Birmingham business men who will pay a visit to Clanton Thursday.

The program, which is being sponsored by the following firms of Birmingham is entirely different and will be a big boost for Clanton and Chilton County and the public is invited and urged to be in Clanton on Thursday. The broadcast will take place from eleven-thirty Thursday morning until twelve-thirty o'clock.

The following firms of Birmingham who have dealers in Clanton, cooperating with the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce, are responsible for this program: the Cosby-Hodges Milling Company, Perfection Mattress Company, Buffalo Rock Bottling Company, Alabama Packing Company, Moore-Handley Hardware Co., Alabama Appliance Company, Birmingham Stove & Range Co., and all their dealers in Clanton.

A more detailed program will be given in next week's paper.

Another Democrat In The Senate

Last week when Frederick Steiwer, Republican, of Oregon, resigned his seat in the United States Senate he paved the way for the appointment of another Democrat to the upper house of Congress. Senator Steiwer has been a forceful Republican leader, and made the keynote speech at the 1936 party convention in Cleveland. Governor Martin of Oregon, a Democrat, yesterday announced the appointment of Alfred Evan Reames, a Democrat, to fill Senator Steiwer's unexpired term. The breaks are just not with the Republicans.—The Montgomery Advertiser.

The Use Of Words

How often do we find difficulty in thinking of just the right word to express a certain idea? Even the best writers must often stop to weigh their words in order to hit upon the most appropriate one, while few speakers can observe all the niceties of expression without writing out their speech and memorize it beforehand.

This is not due to any lack of words in the English language, however. Possibly it may be a result of having too many to choose from. The latest unabridged dictionaries contain more than 400,000 words, and the list is increasing constantly.

Noah Webster's first dictionary, published in 1828, contained only 70,000 words; the edition of 1864 included 114,000, and that of 1890 about 175,000 as compared with the 400,000 recognized words today.

Yet President Wilson, who was one of the foremost masters of English, in 75 public addresses used a total of only 6,221 different words. In three of his published books, however, he used about 40,000. This shows that vastly more words are used in writing than in speaking.

A leading lexicographer estimates that the educated person of fair ability understands on the average about 50,000 words, but uses only a small part of that number in either speaking or writing. The mass of people know and use less than 8,000 words out of the 400,000 available.

An Unwise Boycott

Impulsive action is always ill-advised, even when taken conscientiously. A case in point is the attempt of certain groups to wage a boycott on silk as a means of expressing disapproval of Japan's campaign in China. If disapproval is to be expressed, it should be through our wise and able State Department.

Private boycotts would have little if any effect upon the distressing situation in Asia. But a refusal to use silk would bring unemployment and misery to some 120,000 workers in our American silk mills.

The silk in a dollar pair of stockings costs only from 8 to 15 cents, the rest going for American wages, manufacturing costs and distribution. Much of the same is true of silk ties and underwear.

Japan is our third best customer, out-ranked only by England and Canada. We sell one and a half times as much goods to Japan as we buy from her. In 1937 Japan bought about $290,000,000 worth of our goods, including more than $65,000,000 worth of cotton and about $40,000,000 worth of oil products.

Any direct action by private citizens against Japan will not only hamper our State Department in its efforts to accomplish what we want without plunging us into war, but it will disrupt another important American industry without obtaining the results which honest and sincere people desire.

Many a war here would shrink from acting as judge at a baby show.

The Road To The Cemetery

When the final and official figures are tabulated, it will probably be found that the automobile death toll in 1937 reached a new all-time record, exceeding the 1936 slaughter with its 37,000 victims.

There is no reason for being surprised at the continued increase. Each year cars are made faster and more powerful—and a dangerous percentage of them become the property of drivers who couldn't be trusted to operate a bicycle safely. Roadways and surfaces are improved, thus offering a new temptation to excessive speed. And the number of accidents in which John Barleycorn is a factor tends to rise steadily.

This doesn't mean that the automobile accident toll cannot be reduced. It can be—but it is going to take action, not words. The individual responsibility of each motorist when he slides behind the wheel of a projectile weighing a ton or two and capable of doing eighty miles an hour, must be driven home. Law enforcement must be strengthened. The "fixer" of traffic violations must be eliminated. It must be realized that driving a car on the public highway is a privilege, not a right to be abused—and license laws must be more stringent. Finally, there must be swift and sure punishment for the reckless or drunken driver.

There are several hundred thousand graves in this country that constitute mute testimony to our past laxity in controlling the automobile. Unless public demand forces a change, you may fill one of the thousand of new graves that, figuratively speaking, will be dug by motorists in the years to come.

Welcome To Georgia!

We always thought that a state that could produce Eugene Talmadge, marble, Margaret Mitchell, some of the finest peach ice cream in the world, undoubtedly the worst corn whisky and Henry McElmore must be apart from others in this glorious Union of ours.

Justification for this belief has come. Georgia, technically at least, cannot be considered a part of the Union. Perhaps purposely, perhaps accidentally, the first Georgia Legislature forgot to ratify the first 10 amendments to the Constitution of the United States, including the bill of rights.

Georgia, however, will ratify the matter this week on the occasion of the state's sesquicentennial and solemnly go about the long-neglected business of ratifying the first 10 amendments to the constitution at ceremonies to be held next week at Augusta.

Despite the fact that it still remains for itself the eighteenth amendment which the majority of other states have seen fit to repeal, and has other shortcomings, it is well to know that Georgians will soon have a bill of rights like the rest of us, under which they may enjoy the pursuit of life, liberty, and happiness.

We had long regarded Georgia as our sister state, and can really see no reason why she should not be admitted to the Union. And so we welcome Georgia.—Mobile Press.

Fire Is Everybody's Business

Closed by fire!

At frequent intervals that happens to American factories and other places of business. Guttered buildings, empty windows, a litter of ash and rubbish—these are all that remain of a once-busy enterprise.

In all probability, the actual physical loss is wholly or largely covered by insurance. But that doesn't mean the "fire bill" is paid. Far from it—for the indirect costs of fire are several times as great as the direct costs.

When a business establishment is gutted it no longer pays its normal taxes. Its employees are discharged. Their purchasing power is brought to an abrupt stop. They are no longer able to pay rent and bills. Many of them may leave the town to search for employment elsewhere. Others become burdens on the community, looking to charity or relief for support. Every merchant, every professional man, every citizen feels the adverse effects of empty pay envelopes.

Thus a large fire touches us all. Its consequences extend throughout the entire community. In time, the building may be replaced, new machinery installed, and men again given jobs. But in the meanwhile, the community has suffered an irrevocable loss in wages, taxes and business turnover.

Fire is your business and everybody's business. If you think a blaze that destroys someone else's property doesn't hurt you, you were never more mistaken in your life. For all of us pay the bill for fire—and all of us reap the benefits when fire loss is reduced.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

We made a hundred mile trip through the country on a cold December day. The wind was blowing a gale out of the North and ice was forming on every water stream. On the journey we passed not less than one hundred country homes. We started to study the premises of each home to see how many of them had as much as a day's supply of wood in readiness for the fireplace, and, believe it or not, there were not as many as a dozen homes on the journey that had any wood at all in sight. It was evident that no preparation had been made for cold weather. The families knew that cold weather was sure to come, but seemingly they had said to themselves, "We will provide as the necessity comes." For some reason that is the rule of life, for not less than fifty per cent of the human race. We do not prepare for cold weather until it comes. We do not prepare for hard times until they arrive. We do not even prepare for death until it is just at the door. The time to provide wood is while it is warm. The time to save money is when we have it. The time to get ready to die is while we live.

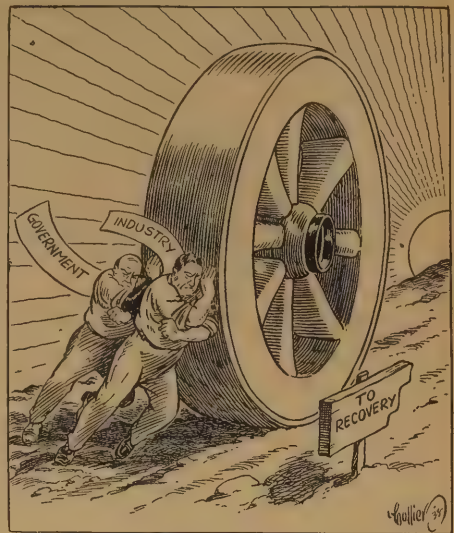

I was a guest in a home where there lived an aged grandmother about 9 o'clock at night the daughter arose and said, "Mother, I will now get your water-bag and get you ready to go to bed." The aged old lady replied, "No no, daughter, do not get the water-bag. It is not cold enough." In other words that old lady said that she needed the water-bag only when it would provide a needed comfort. On hearing that statement I said to myself, "That, My Sister is the way most folks want God." Many folks want God as we want a hot water bottle, or as we want an overcoat, to meet a temporary need. If sorrow or misfortune come we want God as we want heat and protection in cold weather. Our need of God is more acute than our need for food. We make God our trouble clerk and not our daily companion. We want the blessings of his way and yet we follow our own way.

Many years ago a company of British subjects were driven out into the deep by a raging storm. After being battered about for hours they finally landed on the dreary shore of a desolate island. For ways they looked for good cheer and vision, but they had no way of escape. A count was called and one in addressing the company said, "Comrades, no path is open to us, and let us perish as a company without hope." The next one who spoke to them was their leader and he said, "Be of good cheer, my friends. We are driven from the land to sea and from the sea to land, and now it seems that there is no way out, but we must have faith. I thank God that we can still look up and that way to Heaven is still open to us. Often the ways of this world close before our vision, but the way up is always open. Our help comes from God and the way to him is ever open if we do not close it with our sins and selfishness. All of our help comes from God and we must keep the way to him open at all times.

History tells us that Mohammed, the conqueror of India, made it a rule, when he captured a city, to destroy all the idols in the city. He and his soldiers would go up and down the streets in and out of the homes and destroy every idol in sight. In one city he came to an idol that stood about fifteen feet in height. So unusual was this idol that the priests accompanying Mohammed begged him to spare it as a relic of war, but he became enraged at their request and struck the idol to pieces with his own hammer. To his amazement the shattered idol poured out a shower of gems, pearls, and diamonds. It was a shower of fabulous wealth that poured down at his feet as he shattered the last idol of the city. How true is that in your life and my life. Often we would protect the idols that we have in our own hearts, but when we have the courage and the faith to break down the last idol of our heart a shower of blessings will fall down upon us and we will come into the possession of soul wealth that is more than we can enumerate. Break down your last idol if you want to find soul wealth.

The examiners at the custom house where travelers come in from abroad gave out this information as they examined a trunk. They said that the owner of the trunk was a rather pretentious looking man and on opening his trunk they found a Bible on top of all the goods packed there. It was evident that the Bible had been placed on top so as to make the examiners think that he was a good man and that nothing in the trunk would be a subject to duty. On investigation they found many valuables that would have been smuggled in if they had failed to go through the contents of the trunk. I am not saying that the traveler hoped to escape the paying of the duty on the goods being brought in, but his act is so true to human life until I am able to see what some of the world is trying to do with the Bible. Most folks like to place the Bible above their declivity. We are rather inclined to put the Bible above our trunk full of bad living and hope that we will be able to get by. It is the best to come clean. Use the Bible but to purify our soul and not to hide out your meanness.

ANDERSON, CLAYTON & CO.

COTTON DEALERS

(BY MICKEY BROWN)

The ANDERSON, CLAYTON and COMPANY, located at 1205 1-2 Water Street, in Selma, Alabama, phone 1595, conducts one of the most valued institutions of the community and are worthy of prominent mention in this review. They purchase cotton, and it is one of the most popular places in this community.

While cotton may not seem important yet, it is necessary to have an outlet for it and the people of this section are fortunate in having a depot so efficiently managed. This popular firm has always been for honest and straight forward methods and fair dealings with everyone who visits the place, consequently, this establishment adds much to the efficiencies of the city as a trading center.

A special feature of this firm is the furnishing of market quotations, and you will find courteous and accommodation, always in evidence.

They have made a host of friends as well as patrons, throughout this section and have always been courteous, ready and willing to give the best of service and the highest prices, consistent with the conditions of the market and good business.

The writer is pleased to compliment this latter day business firm, in this annual special New Year Review, upon their high ideals and to refer them to you as being among the most important business places of this section of the State.

AMERICAN GRAVEL & SAND CO.

(BY MICKEY BROWN)

The AMERICAN GRAVEL and SAND COMPANY, located at 1110 1-2 Water Street, in Selma, Alabama, phone 803, has gained an enviable reputation throughout the State as reputable dealers in sand and gravel for every purpose. Their plant is located at Plantersville, just 25 miles from Clanton.

Contractors and the public in general should exercise great care in the selection of sand and gravel and use only the best products. While sand and gravel are not major consequences, as regards costs, but they become most important as a base for the project they enter into.

To the average person, sand is sand, and rock is rock, but it is of utmost importance to a construction job of any kind, to know just what particular grade it is proper to use to insure the best results. To the contractor and builder, sand and gravel is of utmost importance for they know that to use an inferior grade of either would produce unsatisfactory results.

This reliable concern has furnished vast quantities of their products to public and private enterprises throughout a large section of the country, stimulating and aiding in the progress of many of our communities. Their plant is well equipped with every modern appliance for the economical and proper handling of their sand and gravel.

In this annual Special New Year Review, the writer wishes to compliment them upon the high quality of their products and to suggest that contractors and builders can do no better than to consult them in regard to sand or gravel for any purpose.

BUCHANAN'S PAN-AM STATION

(BY MICKEY BROWN)

BUCHANAN'S PAN-AM STATION located on Washington St. in Selma, Alabama, phone 109, has demonstrated its ability to serve just as enthusiastically with the same thoroughness as a service station in the larger cities. They are thoroughly familiar with the various makes of automobiles, trucks, and their requirements, tires, batteries, etc., which has made this station one of the most prominent and popular in this section of the State. The highest grades of gasoline and motor oils, tires and accessories by the best manufacturers, which they feature, are low-cost combinations of their efforts to serve the public well. Whether it be a wash or polish, greasing, refueling, repair, or installation of a new tire or tube, you will find that each employee has been selected for his ability to do a good job with a smile.

Many people from the out-of-town communities bring their cars here at regular intervals and have them completely serviced. Regular servicing of an automobile or truck will add many miles of usefulness and reduce driving worries to a minimum.

In making this annual Special New Year Review, the writer wishes to compliment them upon the high quality of the products they distribute and upon the excellent service they render the people of this section.

MIKE KATSARAKIS FRUITS & PRODUCE

(BY ALLIE BYRD)

MIKE KATSARAKIS, located at 1022 First Street, in Selma, Ala., phone 447, operates a well known establishment and is enjoying a wide patronage from the city and surrounding territory.

Since this has been in business, it has always been there to serve their patrons with the very best fruits and produce available. Anyone seeking information regarding the fruit and produce business may be assured of a prompt and courteous response.

These customers are invited to come to the store and see for themselves.

it in this line, as it adds greatly to the prosperity of this section of the state. They have equipped themselves to furnish service second to none and the success of this enterprise, since they have been in business, testifies to the wisdom of their course.

In making this annual special New Year Review of the business interests of this section, the writer is proud to compliment them upon the manner in which their establishment is conducted and upon the valuable service they are rendering the people of this section, by the supplying of fresh fruits and produce in all seasons.

SELMA COMPRESS CO.

(BY MARGARET TISDALE)

THE SELMA COMPRESS COMPANY, located at 907 Water Avenue, in Selma, Ala., phone 387, is a long established cotton gin and seed company. It has been in business for many years and has always been glad to have the public use their plant and seed for themselves how cotton is compressed by the latest, most up-to-date methods.

Improvements have been added from time to time until now, they are unsurpassed in point of service and efficiency, as they have all that is new in the cotton compressing business. This is one of the industries that has done more than their share in making cotton growing profitable.

The services of this company, in addition to adding to the commercial and industrial activities of this part of the state, are contributing much to the people, inasmuch as they are compressors of cotton.

The management really knows the business and appreciates the desirability of magnanimous service, and are, as well as their assistants, prominent in the business life of this section and are considered authorities upon matters pertaining to cotton.

In making this annual special New Year Review, the writer desires to direct your attention to this concern and suggests that your inherent desire for the best, prompt you at all times, to support, patronize and boost for this reliable concern.

JOHNSTON MOTOR CO.

(BY ALLIE BYRD)

THE JOHNSON MOTOR COMPANY, located at 907 Water Avenue, in Selma, Ala., phone 1662, are authorized dealers for PLYMOUTH and DeSOTO automobiles. These wonderful cars have won for themselves a reputation by actual tests on the road, under all kinds of road conditions and this is where the real test of a car comes, testing its ability to stand up under all kinds of treatment. If a car will stand up under the hardest possible treatment, it will do a great deal better under ordinary conditions.

This is not the only feature of these cars, as the initial cost is very reasonable and the cost of up-keep is as-tonishingly low. These cars are easy on tires and their riding comfort is distinctive. The steering and gear shifts are made in such a manner that they are very easy to operate and this is why you see so many women driving them on the streets every day.

The management of this establishment is in the hands of men who are later day business men in every respect and their salesmen are courteous and accommodating to a marked degree.

In making this annual special New Year Review, the writer takes pleasure in directing those who are contemplating purchasing a car in this class to this agency and suggests that you look over these cars before purchasing a new or used car elsewhere.

FACTS FROM THE RECORD

State Board Of Adjustment

The State Board of Adjustment was created by an Act of the 1935 legislature, approved September 14, 1935, and amended by an Act of the legislature approved March 1, 1937. The Board is composed of the State Treasurer, the Secretary of State and the State Comptroller, all of whom serve without additional pay.

The purpose of the Board is to hear and consider claims for damages to persons or property growing out of any injury due to either persons or property by any of the agencies of the State, and other claims against the State as specified in the Act. (The Board sets as a court and where it assesses damages the Comptroller is authorized to pay such damages out of an appropriation authorized by the Act. The appropriation for the first year is fixed at $200,000 and $50,000 for each subsequent year if necessary to carry out the purposes of the Act.)

The claims to be considered by the Board are only such as would require a special Act of the legislature and are known as "relief bills." The members of the legislature do not have an opportunity to ascertain all of the facts when these relief bills are brought up and many of them are passed that should not be passed while some other just claims are never considered. This Board makes its award after hearing all the facts, and claims can be presented and adjusted without waiting for the legislature to meet.

Claims for personal injury are settled on the same basis as provided in the Workmen's Compensation Act.

At the beginning of the fiscal year 1936-37 there were claims pending in the amount of $119,228.05 and claims filed during the year amounted to $164,546.12 making the total amount of claims to be considered during the year $283,774.17. The total amount of awards made after careful investigation was $46,682.85. Claims still pending before the Board at the end of the fiscal year amounted to $26,539.68. From this it will be observed that many of the claims were either disallowed or were reduced in amount.

At the time the Board was created there were 76 relief bills totaling $209,358.83 pending before the legislature. The Board investigated these claims and made awards amounting to $32,627.79.

It is evident from these figures that the Board is saving the State considerable money and at the same time claimants are getting their claims settled without waiting for the legislature to meet.

Officers on the raid were J. A. Nivens, S. D. McCary, T. J. Thornton, and Guy C. Tucker.

Severe functional pains of menstruation, cramping spells and jangled nerves soon rob a woman of her natural, youthful freshness. PAIN lines in a woman's face too often grow into AGE lines!

Thousands of women have found it helpful to take Cardui. They say it seemed to ease their pains and they noticed an increase in their appetites and finally a strengthened resistance to the discomfort of monthly periods.

WITH YOUR HOME Demonstration Agent

CONDUCTED BY MISS META GRACE

Minooka Club Meets

The Minooka Home Demonstration Club met at the home of Mrs. H. F. Virgin January 27. The meeting was called or order, a song was sung and business was dispensed with. The roll was called and the minutes were read by the secretary. Plans for the next meeting were discussed and the place of meeting will be with Mrs. Pearl Anderson February 9, which is to be a spend-the-day meeting.

The quilt which is now being completed, will be quilted and final disposition will be made of the quilt which is a means of raising money to send the leaders to the leadership schools in the future.

Next the Kitchen Improvement contest was discussed and followed by more discussion by Mrs. Christiansen, County Council President. Almost all the ladies plan to enter the contest. The demonstration for the afternoon was "How to buy for your family and save those pennies" given by Miss Meta E. Grace, Home Demonstration Agent, in her usual charming manner. We consider this one of the finest classes given in the county.

Cake and coffee were served by the hostess and co-hostess, Mrs. Hoyt Cleveland.

Cecile Watts, Sec.-Reporter.

Midway-Mt. Creek Club Meets

The Midway-Mt. Creek Home Demonstration Club met January 28, at the club house for their meeting. Mrs. Hand, vice-president, called the meeting to order. After the minutes and roll was dispensed with, the business of the club was discussed. A date was set by the club to meet with Mrs. Johnson Tuesday, January 29, at the club house for their meeting. The meeting was turned over to the Home Agent, Miss Grace, who gave an inspiring demonstration on "How to spend your money economically." How very important that we do spend the few pennies we get wisely.

Mapleville Jr. 4-H Club Meets

On Wednesday, January 26, the 4-H Club met at Mapleville. We studied Caloric and sang lots of peppery songs, and Miss Grace taught us of our new song, "Is Everybody Happy." We had lots of fun and learned a great deal. We did not know about calories and the food we eat. We always enjoy our club meetings.

—Betty Sue Gandy, Reporter.

The Kitchen contest is now getting underway. Many clubwomen are making plans as to what can be done to that drab inconvenient working place that will brighten it and make it a better place in which to work. In every club woman begin now to study your kitchen bulletins which can be secured from the Home Demonstration Agent, Miss Meta E. Grace, in Clanton and make changes according to the best methods.

Every club member is urged to enter the contest. Don't think it takes a lot of money and for that reason you can't enter. Inquire and learn how you can not only improve your kitchen but at the same time win some of the lovely prizes that are to be announced soon, which are being given by the fine merchants of Clanton who are interested in you. Give your kitchen a look over, see if your work table stove and cabinet are the proper working heights and are they properly arranged to save you walking miles each year. When it takes a lot of time to sink or table. You may need an extra dollar to give you sufficient light to work by. Be sure to keep your record of everything you do as this will help you to win the prizes. Remember you stand just as good a chance as anyone else.

The leadership school will be held at the Home Economics Building on February 3, at 9:45 Thursday. Miss Helen Kennedy will be the specialist for the occasion and the lesson will be on fats and pastries and quick-breads. All leaders and club presidents will please attend.

The Scholarship committee and Kitchen Improvement Contest Committee are requested to meet at the noon hour on this same date and place. The Scholarship Committee will determine the winner of the business course and the Kitchen Contest Committee will make final plans concerning prizes and any further regulations concerning the contest.

On February 10, Clanton County is scheduled to broadcast an hour's program from 11:30 to 12:30. This program will include information concerning the industries of the county by outstanding citizens and information concerning the agricultural program by the Farm and Home Agents' departments. Don't forget to either come or listen over WAPI for this program. This program will be broadcast from Clanton.

Mrs. Christiansen was a visitor to the Minooka Club recently and she plans to visit the other clubs over the county as fast as she can. Mrs. Christiansen is the County Council president and is anxious to help the program of work develop as rapidly as possible.

ALABAMA ODDITIES

BITS OF ODD FACTS ABOUT ALABAMA AND HER PEOPLE

BY Clint Bonner

In the United States there are eleven Birmingham—Birmingham, Georgia; Illinois; Iowa; Kansas; Kentucky; Michigan; Missouri; New Jersey; Ohio; Pennsylvania; and, of course, Alabama.

Out at Montpelier in Shelby County, a club owned by Birmingham's Sidney W. Lee and Erskine Ramsay lives a young Negro boy by the name of B. Cautious.

We have all heard the gag about the young man who called the doctor to the bedside of his ailing mother-in-law. "She's got to go to a warmer climate," warned the good M.D. Fetching an ax and the disturbed young son-in-law handed the weapon to the physician, "You do it, doc," said he, "I haven't the heart."

But J. W. Griffin, city clerk of Leeds evidently feels more kindly toward his wife's mamma. Besides living in the same house with her Griffin, odd as it may seem, is also in business—with his mother-in-law!

Alabama has more miles of man-made navigable streams than any other state in the union—and is planning on "locking" up more. From the bridge across the Big Warrior at North Port can be seen the only such sight in the world—three locks in a row: Nos. 10, 11 and 12.

The possibilities for the farmers of Alabama and the South through efforts of the T.V.A. are largely yet to be seen. I am told that from an experiment with cyanamide, a product of nitrate plant No. 2, Muscle Shoals, a turnip weighing twenty-five pounds was grown! Looks like the government is going after more and better turnips.

"He who laughs last, laughs best," so they say. Mr. R.H. McConnell, of Athens, recently got quite a laugh by coloring a pear-shaped gourd to resemble a nice ripe specimen of the fruit and placing it in a bowl. After several of his neighbors had seen the joke was turned. Mr. McConnell's butter and egg man got the last laugh when he mixed five egg-shaped gourds with a sack of hen fruit.

not until he started to crack them across the skillet did he discover that his eggs were gourds—And so it goes and so it goes.

(BY MICKEY BROWN)

WILL ALLISON'S SERVICE STATION, located at 101 Church Street, in Selma, Ala., phone 481, is the one service station where the people of this and surrounding territory know they will always receive the very best gasoline and motor oils, as well as quick and efficient service.

The management of this service station realized the importance of serving nothing but the best products, and has gained a reputation which has spread far and wide for his keen business judgment and fair dealing.

It makes no difference for what purpose you may want gasoline or oil, whether for truck, bus, tractor, lighting plant, gasoline lamp, they carry the correct fuel for your purpose.

A number of local people as well as people from all surrounding territory, bring their cars to this station to be completely serviced at regular intervals. The proper servicing and lubrication of a car, truck or tractor, will save the owner many dollars during the life of it.

In making this annual Special New Year Review, the writer is glad to compliment them upon the excellent service they render the people of this section, and to suggest that you give them a trial.

SELMA STOCK YARDS

(BY MARGARET TISDALE)

The SELMA STOCK YARDS, located on Plant Street and L.N. Railroad in Selma, Ala., phones 1541 and 1542, is one of the best equipped stock yards in this section. They receive shipments of live stock from all surrounding territory and render an unexcelled service that is essential to the progress and prosperity of this section.

The management is thoroughly familiar with every detail of the business, interested in home progress, and is both public-spirited and popular. You are invited to compare their service and prices with competitive markets and when you have done this, you will find the reason why shippers from far and near prefer shipping and trucking to them. Courtesy and accommodation are also features of the valued and essential service they render this section of the state.

This is an excellent opportunity to direct your attention to the value of this company and these stock yards to the public. Not only do they bring thousands of dollars to this section annually, but they render a service that adds to the agricultural, commercial and industrial progress of all surrounding territory.

In making this annual special New Year Review, it is a pleasure to be able to compliment the management upon the manner in which the business of this institution is conducted and suggest that you investigate the advantages offered by them before shipping live stock. The writer feels confident that after you have investigated, you will ship to them.

Sports News

The Union Grove basketball girls and boys came to Enterprise last Friday to return games with the Enterprise girls and boys. The scores for the girls were: Enterprise, 25; Union Grove, 3. This game was very interesting.

The scores for the boys were: Union Grove, 17; Enterprise, 31. This was an exciting and thrilling game. Union Grove had the lead of 5 to 0 when Enterprise first scored. Enterprise pepped up a bit and gained and kept gaining all during the game. The victory was well won.

The Enterprise boys will go to Clanton Thursday night to play the Clanton "B" team. The game is expected to be an interesting one, so be there to see it.

Clanton Methodist Church

We seek Jesus.

When do we seek Him? Do we seek Him when we are sad and worried? Do we seek Him for the purpose of gladness and worries? He is a wonderful burden bearer and comforter.

Do we seek Him when we are glad? Do we seek Him when there isn't a cloud in life's sky? Do we seek Him to tell Him we're happy and to thank him for happiness? Aren't we just a bit unfair when we seek Him only when we need Him to lift a burden and ease a grief-stricken heart and not also when we might share our joys with Him?

"Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest," "Rejoice in the Lord always: and again I say, Rejoice!" But most of all, should we not seek Him for Himself alone?

The superintendent of the Sunday School is delighted with the growth and spirit of the Sunday School and the pastor is also. May each and everyone just keep on keeping on with the good work and see that the growth and spirit continue without a moment's lapse. Last Sunday we enjoyed Judge Reynolds' message at General Assembly. Next Sunday we are to hear a message from Prof. Hicks and a solo by Mrs. Glascock.

The pastor said if there will always be a good choir he will always give us a fine sermon. He gave us one last Sunday. Choir, support our pastor. He needs and deserves your support and appreciates it.

All members, newcomers, and visitors, come and keep coming to our Sunday School and Church services. We always enjoy your coming and trust you do.

Sunday School, 9:45 A. M.; preaching services, 11:00 A. M. and 6:30 P. M. and Young People's services at 5:45 P. M. each Sunday.

THE KING COULD DO NO WRONG," FOR THE LAW PREVENTED EXCESSIVE DIVERSION OF ROAD TOLLS

Neglect of the highways through the diversion of toll revenue was a problem that was settled centuries ago in England and the principle that crystallized in the English common law regarding the neglect of highways is still sound today. W. E. Huddleston, chairman of the Chilton County Petroleum Industries Committee, said today in explaining why the state committee opposes the diversion of automotive tax funds in its program of fair principles of taxation of the petroleum industry and its motorist customers.

"Even the King of England could not sustain his franchise to a private citi-

DALLAS COMPRESS CO.

(BY MICKEY BROWN)

The DALLAS COMPRESS COMPANY, located at 2010 Alabama Avenue, in Selma, Ala., phone 1330, is one of our industrial organizations, whose management has been at all times, active, in promoting the development of this section.

The compressing of cotton requires the best of equipment, as well as practical experience. At this company, you will find the most modern and up-to-date machinery operated by men of broad experience in the compressing business. The efficient methods they use in the compressing of cotton, is responsible in a great measure for the high position they have attained in the industrial world of this section.

Many citizens acquire the habit of taking the service of such important industries rather as a matter of course, zen for the collection of tolls on a public highway unless the road was kept in good repair with the funds collected from the travelers. There are a number of old judicial decisions to that effect. The courts frowned upon the collection of highway tolls unless the road was kept in repair and the public received a fair service for their money.

"Unfortunately for the motorists of this state the simple and reasonable principles set forth in Blackstone's and other commentaries on the English common law are being thrown into oblivion. The annual tax bill of the motorists of this State, paid on the theory that the funds would be used for road improvement, has increased by millions of dollars. But with growing automotive tax revenue, more and

CENTRALA FARMERS CO-OP, INC.

(BY MARGARET TISDALE)

THE CENTRALA FARMERS CO-OP, INCORPORATED, located on Jeff Davis Avenue, in Selma, Ala., phone 436, is not only a well equipped and expertly operated concern, but it is one of the leading commercial organizations of Selma, rendering a fertilizer service that is necessary to the agricultural progress of this section.

Because it is under the direction of men who are thoroughly conversant with every feature of the fertilizer business, it has become one of the most important assets to this section.

This is the day and age when the public demand, not only magnanimous service, but the best in fertilizer at a reasonable price. With a wide experience in their particular field of endeavor, the management of this well known organization has been able to render the farmers a fertilizer service that has been distinctly satisfactory.

In making this annual New Year Review of the onward progress of this section, the writer wishes to compliment them upon the excellent service they render the people of this section and upon the position they have attained in the industrial world of this section.

Spiced Apple Muffins Should Be Piping Hot

SPICED apple muffins served piping hot with a generous supply of butter will make a feast of the simplest meal. Try them for breakfast with crisp bacon slices, for luncheon with vegetable platter or salad bowl, or with fruit salad for dinner in place of dessert. The tested recipe follows:

Spiced Apple Muffins

2 cups pastry flour, sifted before measuring
1/2 cup sugar
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons butter, melted
1 cup finely chopped raw apples
1 egg, beaten

Sift together flour, sugar, baking powder, salt and cinnamon. Beat milk, beaten egg and butter and add to dry ingredients. Mix thoroughly and fold in chopped apples. Drop in well greased muffin pans and sprinkle on a cinnamon-sugar mixture using 2 1/2 teaspoons of sugar and 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) for 20 to 25 minutes.

Yield: 12 muffins 2 1/4 inches in diameter.

more of the money is being diverted to non-highway purposes, with the result that our highways are neglected and our motorists are paying more for the road than they rightfully should pay.

"Effective bars were placed against the English King to prevent his authorization of the collection of road tolls and the excessive diversion of the revenue. The people of this State have an effective method to prevent this modern abuse of the taxing power. That method is by the adoption of a constitutional amendment outlawing the diversion of automotive tax funds to non-highway purposes. Several states have adopted such amendments to their constitutions. This State should do likewise next November at the General Election."

SOVIET POLAR BASE ANSWERS PROBLEMS

Details of Arctic Provided by Russian Explorers.

Leningrad.—Professor R. L. Samoilovich, director of the All-Union Arctic Institute, has summarized the work carried out by the four Russian explorers who flew to the North Pole and established a base there.

Paying tribute to Ivan Papanin, Ernest Krenkel, Peter Shirshov and Eugene Federov, the professor said: "Four courageous men, despite the brief time of their stay at the North Pole, have made a number of important discoveries concerning the nature of the vast white spot, the center of which is the pole.

"We knew nothing about the Central Polar basin, whereas at present we know precisely the depths prevailing in the proximity of the North Pole, and we can say with certainty that the Arctic ocean represents a cup, the deepest parts of which are located in the vicinity of the North Pole.

"Until lately we had no idea of the direction of the warm current of the Gulf stream in the northern latitudes; now we know that even on the pole there passes a powerful current of comparatively warm Atlantic water.

"We knew nothing about the drift of the polar ice floes in this region inaccessible to man. Now we know that the drift generally proceeds in the southwestern direction toward the area situated between Spitzbergen and Greenland.

"We formerly could only conjecture in the past on the weather conditions characterizing the climatic peculiarities of the area near the pole, whereas at present we know that comparatively high temperatures of the air prevail there during the summer season.

"The presence of birds proves that life does exist on the ice on the North Pole, and it will undoubtedly be found under the ice, too. Finally, we have ascertained the magnitudes of the elements of land magnetism."

Twenty Iron Men Busy in Tiny "Logging Camp"

Stevens Point, Wis.—From pieces of scrap iron and steel Eric Kedrowicz has constructed a miniature sawmill complete with steam engine, logging sleighs, flatcars and miniature pine trees.

Kedrowicz, a barber by trade, has placed his miniature sawmill on a wooden platform fourteen feet long and four feet wide.

Most interesting of the miniature logging operations carried on in Kedrowicz's "camp" is the sawmill itself. It is operated by a home-made steam engine which drives the saw along a two-foot carriage.

The camp railroad was built entirely out of scrap steel except for the freight engine's four drive wheels, which were cast of babbit.

The line is thirty-two inches long, is operated by steam and will run for three hours unattended. A blow torch generates the steam in the miniature boiler.

When Kedrowicz sets the sawmill in motion twenty iron men operated by steam go through the motions of their jobs. Woodchoppers hack away at trees, a man fishes in a pond, two men operate a cross-cut saw, a man sharpens an ax on grindstone, and a horse swishes its tail.

It took four years of work after the barber shop was closed for Kedrowicz to complete the sawmill.

Britons Witness Sparkle of Jewels on a Screen

London.—The sparkle of diamonds, emeralds and other gems was caught on a screen to explain to guests a meeting held by the Royal Institution the science behind the fire of a jewel.

In a darkened room Professor Gordon directed a narrow beam of light on a suspension of brilliant stones and explained how by scientific cutting the beam was split up on reflection inside the stone to form a pattern of many-colored stars on the screen.

Each stone colored the pattern according to its natural hue, but each of the outer stars of the pattern had the appearance of a rainbow in brief. The "sphenic," it was explained, a gem little used because of its softness, had the unusual power of producing rainbows in pairs.

An emerald cut in the traditional manner gave a pattern of stars in the form of a cross, in contrast with the rare splendor of a "brilliant-cut" diamond. In the latter type of cut, which science has been able to explain but not improve, the stone has as many as 58 facets.

Rule Trees Can Creak Despite Anti-Noise Law

Fort Worth, Tex.—As there was nothing to do about it, the first command under this city's anti-noise ordinance gave attorneys a deep problem.

A citizen complained that two trees creaked together in a neighbor's yard, disturbing his rest. Attorneys decided the city could not enforce the laws of nature.

Mr. Editor:

Many of us are thinking of politics, and who will announce next. Maybe some of us are thinking just how big a cotton crop we can raise next year. Or maybe we are wondering whether the American Red Cross will call on us for one million or one hundred millions of dollars for the destitute, helpless, starving, and dying Chinese women and children, and there are many many millions of them absolutely freezing and starving now at the present day, their homes burned, blown up. Entire cities, larger than any in the State of Alabama completely swept out of existence.

Let us stop and think what may happen if these Japanese are allowed to go on, unchecked, when they have destroyed the schools and other progressive institutions in China and have completely subjugated its people and have driven all white people from any influence in Asia, we cotton-raising people need not worry longer about how much or little we make for with the fine cotton lands of China and plenty of labor at 15 cents a day for both raising and manufacturing cotton you can easily picture the price coming to not more than 3 or 4 cents per pound, probably less.

With the almost inexhaustible supply of coal, iron, etc., to be found in China coupled with the millions of acres of the most fertile land in the world, Japan can defy the entire world economically and at war.

This being true, I would like to write a few words to you readers, especially the farmers, about two questions that I feel are of major importance to all of us. The reason I say all of us is because we are all dependent on the farmer; and things that help the farmer directly help all of us indirectly, so, also, things that hurt him hurt all of us in the same way.

It is not an uncommon thing to find farm homes in Chilton County with only one or two crops being grown. Always cotton, sometimes corn. No garden (a good garden would more than half feed the family), no peas, no potatoes, no melons, no hog, no cow, no chickens; and I might go on mentioning a dozen more life sustaining farm products that should be found in and around every farm home.

Let the farmer ask himself the question, "What do I actually need to live on, that I can produce on the farm for home consumption?" Then answer that question by planning to produce these things; selecting a good place for his planting (not some worn-out or wasted away knob of land in a corner) where he will produce enough for home consumption and a little to spare for the market; thereby having some spending money all along. Keep a good cow. That will play a big part in keeping the kids in a healthy, growing; and any over plus can be fed to the pigs that are otherwise growing on slops, waste fruits, melons, and other things that would be thrown away and lost had it not been for having he pigs on the place.

After considering the question of producing a living at home; then plant cotton or other so-called "money crop" as he may see fit, or is best suited to his particular case.

But above all, get away from the idea of raising cotton to acquire money to buy foods in the market to carry back to the farm. I see farmers buying from the grocery stores such things as peas, potatoes, meat, lard, melons, and canned vegetables and many other similar farm products. Thus they undertake to buy with "cotton money," what has been produced by another farmer, probably sold to a retail buyer, then shipped to a manufacturer, thence in turn it is sold to a wholesaler or jobber, who in turn again sells it to the retailer, who sells it back to Mr. cotton farmer with all these fellows getting a profit in addition to the various and sundry process tax, sales tax, etc., that have accrued in the round.

If you will pardon the "I", probably someone will be interested to know that last year, right here, relatively speak-

Hints to Gardeners

Reaping Flower Profits

FLOWER growing by the amateur gardener is a pastime which pays excellent dividends. Growers have found that by picking annual flowers often and regularly they actually increase the total yield from the garden over the length of the season.

This is true of annuals because they have but one season in which to produce seed and they keep constantly at the job of bearing flowers until adverse weather conditions call a halt. Two healthy 20-foot bouquets of zinnia will provide fresh bouquets regularly from early spring until mid-summer. If new blooms are picked every three or four days.

Regular picking is not the sole means of increasing bloom, of course. Experience has shown that more abundant flowering may be induced by decreasing the amount and frequency of watering just as the flowers come into bloom.

The term "picking flowers" is used here in a general sense, meaning gathering or reaping. In the exact sense of the word, most flowers should not be picked or plucked. They should be cut—with a sharp knife, never with scissors.

There are a few exceptions. Sweet peas, pansies, violas and nasturtiums may be picked. Sweet peas should be broken from the plant where the flower stem springs from between the arms of the axil or "V". With the other three, follow the stem as near to the base of the plant as possible, and break it off.

When using a knife in gathering flowers, make a diagonal cut. This enables the flowers to take up water better and live longer indoors.

Jack Hayes Convinces Comiskey He Is Worth More Money With Sox

JACK HAYES

Batting Is Everything In Game Hayes Proves To Chisox Mogul

By Shirley Povich

Washington Post Sports Writer

Baseball has already produced a 1938 sensation and if you're asking who he might be, why, he's Jackie Hayes, of the Chicago White Sox.

And if you're wondering just what kind of a feat Jackie Hayes has performed to merit the label of a sensation, why listen:

He walked into the office of Owner Lou Comiskey the other day, admitted that he had batted only .229 last season, and walked out with a salary raise.

Now those kind of batting figures—.229—would normally call for a club owner to kick up an awful fuss and hand out a salary cut that would be tantamount to an amputation. And perhaps that's what Mr. Comiskey had in mind when Hayes called upon him to discuss the business of the second baseman's 1937 contract.

But by the time Hayes was through slamming a raft of other 1937 figures at Comiskey, the club owner was ripe for a salary increase. Hayes ruffled through the official American League averages and came up with the following disclosures for Mr. Comiskey's benefit:

Looking At The Record

He had, despite his .229 batting average, made in more runs than Washington's Cecil Travis, who batted .341.

And he had driven in more runs than Comiskey's own Royal Nonesuch, Luke Appling, who was the batting champion of the league in 1936.

And he had driven in more runs than Buddy Lewis who batted .315 for Washington last season, or Sammy West who slugged at .328 for the St. Louis Browns.

And if that were not enough evidence of his worth to the White Sox, Second Baseman Hayes was able to tell Comiskey that "You'll notice I was second only to Charley Gehring in the fielding averages of second basemen."

Small wonder, then that Hayes not only warded off his pay cut but wrangled a raise out of the White Sox owner.

This fellow Hayes is not exactly a stranger to Washington fans. Clark Griffith brought him up to the Nats from the University of Alabama back in 1927 when Hayes chose between a medical career and professional baseball. Scout Joe Engel tabbed him as an infielder who would be a sensation "if he could hit a lick."

White Sox Eyed Him

The Nats farmed Hayes out to the Birmingham club and he was with the team virtually throughout the 1927 season, but he couldn't break into the Southern Association line-up. When Griffith brought him to Washington for a tryout in the Fall and watched Hayes perform in infield practice, the Nats' owner gasped.

Hayes was the slickest fielding rookie that had come to the Nats in years. He was a "slider" out there around second base, his play seemingly effortless. Griffith and Manager Buck Harris used to stand in the dugout and marvel at the talents of the rookie. But Hayes had no chance to break into the Washington lineup. Washington had a pretty fair second baseman at the time—Mr. Ducky Harris.

But Washington never did send him back to the minors. Hayes never gave much evidence that he could hit, but those fielding qualities were not to be

W. R. CLEMENTS CANDIDATE FOR COMMISSIONER

Well Known Citizen Seeks Place On Court From
District No. 1

Rumors that Will R. Clements, well known resident of the county, would be a candidate this year, became a realization this week when he announced he will seek membership on the Commissioners Court from District No. 1.

Mr. Clements is perhaps one of the most widely known residents of the northern part of the county, residing at Jemison. He is a native of this county and has been a life-long Democrat.

Mr. Clements told the News this week that he believed in keeping the affairs of the county in the hands of the Commissioners, believing that that body of men was capable of handling these affairs. He also stated that if he was elected he would do his utmost to serve all classes of people of the county in a fair manner. He stated he has faith in the people of the county and believed the county would prosper as long as its affairs were left with its people.

"Being a farmer," Mr. Clements stated, "and with planting time near at hand, I will probably not be able to see as many of the voters as I would like. But, I want each of you to know I want your vote. I feel I am competent to handle the job as commissioners." Mr. Clements is at present a member of the jury board of this county.

CLUB LEADERS MAKE SPECIAL PASTRY STUDY

Over Forty Leaders Gather In Clanton Recently
For Home Studies

Forty-two local club leaders of the county studied pastry and bread making last Thursday at the home economic building at Clanton. Miss Grace, home demonstration agent, led the "Disc" and gave a short talk explaining the County broadcast to be given at the city hall next Thursday. She then introduced Miss Helen Kennedy, the state food specialist, who had charge of the demonstrations for the day.

Miss Kennedy first pointed out the purpose of the meeting was to develop leaders for the clubs; (2) To get information and material for their local demonstrations. A lengthy and instructive lesson on pastry making was given. Coffee of different grades was made in three different type pots. A social hour was enjoyed at which time the coffee and pastry goodies were eaten and proclaimed delicious.

The afternoon session was on bread making. Waffles, corn sticks, baking powder biscuit and cheese biscuit were all made with good success. These were served during a short business session. Plans for making money and the kitchen contest were discussed. Selling flavoring was adopted for the money making.

All those interested in the kitchen contest will find some very helpful information and illustrations on page forty of the February Progressive Farmer.

Mrs. E. E. Gentry of Mountain Creek was a caller at the News office this week.

With an increase of 66 per cent in its assets during the year, 1937 was the most successful year the Brown-Service Funeral Company has ever had. Mackey R. M. Mackey says in connection with the annual financial statement of the company. At the end of the year assets aggregated approximately $2,000,000 against $1,200,000 at the close of 1936, the statement shows.

Included in the assets are $174,272 for the protection of its more than 342,000 holders of burial insurance policies, all in Alabama, the equivalent of one in every six white persons in the state. The annual report shows, Mr. Mackey says, that Brown-Service is the largest institution of its kind in the world, operates exclusively in Alabama, with its home office in Birmingham, field offices in all cities of the state and its policies serviced through 106 funeral homes.

The Brown-Service Funeral Company has had a remarkable growth in the last few years, annual financial statements show, has its assets invested in real estate first mortgages, federal, state, county and municipal bonds and other approved securities, and has on deposit with the state treasurer $100,000 of securities.

Meaning Of The Roosevelt Administration To The People

Address Of Hon. James Hamilton Lewis

Mr. Barkley, Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that a very able and a very illuminating address delivered by the senior Senator from Illinois (Mr. Lewis) over the Columbia Broadcasting System on the night of January 5, 1938, entitled "The Meaning of the Roosevelt Administration to the People," be printed in the Record.

There being no objection, the address was ordered to be printed in the Record, as follows:

"On the outer door of the Temple of the Supreme Court of old France at Avignon may be read the query, 'Qua appel?'—'Who calls?'—'What is the appeal?'"

Tonight, one day after the congressional message of President Roosevelt to America—sounding to the cardinal points of the world and in the tongues of earth's nations—we ask, What is this strange cry of fear and muttered doubts to what will be the course of this new Congress, obedient to the message of the President? Who is making the appeal? Who knows if this Congress is to be a service in friendship to man or a selfishness on property and prosperity? Here, we ask with the vigil at the Roman gates as Terquin advanced, "Masters, have you thought of your men and what they are doing in themselves?"

"To those who shock with terror the souls of the people—to those who say the Congress will confiscate property, strip profits of enterprise, and strip the life from man—we ask as apostles of the Shakespearean Caesar, 'Has he not made a brutish beast and men his reason?' To those who stand in the way of progress we ask, Do you not know that this surprising this body of lawless men have family to guard, children to protect, and the education and future of the loves of their heart to consider? Is it not here we find the heart? Will you not ask, Is it not true that those have property and possessions of some nature? These must be guarded and preserved. Their dear ones must be protected from impoverishment, and be helpless on the deplorable of their guardian."

I ask you, Will these men pass enactments that must destroy themselves and all they have or hope for? Do you not see that any unjust taxes or wasteful spending that strikes you must not, if sent forth, return as does the javelin from the boomerang return to the breast of that which shot it forth? Do not these of place and power hear the voice of the Prophet crying, "Behold God's angel speaks to the flock assembled, crying 'Look to heaven, then preserve thyself.' Will not our people note that as the two-thirds of the superior mankind in nations are at war, these are dissolving industry, melting and vanishing riches. This regretted situation leaves to the United States to be the one land of great opportunity to serve the needs of the world. This affords to our producers the profit and riches flowing to the American citizen. Will the lawmakers and officials of the Roosevelt administration fail to avail themselves of what fortune becomes theirs as they administer government for you? My fellow Americans, do you not see that the President is warning the warring peoples to keep off the peaceful ground of America is to assure that in our tranquility Americans may enjoy the profits and processes of value launched by the fullness of peace? Have you not seen in the declaration of your Chief Magistrate that he puts aside the partisan phrases of political designation and addresses his countrymen as his friends? Behold he calls for cooperation of capital and labor, riches and poverty, in one phalanx as brothers. All to fulfill before civilization the truth that a just mankind in America is its brother's keeper.

We take pride that all money of the United States is now the credited currency of the world—the American currency rising above the financial basis of any nation of mankind. Shall this Congress de-throne their country of this eminence and allow any act that is a suicide on the financial honor this the democratic republican Nation of the earth?

Let us interpret the purpose of the President and his officials in government of today. First, it is to reduce all burdens of taxes to the lowest minimum. To allow no taxes not necessary to conduct the Government on economic bases. To cut away all bureaus and establishments living on the expense of the Nation that are not wholly called for by the just procedure of an honest people. Then to cut down all excess and superfluous numbers or additions of men or money to any other departments that are necessary to be continued. At once to shut off expenditures in the name of relief to where it must be limited to that of dire necessity. The chief end and purpose is to provide that those who must be cared for be given first opportunity the Government can provide or industry permit for employment that the toilers may feel a sense of independence in their existence. Then to keep the Government within the narrow path where in she achieves fulfillment of the law of true government. Security to honest property, protection to honest toil, preservation of the assets of honest profit, and the sure guaranty or prosperity that would flow from these doctrines of true democracy. With this established, our Nation takes hand with the people to feed the hungry, clothe the naked, raise the fallen, shelter the homeless, and as it blesses the toiler, enriches the industrialist of agriculture and finance. Thus our legislation makes independent and supreme every calling and suit of each honest American. This means now the new and continued prosperity through law and the cooperation of the hearts of justice. Who is there who can doubt this? And why is it there are those who shout out the charge that there is to come the betrayal of the people and the destruction of the rights of honest investment through the course of the President of the United States by his direction and with the juncture of a Congress that must be treasonable to execute such?

To the foreign world, through the voice of the President and the people's Congress, we cry "peace" as our counter-sing while we march through. We sound warning to all who would molest our rights with the threat to destroy them. We hold out our hands in fraternity. We would revive friendship, give new hope of justice to all. Here we summon mankind to join us in preserving all possession of righteous men and establish America as the standard of true righteousness under the laws of man and decrees of God.

Americans, we salute you—that you may know that under the policies of this administration, from no orders of government or laws of Congress, will be permitted the tyranny of tyrants nor dictators in democracy.

This is the hour when Americans must abandon all conflicts within politics, compose all differences of race and social distinction. We must have the world behold that the United States is a land of unity among its people. That there will not be divisions here through which a foreign foe may march with the license to assail our land under the false theory that in our differences and divisions come their hour to assail and distract us. We are the enemies of none. We will allow no enemies to advance in victory upon us.

We invite our people to increase their Navy to the fullest degree that our agencies of defense shall establish as necessary. The world has adopted methods of war far new to us all and heretofore unknown to be used as methods of assault. We are from this compelled to turn from those of the past established order and adopt the new in the fulfillment of our self-defense and national protection. We again meet the ancient law—"the old order changeth, giving place to the new."

We exact of our countrymen that they pause to consider the true amount of expense. We ask that they note that whatever may be the increase of sum to be given to the Navy it is offset by the lessening sum that heretofore would be given to the Army. When our Navy can protect our shores from being invaded by foreign foe our Army is lessened in numbers and in force, as it becomes unnecessary to hold the established band in further organization than that which would be necessary for home defense in the protection of house and citizenship. Only in unusual event would a larger Army than our present possession be

D. W. Haskew

A good man in Georgia was stricken with a sudden illness and was rushed to the hospital for an operation. So serious was his condition that he came near dying on the table. After he had recovered sufficiently for his pastor to talk to him he made this remark: "My brother, you have been a very sick man. You came near crossing the river and we have been in the nearby creek for it ever occurred to you that God owns the land on both sides of the river and that it does not matter so much about the crossing. The saint has a much better home over there."

The story goes that a blind man had lost his memory and went to his doctor for treatment. After a thorough examination the physician announced to the afflicted man that his condition was rather peculiar. He could restore either his memory or his eyesight, but he could not restore both. The blind man asked him he had rather have. The man replied: "Doctor, restore my vision. I had rather see where I am going than to know where I have been." After all my friends, it is not what you have seen that counts, but what are you going to be. It is not where you have been, but where you are going that counts. As for me I had rather see where I am going than to remember where I have been.

A stranger came by our farm one day and told us that we could catch many fish with the nearby creek if we would dig up the Palmetto roots and beat them into a pulp and then take them in a sack and go into the water and churn the sack up and down. He said that the juices coming from the Palmetto pulp would make the fish swim up and down in the water, out into shallow water. It is the nature of boys to try out every new trick and it was not many days before we were in the creek churning the Palmetto pulp. After much effort we left our sacks in the water and went down stream to see what was taking place. We had not gone very far before we came across a three-pound trout cutting capers in shallow water. Evidently he was drunk or poisoned. It mattered not with us. Soon he was in our sack. If the devil can poison the stream where we live with whiskey, he will have no trouble in sacking all who swim in his current below. "Touch not, taste not, handle not."

While attending conference I said to a pastor friend: "Do you think that you are moving this year?" Yes," he replied. "I am in the stream this year, but I do not know whether I am swimming up stream or floating down stream." Then he added: "I am told that dead fish only float down stream." He was correct. When a fish floats down stream he is dead. When the appointments were read this brother had gone to a less important charge. It was evident, even though he was a right young man, that he was dead and floating down stream. A live fish can battle against currents and swim up stream, but a dead fish has no life and cannot swim with the currents. When you fail to make the grade, there is something wrong, not with the grade, but with the power that you have to make the grade. If you fail to swim up stream in your way of life you must be more dead than alive. Remember this "It is a dead fish that floats down stream."

In the State prison at Wetumpka there is a beautiful white woman about the age of thirty who is a life termer because of murder. A local pastor was visiting in the prison and this inmate asked the pastor might have an interview with him. This was granted and this pastor told me what she said to him. In substance I am giving to you her confession to this man of God. She said that she was charged with murder and that she supposed that she was guilty. But said she: "I was drunk when I committed the crime and I have no memory of ever being mad with the one whose life I took." She said that she could not recall a thing in connection with the killing, and yet she was in prison for life. Under the power of whiskey she killed one who had never known her only to befriend her. If some people like today who are learning to drink could just walk through the prisons of our state and hear the confessions of those who have been drug down to the very bottom, they would most surely become total abstainers. It is awful to think that a drinker can even take life and not know anything of it afterwards. Whiskey is public enemy number one.

required, and that could only arise upon an invasion upon our land, which our countrymen recognize is now prevented by our construction of defense and the guardianship of our watchful citizens.

We cannot ignore that aerial agencies and mechanical appliances have added a new list of the machinery of assault and that we, too, must meet with our improved aerial mechanics and our enlightened

We Observe

By Bonnie Hand

Hello, Folks!

This week we make our debut as a column in this newspaper. Throughout these United States of ours there are thousands—yes, thousands, of columns being carried as weekly and daily features in newspapers. Into this realm of comments being made by famers, writers, and some not so famous—writers, we blossom forth; just another column.

We hope, and sincerely, too, that you like the name we have chosen for this column. As most of our comments will be made from facts we gather through observation of the daily and weekly life in Chilton County and Clanton—particularly Clanton—we have christened this column "We Observe." So "We Observe" we are here.

In reading the News last week we took note that Clanton and Chilton County has, by this time, lost one of its biggest boosters; none other than Saul M. Goldstein, who, for the past fifteen months, has been manager of Mazer's Store. We are one of the many here who hated to see Mr. Goldstein leave. His social and civic activities, as well as being a successful merchant, meant much to Clanton. On leave we wish for Mr. Goldstein, and Mrs. Goldstein much success, and may Evansville, Indiana, realize their worth to their community as we have. Replacing Mr. Goldstein as manager of Mazer's is Mr. Milton Cohen, a newcomer to Clanton. We have met Mr. Cohen and we like him. Speaking for Clanton as a whole we say "welcome," Mr. Cohen.

For some time now, we have been hearing about the crack basketball team C.C.H.S. has turned out this year, so we went down to the gym to watch them in action the other night. We readily admit they have a real team. Under the coaching of Dewey Cox, they have won every game so far. We thoroughly enjoyed watching the boys in action and we also took note of the large crowd which turned out to see the game.

Clanton on the air! Now ain't that sumpin'. Yes sir, today at 11:30 o'clock the first radio broadcast, as far as we can ascertain, will be made from Clanton. This broadcast, as you probably know, will last for one hour and will be made from the City Hall, local radio taking part to a large extent. This Birmingham Chamber of Commerce, through which this broadcast is possible, is one live organization, and Clanton appreciates the opportunity to advertise her many advantages. So if you can't be present at the broadcast, tune in on Station WAPI at 11:30 and listen to a real radio program.

We dropped by the office of Montevallo Times the other night to chat with our good friend, W. H. (Mack) Wyatt, publisher of said paper. Mr. Wyatt explained that he was making out his "income tax," as the first of the month was drawing near. Clanton lost a real live citizen when Mr. Wyatt went to Montevallo to take charge of the Times.

The marriage of Miss Mary Nell Goodgame—operator of that popular Nell's Barbecue across the street where we, out of our love for good coffee and real tasty sandwiches, find ourselves quite often during the day—to Mr. K.V. Klinger, manager of the well known Klinger Furniture Co., brings somewhat of a merger of two of Clanton's business houses. Our sincere congratulations.

AN OUTSTANDING PUBLIC SERVICE REACHES NEW HIGH!

Over $2,000,000 In Assets Backs Every Brown-Service Policy!

Home Office Building of Brown-Service Funeral Co.

"And they had perfect faith"

• The old Latins, in describing "implicit confidence" or "perfect faith," tersely described the feeling as "Uberrima Fides."

• Brown-Service Policyholders likewise have perfect faith that their policies will without exception and without doubt be serviced and fulfilled exactly as the policy specifies . . . exactly as nominated in the bond!

• For behind these policies there stands, like the solid wall of Gibraltar, the mighty assets of this great Company . . . now more than $2,000,000.00. This company maintains $100,000.00 in Alabama State Bonds with the State Treasurer of Alabama. It is the only Funeral Insurance Company in the State maintaining such deposit, as also it is the only such Company maintaining an additional $100,000.00 Contingent Fund for possible epidemics and disasters—and it is the ONLY one with $2,000,000.00 in Assets.

• And so—Every dollar of this tremendous volume of Assets is behind your Brown-Service Policy . . . to see that when necessity comes, be it soon or years from now, your policy will be serviced as it was originally agreed!

• Brown-Service Funeral Company is the ONLY Burial Insurance Company in Alabama Maintaining $100,000 on deposit with the Alabama Treasury—the ONLY one maintaining an additional $100,000 Contingent Fund for possible epidemics and disaster—and the ONLY such company with $2,000,000 Assets!

ARNOLD SUPPLY CO.

AIR CONDITIONING EQUIPMENT

BY MICKEY BROWN

The ARNOLD SUPPLY COMPANY, located at 2923 Fifth Avenue, South, in Birmingham, Alabama, phone 3-1175 is a tribute to its home community. It is a well known fact that there is no one institution in this section, which has met with greater favor with the public, than this well known establishment. They are known by people in this section of the country as headquarters for the highest grade of air conditioning equipment.

This is the day and age when the public demands, not only magnanimous service, but the best in quality at a reasonable price. The management of this concern has met these demands and has been able to render a service to the people in their line, that is always distinctly satisfactory.

In making this annual Special Review, of the business and industrial progress of this section, the writer wishes to compliment the management upon the position they occupy in the life of the period, also their excellent and satisfactory service, and to call the attention of the public to this institution, as being one of the reliable establishments which has added much to the development and progress of this part of the state, as well as to their reasonable prices for high quality air conditioning equipment which they offer.

After the play was over, the meeting was called to order by the president. The minutes of the last meeting were read and the roll was called by the secretary. After the business was attended to the meeting was turned over to Miss Grace.

Miss Grace talked to us about buying and saving. We also planned a tea party for next meeting. After the home work, planting a rose bush was given. We were dismissed until March 4.

Sports News

Last Thursday night the Enterprise basketball boys went to Clanton to play Clanton. The game furnished plenty of thrills and laughter. Unfortunately, at the end of the game the scores were: Clanton, 34; Enterprise, 32.

Last Friday night the Enterprise boys played the CCC boys at Mitchell Dam. Enterprise also lost this game, the scores being 21 to 19. This game was also thrilling.

Next Friday, February 11, the Calera boys will come to Enterprise to play Enterprise. The girls are also inviting Cooper girls to play out here. The first game will begin about one o'clock. Come out and enjoy some real basketball playing.

THORSBY INDEPENDENTS WIN TWO IMPORTANT GAMES

On Wednesday night, January 27, the Thorsby Independents hung up their ninth and tenth victory when they trimmed the fast-stepping quintet of Foremost Dairies from Birmingham and the Y.M.C.A. of West End, Birmingham.

The former game was replete with thrills as both teams ploughed through their opponent's defense and netted point for point. The Thorsby team leaped out in front early in the game and managed to hold the lead throughout, but not without a struggle. The visitors on several occasions pulled up to within two or three points of a tie, but the home team would always manage to stem the tide and stay out in front. Hilyer and Jean Littleton paced the Thorsby teams in pointage, each stringing up 10 points. C. D. Hayes, a substitute, inserted in the lineup late in the game, ran haywire and flipped in 4 field goals to crowd his two team-mates for high-point honors.

The old reliable "Bull" Littleton entered the game the second half, with his team leading 26 to 23 and let loose a couple of nifty spot shots for four points, lifting his mates out of the danger zone. Ellison and Pate gave a fine demonstration of guarding, each holding their opponents to a low score. For the foremost team, McMillan was the shining light. This former "all-state high school" star was a pain in the neck to the Thorsby team. It was his uncanny shooting from near mid-court that nearly wrecked our hopes. He apparently couldn't miss the third quarter, and a switch of guards, which placed Pate on him, slowed down his fine exhibition of good shooting. Durbin and Howard, too, were focusing their eyes upon the basket, each looping nine points.

The season's largest crowd was present to witness the game and was fully rewarded with two clean, hard fought games, as the preliminary between Collins Chapel Jr. High and Thorsby Jr. High was played on the same night.

The Thorsby Independents are expecting to clash twice more, with the swift Mitchell Dam loopsters. Watch your county paper for announcements of the date of playing. These two teams really present a show.

House Of David Plays Mitchell Dam Feb. 18

Hearded Team One Of Nation's Best.
Won 151, Lost 8 Last Season.
Good Show Is Guaranteed.

At exactly 8 o'clock Friday night, February 15, the Mitchell Dam Cardinals will tip off against the famous House of David basketball team, one of the best on the continent. This team won 151 games last year, losing only 8. Mitchell Dam has a good, fast team, as teams go, but they will be the under dog in this contest.

The Davids play the strongest teams to be found throughout the United States, Canada and Mexico. The fans will be in an uproar when they see Tiny Malone, giant of the team, and Steinecke, the clown of the clan. The boys are bearded, leaving the impression that they are a bit too old for basketball, but beneath the shagginess are a set of youthful faces, and a more genial bunch of boys never smiled out from beneath a camouflage of whiskers such as these boys sport. Every boy is fast and versatile. The team as a whole is noted for fast passing, ball handling, long shots, comedy and novelty.

The local team is far from a weak organization, and the Cards are holding intensive practice in preparation for their game with the Davids. The game promises plenty of action, comedy and novelty, as well as basketball ability, and all basketball fans should see the boys in action in this game.

KOCHE and MALONE

The David line-up contains such men as Tiny Malone, 7 foot 3 inch all-conference center, of Missouri; he is also a star athlete in football and track; although he weighs 200 pounds, he really can move across the floor and play basketball. This is his first year as a professional player, as he finished college only the past season.

Highway Patrolmen Get Merry Chase But Get Their Man

The reputation of state highway patrolmen Wallace Waites and Earl Henley is rapidly nearing the fine point as that of the nation's famous G-Men when it comes to "getting their man."

Last Friday afternoon the two highway patrolmen spotted an automobile near Thorshy which apparently was being driven by a person under the influence of intoxicants. They watched carefully and found that the two men occupying the car had exchanged seats at Thorshy and the original driver was not driving when they gave chase.

However, one chase it was. Headed toward Clanton, the patrolmen had some difficulty in gaining sufficient speed to overtake the other speeding auto. A quick turn near the cotton mill village in Clanton showed the patrolmen that the occupants of the car were without a doubt, attempting to avoid being stopped by the law.

But, after a wild chase on a dirt road, and after a shot had been fired by the patrolmen, the fugitive car was finally stopped and a quantity of whiskey was found in it. Both men were placed in jail, one on a charge of driving while intoxicated, the other on a charge of reckless driving and possibly other charges. Anyway, the moral to the story is that the patrolmen usually get their man and that it is much safer stopping when first asked by the patrolmen.

"WILD OATS BOY" COMING TO COLLINS CHAPEL SCHOOL

"The Wild Oats Boy," a three-act comedy, will be presented at the Collins Chapel Jr. High School Saturday night, February 19, at 7:30 o'clock. This is a first rate three-act comedy crammed with wisecracks and laughs. It's all about the story of an old uncle who wanted to find out about his relatives and chose a unique way to do so.

See Mrs. Herman Lecroy as "Judy," the somewhat haughty but pretty young lady; Mrs. Gilbert Littleton as "Eddie," the Wild Oats Boy; Miss Virginia Carroll as "Aunt Anne," a sweet old lady; Mr. Maurice Hodgins as "Uncle Seth," a by-gone typical old country farmer.

Mr. Herman Lecroy as "Danny," who impersonates and dresses as a woman; Miss Lorene Jackson as "Della," the maid with the "cold in the dose"; Miss Helen Hubbard as "Pat," a happy dash-ing girl of 19; Mr. Hershel Smith as "Chuck," an ex-prize fighter, square and honest; Miss Hildon Bussey as "Eve," a young girl who suffers a serious shock.

Mr. Arthus Davis as "Prue," a very countrified over-dressed widow; Curtis Bean as "Trouble," a gangling country boy; Osmond Gore as "Mose," a faithful old dandy.

Two hours and fifteen minutes of good, clean fun. This play is being sponsored by the Parent-Teachers Association of Collins Chapel. Admission will be only ten and twenty cents. Proceeds will go for payment of school piano. Everybody is invited.

CENTRALA FARMERS CO-OP, INC.

FERTILIZER

(BY MARGARET TISDALE)

The CENTRALA FARMERS CO-OP, INCORPORATED, located on Jeff Davis Avenue, in Selma, Ala., phone 436, is not only a well equipped and expertly operated concern, but it is one of the leading commercial organizations of Selma, rendering a fertilizer service that is necessary to the agricultural progress of this section.

Because it is under the direction of men who are thoroughly conversant with every feature of the fertilizer business, it has become one of the most important assets to this section.

This is the day and age when the public demand, not only magnanimous service, but the best in fertilizer at a reasonable price. With a wide experience in their particular field of endeavor, the management of this well known organization has been able to render the farmers a fertilizer service that has been distinctly satisfactory.

In making this annual New Year Review of the onward progress of this section, the writer wishes to compliment them upon the manner in which the business of this institution is operated and upon their progressive and public-spirited policies. It is a great pleasure to recommend them to you as being one of the distinct features of the commercial efficiency of this part of the State and as headquarters for high-grade fertilizer service.

Successful farmers are now preparing and planting their spring gardens. W. A. Ruffin, extension horticulturist, reports that Alabama farmers should produce about $20,000,000 worth of vegetables more than they are now growing.

INTERLINK COTTON GIN CO.

(BY ALLIE BYRD)

The INTERLINK COTTON GIN COMPANY, located on Highway 131, off Davis Avenue, in Selma, Ala., phone 1236, is a concern that uses the latest methods in the ginning of cotton. They are known for miles around as the place where cotton is ginned not in a haphazard manner, but thoroughly cleaned. It is not necessary to wait a long time to get your cotton ginned. They have the equipment and men to take care of you, thus, avoiding delay. Farmers will find that their cotton will bring a better price when ginned by the methods used by this concern.

The active management of the plant is in the hands and under the direction of a man who is so well known that any further remarks are unnecessary but we cannot refrain from stating that this enterprise is fortunate in having at its head, a man so thoroughly familiar with the details of ginning cotton, and whose executive ability and familiarity with business conditions, have kept the plant thoroughly abreast of the times. It is such a firm as this one that makes a city prosperous and worthwhile.

This is without question, one of our most important and most valued concerns, and this annual Special New Year Review, the writer wishes to compliment them upon the excellent service they have rendered and to suggest that all farmers should consult them before having their cotton ginned.

DIXIE MOP MANUFACTURING CO.

(BY MICKEY BROWN)
The DIXIE MOP MANUFACTURING COMPANY, located at 2850 South 18th Street, in Birmingham, Ala., phone 2-1151, is meeting the rapidly increasing demand for their products on account of their plant being well equipped with the most approved appliances for the production of mops.

It is one of our most valuable enterprises and is fully worthy of more than passing notice at our hands, for not only is it the leading concern engaged in its own particular field, but its products have gained a wide reputation for general excellence and is considered a standard product among the trade.

This company gives employment to our people, always has at heart the best interests of the community and continually exerts its influence for the best interests of its home town.

Its removal from the local field would be disastrous, but its maintenance means uninterrupted continuance of the encouragement of all in the community, and the onward march of industrial, commercial and social development of this part of the country.

In making this annual Special New Year Review, the writer is pleased to compliment them upon the efficient conduct of the business and upon meeting the needs of the problems of the hour in a most thorough manner. The writer predicts for this modern establishment, continued prosperity and a great future.

IN MEMORY

On Friday night, January 29, at 7:00 o'clock the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Sims and took from their midst their beloved father, Joe Smith. He had been in declining health for the past few years. He was 86 years old, born in Coosa County near Weogufka in 1851, but had lived in Chilton County for the last forty years. He united with the Baptist Church and lived a true Christian until death. He was loved by all who knew him.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Wood at Weogufka Baptist Church in Coosa County last Sunday at eleven o'clock.

Pallbearers were Willie Smith, Raymond Smith, George Harris, Charlie Harris, and Len Dennis Smith.

He leaves to mourn his loss six children: David Smith, Sylacauga; J. D. Smith, West Palm Beach, Fla.; and Fozza Smith, address unknown. Mrs. Ada B. Sims, Sylacauga; Mrs. Eunice Dobbs and Mrs. Lula McGraw, Clanton, ten grandchildren and six great grandchildren, one brother, Jim Smith, Clanton.

Gold Ball On Capitol Flagpole Is Found Shot Full Of Lead

Repainting and repair recently of the flag-staff and the large metal sphere surmounting it, on the State Capitol dome, brought to light a novel act of vandalism by some person or persons unknown, that up to that time had not even been suspected.

When the steeple-jack employed to do the needed painting and repairing climbed to the top of the staff and removed the ball for refurbishing he made the discovery that it was as full of holes as a sieve. Nor were the holes there as the result of lightning or any other natural cause.

A glance showed the sphere had been pried apart by rifle fire, gaping holes showing the path taken by successive slugs as they pierced the hollow metal ornament from side to side.

Where the shots came from or who fired them, will probably always be a mystery. It is believed, however, that the long-range target practice was indulged in at night when the dome and flagstaff are brilliantly illuminated by floodlights.

The marksman, it is thought, conceived the idea of shooting the ball from the staff, but failing to do so after successive trials, finally gave up through fear of discovery. There was no way of accurately determining how long it had been since the shots were fired.

Incidentally, mutilation of the flag-staff ball destroyed the plan conceived by the foresight of a former governor, now dead, to keep the ball permanently bright. During his administration, with that in view, the late for-er Gov. W.W. Brandon had an expert craftsman cover the sphere entirely with gold-leaf.

The result was impressive, and the covering endured through the years until it was ruined by the sharp-shooting vandal. Howard Thames, Capitol superintendent, said it was found impossible to repair the damage to the gold-leaf, so the metal ball was mended and replaced after being coated with gilt paint as it was before the gold-leaf was applied.

EVINRUDE RIDING HIGH

WITH NEW 1938 MODELS

Jubilant after a season devoted to smashing every sales record in its 28-year history, the Veteran Evinrude Motors organization has just participated with its exhibit in the big New York Motor Boat Show, in the Grand Central Palace, New York City.

The public's attendance at the show was highly encouraging, say Evinrude officials upon their return, with dealers from almost all parts of the country highly enthused over the season's prospects. This enthusiasm is shared by Polk Bros. Motor Co., local Evinrude-Elto dealers who report having just received a consignment of new 1938 Evinrude models.

4 Headline Features Throughout Line

It is unusual to find a mechanical line of products with so complete and consistent line of outstanding features as appear in the 1938 Evinrude models. Throughout the line Hooded Power offers the double advantage of fine appearance and practical protection. Sealed Underwater Silencing provides the maximum in quick operation—easy in starting. Centrifugal Pumps that operate without wear provide clog-proof, trouble-free cooling at every motor speed. Each motor gives the comfort of Co-Pilot relief steering—the mechanical hand that takes the helm to hold a steady course when the operator lets go. Many other minor features are also applied throughout the line—and each motor possesses those individual features best suited to its size and the uses for which it is designed. And above every other feature, each model has Evinrude's famed easy, instant starting.

8 Model Evinrude Line Led By New Ranger

A brilliant, 11 horsepower model, the Ranger, leads the 1938 line of 8 Evinrudes. Following Ranger in the order of sizes are the 2 horsepower Sportsman, three Twins; Sportwin, Fisherman and Lightwin, and three Fours: Lightfour, Sportfour and Speedfour. Three special racing models are also offered. In the separate Evinrude-built Elto line are four models presenting outstanding values in outdoors at lowest possible prices.

YESTERDAY, TODAY and TOMORROW

YESTERDAY—telephones were serving a comparatively few residences and a small number of business concerns. The service was often interrupted; research and experience were needed to solve the myriad problems of the industry. But the vision was there, for a Bell document of the '70s foresaw the extension of service to all parts of the known world.

Today—the telephone is an accepted necessity, and the quality of Bell telephone service is known as the best in the world. Long distance telephone service is available to almost everywhere on the earth, even to many liners at sea and to some passenger airplanes.

The public demand for service now requires a plant investment totaling 251 millions of dollars in the South. In 1937 telephone employees received about 26 million dollars in wages, and the business paid some 7.9 million dollars in taxes.

Tomorrow—telephone service may reasonably be expected to continue to keep a step ahead of changing conditions. The physical apparatus will change—largely through the dependable efforts of the Bell Telephone Laboratories. But the spirit of telephone people will remain unchanged, and their aim in 1938 will continue to be an unceasing effort to provide more and better telephone service, at the lowest cost consistent with the financial safety of the business.

ral important matters of interest to every citizen of the county. The views of Mr. Cox as expressed in his statement this week relative to homestead exemptions, have met with the hearty approval of the small home owners. He has been one of the staunch Democrats of the county, taking an active part in the campaigns which eventually brought the county into the Democratic ranks.

Health and Welfare

The local Health Department and Welfare Department have been aided materially in their efforts in this county through work done in the past Legislature by Mr. Cox. The following letter was given the News this week by Mr. Cox:

Clanton, Alabama.

February 7, 1938.

"To The Citizens Of Chilton County:

"In making my announcement as a candidate to succeed myself as representative from this county in the legislature of Alabama, I do so after careful deliberation and due consideration for the best interests of the people of the county and state.

"As all you know, experience is very, very beneficial in any vocation or business and having dealt with the responsibilities of the office of representative and at the same time trying conscientiously to serve my county and state in the most progressive manner, I have come to the conclusion that a representative in the Legislature should be aided and guided by a 'steering committee' composed of the most competent, efficient and successful citizens to be chosen from every line of business and profession.

"I think all the bankers of our county are in closer contact with the activities and interests of all the people in the county, consequently, if I am elected I shall ask them to name or to assist me in selecting the committee mentioned above.

"I believe all will agree that all successful businesses are managed by a board of directors or a steering committee, both of which have the same duties and meaning.

The Tax System

"It is my opinion that a large part of the present tax system of the state should be changed and will undergo a change in the next session of the

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for the kindness shown us during the death of our darling son, Wilbern. We wish to express our appreciation for the floral offering also. May God's richest blessings rest on each of you.

Mr. and Mrs. Houston Porter

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Atkinson, Misses Mary Frances and Joan Atkinson and Janie Ruth Martin motored to Marion and Selma Sunday. They were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. Faulkberry.

Legislature and, considering the great task and responsibility that will rest upon the shoulders of the representatives of the state, is my main reason for wanting a committee of responsible men to guide and aid me in rendering the people the greatest service possible.

"In the last special session of the Legislature there was enacted a homestead exemption law which included only the state ad valorem taxes up to assessed valuations of two thousand dollars. Realizing how much this law has been worth to the small home owners I am convinced that we need full state and county homestead exemptions of all taxes to the assessed valuations of two thousand dollars. And, if I am elected your representative I will do all I can to enact this homestead exemption law.

"As previously stated in this letter, I here assure you that I will be governed by the steering committee, and will be guided by it on the abolishing of any objectionable local legislation of this county or on the change of any laws now affecting this county.

"I am sure there are other issues our people are interested in and I will discuss these matters giving my views in statements in the press in the future. Thanking you sincerely for past favors and soliciting your vote and influence in my behalf, I remain,
Respectfully,
"C. B. COX."

Below is a letter from Dr. V. J. Gragg who is spending sometime in Miami, Fla., resting following an illness recently. The contents of Dr. Gragg's letter are of interest to the people of the county so, the News takes the liberty of publishing it:

Editor, Chilton County News, Clanton, Alabama.

Dear Sir:

Please allow me to make a statement to the public.

I disliked very much to leave with several patients in the hospital as well as others in my private practice who were depending on me, but I had been expecting since first being severely sick in the early part of December, that the hospital would find an idle spot where it would not miss my presence.

Then, the hospital is in need of some repairs and renovation, so I had thought maybe we could close it down for a few days for renovation and needed repairs. However, the hospital kept nearly full in spite of my being really too sick to do much. For several days last month there were as little as only one to three vacant beds. Being forced to leave because of again getting down in bed, we are the services of Miss Annie H. Gardner, as temporary Superintendent, who will, we feel sure, see that everything pertaining to the hospital is properly conducted until my return, which I hope will be on or before February 20. In the meantime, anyone going to the hospital will be amply provided for.

If I am in better health, as I hope to be, and it is the will and pleasure of the directors, we will make very extensive repairs in the hospital and give it a general "overhaul" such as will meet the requirements of the most fastidious patients.

Hoping to soon be back with you, I am,

Yours very truly,
V. J. GRAGG.

people of Alabama is the greatest reward I have desired or received for my years of service as Probate Judge, Examiner of Public Accounts, and State Auditor, covering a total period of nearly forty years. Now I am asking my fellow citizens to nominate and elect me State Treasurer for the ensuing four year period.

Through the positions I have held in the public service I have generally modeled heavy responsibilities as well as difficult and complex work. It has been my purpose to meet with earnestness the requirements of official duty, having full regard for the rights of others, and to the public interests, and ever mindful of the fact that I was in the employment of the people. I am deeply grateful to those who named me to the appointive positions and to those who supported me for the places I have held by popular election.

"This gratitude I have always endeavored to prove by my devotion to the interests of both the individual citizen and the public. All I can promise for the future is a continuation of zealous and honest service in their behalf.

"The State Treasurer can have no authority to institute or enforce economies. All he can do is to safeguard the people's money and disburse it according to law. This I promise to do to the best of my ability if elected to that office, devoting to the task such experience and knowledge of the law as I have acquired in my years of study and service."

Things We Think

Things Others Think and What We Think of Things Others Think
—BILLY SMITH

New Candidates
With the deadline for political announcements near at hand, we continue to hear the names of several who may be candidates in this county for various offices. Among the foremost is Alvin B. (Buster) Foshee who friends are saying he should enter the race for representative in the Legislature. Buster is a Chilton County product and has certainly gone far in a self-made manner after completing his law studies. He is becoming one of this county's well known young attorneys and the noises we hear from his friends is that he should be a candidate are growing louder. When asked about this, Buster told us he had heard something about the matter but we couldn't get a definite reply from him.

Chilton In Coosa
We note from the daily newspapers that our old friend, T.H. Neighbors, of Goodwater, has announced as a candidate for State Senator from Coosa County. "Doc" Neighbors has a host of friends in this county, having been connected with the Alford Drug Co. here for several years. He is now engaged in the drug business in Goodwater.

McCall In The Ring
A letter from Hon. Charles E. McCall, present state auditor of Alabama, advises us that he is a candidate for State Treasurer. That's all right with us, Judge McCall as we hear some mighty good things about you not only in our own county but, over the state. We have almost convinced all the voters in this county that it is quite necessary to vote the Democratic ticket in order that they may have an opportunity to express their wishes by ballot for state officers, and the opportunity of voting for men of the high caliber possessed by you.

Maner In Cincinnati
Last Sunday, Pitt Tyson Maner, president of the Young Democrats of America, and Alabama's own son, was more than royally entertained in Cincinnati when he went there to address the state organization of Young Democrats. Being the guest of the governor of Ohio is no small honor no pleasure, but whatever courtesies extended Mr. Maner were well deserved.

"Buster" Lawson
Thomas Seay ("Buster") Lawson, of Greensboro, an assistant attorney general during the past two administrations and now first assistant to Attorney General A.A. Carmichael, announced he would be a candidate for attorney-general in the May 3rd primary.

Lawson, who has a distinguished record of almost eight years under Carmichael and the late Thomas E. Knight Jr., was associated with the latter in the prosecution of the Scottsboro negroes from the first trial of the negroes at Scottsboro in 1931 which resulted in death penalty verdicts.

He has represented the state in several impeachment cases and litigations of practically every sort in the state courts, some of which he pleaded before the United States Supreme court in Washington.

He is a grandson of Governor Thomas Seay, of Hale County, who presided over the destinies of the state from 1886 to 1890, and the son of Mayor L.G. Lawson, of Greensboro.

Following his graduation from Davidson College, Davidson, N.C., where he obtained his A.B. degree, he entered the law school of the University of Alabama, winning his L.L.B. degree in 1929. Thereupon he entered private practice at Greensboro. A year and a half later he was appointed an assistant attorney-general by Thomas E. Knight, Jr.

Our opinion is that "Buster" will make a successful and efficient attorney-general for Alabama.

Pilot Club Holds Annual "Bosses Night" Last Week With Fine Program Of Entertainment

Members of the Clanton Pilot Club, local organization of business and professional women, entertained lavishly on Wednesday night of last week at their annual "Bosses Night". Miss Carrie Smith, president of the Club, opened the meeting. Guests were introduced by Mrs. Luther Little, who gave a delightful rhyme with each introduction. Invocation was by Miss Nolen Mercery and the banquet was then turned over to Miss Ruth Sessions as toastmistress. During the tasty dinner, a program was rendered which included readings

FINAL APPEAL MADE FOR PAST ASSESSMENTS

Delinquent Paving Assessments Causing Concern To City Officials

In a final appeal to property owners of the city who have failed to pay delinquent paving assessments, Mayor C. Fenn Jones forwarded the following letter this week to these property owners. Since the News feels that the citizens of the city should know of existing conditions along this line, and with the permission of Mayor Jones, this letter is being published:

"On January 29 I wrote you on the subject of paying the assessment placed on your property for sidewalk and street paving now long past due. I requested you to call at my office and arrange to make monthly payments if you could not pay all now. You have not seen fit to give attention to this appeal from me in the interest of our City, and I regret very much you have assumed that attitude but thinking possibly you just forgot about this important matter, I am writing you again. CLANTON GETS BIG SPOT ON RADIO PROG'M

Splendid Program Presented Over Air Thursday With Birmingham Guests

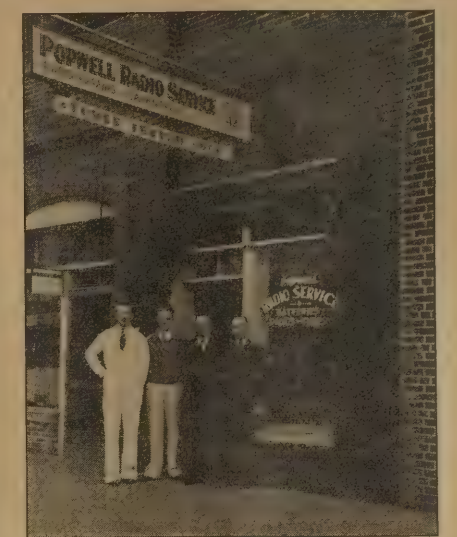

Clanton and Chilton County, home of strawberries, fruits, cotton, and fishing camps, were lauded last Thursday by the "touring microphone" of the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce in a radio program over WAPI, when a delegation from Birmingham came to this City to pay honor to its resources and progress. The broadcast took place in the new City Hall, where Robert Mangum, representing the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce, interviewed Mayor C. Fenn Jones, John Hollis, superintendent of the Mitchell Dam, near Clanton, and Harwood Hull, of the Auburn Extension Service, interviewed the County Agent and representative farm men and women of Chilton County on Agricultural products. Miss Meta E. Grace, County Home Demonstration Agent, will be in charge of the program, and she states that the program is being worked out with the aid of Miss Kathryn Foss of Clanton. LOCAL YOUNG MEN FIND BUSINESS THROUGH AID OF GOVERNMENT IN PROGRAM OF VOCATIONAL GUIDANCE

Brothers Find Vocation And Set Up Their Own Business Here

Delphin and Dolph Popwell, twin brothers of Clanton, have recently opened for business their radio and electric refrigerator repair shop, located just back of the A&P Grocery Store on the Birmingham-Montgomery Highway. This establishment goes under the name of Popwell's Radio Repair Service, and is an establishment that Clanton may well be proud of.

These two boys, though comparatively young, have had actual working experience in their chosen work, having been students in the diversified occupations class being offered at the Chilton County High School, through the cooperation of the local Board of Education and various business firms throughout the city.

It was back in September, 1936, that the first class of this program was organized here. Money for the coordinator's salary and all books and literature necessary was and is being furnished by the Federal Government, through the Department of Vocational Education. DR. J. A. HINES IS CANDIDATE FOR SENATOR

Siluria Physician Will Get Strong Support From Local Democrats

Since Shelby County comes into its own this year as its time to produce a state Senator, Dr. J.A. Hines, widely known physician of Siluria entered the race last week.

On a short visit to Clanton recently, Dr. Hines informed the News that although his practice as a physician was keeping him busy, he could not turn his back to the many urgent appeals from citizens of the three counties he seeks to represent, that he enter the race.

Chilton County will vote on the state Senator this year, being a part of the Fifteenth Senatorial District which is composed of the counties of Shelby, Autauga and Chilton.

Dr. Hines is a comparatively young man, yet with a wide range of experience and an outstanding education.

For Schools

At present he is a member of the County Board of Education of Shelby County and has for several years taken a leading interest in education. He is also a member of the Shelby County Democratic Executive Committee. Both these elective offices attest to the popularity and esteem held for Dr. Hines by his home county.

Dr. Hines is an ex-service man, and is recognized over the state as one taking an interest in behalf of the war veterans of Alabama. He requested the News to state that he hoped to get into Chilton County at an early date to see as many voters as possible. Chilton County nor Autauga County will offer a candidate for state Senator this year.

"Big Bud" McGraw Is Widely Known Throughout The Fifteenth District

Bringing the total of candidates for state Senator from this, the Fifteenth Senatorial District to only two, J.F. (Big Bud) McGraw, of Vincent, in Shelby County, made his formal announcement as a candidate this week. Mr. McGraw, who is familiarly known over the state as "Big Bud", is a native of Shelby County and one of the leading merchants and business men of the state, having successfully served at one time as president of the Alabama Merchants Association.

Was Representative

He was elected representative in the Legislature from Shelby County, serving from 1932 to 1933, making a splendid record.

Mr. McGraw is a member of the Baptist Church, a Mason, Odd Fellow, Knight Of Pythias and has been a life-long Democrat. He is also honored with the title of post-president of the Shelby County Board of Revenue and has taken a leading part in

CANDIDATES SHOW PARTY AS STRONGER

First Meeting Of Democrat Candidates Held Last Friday Night

OPPOSENTS JOIN HANDS AT FINE GET-TOGETHER

Harmony was the theme throughout a meeting of candidates on the Democratic ticket of Chilton County which was held last Friday night in Clanton, with Hon. W.M. Polk, chairman of the county Democratic Executive Committee, presiding. The meeting, held at the Thomason Hotel, was in the form of a supper, to which each of the nineteen candidates for the several county offices, were invited. With the exception of a few who were unable to attend, all present voiced approval of the "get-together" meeting.

Never before has there been such harmony and goodwill expressed by a group of candidates in this county.

Goodwill Shown

The feeling of goodwill and the united strength of the party that was shown at this meeting, would have made any Democrat swell with pride. Candidates opposing each other for the same office sat side by side at the dinner table and talked freely of the campaign and of the approaching primary election.

To say that harmony was the theme throughout the program is putting it mildly. Each candidate was called upon by the chairman and asked to say a few words. As each man rose, the air was filled with an atmosphere of goodwill and the words coming from those candidates proved beyond a doubt that any rumors there will be a split in candidates on the Democratic ticket of the county automatically were blown to bits.

Before the dinner was over, each candidate expressed his wish that another "get-together" of the Democratic candidates be held again at an early date and so requested the chairman to make such arrangements. Each candidate, being opposed on the Democratic ticket, made his stand clear that he would support the Democratic nominee in the general election and pledged himself to work for that nominee after the primary elections are over.

Billingsley To Open Auto Store In City

W.C. (Curtis) Billingsley, operator of the Billingsley Service Station, announced this week that within a few days he would open a most up-to-date automobile accessory store in Clanton.

Mr. Billingsley stated that this new place of business would specialize in automobile tires, tubes, batteries and other accessories for the motorist. A complete line of radio, oil-burning refrigerators and electric washing machines will also be carried by the new Billingsley store.

The new place will be located in the corner building directly across the highway from the Hayes Chevrolet Co. Watch for further announcements of this new business firm for Clanton.

state and county politics for a number of years.

The Fifteenth Senatorial District of Alabama is composed of the counties of Chilton, Shelby and Autauga. Chilton and Autauga will not enter a candidate this year. Mr. McGraw expects to visit in this county as much as possible during his campaign, he stated.

Co-operation In Agriculture

It is our conviction that the co-operative movement in agriculture is one of the most widely discussed and least understood of all matters of great public interest. How often we hear it said: "It's hopeless to expect the farmers to get together and work effectively in any co-operative effort. They just won't stick."

And yet co-operation in agriculture has been growing steadily and surely for many years. In all branches of agriculture, today, there are large and successful co-operatives which proceed with their work on a businesslike basis year after year, bringing substantial benefits to their members and serving the public well at the same time.

Co-operation in agriculture is a business. It must function as a well organized business. It offers little opportunity for up-roar, public excitement, agitation, and oratory. Those who succeed are doers and not talkers. We hear very little about the successful co-operatives because the men who are back of them are usually too busy to do a lot of talking.

Sometimes co-operatives do fail. There are failures in this line of effort just as there are failures in all ranks of business, but when a co-operative does go under a large number of citizens will point to the case and say: "See, farm co-operation never will work."

We would fill the columns of this paper with accounts of co-operative success from the first growers of the West to the dairymen of the East, from the monster creameries of the Mid-west to the wool, cotton and tobacco pools of other sections. But this evidence is not essential. Those who are familiar with the cooperative movement acknowledge the fact.

The cooperative movement is now on the march. It is going forward, attaining objectives visualized by leaders many years ago. It is bridging the gap between producer and consumer prices. It is moving the crop price effectively from the producer to the consumer. It is creating new demand for agricultural commodities. And above all it is giving the farmer some control over the machinery by which his product is moved and the price he receives is established.

We endorse this movement in the firm belief that it promises a better future for agriculture and will help to maintain the nation's economic machinery in better balance.

A Sound Goal For Agriculture

An authority on agriculture recently said: "The real goal of American farmers and their cooperative associations is not to practice 'scarcity economics' and maximize farm income through tight control."

"The real goal is to so organize and utilize the nation's capacity to produce food and clothing materials as to give all consumers the maximum capacity to consume the diet that makes for full health and vigor, and to be well clothed at moderate cost."

Here is a sound program. Any agricultural movement which thinks only of benefiting the farmer and disregards the rights and desires of the consumers, is rightly foredoomed to failure. Luckily, the successful farm marketing cooperatives have always kept the goal of a better deal for the public, as well as for their members, firmly in mind.

Alabama's Next Governor

Only a few more days remain for candidates to qualify as such and have their names placed on the election ballot to be used on May 3rd. Up to now it seems that Alabama's gubernatorial race will be centered around three candidates, R. J. (Bob) Goode, Major Frank Dixon and Senator Hardy Riddle.

One of these three men will become Alabama's next Governor, and it might be slightly difficult for the layman to determine just which one would prove most satisfactory for all concerned in our state. So far as their views are concerned regarding liquor in Alabama, prohibitionists must certainly realize that the old prohibition law never worked and never will, and that the new control law on liquor was necessary, in a measure, to meet changing conditions, and that Alabama's next governor must be progressive enough to have realized this same thing long ago.

Alabama's unbalanced tax system, its court system and liquor control, will no doubt become leading issues in this governor's race. In the opinion of the News, the winning candidate will be thoroughly familiar with the state's needs and present conditions on the day he is inaugurated, if not long before, and we are pleased to learn that one of the candidates mentioned above has already secured statements of condition from every state department of Alabama.

"Buster" Lawson

For Attorney General

The inclination of Alabama voters to place new and young blood in elective offices of the state will no doubt be given new impetus since the announcement from Thomas Seay (Buster) Lawson that he is a candidate for the office of Attorney-General of Alabama.

The News, being managed by comparatively young men, knows of the efforts made by younger citizens to push up and onward in their endeavors to be of service to their people. "Buster" Lawson is certainly no exception in this respect. We have known him for a long time; have had occasion to watch some of his splendid work as assistant attorney-general in behalf of the citizenship of his state.

Despite the fact that we know "Buster" and have admired him for his fairness, his intellect, his interest in his state, we did not merely trust our own judgement but, inquired in other sections of his reputation. Now, there is not the slightest doubt in our mind that Thomas Seay Lawson is fully qualified and well adapted to hold the responsible position as attorney general of Alabama and we are glad to see that his name will be on the Democratic ballot on May 3rd.

The World's Cleanest Milk

The American dairy farmer can claim, without exaggeration, that he provides the world's cleanest milk, according to an article in the Dairymen's League News.

For more than 20 years, a national war has been waged against bovine tuberculosis. Today that war is drawing to a close, with the "enemy" almost completely routed. Bovine tuberculosis exists on a substantial scale in only two of the 48 states, and the curative work is progressing rapidly in both of them.

Dairymen are now turning their attention to two other bovine diseases—mastitis and Bang's disease. While these ailments are of little consequence to the consumer of milk, they are of considerable moment to the farmer. It is believed that the diseases will be almost completely eradicated in a relatively brief time.

The war against bovine plagues, especially tuberculosis, has been conducted by government bureaus, farm organizations and other groups. Agricultural cooperative associations—which work to improve production methods as well as to obtain a fairer price for farm products—have also been a telling factor. The American consumer can be assured that nowhere else in the world could he obtain dairy products of a more sanitary nature than in this country.

By Bonnie Hand

Congratulations this week to Delphin and Delphin Powell, twin brothers, on the splendid start they have acquired in the business world in Clanton. The story and picture in this issue of the News tells how, through the practical experience program being carried out in the Vocational Department of the Chilton County High School, they gain experience in the radio repair and electric refrigeration business. In our humble opinion this is one of the most successful undertakings in the educational line that the local County Board of Education has ever sponsored. The placing of students in the various firms in the city enables them to come in contact with problems they are certain to face when they are on their own. We have one of these students here at the News Office and we think we can safely say that he will work for the fact that he gets plenty of actual working experience in the printing trade—eh, Cecil?

We dropped by to see just how these boys were getting on and to look over their establishment, the other day and we were amazed at the many things there is that one may learn about the radio and radio conditions. Delphin cranked off to tell us a few things and, of course, we put in a feeble "uh, uh, and 'that's right' now and then. (We understood everything he was talking about, of course). Think you've got something there, boys, and you must come up and let us show you how to operate a Linotype machine sometime.

It seems as though we just can't get off the subject of this Vocational training, but we can't help but admire the interest and co-operation Mr. B. E. Evans, teacher and supervisor of this program at C. C. H. S., gives the firms and students in this work.

It's good to see our friend, Ralph "Toby" Johnson back at his post at Upchurch Drug Co. Toby has been out due to a lingering illness for quite a while and we can sympathize with anyone who has to stay in bed for a great length of time—we've experienced our share of it.

Last Thursday was what could be termed a Red Letter Day for Clanton and Chilton County, when Clanton went "on the air" for one hour, beginning at 11:30 and lasting until 12:30. Clanton had so much to tell the world that the allotted hour was up much too soon. The program revolved around the interesting and we couldn't help but feel proud when our Mayor C. Fern Jones told of the many advantages Clanton has to offer the country. Yes, sir, everything went off like the old proverbial "clockwork."

We don't mean to be handing any particular person bouquets for their respective part in broad broadcast last Thursday, but we think the singing of Miss Kathryn Foss was one of the highlights of the program. Miss Foss has a trained voice and her rendition of the song "Sweetheart," accompanied at the piano by her sister, Ruth Foss, was, I am sure, enjoyed by everyone listening in. She is teacher of voice in the Thorby Institute and takes part in many of Clanton social and religious activities. And did you notice the big hand she received from those present. We also heard several comments by the Birmingham delegation on her excellent singing.

We observed that in company of the members of the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce were Mr. and Mrs. Frank F. James, who at one time were residents of Clanton. Mr. James was in the sign business here until Birmingham offered a broader field for his business where he now operates one of the South's largest and most modern sign shops. Their presence at the broadcast shows that they are still interested in the welfare of Clanton and Chilton County.

That nationally famous House of David basketball team is scheduled to clash with the crack Mitchell Dam team on the latter's court Friday night of this week. Mitchell Dam has a team that isn't to be sneezed at, but we're afraid the H. of D. will be just too big an order for the Dammers to take care of, however, we're sure they will make a creditable showing, considering the experts they will play. This will be something worth seeing and ye olde Observer extends his thanks to Manager Steve Stanley of the Dammers for the invitation to be present. We'll be there with bells on, Mr. Stanley.

We received a nice letter from one of Chilton County's charming school teachers of the fairer sex recently, inquiring as to when she might bring her six grad class of students to visit the plant of the News. This student stated that her class had been publishing a school paper and was interested in learning how a real newspaper was printed. We will, of course, be delighted to have these students visit us, and we'll give them a general idea of just what has to take place before a weekly newspaper is a newspaper. We can't promise, however, to send them away full-fledged printers, but we might

D. W. Haskew

As I entered a dry goods store I saw in large letters this sign "We have only one price." I made my purchase and had to pay the same price that others had to pay. Over at another counter I saw a negro in rags as he made his purchase and he paid the same price that I had paid. I liked to trade at that store for there was no partiality. Some stores have the habit of placing a price on the goods. This is God's way of being "jewed down." Then too, there are other stores where certain men can buy at a bargain because of the trade that they will bring the store. We are told that this is business. Let me tell you of one store that has but one price to all. This is God's store. We are told that this is business of human hearts. It matters not as to whether we be rich or poor, white or black we have got to pay the same price to be saved. In God's storehouse we see this sign, "One price to all."

I walked into the reception room of a beautiful home and on seeing what I thought to be a fire in the grate, I walked up as if to warm myself. Imagine my astonishment and embarrassment as I discovered that what I thought to be fire was only a painted screen. To be sure it looked like fire but it was only painted fire. I had the redness of heat, but there was no heat there. John Wesley called the religion in the church in his day "Painted Fire." They had a form of Godliness, but did not have the power. An artist can paint a picture of fire and deceive us when we are in search of heat, but there is no necessity for us to be deceived about the religion of folks. A form of Godliness without the power is like painted fire—it carried none of the virtues of saving grace. When a man is set on fire with God's Spirit he will be sure to radiate heat and life that will cure the souls of men.

We missed services Sunday at the Baptist Church and we don't go to school, so we were not fortunate in hearing this artist, and from what we hear we missed a real treat.

We understand we have had in our midst for the past few days a distinguished musician. This musician, we are told, is a nationally known organist and rendered selections at the Clanton Baptist Church last Sunday. We were at the local High School Monday. We missed services Sunday at the Baptist Church and we don't go to school, so we were not fortunate in hearing this artist, and from what we hear we missed a real treat.

POTASH

DOES MAKE A DIFFERENCE

DECIDE whether the acres you plant are going to work for you or whether you are going to work all season on land which will bring you little return. Properly fertilized acres are always on the job. Make sure your cotton fertilizers give the land enough potash to keep the cotton crop growing, free from rust (potash starvation), to satisfactory yields of good quality which will pay you profits. Fertilizers applied at the rate of 400-600 pounds per acre should contain from 6-10% potash to insure young cotton plants receiving enough of this necessary plant food. Later in the growing season, more potash can be added in a nitrogen-potash top-dresser, if required.

Consult your county agent or experiment station about the fertility of your soil. See your fertilizer dealer about the right amount of potash in your fertilizer. Write us for further information and literature.

A RESOLUTION

Hall of Clanton Lodge No. 423, A.F. & A.M., Clanton, Alabama, February 5, 1938.

To the Worshipful Master, Wardens and Brethren of Clanton Lodge:

We, the undersigned committee, heretofore appointed to draft suitable resolutions upon the death of Brother Wm. R. Smith, beg leave to submit the following:

Brother Smith was born near Rockford in Coosa County, Alabama, May 14, 1858, and lived there until about 1923, when he moved to Clanton County, where he continued to reside until his death. Brother Smith was a man to whom his fellow man could appeal for an honorable and upright opinion in all moral questions and in whom the whole community had the utmost confidence and respect. He was a consistent member of the Methodist Protestant Church, which he joined in 1870 and to which he was a faithful member until his death.

Brother Smith was married to Miss Abbie Wilson in January 1880 and to which union was born nine children, three sons and six daughters. Six of these children survive him. His faithful wife preceded him to the great beyond some two years ago.

Brother Smith was made and entered Apprentice in May 1904, passed in June and raised in July 1904 in Proctor Lodge No. 571, and from which he demitted and affiliated with Clanton Lodge June 19, 1928, where he continued membership until his death. Brother Smith departed this life near Clanton, Alabama, on the 23rd day of January, 1938, and was buried at Walnut Creek Church with full Masonic Honors. Therefore, be it resolved that the removal of a noble life leaves a vacancy in our Lodge and the hearts of the brethren and a shadow that will be deeply realized by his friends and the members of this lodge.

Second, that with the deepest sympathy with the bereaved relatives of the deceased brother, we express the hope that even so great a loss to us all may be overruled for good by Him who doeth all things well.

That a copy of these resolutions be spread on the minutes of this Lodge and a copy be furnished his beloved family, and to the County papers.

Respectfully submitted,
—W.H. Sartor, L.E. Little, R.W. Lowe, Committee.

Misses Amy Gene Sorrell and Mary Cost of Jemison were the week end guests of Miss Frances Bean.

Candidate

Dave Birmingham Announces For State Secretary

Chief Clerk Of Convict Department Will Seek Votes For First Time

While prospective gubernatorial candidates made guarded statements, Dave Birmingham, the articulate chief clerk of the Convict Department, announced formally that he would be a candidate for the office of Secretary of State.

It was the only definite announcement of the day for a State office and was in no way a surprise for Mr. Birmingham long ago made his plans known informally. Now, he will take an indefinite leave of absence without pay beginning Feb. 15, to press his candidacy.

Hugh Locke, of Birmingham, who announced several weeks ago that he would not be a candidate for governor, apparently is still hearing rumors as saying:

"To the contrary for he called The Montgomery Advertiser to request that he be quoted as saying:

"Over a year ago I stated that I would not run for governor. Since there has been mention of me as a possible candidate, I deem it best to say again, I will not run for governor."

The announced candidate for Secretary of State, Mr. Birmingham, at 47, is making his first bid for elective office. Hamp Draper, head of the Convict Department, who appointed Mr. Birmingham, has referred to the latter as "the most efficient and the most

Accidental Deaths High In Chilton During 1937

Violent and accidental deaths ranked second among the leading causes of death in Chilton County during 1937, reports from the County Health Department revealed today. A total of 24 deaths was attributed to this cause which was exceeded only by heart disease with 28 deaths. There were five in this group, however, which were non-resident or occurring among persons living outside of the county.

Automobiles were responsible for 18 deaths; among these were 4 in which pedestrians were struck by cars. Two persons were killed by trains and one by a tractor. One death was attributed to a fall and another to an accidental blow from a baseball bat. In addition to the 24 accidental deaths 4 from homicide and 3 from suicide were recorded.

The number of deaths attributed to other leading causes were cerebral hemorrhage 21, pneumonia 20, diseases of early infancy 15, cancer 11, tuberculosis, 7, congenital malformation 7.

ANTIOCH

(Intended for Last Week)

We are glad to say that health conditions in our community are very good at present, and we hope that it will continue this way.

Our Christian Endeavor met Sunday night with a large attendance. The meeting was called to order by our president, Mr. Arthur Crane. Then Miss Willie Pearl Rosebury rendered a good program, after which Miss Ruthie Nell Hayes gave out the program for next Sunday night. We were then dismissed by Rev. R. M. Stillwell.

Our Christian Endeavor is growing rapidly. The young people seem to be taking greater interest. We hope that before the year is out to have a one hundred per cent Christian Endeavor.

Our Sunday School is not doing so well at present. We urge everyone to come and help enlarge our congregation.

Rev. R. M. Stillwell and family were the dinner guests of Mr. Grady Culp and family of Pleasant Grove Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Hand were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Sunday.

Miss Bessie Sewell and Lois Sewell were the guests of Mrs. Hand Monday.

Miss Willie Pearl Rosebury was host to several guests Sunday.

Mrs. Emma Ratliff's son, Mr. Ernest Ratliff and family, spent Sunday afternoon with her.

Mr. Leon Hayes from Tuscaloosa was the week-end guest of Mr. W. E. Hayes and family.

The Executive Committee of the Christian Endeavor Society met Sunday afternoon, February 13, in the Fellowship room of the church. Co-workers were chosen for each committee. Fred Blankenship was elected chairman of the Press Committee. It was voted that a letter of appreciation be written to Mr. and Mrs. Manning for their kindness in opening their home to the C.E. for a social last Saturday night.

The society met Sunday evening for its regular program. Miss Lillian Smith was the leader of a program entitled "My Own Master." The entire society joined in discussion of ways of attaining self-mastery. Special music was given by a group of girls.

Thorsby Institute News

The music recital given by Miss Kathryn Foss' older pupils was held in the auditorium Saturday afternoon. Grace Mixson, though a younger pupil, was on the program because of the fact that the Mixsons are planning to leave Thorsby soon. Aside from playing two solos she gave a reading and did it very well. She is one of Miss Lois Townsley's pupils in Public Speaking.

The music recital was one of the best ever given at the Institute. Two weeks from Saturday at 3:00 o'clock the younger music pupils will give a costume music recital at the dining hall to which everyone is invited. No admission will be charged.

Some of Miss Lois Townsley's Public Speaking pupils gave a short play at chapel Monday morning. It was entitled "The Ghost of a Freshman." The scene was a room in a dormitory. Betty Jean Rowell was Mary, Florine Mims, Gertrude, Kathleen Honeycutt was Diane Reynolds, a Freshman, Ruth Cox, Rhoda, Miss Townsley Helena, the school monitor in the dormitory. "MAKE COTTON YOUR CLEAN SURPLUS"

More true today than ever in the history of Alabama and the South is this famous live-at-home paragraph penned by the famous Southern orator—Henry W. Grady:

"When every farmer in the South shall eat bread from his own fields and meat from his own pastures and disturbed by no creditors and enslaved by no debt, shall sit amid his teeming gardens and orchards, and vineyards and dairies and barnyards, pitching his crops in his own wisdom and growing them in independence, making cotton his clean surplus, and selling it in his own time and in his chosen market, and not at a master's bidding, getting his pay in cash and not in a receipted mortgage that discharges his debt but does not restore his freedom—then shall be breaking the fullness of our day."

Taking Alabama as a typical mid-South cotton state, Statistician F. W. Gist has recently revealed that to supply home needs in Alabama would require:

336,000 more milk cows—an average of 1 1-3 cows per farm. 816,000 more hogs—an average of 3.16 per farm. 4,270,000 more chickens.

He estimates that the feed required for these additional animals would require about 2,000,000 additional acres to produce. If Alabama produced all the pork, dairy, and poultry products and grains to supply state consumption, he further estimates that we would add about $51,000,000 to our gross farm income.

We believe that if the farmers of Chilton County would adopt the program of living at home it would do much to settle our farm problem.

Think this over, and if you need money to equip your farm or make a crop call on us. We are always ready to serve the farmers and help them with their problems.

F. H. A. MEETING

The recent F.H.A. meeting of the Jemison Chapter was called to order by the president, Kathryn Green. The devotional was read and the minutes read and approved. The chairmen of the program, entertainment, year-book, publicity, and services committees gave their reports. There was no unfinished business to come before the meeting. We hurried through the new business because everyone was eager for the program to begin.

Mrs. Ballard, a very prominent citizen of Jemison, talked to us about nature. She pointed out many interesting things about birds that we did not know. We all enjoy the sunset but I am sure we can appreciate it more after she taught us how to discover many colors that we had never noticed. Did you know that we don't see the same stars in winter that we see in Summer? She told us the names of different stars and something about each of them. The wild ferns, trees, and flowers were discussed enough that I think we will pay more attention to them next Spring. Jemison has a member who knows lots about nature and likes to explain it to other people. We believe that from now on nature will play a more interesting part in the lives of the F.H.A. members of Jemison.

Wednesday, February 2, is our regular meeting day. Some of the girls are going to give their ten-minute talks for their second degree. Maxine Glass is going to talk on "Manners And Customs in the Social World" and Agnes Bean on "How To Influence People And Win Friends."

ties was made before school opened that Fall and when school opened the Sr. II and Sr. III students were informed as to the training opportunities in this county and given a chance to file applications for vocational training in the vocation they wished to follow. At this time twelve students filed applications and with the business firms in the city cooperating, they were given jobs in various establishments. These students worked a specified amount of time each day, gaining actual working experience in their chosen vocation. They were paid no salaries by the firms for which they worked.

As the program got into full swing more students enrolled and the class this year is composed of 24 students, who are getting actual experience in their chosen vocation. B. E. Evans is vocational counselor and coordinator of the local class. He is constantly in touch with the firms for which the students work and has a knowledge at all times of the progress each student is making.

It was in the class of September, 1936, that Dolphin and Dolphin enrolled and selected the vocation they wished to follow. Dolphin chose Technical Radio Servicing and Dolphin chose to study Refrigeration and salesmanship. Dolphin went with the Tiffin Furniture Company where he worked in the radio department, repairing and servicing radios, while Dolphin studied refrigeration and salesmanship with another firm.

After their graduation from C.C.H.S. these two boys continued their study and work, and although on their own, they are still connected with the local class in this training, and still have as their counselor, Mr. Evans, who is still in charge of the class. Their new business establishment gives testimony to the valuable experience they gained through this program. They are equipped to test radio tubes, repair and service all home and car radios, and following the broadcast the Birmingham delegation was the guest of the Clanton Kiwanis Club at a luncheon, presided over by Patterson Hicks, president.

RADIO PROGRAM

Appreciation Is Expressed

Mayor Jones expressed his appreciation for the opportunity for Clanton to advertise its advantages.

"Birmingham has been, and is worth much to Clanton, to Chilton County, and to the entire State," he said. "Birmingham affords us a market for the things we cannot consume and it is very noticeable that when business is good in Birmingham we in Clanton have good business. In 1935, records showed Clanton had grown from 1,847 in population in 1930 to 3,365 and our area is less than three and one-half square miles. During the past three years Clanton has retired $17,000 worth of bonds, paid $10,000 of notes and $3,000 of open accounts and made many public improvements."

Judge Louis Reynolds gave a brief history of Clanton and John Hollis told of the vast development by the Alabama Power Company of Lay and Mitchell Dams, two of the largest hydro-electric developments in the State. Besides furnishing power from these dams the Coosa River furnishes a paradise for fishermen, Mr. Hollis declared. "These two dams make the Alabama Power Company a large taxpayer of Chilton County," he said.

Half Population On Farms

County Agent Fant said that half of Chilton's population is grown on farms. There are 400 separate farm units, half of which are owned by the tenants. While cotton predominates, the County last year took in more than $200,000 from strawberries, vegetables and fruits. "Dairying is another growing industry," he said.

O. H. McDowell, farmer, was interviewed about his 160-acre farm, 114 acres of which are in cultivation with cotton, fruit, vegetables, and with livestock and poultry added.

Mrs. Hans Karl Christiansen, County Council of Home Demonstration Clubs president, and Miss Helen Patterson, 4-H Club girls president, told of the work done by women and girls on farms.

The Birmingham delegation included Mr. Mangum, T. G. Brabston, John H. Morris, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Jackson, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dooce, J. C. Hodges, Jack M. G. Parker, L. T. Mays, Mr. and Mrs. Frank James, Miss Mary Winn, Miss Jessica Ingram, and Mrs. Paul Crump.

Miss Kathryn Foss, Bill Rushing and Karl Johnson, Ina Traneay and the Clanton Glee Club gave musical selections.

The local committee in charge of the radio program and luncheon included Kiwanians J. Mell Martin, John C. Page, B. N. Ivey, Frank C. Smith, and O. M. Webb. J. R. Mullins also was instrumental in the arrangements.

Approximately sixty persons, including members of the Kiwanis Club, local and out-of-town guests were present at the luncheon at The Thomson Hotel. The Kiwanis Club held their regular meeting at noon that day, taking the place of the regular Thursday night meeting.

On the program also was little Miss Susan Powers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Power. Miss Susan gave a dance number.

R. J. GOODE

I am chosen as their Chief Executive. By training, by environment and by education, I have been imbued with the belief that morality and religion are the source of human happiness, both for the individual and for society; that character should be exalted above knowledge; and that public service be esteemed a greater honor than private gain.

"I do not believe that the people of the State are interested in mere ambition to hold office.

"Good will to all classes and interests, together with a deep sympathy for those whose condition and opportunity must be improved in order to further their own and the general welfare, seem to me to be the first requisite for Governor of Alabama. Destitution without health; despair without education; and toil without reward among a large proportion of our people are conditions which must be corrected. This is no class affair. It is a common interest and a joint responsibility.

"The second requisite is that the Governor should have a knowledge of the grave needs of our people and an understanding of the Government from practical experience in legislation and administration.

"It is because I hope that I can meet these requirements and be of real public service that I have felt justified in announcing. I will in due course, state my platform and philosophy of government, and what I would strive to accomplish as Governor. At this time I feel that it is enough to say that I am party to no special interest, class, pressure group or machine, local or state, and will never be.

"If I were asked to point out what I consider the first essential to the State, it would be friendly understanding, open conferences and a united body of citizens.

"My commitments will be made publicly to all the people.

"I shall promise no office.

"I have no hostilities to carry on.

"I harbor no bitterness.

"I would not care to be governor unless I felt that I could, from my first day in office until my last, have the confidence of our people, regardless of class or station in life, and help to reconcile the class differences and misunderstandings of the past.

"With this conviction and this motive, I shall not be moved nor deceived to serve the purposes of any political machine, any class or pressure group, not any wasteful or ulterior purpose."

METHODIST MISSIONARY CIRCLE MET FEBRUARY 7TH

The monthly business meeting of the Methodist Missionary Circle met at the church on February 7.

An interesting program had been planned by Mrs. Joseph Mullins.

There were six members present from Circle No. 1 and No. 2 and four members from the Clara Mullins Circle.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Jordan and Mr. Pete Arnold were the guests last Sunday of Mrs. Olive Welch.

MAYOR'S LETTER

"It is my duty to collect this money, and it is my duty to conserve the interest of the City in all matters of public concern. This I shall do, but I will act in every instance with due and friendly consideration for the property owner; however, you have had about thirteen years in which to pay this claim and it is most unfortunate for you that you failed to make yearly small payments.

"It is unfair to the City, and it is not fair to those who have paid their assessments, and to those now making monthly payments, to allow you to escape your duty and responsibility in this matter any longer.

"As stated in my former letter, the individuals now owe about $8,000 of the $17,000 yet due on the sidewalk and street paving. If you will help pay this $8,000, we would take up $8,000 of Bonds due by the City, and at the proper time we could sell $8,000 of new bonds at a lower rate of interest, and with the money pave one mile of street. The City needs the credit, and to get more credit we must pay what we owe. This is your business: it is our business, and I hope you will take an interest in it NOW.

"If I do not hear from you in a very few days I shall dispose of the matter in as fair and just manner to all concerned as is possible for me to determine the right course to pursue. Let us work friendly together for the greatest good to the entire City.

"Yours truly,

"C. FENN JONES, Mayor."

Harrison Taylor Is Laid To Rest Thurs.

R. Harrison Taylor, age 67, of Clanton, died at his home here Tuesday night, February 8th. He was one of the widely known residents of the city, having been in the blacksmith business here for a number of years.

Funeral services were held Thursday morning at Chestnut Creek Church with the Rev. J. M. Truett and Dr. S. J. Ezell, officiating. Spigener Funeral Home was in charge of burial.

Pallbearers were Grady Taylor, Hugh Taylor, William Taylor, Charlie Rasberry and W. W. Wingard. Honorary pallbearers were Judge Lee Smith, Dr. T. J. Marcus, Ed Kemp and Dr. J. P. Hayes.

Surviving is his wife, Mrs. Ada Taylor, one son, R. R. Taylor, one daughter, Mrs. C. E. Seibert; one grandson, all of Birmingham. Three brothers, Jack, of Columbus, Ga.; Aaron, of Montgomery and Walter of Cooper.

The Lizard State

We read where John Temple Graves wrote in the Birmingham Age-Herald that Alabama had been referred to as "the lizard state" and we, like many others, are wondering why our state was ever given such a name. As Graves said, if Alabama has an abundance of lizards, we see no reason to brag about it.

Humane Societies

We have almost always had a warm feeling for any humane society, or even an individual who objected to any cruelty to animals. However, we cast a different glance at a New York City organization that wrote us regarding the treatment of dogs against rabies. We merely replied to this letter and invited the New York author of that letter to come down south and try getting bit by a "mad dog" sometime. We stated we had never tried it but understand it is not a pleasant experience, nor is it a pleasant sight to see a person affected with rabies. The New York writer said we down south should be ashamed to give the dogs the preventative shot, and even intimated that the dread disease was just a myth.

Lato Print

In reading the last few issues of this newspaper we were interested in the latest addition of columns in the paper. Our editor, Bonnie Hand, now conducts his own column under the heading "We Observe" which appears weekly on the editorial page. Bonnie says he has observed ordinals, grief and worry caused this writer until he thinks he will avoid any mention of politics or politicians in his column. That should make "We Observe" much more interesting.

"Wanna Buy A Duck?"

Stealing a question from that movie star, Joe Penner, we stick it on to our friend Jimmie Bell down at Murray-Bell Hardware store in Clanton. However, we do not know whether that flock (or covey) of young ducks in Jimmie's store window is for sale or not. Anyway they are a growing bunch. He must be feeding them some of that good poultry feed that can be purchased in Clanton.

As Usual

In looking through the program of the New Wadeson Theatre, of Clanton, appearing weekly in the News, we see that as usual our theatre is bringing to Clanton first run pictures and those among the best. The program for the coming week shows some of the best pictures of the season coming to Clanton soon.

Congratulations

Some good work was done this week by officers getting into the robberies of fishing camp cabins on the river near here. These robberies have been going on for some time and visitors from other cities as well as local camp owners were becoming rather critical about the matter.

A Letter From China

A letter comes direct from war-torn China to the people of this section and readers of the News. This letter, written by one of Chilton County's own sons, is from the Rev. Toy Williams, brother of Clanton's Leonard Williams, and an outstanding missionary. The message, telling his recent return to his home in China, appears in this issue of the News.

Judge Smith stated he would in all probability erect a home there.

MADE RECENTLY

Officers Believe They Have Broken Into Series Of Camp Robberies Here

A series of robberies occurring in the cabins at fishing camps located on the Coosa river near Clanton, have created considerable concern among owners of the camps, and last week, local officers and highway patrolmen entered into an investigation of the crimes.

Last Monday, three arrests were made in connection with the robberies and officers stated they will no doubt make other arrests as the investigation continues.

A talent scout was undoubtedly present recently when Clanton went on the air in a radio program at the city hall. On that program appeared William Rushing and George Johnson, both rendering musical selections on string instruments.

A letter from Harwood Hall, assistant extension agricultural editor of the State of Alabama, written to George Johnson, of Clanton, invited these two young musicians to appear on the Auburn Farm and Family Forum program on Saturday, February 26th, which is next Saturday.

The program is broadcast daily over Station WAPI in Birmingham from 11:30 to 12:00 noon. Johnson and Rushing are employees at the cotton mill here and have accepted the invitation.

Dixon Formally Enters
Race For Governor

Birmingham Attorney Makes Short Statement In Announcement; Says Platform Will Be Announced At A Later Date

The announcement from Major Frank M. Dixon, of Birmingham that he would be a candidate for Governor of Alabama in the elections this year, swept the entire state last week, but came as no surprise as it was generally known he would enter the race.

Major Dixon was the runner-up in the last gubernatorial election and was the only candidate in history for governor of Alabama who received over one hundred thousand votes and was not elected.

With headquarters in the Molton Hotel in Birmingham, Major Dixon opened his campaign with a splendid set-up of friends and supporters over the state. His statement which accompanied his formal announcement was short. He merely said, "I intend to enter the next race for governor. My platform will be announced later."

Major Dixon mailed his qualification papers to the Secretary of State and chairman of the state Democratic Executive Committee. Long-time supporters and short-time supporters of Major Dixon say that his nomination is sure, and of course, everyone realizes that a Democratic nomination for state offices in Alabama is tantamount to election.

Latest to eliminate himself was Col. T. D. Samford, wealthy Opelika attorney, who announced last Wednesday he would not run. Others who have been brought into the talk, only to eliminate themselves with statements, include Harwell Davis, Clarence Inzer, Dick Reeves, Hugh Locke and others. "The big parade of eliminations was led by former Gov. B.M. Miller and Henry Willingham, the educational leader."

Newly injected into the talk last week was the name of Hugh White, president of the Alabama Public Service Commission, who does not come up for reelection to that office this year. There was serious doubt on the part of most observers, however, that he would run. A.G. Patterson, of Decatur, a former gubernatorial candidate (Continued to back page)

LOCAL CLUBS ARE WORKING FOR LIBRARY

Cooperative Spirit Of All Clubs Of City Seem To Make Library Certain

A concerted move is now underway to bring to Clanton a modern library for the use of the public. This has been a long-felt need in Clanton and those behind the movement are confident that it will be a success.

Clubs Cooperating
All bridge clubs, other social clubs and civic organizations of the city are cooperating wonderfully in this movement and a small start has already been made in the accumulating of books.

It is understood that many of the bridge clubs and other clubs will ask each member to furnish one book to be placed in the library. This suggestion, it was stated, has met with approval.

The library will be temporarily located in the offices of the Board of Education, where a room and shelves for the books have already been arranged. The Board of Education offered the services of its secretary to act as librarian until other arrangements could be made.

Any individual interested enough and wishing to contribute a book, or books, to the library may leave same at the News office.

Clanton Man Injured
When Train Hits Truck

The L. and N.'s southbound Florida Arrow, crack passenger train, yesterday afternoon about 1:30 o'clock rammed a truck at the Procter Street crossing in North Montgomery, injuring the driver, Andy Johnson, of Clanton.

According to the investigation of policemen W.M. Stanley, Jr., and Able Newton, the train had begun to slow down for its Montgomery stop when the wreck occurred. Johnson was driving a Ford truck loaded with lumber, approached the crossing on the blind side of Engineer J.D. Armfield.

The fireman apparently was engaged in firing the boiler and likewise failed to see the truck. Policeman Stanley thought the cow-catcher caught the truck about the middle, knocking it onto the right-of-way.

Splintered lumber clung to the locomotive as it drew to a stop, which although quick, was so skillful that most passengers knew nothing of the accident until they detained and viewed the wreckage.

Johnson was not knocked from the truck cab. However, he was left unconscious and was taken to St. Margaret's Hospital for treatment of skull and a possible skull fracture. His condition was not regarded as grave.

Damage to the truck was relatively moderate. The locomotive's cow-catcher was rent, but the train was able to continue in 15 minutes Stanley said. It was not derailed.

A Fatter Farm Pocketbook

This will be a merry Holiday Season for agricultural America, with farm cash income at the highest level in many years. And part of the credit for that must go to the producer-consumer campaigns which chain stores have carried on during the past two years.

These campaigns were started as experiments. Their purpose was and is to move farm crops where a surplus threatened to force selling at distress levels, and thus secure a profit for the producer while giving the consumer a bargain. In the conduct of the campaign, every practical sales stimulation technique is used—abundant newspaper advertising, handbills, attractive window and store displays, the publication of new and appealing recipes for using the produce in question, etc. Producer-consumer campaigns have been carried on in behalf of beef, apples, turkeys, citrus fruits, various canned fruits, lamb, eggs and other basic food products. Each campaign has been successful. In every case, consumption has been stimulated and above-normal volume sold. The good effects are not lost after the campaign period comes to an end. New markets are explored, consumers develop a taste for a more varied diet, and the farmer's permanent market for the crops of coming years is thus materially broadened.

Other mass-distribution units made up of independent stores have emulated the chain plan to some extent, and have carried on campaigns to sell goods on the small-profits, big turnover plan. Today the experimental phase is over—in the case of the chain stores, producer-consumer campaigns are a permanent phase of operation, and new campaigns are being planned as the need and opportunity arises. That means a fatter pocketbook for the American farmer.

Trees And Shrubs On The Highways

The Alabama Motorists' Association has issued a call to motorists to help protect the plants that add to the natural beauty along the highways of the State.

"In the appeal," The Gadsden Times "specific attention is called to the destruction of seven dogwood trees in one spot near Birmingham, and a reminder also is given that this destruction constitutes a violation of the law.

"Such destruction is commonplace in the Spring and Summer months, and while there are laws that relate to the subject, such laws actually should not be necessary. Decent consideration for those who own the blooming trees as well as for good taste should be enough.

"While trees and plants that bloom along public highways are the personal property of individuals whose rights should be respected, there is a common proprietorship in beautiful things that are the gift of nature. A tree laden with lovely blossoms is more than the property of the person on whose land it stands. It belongs in a sense to all who appreciate beauty and to recklessly destroy such a tree is to wrong the owner plus thousands of others who may pass that way.

"Moreover, there is a monetary as well as an aesthetic value to beautiful things. They help to attract tourists to the South and here should be a universal desire to multiply such trees and shrubs rather than a desire to destroy them."—The Montgomery Advertiser.

A London magazine says one-fifth of all the inhabitants of Ghel, Belgium, are insane. Trying to compete with Washington, D. C.?

Who Said It First?

"Verify your quotations" is the advice of someone, but the advice is sometimes difficult to follow. In the case of many famous sayings it is hard to find out who really said them first. There are many instances of striking phrases which have been attributed to prominent persons who had really borrowed them from others.

For example, Lincoln's reference to a "government of the people, by the people, and for the people." Almost identical words were used by John Wycliffe in the 14th century, and by Robespierre, Thomas Cooper, Joseph Story, Daniel Webster and Theodore Parker long before Lincoln uttered them at Gettysburg.

Even the Golden Rule, which appears in forms in the New Testament, was expressed by Confucius five centuries before Christ and by other ancient teachers.

Perhaps the most catchy phrase ever uttered by the late William Jennings Bryan contained his "crown of thorns and cross of gold" metaphor, which is credited with securing his nomination for the presidency in 1896. It has been and still is generally believed that the phrase was original with Bryan, but the Congressional Record shows that it was spoken by Congressman Samuel W. McCall in a speech several months before.

No one whose words have been appropriated by another could have shown a better spirit towards his imitator than McCall showed toward Bryan in this instance. When questioned about it later, McCall said:

"Yes, Bryan borrowed it from one of my congressional speeches. And probably I stole it from somebody else."

False Imprisonment

In spite of the many legal safeguards which surround those accused of crime, a good many innocent persons suffer imprisonment, and even death, as the result of perjured or otherwise unreliable evidence. A few instances are related by Margaret W. Stewart of the Library of Congress in a recent article.

There is the case of William Wilson of Alabama, convicted in 1914 on the charge of murdering his wife and given a life sentence. After he had served more than three years the supposedly murdered woman was found living in Indiana, and Wilson was pardoned. He was given $3,500 by the state as partial recompense for his wrongful imprisonment.

Another victim, J. B. Brown of Florida, served 12 years for a murder of which he was finally found entirely innocent. The state gave him $2,492 in installments, or about $200 for each year in prison.

Mississippi was not quite so liberal with Moses Walker, who served five years under a false charge, but awarded him $500 upon his release.

These payments by the states concerned were made through the passage of special bills by their legislatures. Two states, North Dakota and Wisconsin, have permanent laws providing compensation for wrongful imprisonment.

It is hard to imagine anything more tragic than the punishment of an innocent person. When such unhappily occurs, it seems that compensation should be made a fixed public policy in every state. No money payment can really compensate for the mental and physical suffering experienced by the victim of false imprisonment, but it would at least assist him in making a new start in life.

Self-Help Vital

Agriculture's future depends largely on what the farmer does for himself. This fact, which should be self-evident but seems to have been forgotten in these days of political farm relief, was emphasized by Herbert King, President of the New York State Farm Bureau, in commenting on the future of the dairy industry.

"Much of the success of the industry in 1938," said Mr. King, "aside from general business conditions, will depend upon the ability of our dairymen in combining their efforts to successfully bargain in regard to price, terms and conditions of sale. Much of the success of the industry during the coming year rests squarely upon the shoulders of dairymen themselves."

That goes for any other branch of farming as well. Self-reliance and intelligent cooperation are as essential to farm progress as to the progress of a business or an individual. You can't do much for a man who won't try to help himself.

We Observe

By Bonnie Hand
An orchid this week to Miss Helen Patterson of Mitchell Dam for her worthwhile activities in the 4-H Club work of this County. She has been one of the foremost leaders in this work for several years. Always ready and willing to participate in any program for the furtherance of this work, and to enlighten the public along the lines of 4-H work, Miss Patterson is making quite a name for herself as 4-H Clubs of this county and State.

We received a letter from our friend, Saul M. Goldstein, the other day. Mr. Goldstein left Clanton recently to enter into partnership with Simon Witt of the Rosedale Department Store in Evansville, Indiana. He states he is still busy making final adjustments in his new surroundings, and sends best wishes to his friends here. Mr. Goldstein was manager of Mazer's Store.

The office of the News was brightened up a bit last Friday by a beautiful bouquet of flowers—a gift from Mrs. Annie Thacker of near Clanton. We say "Thank you," Mrs. Thacker.

Although last Friday night was not such a beautiful night to be going along, we could not resist the fine basketball game played by Mitchell Dam and the House of David at Mitchell Dam. As per our prediction, Mitchell Dam made a most creditable showing against the famous Davids, and at the end of the game Mitchell was treated by only three points. The Davids really did some good playing and the comical antics of the H. of D. kept us rolling with laughter—(well, almost rolling, anyway.) To say the least, we enjoyed this game immensely and it is worth the price of having a car washed and a good meal for the like this, any day. A large crowd turned out to see the game.

We heard him—yes sir. Last Sunday night at the Baptist Church the entire usual preaching hour was given to Mr. Leslie Hall at the college of the same name recently installed by the Clanton Baptist Church, and Miss Kathryn Foss who rendered vocal selections. We considered it a rare privilege to hear these two talented musicians. Much credit is due the Rev. S. J. Ezell, pastor, and certain members of the church for their cooperation in giving the people of this section a chance to hear them.

Mayor C. Benn Jones' plea to property owners to pay, or make arrangements to pay, assessments made some thirteen years ago against their property, meets with our hearty approval. According to Mr. Jones, the amount yet due is $8,000 and if this amount was paid the city would be in position to sell more bonds to secure money for more paving, extension of water mains, etc., after taking up bonds now due by the city some time ago the corporate limits of the City of Clanton were extended, taking in more property on which city taxes are being paid. The people who live in this new addition are entitled to the convenience of water works just as much as those residing closer in. We happen to live in this new territory and speaking from our standpoint, we would appreciate this convenience. We also think that people residing in this new addition are willing to wait until that time when the city is financially able to extend water mains, and the payment of these assessments against property owners would be a step in that direction.

We were in one of Clanton's progressive business houses one day last week and couldn't help hearing an out-of-town printer soliciting printing from the manager of this firm. Now we don't mean to be misunderstood in this matter. A person has every right to spend his money with whoever he pleases, but we think the home-town merchants should come first when the items one desires to purchase can be bought right at home, thereby helping the man whom you in turn, expect to help you. This man had a sample of a business card which he said his firm could turn out at a very low price. Posing as merely an interested bystander we inquired how it was possible that such work could be done at such a price. In an elaborate way this salesman told how, through the volume of business, the method used in printing these cards, etc., they were able to do so. (He failed to mention the cheap grade of stock used.) We happen to know that by the time a customer pays postage, C. O. D. fee, etc., and takes the chance of having his card bear an error in the wording on which he probably never gets a refund or a correction in any way, he will probably save a very few pennies and this money has left Clanton for good. We buy our automobiles, our gasoline and our clothes in Clanton. Do you give your local printers a break?

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the many friends for their kindness shown us in the death of our brother, and for the beautiful flowers also Rev. Ben Lucke for his kind words, and Martin & Sons for their services. May God's richest blessings rest on each and every one of us prayer.—Mr. R. L. Hayes and Family.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Hawkes
Near Bay Minette, Alabama, a drunken driver was on the highway with a cage of lions on his truck. As is characteristic of drunken drivers the young man wrecked his truck and in the crash three huge lions were released from their cages and made for the tall timbers. Word was flashed far and near for the people to be on guard. Men gathered from all sections and armed with powerful guns they organized a lion hunt. Soon they were located and were shot dead without warning. It was whiskey that wrecked the car and caused the lions to go free. That is characteristic of whiskey. It never fails to set the lions free in the hearts of the individual.

The pastor looked back to the rear of his church and he saw a good woman enter. He knew her well for many a time had he been in her home during his four years as pastor of that church. She quietly came down that aisle but every eye was turned toward her. It was a show to see her at church. The pastor preached a soul-stirring sermon and when he had dismissed this woman came to the altar to shake his hand saying: "Pastor, you do not know how much your message touched my heart. You have filled my cup full." The preacher felt justified in saying to her: "Sister, I am so glad that you have a cup full today but I pray God that it may not last you as long as your last cup full that you received in this church. It has been just three years since you have been here for a cup full of the gospel." Some folks must get a lot of wisdom from church, or else they never use much of what they get. We see lots of folks whose cup full will last them a month, a year, sometimes two and three years. If you do not get your gospel cup emptied real often it will have wiggle tails in it.

Not long since it was reported by an Archeologist that he had discovered an Arabian tablet that was dated 3800 years before Christ. It must have been written while Adam was yet alive. The following inscription was on the tablet: "The earth is degenerating in these latter days. There are signs that the world is coming to an end. Bribery and corruption abound. The children no longer obey their parents. Every man wants to write a book and it is evident that the end of the world is near." You agree with me that this inscription sounds rather modern. It is evident that people six thousand years ago were thinking about as they are thinking today. They thought then that wickedness would destroy the world as it does today. We have much wickedness in the world today and yet it is going on rather strong.

It Pays To Trade In Clanton!

The howling of the human race has always been about the same. Did you know that the best steel is the steel that has suffered the most. It comes out of the furnace to go back again. It is put on the anvil and beaten. It is locked in the jaws of the vise, it is heated and hammered until it seems that it can stand it no more, but after its period of testing and punishment it comes out the blade of a knife, or the mainspring of a watch. It is superior in quality and nectar from our flowers has gone through the fire. Often do we lament that we must go through the fire. It seems that we are tested and tried above other people about us. It is well to know that when we are in the jaws of the vise, when we are heated and hammered, and that the great Over Spirit of the Universe is moulding us into something that is finer and better than the ordinary life. Our afflictions, if faithfully borne, will work out for us a far more exceeding weight of glory.

Near our parsonage home there was a neighbor who was in the bee business. We made as much effort to have flowers as our neighbor made to have his bees. Every day in the spring and summer the bees across the way would come to our flower yard and gather up the fine nectar from our flowers and fly away to enrich our neighbor. Day after day I watched those busy bees as they carried from us to their owner and all we ever got out of the bee business was an occasional sting. Did we go out of the flower business because we got no honey from our neighbor? Never on your life. To be sure we suffered from an occasional sting, but to us our flowers were as much joy as was the man's bees. Our flowers had a joy and a sweetness to them that not even a bee could find. While our neighbor's bees may sip the sweetness from our flowers and carry it away to enrich him, yet we must not forget that we can get real joy out of the flowers that we grow. While our efforts may be exploited by others, yet there is a real joy for us in being able to do things which while,

"See Our Flag"

The Jr. III Class of Thomas Jr. High School consists of Pearl Davis, Bonnie Guy, Esther Lee Dennis, Pearl Mae Driver, Roy Wilson, and Billie Parrish. They formed an organization November 13, 1937 and agreed to contribute a donation each month, 10 cents each, for the purpose of learning something to be remembered by after they had graduated. One dollar and ten cents has been collected with which they purchased a rope, a tackle for the flag and paint for the flag pole. They painted it and raised it on the morning of February 9 with all honor and respect.

Sports

The Thomas Jr. girls were defeated in a basketball game by Collins Chapel on their court February 11. The game was very interesting and sportsmanship was shown by each side. To our surprise the game drew a large crowd of people.

We are looking forward to Friday, February 25, as that is the day set for Collins Chapel girls to return our game. The basketball season is drawing near to an end and we are expecting a large crowd to attend. Everyone come for we are expecting it to be a tight game.

A breakdown of the typical dollar spent in Alabama's ABC stores clearly shows the fallacy of the contention that huge sums of money are being taken out of the state.

Hints for Homemakers

By Jane Rodgers

EVEN the most homely and old-fashioned foods have succumbed to the lure of smart new packages. A favorite brand of Boston baked beans, for example, has recently shed its antiquated container for an alluring new one of heat-proof glass. In keeping with the new container is the modern method by which it is sealed. This unique sealing process, technically known as vapor-vacuum sealing, insures the freshness of the beans by hermetically sealing out air—worst enemy of freshness and flavor in food.

Mrs. Consumer is delighted with this particular package as less work is entailed in serving the beans than ever before. The beans can be heated right in the jar either by placing in a moderately hot oven or a pan of boiling water. The closure on this new bean pot adds to the pleasure of the housewife also because it can be removed easily by lifting with the flat side of a sturdy table knife.

The bean jar is so attractive that it can be used as a serving dish which results in less dishwashing and the beans stay hot for a longer period of time than when removed from pan to serving dish.

Alabama.

The 7 1/2 cents from every dollar for bottling covers the costs of the bottles and the labor for bottling, and the distiller pays an additional 1.6 cents from every dollar for freight to deliver the liquor to the state ABC warehouse at Montgomery.

The cost of the grain and other ingredients, general plant overhead, wages, salaries, costs of advertising and merchandising account for 24.5 cents of each dollar, and the remaining 1.5 cents goes as a net profit to the distiller. This last figure was obtained by federal statisticians by dividing the net dividends of the distilling companies in to their total sales volume—figures on file in the Internal Revenue Division offices at Washington.

This dollar was not taken from business channels but directly from the bootlegger who cannot compete with the low price and the high quality of legal liquor that is available under the state store system.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to take this means to express our thanks and appreciation for the many deeds of kindness and comforting words shown us during the death and burial of our son and brother, Henry. Especially do we thank those who contributed to the beautiful floral offering. May God's richest blessings be with each and everyone are our prayers.—Mr. and Mrs. Sandlin and Family.

After one day of married life, Irvine Adams, of Waterloo, Ia., filed suit for divorce against his wife, Helen, charging cruel and inhuman treatment which endangered his life.

Meeting Of Operators Of Public Establishments Set For Feb. 28

Operators of restaurants, lunch stands, meat markets, soda fountains and candy factories, were urged to convene at the City Hall on February 28th, at 7 P.M., with local health officials and a representative of the State Health Department in a statement made by Dr. S.D. Sturkie, county health officer. "This is the first step in the inauguration of the new health permit system for food handling establishments. It will be the purpose of this meeting to afford an opportunity to familiarize all local proprietors with the new regulation requiring them to obtain a permit from the local county board of health before City and County privilege licenses can be issued. This is provided for in Section 1146 Code of Alabama of 1923 as amended in September 13, 1935 and is expected to become active in October, 1938 at the regular time for issuance of State and County licenses for the year 1939. "It is the intention of State Health officials," he continued, "that this program will result in more efficient supervision of establishments serving the public and lessen the danger of disease transmission, by food, beverages, etc. Certain standard in sanitation and methods of handling food have been set up which must be met if an operator is to be eligible for a permit. It will behoove all local proprietors who will be affected by this regulation to be present and given a thorough understanding of the program."

Measles Reported

Chilton County's first outbreak of measles during 1938 occurred last week when 14 cases were reported to the county health department from the local CCC Camp according to the latest weekly news release from the health officer. Strict isolation of all the affected youths and rigid quarantine of all boys in the camp who have never had measles had been imposed it was reported. Alabama regulations require isolation of each case for one week and quarantine of non-immune contacts for two weeks, it was pointed out by Dr. Sturkie, local county health officer.

"This news need not cause alarm among parents," commented the local health officials, "but, measles like whooping cough should not be taken lightly, especially by parents of children under 3 years of age. The greatest of folly is for the mother to needlessly expose the young child to measles. Infrequently this seemingly harmless childhood disease is complicated by broncho-pneumonia resulting in death. "Parents," he continued, should be on the alert for signs of the onset of measles which usually takes place 14 days after exposure and is characterized by symptoms of an ordinary cold with nasal discharge, slight fever and watering eyes. Early in the course of the disease, physicians may make a diagnosis from the appearance of the so-called tiny white Koplik's spots in the lining of the mouth. The rash usually appears in the 4th day and is a thick eruption of large red papules appearing first on the face and then on all the skin surfaces. The family physician should always be called at the first sign and good nursing care should be given every case. Prompt reporting of all cases of measles to the health department was urged by the local health officer."

REPEAL BENEFITS IN ALABAMA

The Advertiser can assure Georgia and Mississippi that in less than a year of legal sale in wet counties (24 out of 67) in this State, $1,500,000 of revenue from liquor has been paid into the educational trust fund of the State, and that probably an equal amount has been paid into county and municipal treasuries for the support of social causes. Yet, we have no more liquor in Alabama today than we had before we levied a tax on it, and probably less drunkenness.—Montgomery Advertiser.

A. A. JACKSON WRITES

Lomax, Ala.
Feb. 21, 1938
Dear Editor of The Chilton County News,
Just a few lines to the farmers, voters, merchants, and taxpayers of Chilton County.

First, I want to call your attention to the unamerican two per cent tax law that was passed by this present administration at Montgomery. This law forces the merchant to collect on all sales from three cents and up, and keep a complete record of said sales, and keep records of the following: cash, credit, tobacco, gasoline, motor oil, and exempted articles.

This method of collecting the two per cent tax forces the merchant to do all this work of book keeping and accounting without compensation under penalty of criminal prosecution if he fails or refuses to collect this tax. The merchant who does four, or five hundred dollars worth of business per month puts in as much time or more looking after the State's two per cent as he does his part of the business. If this method by which the merchants of Alabama have to collect this sales tax doesn't put him from a constitutional standpoint, where the negro was before he got his freedom, will some one tell me why?

Brother merchant, farmer, voter, and taxpayer, wake up, and let's be Americans, and put Americans in office who will give us American lives.

The greatest problem that is before the Chilton County voters this year, politically speaking, is the selection of a Representative to represent them in the State Legislature. It's the laws that are passed by the State and nation that are gradually putting the masses in servitude and slavery.

Brother voter, let's be careful in picking our Representative.

Yours for American lives and laws,
A. A. JACKSON

CLIFFORD M. MANNING WRITES CONCERNING FAIR THIS FALL

To The People of Chilton County:

You have noticed from your county papers that there will be another county fair this Fall. Dr. V. J. Gragg wrote a piece concerning it not so long ago.

In order that we may make this fair a success, plans are being made now by those who are very much interested in the fair, the Fair Committee. The county fair is for the people of the county and should be put on by its people. A fair shows what is being grown in the county and shows what is being accomplished to the advancement for any county.

There are a number of clubs and organizations in the county that some people do not know about. In this county we have the 4-H Club, Cal Club, F.F.A., F.H.A., Home Demonstrating, Kiwanis and Pilot Clubs, which are the major organizations of the county. Members of each of these organizations should start working now for an exhibit for the organization which they are a member. The Boys 4-H Club and Cal Club should start planning an exhibit on foreign products. Ordinarily it would take from now until the fair in October to grow the products that should be shown in their exhibit. The Cal Club should be growing and breeding calves to be shown and getting their old cattle in shape to show. The F.H.A. and Home Demonstrating Clubs should be planning on canning a variety of different things, also making needlework and home furnishings and their arrangements.

Since the Kiwanis Club and Pilot Club are for the advancement of the fair, they should work with the other organizations in helping them to choose exhibits worthy of being shown at the fair.

A catalogue of the fair will be published this time. We hope to get the catalogue out in plenty of time for planning the fair. Some of the contents of the catalogue will be naming the different booths and exhibits, stating prizes and bonus of each.

So far as we know now the Littlejohn expedition will be back with us again this year, also a number of other side-shows. Plans are also being made for a horse show.

If everything goes smoothly as it has started the fair of this county will be a permanent annual affair. It is hoped that everyone will cooperate with the committees and make the second annual fair much better than the first.

Your for a better fair,
CLIFFORD M. MANNING.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Goodgame, Mr. and Mrs. Webb Parrish and Billie Ann and Mrs. Oscar Farrington of Bessemer were the dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Billingsley Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Turner Gamble have moved into the home vacated by the late Mr. Turner.

Christian Endeavor News

The Christian Endeavor Society met Sunday evening in the Fellowship Room for its regular program period. Miss Inez Duke was the leader of the program which was a very interesting one. Miss Townsley read an article from the Highroad entitled, "And I Haven't Seen Since" and the Society discussed the problems that arose. Several visitors were present for the meeting.

Thorsby Institute News

The Annual Declamatory Contest of Thorsby Institute was held Saturday night in the auditorium. The girls' prize of five dollars was awarded to Lucille McCain; the boys' prize of five dollars was awarded to Fred Blankenship. Both are Sophomores in the Institute. Ruby Rayson sang "Jeannie With The Light Brown Hair," by Foster.

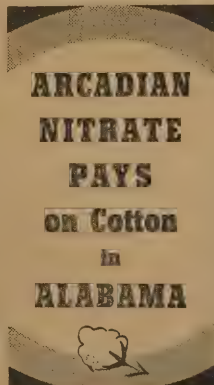

Next Saturday afternoon at three o'clock in the dining hall the Junior music pupils of Miss Kathryn Post will give a costume recital. Several public speaking pupils of Miss Lois Townsley will also give readings. Everyone is invited. No admission will be charged.

A week from Saturday night in the Institute auditorium the Helen Keller Literary Society will present a pageant entitled "Toward The Light," in honor of Miss Helen Keller for whom the Literary Society was named, and whose picture hangs in the auditorium. Miss Keller gave the picture to the school several years ago as a Christmas present. Everyone is invited to the program. Admission will be ten cents.

MT. CARMEL

"Old Man Winter" came sneaking around here the past week-end, causing folks to hunt their coats and wonder if he would destroy the early gardens and fruits. This reminds us of some folks who are always "popping" up when we are wishing they were someplace else.

Mr. Tom Foshee is still improving. He is able to sit up some now, and hopes to be on his feet again within a few days.

Miss Gladys Oden is able to be back in school this week after accidentally cutting her hand very badly at school last Thursday, although it will be a few weeks before she will be able to use her hand again.

The W. M. U. met with six members present last Saturday afternoon. It was decided to meet only once each month instead of twice as we have been doing.

We hope that all the members will be with us Thursday, March 4 to observe the week of prayer. Bring your lunch and spend the day.

The W. M. U. will have a quilting on Thursday of this week and will appreciate your help, even if you are not a member. Each one will furnish a certain part of the dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Sewell spent Sunday with Mrs. J. A. Childress.

Rev. and Mrs. Nix were the dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Sid Higgins last Sunday.

Mr. Lawrence Eiland is on the sick list.

Several ladies enjoyed the day last Friday quilting at the home of Mrs. Hattie Lenoir.

Mr. and Mrs. Royce Smith have moved into this community.

Miss Everee Foshee spent Sunday with Miss Oleta Watley.

Authorities at Ft. McClellan, Alabama are interested in obtaining information concerning a "Mr. Oliver" who has been travelling in various Southern States posing as a CCC Educational Agent. B. N. IVEY, Assistant County Agent in Charge of 4-H Club Work

Re-Organization Of 4-H County Council Held

Saturday, February 12, the officers of the 4-H Clubs in Chilton County met at the City Hall in Clanton with Miss Meta Grace, Home Demonstration Agent and Mr. B. N. Ivey, Assistant County Agent in charge of 4-H Club work, for the purpose of re-organizing the County Council for 4-H Clubs.

After a few words of greetings from Miss Grace and Mr. Ivey, Mr. Littejohn, a teacher at Stanton, entertained by playing and singing several guitar selections. Then Miss Grace introduced T. A. (Dad) Sims, from Auburn. We were very fortunate to have Dad with us. He made a very interesting and enjoyable talk about the purposes of a County Council and also offered several helpful suggestions on the various things discussed during the meeting. After the program, Helen Patterson, former president of the Council, took charge of the meeting and the officers elected follows:

President, Mary Pearl Griffin of the Enterprise Club.
Vice-President, J. C. Broadhead of the Enterprise Club.
Secretary, Inez Williams of the Enterprise Club.

Treasurer, C. E. Cagle of the Stanton Reporter, Mitcheline Mims of the Enterprise Club.

Song Leader, Helen Patterson of the Verbera Club.

Pianist, Catherine Schurter of the Maplesville Club.

Dad Sims had each of the new officers to stand before the Council, raise the right hand and pledge to do the duties required and really try to accomplish things.

Some of the things discussed during the meeting were the rallies and the camp. The rally is to be held at the High School in Clanton, April 2. We are planning to have a float to lead the parade through town. One representative from each club will ride on the float. We will have as the main speaker one of the three State 4-H leaders from Auburn, Dad Sims, Mr. Lumpkin, or Miss Elizabeth S. DeLooney.

Come on, 4-H Club boys and girls,

Hints for Homemakers

By Jane Rogers

APPLE and horseshadiah relish A offers the perfect accompaniment for roast fowl, baked fresh ham or pork. This unusual combination of steamed sliced apples, grated horseshadiah and whipped cream results in a relish of surprising flavor and zesty tang. It is most effective when served to complement meats of sweet succulent flavor.

To prepare the relish: Core and steam five tart apples. Run through a sieve. Add 1/4 cup grated horseshadiah and 2 tablespoons powdered sugar. Chill and fold in an equal amount of whipped cream. This amount yields 1 pint.

Apples baked in milk introduce a new and doubly nourishing version of an old favorite dessert. Pare and core six apples. Place in a baking pan, and sprinkle with 2 tablespoons flour, 1/4 cup of sugar and 2 tablespoons of shortening which have been rubbed together. Pour over 1 cup of milk and bake in a moderate oven (375° F.). This amount yields six servings.

New Salem

The health of our community at the present time seems to be pretty good.

Sunday was our regular preaching day, although we did not have preaching on account of our pastor being absent, but we did have Sunday School just the same. There were several absent, but we had a good meeting. Our Sunday school is growing rapidly and doing fine.

At the first of the our Sunday school divided into two groups, the "Reds" and the "Whites" sides and at the end of the quarter the side that loses has to give the other side an entertainment. If the "White" doesn't watch out they will have to go deep down in their pockets, and give the "Red" an entertainment because the "Red" side sure is winning every Sunday.

Our B.Y.P.U. is not progressing very rapidly, but we hope that it will soon pick up and do better. We are urging that all members of the Sunday school and B.Y.P.U. come regularly and help out with our work.

Remember, if you do not go to church somewhere else, that New Salem always welcomes you.

LOCAL MISSIONARY'S HOME IN CHINA IS DESTROYED

BAPTIST MISSIONARY TELLS OF CONDITIONS FOUND ON RETURN

Recently Returned To China After Furlough, Chilton County Man Finds Own Home Bombed And Ransacked; Work Continues Despite Conditions

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following letter from the Rev. J. Toy Williams is indeed one of the most interesting accounts we have read regarding conditions in China today. The News is indebted to the Rev. Williams for this letter. He is a native of Chilton County and one of the world's outstanding missionaries, having spent several years in China. He is also a brother of T. L. Williams, local manager of the Alabama Power Company.

Back to China again and glad to be here. I left my family in Tuscaloosa, Alabama, on December 6 and turned toward China. The American steamer on which I sailed did not call at Shanghai, so I had to stop five days in Kobe, Japan, and wait for a British steamer. After an uneventful journey I arrived in war-torn Shanghai on January 22, 1938. There was no difficulty in landing.

War-torn is the correct word to use concerning Shanghai. As our steamer went slowly up the Whangpoo River to Shanghai I stood with a fellow passenger on the top deck of the ship and viewed the destruction of war. Residences, stores, factories, farm houses as far as one could see across the flat country were shot up with cannon fire, blown to bits by bombs from the air, or burned to the ground. We stood on the deck and talked of the destruction for a while, but our feelings were too deep for words. We just stood and gazed in awe as the gloom of it all settled down upon us.

But this feeling of gloom was too terrible to be allowed to last for long. Finally the steamer tied up to the wharf down the river over the other side from the city proper. We got into a steam launch and soon were at the "Customs Jetty" where we were to go ashore in the International Settlement. As we neared the shore, what did we see? Not a crowd of desperate and gloomy looking people, but the smiling faces of a large number of friends who had come down to wave a hearty welcome and give a glad handshake to the returning missionary. In the midst of this wonderful welcome from friends, the gloom that had settled down upon us was forgotten for a while.

Really, we human beings are wonderfully made by the wise Creator. Here were these brave missionaries who had been in the midst of war and destruction for months and yet they could put it all behind them and with smiling faces and joyful hearts give a happy welcome to a returning comrade in the Master's service.

Time, space and the inadequacy of language forbid my describing my feelings and thoughts I went about during that first week in Shanghai viewing the ruins left by the war and establishing contact with missionaries and Chinese co-laborers in the Kingdom. Furthermore, it could not mean to the reader what it has meant to me. In spite of the difficulty of doing so, I would like to tell you of two occasions and something of my thoughts at the time.

One afternoon I went out to three places where formerly stood thriving Baptist Churches which were literally beehives of activity for the Master. Every day in the week saw some kind of worship and teaching services in these churches. But, now? Desolation! Piles of broken brick, cracked walls with parts of window frames hanging on, bits of roof twisted out of shape but still hanging on as though loathe to leave its resting place were through many seasons it has sheltered happy boys and girls and devout men and women from the mid-day summer sun and the cold blasts of winter's storm. But where are the people? Gone! Refugees from war! Their homes around the churches have also been destroyed.

From the ruins of these churches I went to the Baptist Compound. I passed through about three miles of what was once a crowded city giving homes and employment to tens of thousands of people. I did not see a single house that had not been seriously damaged or entirely destroyed. Here at the Baptist Compound once stood a high school for girls and one for boys. But now, desolation! One large building had been burned to the ground. Others had great gaping holes in the walls, parts of the roof torn off and inside walls shattered by exploding shells. One of the seven missionary residences had been blown to bits by a bomb and others severely damaged by shell fire. Destruction, destruction! How did I feel as I walked around and looked at these things? A lady in the party occasionally sighed sadly and exclaimed "Hell on earth." That came as near expressing my feelings as I could describe them.

After looking around at the other buildings I walked into the wreck of my own house where I left all our household furniture, books, and years of accumulated family keep-sakes when I went to America on furlough. Windows were smashed, doors torn down, furniture gone, bits of our piano lying on the floor, and a dog-out made under one room and lined in the mud with some of my best books and covered over with three feet of mud on the floor. Other books, torn to pieces and covered with dirt and slime, were scattered about on top of the mud covering of the dog-out.

The empty rooms with plaster from the walls, broken glass from the windows and bits of broken furniture scattered over the floor was bad enough but I went up into the attic. Here, when I went to America, I left our dishes, some clothing, bed and table linen, pictures from the walls and many other little things that accumulate through the years. These were all securely packed in big boxes. In an old trunk were packed old and precious letters, out-grown baby clothes and all those precious little things that are dear to every mother's heart. These were there, but not now. Not a thing of value was left. Broken picture frames were dumped helter skelter into a corner, but the pictures and photographs that can never be replaced were all gone. Letters, torn books, bits of broken dishes, glass shattered from the walls by exploding bombs, smashed-in boxes, pieces of destroyed toys, all were mingled and scattered in wild confusion over the attic floor. Yes, and all the little keep-sakes dear to a mother's heart were gone. But why linger among scenes of such destruction? Let us crawl out a huge hole in the roof and be gone.

A few days later came Sunday. The air was crisp on a fine winter day and the sun was shining. I walked a mile through winding and crowded streets, and finally came to an old two story residence. It was crowded with Chinese who speak the Cantonese dialect. Up stairs was a children's service in which "Jesus Loves Me" and other songs of the Master's love were being sung with zest and evident pleasure by happy children. Downstairs in two rooms and the hall were crowded—sitting and standing—about two hundred adult Christians faithfully and devoutly worshipping their Master. It was the Cantonese Baptist Church whose church home had been destroyed.

Having had some difficulty in finding the place, I arrived late. By squeezing in I did find standing room in the hall, though I could not see the speaker. The heads of the different departments of the church work were being installed for the new year, and each one gave a brief message. All were full of thanksgiving and hope for the new year. Deep in my heart I praised God for what I saw and heard.

With their country torn by war, their church building destroyed, the homes and earthly possessions of some of them gone, these brave souls are carrying on in the Master's name. They did not miss a single Sunday of worship on account of the war. On Sunday after that terribly bloody Saturday in Shanghai a little group of them got together for worship. That Sunday when it was my privilege to worship with them a note of courage, determination, hope, joy in the Lord ran all through the service.

This quiet, hopeful joyous worship in the midst of calamity greatly comforted and strengthened my heart. I thought what are my little material losses compared with my indestructible hope in the living Christ? They are as nothing. Then I thanked God for the privilege of having some part in the Lord's work in China. The fortitude of these faithful Christians greatly encouraged me. They are the kind of material out of which the Kingdom of God on earth is built.

Yes, sure, I am glad I am back in China and have a part in the Lord's work here. His Kingdom is going on in the midst of war. By His guidance and in His power some day millions in China will know the exceeding great joy of salvation in Him.

WITH YOUR HOME Demonstration Agent CONDUCTED BY MISS META GRACE

General Club News

The Alabama Home Demonstration Club sponsored a most community entertainment Friday, February 19, and raised much for their club treasury in addition to having a really good time. Games were played under the direction of Miss Gahan, President of the club, and assisted by Miss Martha Manning. As the evening must end by the evening song, Miss L. Lashie Hall, who played several selections and was enjoyed by all. The crowd of over 100 enjoyed the entertainment and were very satisfied.

At the same time, Miss Samson, in the club's community, January 19, met, sing songs, and a demonstration of the club's pastries by the members and Miss Grace and assisted by the club's committee. It was a very successful evening and was enjoyed by all. It is believed the ladies of this community are going to accomplish much through this contest. Look out your sister clubs, you had better get busy. We had two men sit in on our meeting and they are serious in their interest along with the other members.

At the same time, the club women are preparing with the Clanton Study Club in donating crepe myrtle for their roadside planting. The following ladies have donated plants: Mrs. Cleveland Kiker, Mrs. F.D. Dawson, Mrs. W.H. Adams, Mrs. Charles Cooper, Mrs. Walter Hand and Mrs. D. Wilson.

The Kitchen Improvement contest is gaining momentum every day. Let's get some, ladies. Remember, the contest is now on—and will last through June 30. Remember to keep a record of everything you do to the kitchen and your expense. These prizes look good and these Clanton merchants are interested in helping you have better kitchens so look for the list of prizes that will be given next week.

Don't forget to tune in and hear the Chilton County broadcast this Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Give our home girls a boost and remember the 4-H's would be happy if you called or wrote Station WAPI, Protective Life Insurance Bldg., Birmingham, in their behalf.

Sardis Home Demonstration Club

The Sardis Home Demonstration Club met at the home of Mrs. G.W. Sansom February 17, with eleven members present and two visitors. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. H.L. Ratliff. We began our meeting by singing two songs. We added one new member to our list, our club has agreed to sell flavoring to get money for our treasurer.

Miss Grace gave a talk on the Kitchen Contest that began January 15. Miss Grace urged each member to join in the contest and improve their kitchen. Also two committees were appointed to help the ones who enter the contest. This committee goes and checks your kitchen now and at the end of the contest does the same. The ones were Mrs. H.L. Ratliff, Mrs. G.W. Sansom. After the business sessions, the members and guests were served a delicious chiffon pie and hot chocolate. We study pastry next month. Our club urged that each member try to attend the next meeting.

ANTIOCH

(Intended for Last Week)

Our Christian Endeavor met last Sunday night with the largest congregation we have had in a long time. Our Christian Endeavor is growing rapidly under the leadership of our president, Mr. Arthur Crane.

The meeting was called to order by our president, Mr. Arthur Crane. Then Miss Annie Hayes, our secretary, called the roll and read the minutes, after which Miss Ruthie Nell Hayes presented the program which was rendered in a fine spirit by all of the participants. We then had a song and was dismissed by Mrs. J.R. Scott.

We had several visitors Sunday night, which we were glad to have. We urge you all to come back next Sunday night and we will render you a more interesting program.

Our Sunday school met Sunday morning with a very good attendance. We had an interesting lesson, the subject being, "What Shall I Do On Sunday?"

Miss Myrtice Owen had as her guests Sunday Eva Crane, Pauline Stillwell, and Lois Sewell.

Rev. and Mrs. R.M. Stillwell were the Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Mack Durbin.

Mr. and Mrs. W.E. Hayes and family spent the day Sunday with their relatives, Mr. Tyus Landers and family at Selma.

Mrs. Emma Ratliff and family were the Sunday visitors of their relatives, Mr. Earnest Ratliff and family.

Miss Rosie Bell Lewis had as her guest Sunday Miss Lavern Crane of Fletcher.

A million dollar advertising fund to stimulate America's declining taste for meat was recommended recently to the American National Live Stock Association by Thos. E. Wilson of Chicago. Data for the 12 months on income from sales of farm products and Government payments to farmers indicate a total cash income for 1937 of $8,521,000,000.

Beauty Hints

By Jane Heath

OFF-THE-FACE coiffures with curls placed high on your head . . . off-the-face hats . . . all mean eye grooming and eye makeup will be the order of the day. Curl your lashes with a mechanical lash curler that is harmless and efficient . . . in 30 seconds it gives your lashes that entrancing upward sweep. Use eyeshadow of course, but don't forget to put it on smoothly and naturally with a camel's hair eye-brow brush.

For your dressing table, there is a delicately perfumed liquid Lash-lift mascara in a very swanky black glass bottle. The glass stopper with which you apply the mascara is round in shape, so that it automatically tends to curve your eyelashes upwards as you apply the liquid. There is also a tiny brush tipped with camel's hair.

Keep your eyebrows smooth of line by using that clever and inexpensive wissors everyone is so excited about. Its scissor handles are curved for a firm grip that enables you to work quickly and surely.

A plentiful supply of grain and other feeds has encouraged farmers and feeders to put more cattle into feed lots this fall and winter than they did last year.

Because he is a second offender, Joseph Edwards, 37, of New York City, was sentenced to serve 30 years in Sing Sing Prison for a robbery which netted him only 30 cents.

FIRES PLAY HAVOC WITH FOREST PINES SAYS FANT

The Alabama Experiment Station has definite proof that loblolly, slash and shortleaf pines are almost entirely destroyed by annual burning and that longleaf pines are badly damaged, according to information just received by County Agent J.W. Fant from Lyle Brown, forester of the Alabama Extension Service.

"At the end of the fourth year the loblolly, which is our most common 'old field' pine, showed 86 per cent of the unburned plot were alive," says the report. "The plot burned once at the end of its fourth year had 10 per cent while the plot burned the second and fourth year had 8 per cent alive and the one burned every year did not have a single tree alive."

"The slash pine had 82 per cent alive on the unburned plot, 40 per cent living on the one burned at the end of the fourth year, 21 per cent alive after two fires, and 12 per cent surviving after four annual fires."

"The shortleaf had 99 per cent alive on the unburned plot with only 6 per cent living on the plot burned annually for four years."

"Longleaf on the protected plot had 73 per cent living, 32 per cent after one burn at the end of the fourth year, 42 per cent after two fires at two and four years of age, and 48 per cent on the annually burned plot. The longleaf does not begin height growth until several years after planting and is able to stand fire better than the other three species."

At the close of 1937 more than 15,000 farmers in the Southeast were cooperating on 2,250,000 acres of land with the soil conservation service and state extension services in perfecting and demonstrating a long-time soil and water conservation program.

The officers stated that a warrant for whiskey was secured in order that they could search the homes, and that a quantity of illegal whiskey was found in Grant's home also. The investigation continued this week, Sheriff Hardy stated. It was also learned that the highway patrolmen had received orders from their headquarters in Montgomery to continue their cooperation in the matter.

McKee Advises Voters On Their Voting Rights

Offers Important Suggestions To The Voters Of This County Regarding Selections Of All-Important State Officers

Clanton, Alabama, February 22, 1938.

To The Voters Of Chilton County:

After Tuesday of next week, the people of Chilton County will know just how many states will be in the field for the primaries of May 3rd and June 14th, and it is not too soon for the voters of this county to start thinking of the importance of voting and having a voice in the selection of the state officials.

The voters of this county should realize too, the great importance of making the selection of the right men to handle the affairs of their state and not place all their interest in the selection of county candidates since the state's business bears heavily upon the interest and affairs of your county, and we will help to make the laws that govern the people of this entire state.

The Governor's Race

For an illustration I will attempt to show any point in this by naming some of the important state offices to be filled by vote this year. You will, of course, realize that the Democratic ticket and that ticket alone, will carry the names of these all-important state office seekers.

This year you will select a man to become the governor of your state. That man will have the authority to make hundreds of important appointments. He is chairman of the state Pardon Board; he will appoint the wardens at the various prisons and select the guards who will look after the welfare of the state's prisoners; he will name the heads of state departments that control the well-being of you and your family.

Not only that, but, the man you voters select as your governor will mean much in the making or re-making of laws that will affect each one of you. There are six men who have already entered the governor's race. Will you select a voice which is your right, in selecting the man to turn this big and important job over to? That man will direct the spending of the state's money; that man will have the power to be merciful or unmerciful to those persons convicted of crimes, carrying death sentences, or of imprisonment. And, only on the Democratic ticket of this county will you be able to voice your choice in this race. Don't you believe that the voters of this county should be interested in the naming of the man they want to govern?

I might also remind the voters here that the man they select for governor in the primary elections this year, has a great influence on the legislative bodies that will control and adjust the tax placed upon each citizen of this county and state.

The Lieutenant-Governor

In my opinion the next important office to be elected in Alabama on the Democratic ticket in the May 3rd primary is the lieutenant-governor. The man filling this office acts as the highest law-making body in the state. He serves as governor of YOUR state in case of the absence of the governor, and should we be unfortunate enough to lose the governor, then the man you elect as lieutenant-governor will automatically become governor and ruler of the State of Alabama.

The Attorney General

The attorney general of Alabama holds another all-important office to be filled this year. This man construes the Acts passed by the Legislature into laws, by which we are governed, even here in Chilton County, as well as being a member of the State Pardon Board along with the Secretary of State and the State Auditor who are also to be elected in the Democratic primaries of May 3rd and June 14th.

This Pardon Board is the body of men that passes upon the liberty or imprisonment of the persons who are unfortunate enough to be sentenced to serve time in the state penitentiaries, and one of these persons may be your boy or my boy. Just ask yourself this—do I care to have a voice in the selecting of the men who may determine the liberty or imprisonment of my fellowman?

Other Officers

Another office to be filled, but not the least important is the State Superintendent of Education, and it is borne out by records that the sixty or more children of the state are in the schoolrooms and under the influence of those directing the educational system of our state. So I am sure you will not have any trouble in deciding that it is of major importance for YOU to help select the State Superintendent of Education who will be voted on only in the Democratic primary on May 3rd and June 14th.

Another important office of the state to be voted on in the Democratic primaries of May 3rd and June 14th is the State Commissioner of Agriculture. This being almost entirely an agricultural county it is extremely important that we use every precaution in the selecting of the man who will very greatly steer our farming industry and direct the agricultural machine in such a manner that it will protect the interests and welfare of every farmer in the State of Alabama.

There are several other offices to be voted on this year also, on the Democratic ticket of this county, namely, the associate members of the Public Service Commission which directs the raising or lowering of telephone rates, light rates, freight charges, etc.

The Supreme Court

To bring this discussion nearer to our home county government, I will mention the fact that YOU will also have the opportunity on the Democratic ticket to select a man to serve as YOUR state Senator who will represent three counties in your district, namely, Chilton, Autauga and Shelby, and will help to make the laws that govern the people of this entire state.

The Circuit Solicitor

Another important office affecting YOUR county and to be elected ONLY on the Democratic ticket in the primaries of May and June is the Circuit Solicitor. This officer holder exercises a great influence on the morals of the county and we voters should not in the least neglect our duty or ignore this opportunity of having a hand in the selection of this officer of your own county.

There is but one remedy for the ills that we suffer today and that is the character of the man. The only cure for these ills is to improve the morals of men and I think the best place to start is with our officers. If we would stop unpleasantness, hatred and arguments, then we must teach man kindness, tolerance and trust. If we would have cleaner politics we must elect leaders in politics with high ideals of service and a sense of honesty that reaches beyond personal greed.

In conclusion, I will ask you to dismiss from your mind for the time being, any interest I or any other candidate may have in this and consider only the interests of the county, will send away and decide how you can serve the best interests of yourself and your neighbor when you go to the polls to vote on May 3rd and June 14th.

I thank you for your indulgence and consideration in reading this letter, I remain,

Very truly yours,

T. L. McKEE.

CITY GAS TAX PLAN IS SEEN AS WRONG IDEA

Local Gasoline Distributors Make Statement About Additional Levy

Following is information concerning the effects of the proposed municipal taxation which is given out through the agents for the different petroleum companies in Chilton County, of which W.E. Huddleston is chairman:

In connection with proposals for municipalities to levy or increase local gasoline taxes, the following figures are compiled. A glance at this information which is based upon actual fact will definitely disclose the evil effects of local municipal gasoline taxes.

It is definitely proven that such taxes are responsible for large amounts of business being driven from the municipality levying and collecting such taxes, as the following instances disclose.

Service Station Ownership

Only about 15 per cent to 20 per cent of the service stations are owned by oil companies the balance are owned by individual citizens and since most service stations are restaurants, as the following instances disclose.

Special Gasoline Taxes Unfair for General Purposes

The use of local gasoline taxes for purposes which are entirely unjust. This calls upon about 25 per cent or 30 per cent of the citizens to carry the load of all the citizens. Not only that, but the majority of automobile owners are those having lower salaries, the poorer people of the community. Automobiles are no longer luxuries, but are necessary to these people in order that they may get to and from their work. From studies made by the United States Department of Commerce we have the following facts:

One-third of all automobiles are owned by families of $1,000 annual income or less. Of that group nearly 60 per cent of the families have an annual income of $1500 or less. Of all families owning automobiles, 90 per cent have annual incomes of less than $3,000.

Already, Alabama has the highest gasoline tax in the nation, a tax bill of all of the 48 states and the District of Columbia, and the lowest number of motor vehicles based on population, and every such added tax, whether it be local, or State, will add to one of the principal reasons for residents of Alabama to leave the state.

Automobile Clubs in other states have warned their members against visiting Alabama unless they desired to pay gasoline tax rates of from 7 cents to 10 cents per gallon.

There is no emergency which can justify the levy of a local gasoline tax for school or any other general purposes. It is agreed that schools should be kept open to educate Alabama's children, but a gasoline tax is not the way out. All taxpayers and all citizens should provide the finances.

Things We Think

Things Others Think and What We Think of Things Others Think
—BILLY SMITH

Things Of The Past—And Future

Listening to old-timers of the political game for several years and having had some experience during the eleven years of our newspaper profession, we see more than ever that the old-time and so-called "mud slinging" in politics has become a thing of the past. Credit for putting an end to the practice of "digging up dirt" on a candidate belongs to the voters in a large measure and we stand to cheer them for it.

Politicians have learned that no longer can they "bulldoze" a voter into believing most anything during a political campaign such as we Alabamians are about to witness this year. The voter is becoming more familiar with the proper functions of government through more extensive reading of newspapers, the radio and also aiding is the new generation that is being taught to think for itself. We place ourself among those enlightened souls who can now live in an age that is keeping abreast of rapidly changing conditions affected wholly by politics.

The field in Chilton County is well filled with candidates this year. The Democratic ticket will give the voters of this county a splendid opportunity to look over a large list of candidates for county and state offices. A majority of these candidates have already started their campaigns in earnest and not one time have we heard of any statement anyone of the group has made that would cast a reflection upon his opponent. That is to be commended. And, may we add here as a caution to candidates, speaking as a voter and citizen, that any practices of making detrimental statements will be recognized by the voters who are sold on the idea of clean politics and are demanding such.

We feel that we are speaking for the voters of Chilton County and the entire state when we mention these matters. As far back as our memory will permit, we do not remember any "closed season" on politics in Chilton County. (We have often wished for a breathing spell, however.) And, we take pardonable pride in believing that this newspaper has had some part in bringing about political campaigns that are conducted on a high plane, minus "mud slinging." Many times this newspaper has positively refused to publish letters and statements relative to office holders and office seekers, due to the detrimental nature of statements they contained, apparently without foundation. However, candidates, present office holders and their supporters will find this newspaper on the alert to call the public's attention to any practice which we are con-

Pete Jarman Announces; Sends Message To County

Has Made Outstanding Record During First Term Of Office

A name that is most familiar to the people of Chilton County will appear on the Democratic tickets in the primary elections this year when the voters go to the polls to select their various office holders. This name will be that of Hon. Pete B. Jarman, Jr., who announced last week that he is a candidate to succeed himself as Congressman from this congressional district which is composed of nine counties.

Chilton County gave Mr. Jarman a splendid vote in the 1936 election, when he was sent to represent his district in Congress. Shortly after he took his seat there, he was immediately recognized by Congress and placed on several of the important committees.

Singular Honor

The selection of Congressman Jarman for such important positions on committees in his first term was most unusual. However, his ability was readily seen by older congressmen and they

Repair Work Being Done On Hospital

Carpenters are at work doing some repair work on the Central Alabama Hospital. The work being done is on the foundation of the inside walls in the basement. New sills are being put in, and they are being raised up off the cement floor. A cement wall nearly two feet high will be poured and the sills placed on that. This will keep the moisture from getting to the wood and rotting it out.

This is a much needed improvement. Officials of the hospital are contemplating on making other improvements in the general lay-out of the hospital. Announcement will be made later if these plans develop.

R. M. (Roy) ROPER ILL

Friends of R.M. (Roy) Roper, candidate for Tax Collector on the Democratic ticket, will regret to hear that he has been confined to his bed due to illness for the past few days. His illness is reported not serious and he hopes to be out again soon.

Need We Make This Statement Again?

As the weeks roll by, some several persons' subscriptions to the Chilton County News are expiring and right now it is time for several to be paid up.

During the month of January, the News gave several broadside notices that a special offer of $100 per year was being made. The response was splendid.

But, need we again remind you subscribers that the Postal Laws and Regulations require that ALL subscriptions be paid in advance? The recent increase in the cost of newspaper (paper used in the News) and ink makes it quite necessary that this rule be adhered to. So, if your paper is discontinued it means that our records show your subscription is out.

Sets New Record
The Democratic ticket of Chilton County office seekers set a new record this year with 24 candidates qualifying, while the Republican ticket fell far short of this number. This fact bears out the belief found over the county that the Democrats will poll a tremendous number of votes in the county again this year in the primary elections of May 3rd and June 14th. With such a continued strong swing to the Democratic ticket evident, this will no doubt add many more voters to the Democratic ranks than ever before.

Included in the 24 candidates on the Democratic ticket for county offices are 3 far representatives in the Legislature, 3 for tax assessor, 3 for tax collector, 2 for sheriff, 3 for Commissioner from District One, 2 for Commissioner from District Two.

As stated before Mr. Hall is a graduate of the leading conservatories of the country and has studied abroad. Besides a 30-minute request program, Mr. Hall will present a number of popular selections. The entire program will be found elsewhere in this paper.

An event that has been eagerly looked forward to in this section has been announced.

The people of this section should, by all means, take advantage of these bargains I am offering them," he continued.

Ben's has been noted for the high quality line of merchandise he carries and it is a fine line that is going on the block to be sold and sold in a hurry.

The Day Of Little Business

It is often argued that the development of large businesses, especially in retail fields has tended to destroy little business and to make it next to impossible for a man without capital to set up his own establishment.

This argument has a strong appeal, but apparent facts contradict it.

During the depression thousands of little businesses sprung up in this country, largely because of the difficulties of individuals in finding employment. These little businesses offered specialized services, or lower prices, or were the outgrowth of a new idea of some kind. Many of them found a ready welcome and have prospered. With the return of better times, they are going ahead, and in due course a percentage of them will become big businesses.

Some of these little businesses failed because they provided poor service, or did not fill a definite need. But many a large business has failed for the same reasons.

One has only to look around any growing community today and see a legion of opportunities in retail lines for young men and women who are willing to work, and realize that riches can't be earned overnight. Even as changing times made necessary big business combinations to serve the public, so the evolutionary process has created a hundred opportunities for small retail businesses where one existed a generation ago.

The day of little business isn't done—it's just beginning.

The New Cars Are Out

Recently the automobile shows were held throughout the country.

The new cars are more beautiful in design and finish than ever before. They offer much in the way of improvements and gadgets. Their power plants deliver staggering performance—you can push the throttle down and run up to eighty or ninety m.p.h. without trouble — so far as the mechanics of your car are concerned.

However, the emphasis placed on speed has been productive of one of the gravest national "troubles" America has known—the growing accident toll. And the driver who thinks that seventy is safe because it seems as slow as thirty used to, should think again.

Silent engine performance won't help if we encounter a cement guard rail at high speed. Effortless steering won't make a head-on crash less destructive. Lack of vibration won't help the undertaker patch us together after the wrecking crew gets the body out with blow torches.

But these modern cars are magnificent examples of safety-engineering — blueprint safety. Brakes stop a hurtling machine in amazingly short distance, without sway or shock. All steel bodies will take a lot of punishment without serious damage. Steering mechanisms are next to fool proof. And the tire manufacturers have done their bit by reducing the blow-out hazard to a minimum.

Yet each year's safety improvements have been followed by more accidents, not fewer accidents—and by more serious accidents, not less severe accidents. Why? Because we, the motoring public have overestimated the safety factor of the new cars, just as we have overestimated the safety factor of wider, better surfaced highways. The cars and the roads are improved—and so we take the chances that lead to disaster.

The new, super-performing cars are out. Maybe you are lucky enough to be able to buy one. Have a good time with it—but treat it with respect and remember that 36,000 people die and many times more are injured and maimed on our streets and highways every year. Don't add to that list.

What Is A Safe Home

"The home has long been a symbol of safety," says W. E. Mallalieu, General Manager of the National Board of Fire Underwriters. "According to the thousands of reports received by the National Board, describing fires in homes, however, the startling truth is revealed that American homes are far from being safe as regards fire.

"What can the heads of families do to assure greater fire safety? Let them first find the answers to these questions regarding the construction of their homes: Is the cellar, containing the heating plant, cut off from the upstairs by a ceiling of cement on metal lath extending to the foundation on all sides? The door leading upstairs should be of substantial construction and not of the usual thin-panel type. It should be kept tightly closed. How about the furnace—is it correctly installed so that no burnable material is near enough to it or its pipes to be ignited by radiated heat? The chimney should be built substantially and lined with fire clay. Are electrical fixtures and wiring safe? Have fire stops been placed in walls at each floor level to prevent the spread of flames? The roof, too, should be fire-resistant. Many of these improvements can be made without great expense, even after a house is built."

Sound construction is the first essential of fire prevention. Reducing the possibility of accidental fires is vital. Mr. Mallalieu further points out that too much cannot be said about the danger of cleaning clothing with inflammable or explosive liquids. The misuse of electricity—which means amateur repair work and extensions, the overloading of circuits with too many appliances, ect.—is also another prolific source of fire.

Your home can be made safe—both from fires that are the result of poor construction and fires of the accidental variety. It is certainly worth a few dollars and a little time to protect your valuables and the lives of your family.

Farmer Failures

One of the leading bankers of the Northwest attributes many of the farm failures in his section to lack of experience, lack of working capital, or both, on the part of those who have failed.

A check-up of those who had been unsuccessful as farmers in one agricultural community illustrates his contention. Among them were the following:

Two circus musicians, a paper hanger, a sailor, a seagoing engineer, two professional wrestlers, two barbers, a cigarmaker, a race horse man, a bricklayer, an undertaker, a deep sea diver, a professional gambler, a milliner, and six old maids

All of these failed as farmers, of course, as might have been foretold, and their unfavorable experiences illustrate the futility of much of the "back to the farm" propaganda that has been going about.

Even under the stress of unfavorable conditions such as are now being experienced, farmers may be found who have not only held their own but who have made material progress. But they are not the fly-by-night kind who turn to farming after failing in other pursuits.

Money Can't Do Everything

The mad scramble for money throughout the country clearly indicates that an alarming proportion of the American people are money crazy. Money is the god for many who worship it to an extent unequalled perhaps by even those semi-civilized nations who gave their all, even their lives, to their heathen gods.

Throughout Alabama the newspapers are launching a campaign against vote buying. This campaign against fraudulent elections is most timely, as we have this year a number of important elections that should poll the opinion of Alabama voters uninfluenced by campaign funds or political tricks.

Fortunately, there are many sections of Alabama where the people do not hold to the idea "money can do anything," and elections are not determined by the amount of or lack of campaign funds. Dale County elections are not won or lost by the criminal procedure of vote buying, as only a handful of votes are available in this county at a price. Our people, we are proud to say, vote their convictions and are conscientious in their support of individuals or issues.

Money is like fire. It is a good servant but a bad master. The good people of Dale County will not tolerate its use in the county to buy votes. All candidates for office this year can remember they "can't buy an office in Dale County."—Southern Star, (Ozark).

We Observe

By Bonnie Hand

We note that our friend, Ben Margolis, is going out of the dry goods business in Clanton, and is entering, or has entered, the insurance field of work. Ben has been in the dry goods business here for a number of years and will be missed in this business. Being well known in this section we feel certain that he will make a success in his new endeavor.

Out in Beat 16, our good friend, Cleveland May, is undertaking a unique feat in the way of raising water-melons. Cleveland has promised us a ripe watermelon sometime near the middle of June, and after explaining the ways and means of producing this watermelon we feel sure we can look forward to receiving same at this time. He has planted several seeds in boxes and is allowing them to germinate in a warm place. After the danger of cold weather has passed he will transplant them in the field, hence giving them an early start. Well, he is looking for that watermelon, Cleveland.

Publisher Billy Smith directed notice to our column here on the editorial page, last week, and the fact that we are steering clear of politics in this column. Well, we have decided we would abstain from mentioning politics and politicians, as we think that time is being said and done along this line elsewhere, but we can't help but envy the prized position of his "Things We Think," on the front page every week. Wonder if we couldn't catch him off guard sometime and proceed to push him off the edge of the page, or, better yet, the white space that borders the page and creep up there ourselves. Well, we can think about it, anyway.

Out Lay Day there resides a hospitable people. Yes sir, something relative to the old 'Southern Hospitality' prevails at the Dam. Thanks, we accept that invitation to come again sometime.

Not so long ago we received by mail a report of the work being done by the Health Department of Chilton County. This report was in neat, book form and contained interesting information along this line. That the work and purpose of the Health Department is to prevent the occurrence of disease instead of administering aid to the needy sick in the County, was stressed in this report. If you haven't seen one of these books, secure a copy and read it—it is helpful.

We were quite honored last Thursday night by being invited to attend the regular meeting of the Clanton Kiwanis Club by one of its leading members. We accepted, of course, and to say we enjoyed the program rendered would be putting it mildly. Two of Clanton's most popular young ladies, Misses Grace Ezell and Ann Ross, rendered a splendid program which centered around the lives of two of America's most beloved historical characters whose birthdays occurred in the month of February—Lincoln and Washington. We hear the Kiwanians have a real treat in store for next Thursday night at their regular meeting.

The Central Alabama Hospital, we notice, is about to undergo extensive re-modeling. We are glad to see that our local hospital is to be dressed up a bit. Back in the early twenties Dr. Gragg and others interested saw a great need for this hospital. If this institution was needed then, certainly it is more so now. Due to patrons of this hospital failing to meet their bills promptly back in 1931 and 1932, it was forced to close its doors, due to lack of funds with which to continue operation. Then came the worst disaster ever to befall the citizens of this county—the tornado of March, 1932, and it was re-opened to give medical aid to the many wounded and dying. Chilton County then realized that without this institution it would suffer a great handicap. More power to the Central Alabama Hospital.

We heard the broadcast made over WAPI last Saturday by the 4-H Club girls of this county and although the time was cut short and the entire program planned was not rendered, what we heard was fine. Miss Meta E. Grace Home Demonstration Agent, was in charge of the broadcast.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

The moving picture industry of England reported to King Edward, Prince of Wales, that they had fifty thousand feet of his life, and that they would be pleased to have him sit on these reels and censor the picture for the public. The Prince took his place in the theater and closely observed the picture and when he had finished censoring the fifty thousand feet he only released for the public four thousand feet. In other words the Prince saw his life before the world and he preferred that eighty per cent of it be kept off the screen. Suppose that your life in the past were made into tape form and you were called upon to censor all of your records, how much of it would you withhold from the gaze of mankind? King Solomon censored his life in the book of Ecclesiastes, and as he watched it go by he exclaimed, "Vanity of Vanities, all is Vanity." His final conclusion was that we fear God and keep His Commandments, for this is the whole duty of man.

I was in the yard with the little lad of my heart. He was playing around and I was watching him with the fatherly pride. He was standing next to some flowers and a bumble bee buzzed up to one flower and climbed down into the petals to sip the sweetness there. He glanced up at me as if to say, "Daddy, may I catch it?" I shook my head and told him that the bee would sting. Most children have a mind of their own and without heeding the warning that I gave, he grabbed the bee between his little fingers and clamped down upon it. No sooner done than he set up a yell. The bee had buried his sting into the skin of his finger. He seemingly wanted to be angry with me, blaming me for the hurt which he had received. Grown-up people act that way toward God. They think that God punishes them. God does not punish us in this world. He warns us against sin of all kind, but we have a way of doing as we please. When we get stung we want to blame God for it. We reap what we sow. We do not break the Commands of God, we break ourselves against those Commands. God never fails to tell old and young that sin will hurt and those who escape the sting are those who sin not.

The father and mother were both dead and the family invited me to go into the room with them and hear the will read. Each member of the family found a seat and the oldest child opened the envelope and started reading. There was a perfect silence. No child criticized the wording of the will, no one criticized the grammar. Each one paid close attention to see what his portion would be in the division. Each member of the family shared equally in the division and all were satisfied. Let that be the way in which you read the Word of God. Let that be the way you listen to the Gospel of Christ. Read your Bible with unbroken attention, hear the Gospel without an ear of criticism. Listen to see what there is in it for you and then be happy over your portion.

A father and his son went to Washington and while they were there they made a visit to the hall of Congress. They happened to be in the room when the speaker of the House took his place and the chaplain to lead in the opening prayer. The little lad was looking on as the chaplain arose and in a very solemn tone uttered a few words of devotion. The boy was very much surprised and said to his daddy, "Dad, does the preacher always stand up that way and pray for Congress?" The father replied, "No, my son, the preacher stands up that way so he can see Congress and then prays for the country." There is more truth in that father's statement than we might think. When we turn our eyes toward Washington, the House, and the Senate, we are often made to feel that our country should have our prayers. When the rulers of a nation are without God, the people will mourn.

I shall never forget a story that I read in a child's story book many years ago. It was of a foot peddler who was doing business in a country infested with monkeys. In his travels on cool days in September he came to a woodland section and being tired, he stretched himself on the leaves and grass to rest. He opened his pack and took therefrom a cap and pulled it down over his head and went to sleep. The monkeys were watching him from the near by trees, and no sooner had he fallen asleep than the monkeys came down and took all of his caps and clothes. When the peddler awoke he heard the chatter in the tree tops and looking up he saw all of his goods dangling from the heads of the happy monkeys. They always do what they see a man do. He wondered how he would ever regain his stolen goods and then his wits did not fail him. He grabbed the cap from his own head and flung it away. The peddler picked up his belongings and went on his way. Old and young we still have a lot of the monkey in us. We see someone do something and we do it. Everybody is doing it. We be creatures of imitation. How foolish we act when we imitate some folks.

To maintain our present reserve of crude petroleum, oil producers are faced with the necessity of discovering each year new deposits of oil capable of producing a billion barrels of crude. To meet this demand upon them, producers are engaged in constant exploratory work through the use of ever-widening areas within our borders.

After a promising formation has been discovered it must be tested by drilling before its potentialities can be known, but such drilling is extremely costly. It is essential therefore, that before any drilling is undertaken all possible information about the sub-surface structures be obtained. In securing this information radio, the photoelectric cell, and miniature, artificial earthquakes caused by the explosion of dynamite all play a part.

Dynamite is buried 20 to 80 feet underground at strategic points about the area before drilling. At the same time that the dynamite is exploded a radio signal is transmitted, providing an exact record of the time of the explosion. From this data recorded by a seismograph—essentially the same instrument as

EMMANUEL OF ITALY TAKES THINGS EASY

Coin Collecting and Agriculture Occupy Time.

Rome, Italy.—Completely liberated from many onerous government duties which are now jealously guarded by Benito Mussolini and his lieutenants, King Victor Emmanuel divides his spare time between his coin collection and agriculture.

A passionate numismatist, the king's coin collection is said to be one of the most complete and richest of the continent. Comes pour into the Quirinal from faithful Italians scattered in all corners of the world.

Since the advent of fascism agriculture has caught the king's fancy. The Mussolinian slogan, "Back to the Earth," is respectfully observed by the Italian ruler.

Shortly after the World War King Victor Emmanuel donated a large part of his private property to needy war veterans. He now possesses three large estates: Castelporziano, in the picturesque Roman Campagna; Tombolo, in fertile Tuscany; and his favorite estate of San Rossore, attached to the summer villa of the royal house of Savoy.

Studies Summer Plants.

The royal estate of Castelporziano is famous throughout Europe for its excellent hunting preserves. Its 13,000 acres overlook the Tyrrhenian coastline. Seven thousand acres are covered with thick woods, principally pine trees. A small section of the estate is dedicated to an experimental center for the study and growth of summer plants and flowers. Queen Helen supervises work here. The rest of the estate only recently had been dedicated to the production of first quality wheat.

The wheat fields are under the direct control of Sen. Nazareno Strampelli, a master mind in wheat problems, whose studies and works are carefully followed in Canada, Australia and Argentina.

The Castelporziano estate of his majesty now produces 15,000 quintals of excellent wheat a year.

The Tombolo estate, belonging to the prince of Savoy for centuries, was a boggy waste of marsh lands before King Victor took to agriculture. Its 3,000 acres were reclaimed quickly. The reclaimed land now has a regular output of two and a half quintals of sugar beets per acre, a notable contribution to the nation's sustenance promoted by Premier Mussolini.

Vineyards Also Rich.

Its rich vineyards produce excellent wine for his majesty's table. The king's pet estate is San Rossore. He spends his summer vacations there with the royal family. A fertile forest produces excellent lumber while large fields yield rich wheat, maize, sugar beets and grapes.

Following the footsteps of his father, Crown Prince Humbert, who is showing increasing interest in agriculture.

Following his marriage to Princess Marie-Jose of Belgium in 1930, the king donated to his only son the royal castle of Racconigi, in Piedmont, famous for its beautiful gardens.

In 1935, when 52 nations enforced sanctions upon Italy for having invaded Ethiopia, Prince Humbert ordered the ornamental parks of Racconigi to be transformed into wheat fields. He divided the estate into small lots, which were distributed among poor farmers of the surrounding countryside.

Wooden Salt Mortar Is Prize Relic of Druggist

Eaton Rapids, Mich. — A prized relic from old England now belonging to Harry G. Heaton, Eaton Rapids druggist, is a wooden salt mortar more than 300 years old. It was made by a Heaton ancestor in 1616 and, with documents explaining its history, handed down from father to son. Although the papers have been lost, the story is remembered by Mr. Heaton's father, Henry G. Heaton, of Carson City, Mich. In 1616 a hard maple tree on John Heaton's homestead in England blew down during a storm. From the wood of this tree he made utensils of all sorts, including the mortar and pestle which he considered his masterpiece. It stands eight and one-half inches high, with a base four and one-half inches in diameter, and it measures five and one-half inches in diameter at its largest circumference.

No stain or other finish was ever put on the wood, Mr. Heaton says, but age and use have so polished and darkened it that it looks like finished walnut.

Potatoes Not Fattening, Expert on Foods Asserts

Ames, Iowa.—Contrary to popular belief, a few potatoes more or less in the daily diet will have no effect on the waistline, according to Miss Ruth Cessna, nutritionist at Iowa State college.

About 80 per cent of a potato is just plain water, she said, and consequently not very fattening.

From a caloric standpoint, a medium sized potato rates equally with a baking powder biscuit, a tablespoon and one-half of French dressing, or even a good sized apple or orange.

Alabama Allotted 6,000,000 Plants

Auburn, Ala.—Cooperating farmers in four regular soil-erosion-control projects and 10 CCC camp areas in Alabama have been allotted over 6 million trees, shrubs, and kudzu plants for planting during the next two or three months.

The plants include 4,700,000 trees, nearly half a million shrubs, and 1,052,000 kudzu plants reports O.C. Medlock, State coordinator for the Soil Conservation Service.

Farmers in the demonstration areas will plant the trees on badly eroded parts of their farms to show how trees will check erosion and to put such land to its best use. They will plant the shrubs in gullies, on badly-washed areas, on woodland edges, and in other places to control erosion and put useless land to work producing food and cover crops for wild life.

The kudzu plants will be planted on badly eroded spots, in gullies, on road banks, or abandoned spots, and to establish strips of permanent vegetation on steep, badly washed parts of good fields. Kudzu is a rapid-growing vine that is fast proving a very effective erosion-control plant, as well as a heavy-producing hay crop, reports J. C. Lowery, agronomist, Alabama Extension Service.

Benefits Awaiting Eligible Workers

Many Persons Reported Overlooking Claims On Reaching Age 65

Scattered throughout Alabama and the Southeast, there are a good many men and women who have reached the age 65 since January 1, 1937, and who have overlooked the opportunity to collect funds from the United States Government. These persons are entitled to lump-sum benefits paid under the Federal old-age insurance system to workers who reach the age of 65 and do not fulfill all the conditions for receiving regular monthly retirement checks.

The reminder is issued that not only these persons but survivors of deceased employees who have died since the old-age insurance provisions of the Social Security Act went into effect on January 1, 1937, can obtain the benefits which are due them if they will present their claims at the nearest field office of the Social Security Board. Such an office of the Board is located at 621 Chamber of Commerce Building in Birmingham. This field office of the Board handles this work in the Counties of Jefferson, Franklin, Lamar, Shelby, Marion, Fayette, HClinton, Winston, and Walker. Martin C. Folmar is manager of the Birmingham office.

"I'll never do it again. It's too much trouble," said Mrs. Alice Brown, of Muskogee, Okla., as she and Charley Smith, 77, applied for a marriage license.

Mrs. Anne Warner, who died recently, at the age of 101 at Walton, Eng., lived all her life within 5 miles of her birthplace.

AMY JOHNSON WILL QUIT FLYING GAME

No More Airways to Conquer, Declares Aviatrix.

London, England.—Amy Johnson, heroine of the first solo flight by a woman from England to Australia, has decided to give up flying.

Knowing that Empire air liners and the royal air force are better able to make record dashes to South Africa and Australia, and seeing the Russians flying over the pole, she believes there is nowhere in the world to fly to and set up new records except with the backing of government finances.

"Fly?" she said. "It is the last thing I would dream of doing now. If I saw any prospects of doing anything by flying again I would go ahead. No, I am just going around now wondering what on earth I am to do with life."

"But I am not going to fly, I don't know what I'm going to do. In the old days it was my business to be photographed and interviewed with Jim, my husband. For me all that terrific publicity is now ended."

Has Earned Thousands.

Miss Johnson has been a good business woman. In ten years of spectacular flying, with half a dozen great flights to her credit, she has made many thousands of dollars. She has lived in fashionable hotels and saved enough to buy a fine house in London and expensive cars.

Ever since that memorable day in 1928 when Amy Johnson first took her young sister, Mollie, for a circus flight over Hull, England, she knew she wanted to fly. Five years later, twenty-seven years old and a stenographer in Fleet street, she made a 9,000-mile hop from Croydon airport to Port Darwin, Australia. No one dared hope that this inexperienced aviatrix, with not more than 90 hours in the air to her credit, could perform such a feat. A newspaper scoffed when Amy offered to write a story of her trip (if she completed it). Later that same newspaper had to pay Amy, always the business woman, $50,000 to go on a flying tour for it.

The next year—July, 1931—Amy set off for a London-to-Tokyo flight with her tutor, C. S. Humphreys. They made this run in the record time of 10 1/2 days.

Broke Three Records.

In 1936 Miss Johnson succeeded in smashing three records—from England to Cape Town, Cape Town to England and for the round trip. On May 7, 1936, she landed in Cape Town, Africa, from England in 3 days 6 hours and 29 minutes, shaving the record set by Tommy Roe by 11 hours 9 minutes. She completed the homeward journey in 4 days 16 hours and 16 minutes. Rose took 6 days 6 hours and 37 minutes to make this trip. Her round-trip flight took her 7 days 22 hours and 42 minutes, as against Rose's 10 days 34 minutes.

Four years ago Amy Johnson and her husband, Capt. James A. Molison, made a transatlantic hop from Wales to America. Their plane, Seafarer, was wrecked when they tried to land at Bridgeport, Conn., for fuel. They were within 60 miles of their goal—Floyd Bennett airport, when they ran out of gasoline.

Alaska Purchase Paper

Located in Washington

Washington.—General accounting office officials announced the finding of the $7,200,000 warrant with which the United States paid for the Territory of Alaska—and faces in the department lost the reddish tinge that had characterized them for the last few days.

It all developed when investigation disclosed the warrant—a priceless document—hadn't been seen in thirty years.

Deputy Anthony Dimond of Alaska introduced a bill in congress calling for permanent transfer of the warrant to a museum at Juneau, Alaska. Treasury department workers then went to locate the paper, recalled that it was supposed to be transferred to the general accounting office when that arm of government was established in 1921, and asked the G. A. O. for it.

For two days search was fruitless, but finally the warrant was located, tucked away in a musty filing case.

Hints for Homemakers

By Jane Rogers

A GOOD turkey perfectly roasted attains the peak of perfection when stuffed with a light dry bread dressing liberally flavored with delicious Brazil nuts. The creamy texture and delicate flavor of this brown shelled nut, a traditional favorite of the holiday season, adds a festive flavor to an easily prepared bread stuffing. It is the ideal stuffing for holiday birds. A tested recipe follows:

Brazil Nut Stuffing
2 onions
1/2 cup melted butter
2 cups sliced Brazil nuts
Salt and pepper
8 cups soft bread crumbs
Mix onions and cook two minutes in the butter. Mix Brazil nuts and seasoning with bread crumbs and stir into butter. Cook two minutes more, stirring constantly. If a moist stuffing is desired, add a little water. This amount of stuffing is enough for a ten-pound turkey.

IN MEMORY OF GEORGE HAYES

George Hayes was called away from this world on February 17, 1938. He was fifty years and nine months old, born in Elmore County, and lived there until he was twenty. He then moved to Chilton County and lived with his father until his death. He joined the church when he was thirty-two and lived a Christian life thereafter. He had many friends who knew and loved him and he had a kind heart toward everyone.

He was married in 1917 to Miss Edna Mullins. To this union were born four children, two of which preceded him to the grave. He leaves to mourn his loss a wife, Mrs. Edna Hayes; two children, Mrs. Ethel Lee Headley, of Clanton Rte. 3, Mr. George Hayes, Jr., of Clanton Rte. 3; a mother, Mrs. Hephzibah Hayes; two sisters, Mrs. Mattie Bennett, of Birmingham, and Mrs. Lillian Roberts, of Clanton; five brothers, Jessie, John, Leonard, Hughberry, and Elmer.

The funeral services were held at Maple Springs Church, Friday morning at eleven o'clock with Rev. Andrew Davis, Ben Tucker, and Joe Kelly conducting. The interment was held in the adjoining cemetery with Martin and Sons in charge.

Palbearers were Reddie Dobbs, Andrew and Shelley Davis, Woodrow Kelly, and Grover White.

He leaves many relatives behind him. He is gone but not forgotten. A place is left vacant in that home that will never be refilled.

Liquor Law Reduces Child Labor Abuses

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 28.—Robert R. Moore, state commissioner of labor today credited the Alabama Alcoholic Beverage Control law for a sharp decrease in the "immoral influences" brought about by minors working in drugstores which sold liquor in prohibition days.

Moore said his department was still working to eliminate the practice, that he said, "was not one that was caused by repeal; it is a situation that has existed for some time."

At these establishments, which sold liquor and beer illegally during prohibition day," he said, "repeal has helped this department."

"The sale of liquor at state stores has greatly decreased the hazardous or immoral influences of the drugstores, where beer and liquor is sold," he said.

The ABC law provides specifically that "no hotel, club or restaurant licensee shall employ any person under the age of 21 years of age to sell or dispense alcoholic beverages of any kind."

Chilton County Farm Agent's News

J. W. FANT, County Agent

To All Cream Shippers And Commercial Milk Producers:

I have just received the following letter from Mr. F. W. Burns, collaborator, Extension Animal Husbandman, Auburn, Alabama:

"As you probably know the State Department of Agriculture established cream grades in Alabama on January 1, 1937. Under this law each cream station operator is required to grade each patron's cream and a differential is generally paid for quality cream."

With inspectors from the Department of Agriculture wish to acquaint all cream shippers with the new regulations and teach them the few fundamental things necessary to produce quality milk and cream. To do this it will be necessary to get the cream shippers together at various points over the state, preferably at or near the cream stations. We are requesting that you cooperate in this work by writing each cream shipper to attend the meetings scheduled in your county."

Mr. Wilkinson will attend this meeting and point out the essential steps

Syphilis Clinic Is Growing Rapidly

The weekly syphilis clinic conducted by the County Medical Society in the office of the county health department is undergoing a rapid increase in size, according to a report by the county health officer. Organized in September, 1937, with only 6 patients, the clinic now is rendering anti-syphilitic treatment to a total of 44 persons. Of these there are 17 white and 27 colored. New cases are being discovered each week as a result of the health department's persistent efforts to do Wasserman or blood tests for syphilis on persons admitted to it service.

"Eight of the clinic cases are negroes employed as servants in homes," said Dr. Sturkie. "There can be no doubt that these persons undergoing active treatment are much safer as far as transmitting syphilis to the family than the servant who has not received a Wasserman test. Without our present clinic, these often unsuspected and unrecognized victims of syphilis would go untreated and spread the disease to others. In my opinion the clinic is one of the most valuable contributions to the public health made by the local medical profession and the county health department."

Legion Sponsors Big Youth Movement

Indianapolis, Ind., March 2.—Believe it or not, but the American Legion today is the sponsor of what probably is the greatest organized sport activity for boys in the entire world. That sport activity is Junior Baseball.

More than 500,000 boys, all under 17 years of age, enroll annually in this nation-wide American Legion program. These boys are organized into more than 30,000 teams.

Elimination play in the annual tournament to determine the Junior World's Baseball Championship Team starts on June 30, each year. The country is divided into three sections, each section into four regions and each region, with one exception, into four states. Elimination play starts by determining first the city winner, then country winner, then district winner, then state winner. The state winners fight it out in regional tournaments. The regional winners then meet in sectional tournaments. Of the three sectional winners, one draws a bye, the other two play it out. The two finalists then meet in the annual Junior World's series.

Builds Characters

The American Legion's purpose in conducting this vast junior baseball program is to develop good characters in these boys while giving them an organized recreational activity. While the Legion teaches the boys how to throw curves, how to field, how to bat and how to use good diamond strategy, it also teaches them how to be good sportsmen. In this manner The American Legion is building for a better future citizenship, for the Legion takes the stand that boys who learn to play fairly a game under the rules, will later in life play fairly the game of life under the rules of society.

Every boy enrolled in Junior Baseball must memorize the following code of good sportsmanship:

Keep the rules.
Keep faith with your comrade.
Keep your team.
Keep yourself fit.
Keep a stout heart in defeat.
Keep your pride under in victory.
Keep a sound soul a clean mind and a healthy body.
Junior Baseball teams are required to repeat this code in union before the start of every game.

Mrs. O. D. DeLoach gave a poem "Prayer In The Home."

IN MEMORY OF HENRY SANDLIN

On February 13, at 1 A.M., the death angel came and took the life of Henry Sandlin in his arms and said, "your time is up, come with me."

Henry was a promising young man loved by everyone. He is missed in his home and community. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Sandlin, and leaves to mourn his loss one sister, seven brothers—Mrs. Holly Franks, Messrs. Kern Sandlin, Charlie Sandlin, Elbert Sandlin, Asberry Sandlin, Leonard Sandlin, Woodrow and Junior; besides a host of relatives and friends.

He was laid to rest in the Chestnut Creek cemetery on February 14. Pallbearers were Smolen and Adell Thornton, Lamar and Herschell Hand, Jerrrell Miller and Kyle Smith. Rev. Jones officiated with Martin & Sons in charge of burial.

Mourn not for him, for he is better off. The Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away.—By a Friend.

Southern Farmers Will Vote On March 12th

Alabama farmers, together with those throughout the South, will vote March 12 on whether or not cotton marketing quotas will be put into effect during 1938.

All farmers who produced cotton in 1937 will be eligible to vote, announces P. O. Davis, director, Alabama Extension Service, in expressing hopes that all cotton farmers vote. The ballot will be secret.

"Do you favor cotton marketing quotas for the 1938 crop?" is the question appearing on the official ballot.

If approved by two-thirds of the cotton producers voting the referendum, cotton marketing quotas will be put into effect this year.

If marketing quotas are disapproved by more than one-third of the farmers voting there will be no cotton loans, regardless of how low the price may go.

Hints to Gardeners

by Gilbert Bentley
Flower Expert
Ferry Seed Institute

Avoid "Forlorn" Gardens

A GARDEN loses its charm when it is neglected. A little attention at strategic times during the growing season will keep your garden out of the "forlorn" class.

A bit of "tidying" is necessary with bulb flowers that have bloomed and drooped. If bulbs are to be left in the ground, remove the unsightly past prime stalks, leaving just enough stub so the bulbs can be located in the fall. If it is desired to remove the bulbs entirely, store them until fall in a dark, dry place.

The beauty of the garden scene is enhanced, of course, if annuals are grown in the space left unused by removal or clipping of bulb flowers.

It is advised also to clip the tops of early-blooming perennials when they have begun to wilt. This is a good move not only because it keeps the garden neater, but because there is a chance of procuring a second bloom from some flowers if the first is cut when just past its prime. This applies particularly to delphinium, sweet william, perennial dianthus and pyrethrum.

In almost all cases, annuals bloom more abundantly if they are picked regularly. Continuation of bloom adds much, of course, to the charm of the garden, and if one picks regularly he can keep the plants free of dead foliage.

Let in the season the gardener may wish to keep annuals well picked to prevent reseeding. In certain localities certain annuals tend to mature, seed, drop it, and produce an unwanted profusion of seedlings the following spring. The gardener should ascertain which annuals are likely to reseed in his territory.

In their dormant period, when perennials have lost their beauty as foliage, they should be cut to the ground. Throughout the growing season, regular weeding will naturally be necessary.

Farmers Using Better Grades Of Fertilizers

In a recent report by the Alabama Department of Agriculture giving sales of fertilizers by analyses during the past year it is revealed that the average mixture used by farmers of the state would have analyzed 5.1 nitrogen, 8.2 phosphorus, and 4.3 potash—a total of 17.6 per cent plant food.

While comparable statistics from other states are not available, this is probably the highest average in the South since a number of states do not have a minimum plant food content fixed by law as does Alabama which requires a guarantee of at least 16 per cent plant food.

A study of the trend in the use of the three major plant food elements by farmers of the state shows that since 1934 the average grade of fertilizer contained about the same amount of nitrogen and phosphorus each year, while the content of potash has shown a substantial increase.

The greatest percentage increase shown among the analyses last year was in the 4-10-7 grade which has been the most popular truck fertilizer for years, but which was widely used as a cotton fertilizer last year. Based upon prices at which fertilizers sold last year farmers found that this grade when used with a nitrogen side dressing gave them the lowest cost plant food obtainable.

While weather conditions were unusually favorable for nearly all crops the past season, the heavy yields recorded are attributed in a large measure to the better grades of fertilizer used and to the increase applications per acre which were made.

BANKERS HELPING WITH ALABAMA FARM PROGRAM

Alabama bankers are cooperating in launching a program for helping farmers increase their income in 1938 and future years.

Roland Adams, chairman of the Agricultural committee of the Alabama Bankers Association, has written key bankers of the State urging them to confer with county agents and assist in formulating and recommending an agricultural program of work. "The Agricultural committee is quite hopeful that each of you will be able to do something worth while," he says.

P. O. Davis, director, Alabama Extension Service, also has written key bankers urging that they "give first consideration to livestock development which requires adequate financing for livestock needs," he says. "Unless our farmers have access to adequate funds necessary for livestock development they will cling to cotton, thereby practicing an unbalanced agriculture in the face of an over-supply of cotton."

"I wish to urge you, therefore, to give careful consideration to livestock financing. It should not be the only subject, even though it is the most important. Starting with it, we should cover the entire field with a view to maximum economic development of Alabama agriculture."

Hints to Gardeners

by Gordon Morrison Vegetable Expert Ferry Seed Institute

Make Fall Plantings

MANY gardeners believe that a most planting should be done in the spring. Vegetables thus are ready for the table in late spring and summer, according to the length of time required for maturing.

For vegetables maturing fairly rapidly, however, early fall is as desirable a time for planting as spring. With a second planting of the fast-growing garden items, there is fresh food for the table well into the fall and winter, and vegetables to be stored or canned are more crisp and in better condition to be kept over a period of several months.

In fact, Chinese cabbage or celery cabbage must not be planted before fall. If planted too soon it forms a useless plant with leaves much like mustard or turnip and soon produces a seed stalk instead of a head.

Radish, spinach, cabbage, beans, carrots and beets are excellent crops for fall planting. Turnips and rutabaga also thrive when planted in late summer.

Gardeners sometimes have the feeling that the warm, dry weather is not suitable for germination and sprouting of seed. Droughty conditions may easily be overcome in the garden. When ready to plant, form the drill and fill it with water. When excess water has drained away, leaving the soil moderately moist, the seeds may be planted and covered as usual.

In some cases, late summer or early fall planting is actually better than spring planting, for the crop is finer when it matures in the cool, moist fall, rather than in the hot spring and summer months. Spring planting is important, of course, to provide fresh vegetables early. But none need miss the joy of tasty fresh vegetables in October, November and December.

FACTS FROM THE RECORD

Written by F. C. Stephens, Publisher of The Southern Democrat, Ocala, Fla.

The State Tax Commission

From a financial stand point the Tax department is the most important of all departments of the State government. It is charged with the duty of seeing that all revenues for the operation of the State, and some of those for County and Federal functions, are collected. These revenues must be collected if appropriations are to be paid. It is therefore, important that efficiency be maintained and that men of experience be placed in charge.

It is not the purpose of this article to deal with all the different phrases of the department but to acquaint the public with those whose duty it is to see that taxes are paid by those who are due to pay under the law.

The Commission itself is composed of Henry S. Long, John P. Kohn Sr., and W. W. Ramsey, with Mr. Long as Chairman, Mark L. Tucker is assistant to the Commission in charge of Motor Vehicle Licenses. Miss Julia Kling is Secretary to the Commission.

The duties of this department are so varied and so great that it is necessary to have a chief clerk in charge of each of the eleven divisions, and he is made responsible for the operation of his division.

Henry T. Knight is in charge of the Public Utilities Division.

James H. Nelson is in charge of the Tobacco Tax Division.

The collection of Ad Valorem taxes and Sales taxes is being directed by John C. Curry.

The Franchise tax is in charge of C. G. Abercrombie.

Collection of the State Store tax is being directed by Meyer Ioebe.

J. T. Carlton is in charge of the Land Redemption Department.

The Gasoline Division is directed by A. B. Tucker.

The Automobile Division is in charge of Ray Henson.

Harry Simon has charge of the Privilege License Division.

James S. Freeman directs the collection of the Millage Tax.

The Income Tax Division is being handled by J. A. Stephens.

Future articles will deal with the operation of these different divisions.

STUDENTS OF STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE TOUR NORTH ALA.

A selected group of students in the State Teachers College in education left Sunday for a three-day tour of North Alabama.

Included in the itinerary were visits to the Teachers' College at Florence, the TVA schools at Sheffield, Wheeler Dam, birthplace of Helen Keller, Good-year plant at Decatur, schools, steel mills, rehabilitation projects and other points of interest in and near Birmingham.

The trip was planned to familiarize future teachers with different developments in the state and to give them experience which they might apply later in their teaching methods. The tour is the second in a series which will carry the class in education to practically every point of interest in the state. This is in line with the college's plan of giving students first hand information on projects which so occupy the public news of the day.

Included in the trip from Chilton County was Jack Gillespie, Clanton.

Glorifying The American Dairy Maid!

COUNT ALEXIS DE SAKNOFFSKY, whose designing genius has heretofore been directed toward glorifying the American automobile, business office, and industrial life in general, now turns his artist's hand to exalting the American dairy maid.

Under his skilled fingers, the design for a coronation Dairy Maid gown, symbolizing the dairy maid costume of all ages and people, has been created. Turning back to the historic and picturesque in dairy maid costumes for his inspiration, this modern industrial designer has achieved a creation fit for the Queen of Dairyland. And it's for Wisconsin's dairy queen, Alice Baker, who will don her dairy coronation gown to preside over festivities of National Cheese Week, November 1 to 14.

Instead of the homespun woolen, linen and velvet which make up the traditional dairy maid costume, the glorified dairy coronation gown will be fashioned of cheese-yellow tulle embellished with sequins in the design of the American cartwheel cheese. A giraffe of brightest gold sequins will replace the conventional velvet bodice. Gold alippers will take the place of wooden shoes. The glorified dairy maid crown will be a cap of tulle with a "ring" bracelet encrusted with sequins.

BIRD SANCTUARY AND BEAUTIFUL GARDEN IN VERBENA PRESENTS COLORFUL SCENERY TO VISITORS

The Bird Sanctuary provided by S. L. Gibson, of Verbena, attracts many persons, while the beautiful yards and flower garden at the Gibson home present cheer and color. building of our educational system," Mr. Gullede told the News. He was among the first promoters of the beautiful Verbena High School building, took the lead in many well known educational improvements of the county. In fact, Mr. Gullede was a school trustee when a very young man, and his interest and work have not been hampered since that time.

A well known and successful merchant and business man, Mr. Gullede offers his business experience and ability in seeking a place on the county Board of Education. He has always had a keen interest in the young people of this, his native county, and his continual work in the interest of schools, churches and other progressive moves will mean much more if he is elected to the office he seeks.

Mr. Harrison stated he was free from any connection with political factions of any kind, that he wanted to serve his people to the best of his ability and carry out their wishes when it comes to the making of laws in this state. Mr. Harrison is a native of Shelby County, his family having been one of the first to settle in that section. He has always taken a keen interest in civic and religious matters and those who have known him, his ability and experience, heartily recommend him to the people of this county for state Senator. This is his first time to enter a race for a public office.

Mr. Lecroy has been a leading citizen of this county for the past twenty-four years and has meant much to his community and county. He stated to the News that he hoped the voters would remember he was a farmer and that his work may not allow him to get around and see as many people as he would like. Nevertheless, Mr. Lecroy stated, he earnestly seeks their votes in order that he may serve his county more than ever.

sioner from District Two, 4 for members of Board of Education, 3 for State Senator, with Luther E. Little unopposed for superintendent of education. Names of candidates seeking membership on the County Democratic Executive Committee and candidates for Justice of the Peace, will probably be written on the ballots on election day.

Attractive To Voters

With a large number of State offices to be filled this year, including the offices of Governor, Lieutenant-Governor, attorney-general, state superintendent of education, congressman, state auditor, state treasurer, and others, the Democratic ticket has become most attractive to the voters of Chilton County who have realized that unless they vote a Democratic ticket they have no voice in the selection of their state officials. Not only that but, they have also realized that Chilton County citizens have profited much more through state and national governmental channels during the past few years than ever before.

It can be heard over the entire county that much interest will be centered on the opportunity to vote for their "buddies" who are candidates for state offices, as well as for Pete Jarman who seeks to return as Congressman from this district and who is apparently unopposed.

With the exception of three who qualified late, a list of Democratic candidates appears on another page in the News this week under the heading of political announcements.

John D. McQueen, chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee, stated that approximately 700 candidates had qualified on the Democratic ticket in the state for the forthcoming primaries.

This newspaper takes no interest whatever in a county Democratic primary election other than to aid in bringing out the best candidates possible and as many as possible, to do its utmost to show that the Democratic ticket offers the voters a better advantage and more opportunities, and to render all assistance possible in avoiding any misunderstandings or friction within the Party we proudly represent. The columns of this newspaper are open to all Democrats and others so long as their statements do not contain matter which may tend to bring about misunderstandings and embarrassment.

Kiwanians Hear Fine Holiday Program

Members of the Clanton Kiwanis Club were given an insight into the lives of two of the country's most outstanding men, Abraham Lincoln and George Washington, last Thursday at the regular meeting when two Clanton young ladies spoke on the lives of these two men.

This special program was arranged for this meeting commemorating the birthdays of these great Americans, both of which occurred in the month of February. Miss Ann Ross and Miss Grace Ezell, both students of the Chilton County High School, took the leading parts on the program for the Kiwanians. Miss Ross spoke on the highlights of the life of Abraham Lincoln and was followed by Miss Ezell who gave the highlights of the life of George Washington. Both young ladies gave the club some most interesting data in their talks.

Kiwanians Luther Little and John Hollis spoke on their visits to the tombs of these great men, adding much color to the program. The program for tonight for the club will be along vocational lines and will feature students in vocational guidance.

Miss Gladys Samples left for Birmingham last Thursday to be with her sister, Mrs. P. H. Milling, who underwent a serious operation on that date at the Norwood Hospital. Mrs. Milling will be remembered by her many friends as Eula Gray Samples. Her friends wish for her a speedy recovery.

immediately sought him out to aid him in this committee setting a precedent in congressional circles.

Makes Statement

Congressman Jarman has meant much to his District since being elected in 1936 and in asking the voters for another term is merely asking them to allow him to continue rendering his fine service to his constituents. Following is a statement from Mr. Jarman to the people of Chilton County:

"In announcing my candidacy to continue to represent you in Congress, I desire to again express to the good people of our District my deep appreciation of your friendship and interest which resulted in my election two years ago. There is much more for a Congressman to do than anyone who has not functioned in this capacity can possibly realize, and I have been thoroughly occupied in the performance of these very enjoyable duties. I shall continue so occupied and you may be assured of my best efforts to make you a good Representative at all times, which I am naturally now more capable of doing than when I entered Congress because of these fourteen months valuable experience. This capability will increase with seniority.

"The Congress will doubtless be in session until the Primary and the desirability that I remain at my post of duty in Washington will most probably deny me the pleasure of seeing many of you in the meantime. Consequently, it will prove necessary for me to rely almost entirely on the interest of my friends for the overwhelming majority to which I hope and believe you will agree that I am entitled, and which will prove quite beneficial to our District. I am convinced that our people, realizing that I should continue to attend to our business in Washington, particularly under the present circumstances, will look after my interest in excellent fashion. Toward this end, I solicit not only your vote but your active interest.

"I am very proud of the excellent vote with which I was favored in Chilton two years ago when I lost only 243 votes in your excellent county. I urge each of you to exert every effort toward reducing this number on May 3rd.

"It is scarcely necessary for me to say to those familiar with the pleasure I invariably derive from mingling with my friends that I would thoroughly enjoy being in our District from now until the election. Even though this enjoyment must be in large measure denied me, I look forward with pleasant anticipation to visiting Chilton considerably this Summer and Fall, at which time I hope to see and talk with each of you. It is equally unnecessary that I call your attention to the fact

THORBSY INDEPENDENT GIRLS

END SEASON WITH 19-5 VICTORY

The Thorbsy Independent Girls Basketball team ended their season with a blaze of glory defeating Marbury by the tune of 19-5.

The girls have had a very successful season, losing one game and winning six. Last Tuesday night Jimmie Seal, Sammie Goodgame, Myrl Martin and Virginia Carroll hit the hoop for 19 points between them and really had some good passwork. At guards the reliable, Nell Williams, Lois Williams, Gladys Hicks and Mrs. Leavelle Pate, did a neat job of covering Marbury's forwards and holding them to 5 points.

We hope to have still a better team next year, and will be looking forward to another season. We would like to play two more games this season. An team interested write Arnold Littleton, Thorbsy, Alabama.

THORSBY WINS BASKETBALL
TOURNAMENTFirst Place Given Thorsby
Junior High School In Gold Medal Tourney

The Thorsby Jr. High School Basketball team closed the current season in a blaze of glory when they copped the first place honor in the Gold Medal Tournament, sponsored by the Central States Athletic Association of Indianapolis, Indiana, and conducted under the auspices of the Calera Jr. High School management.

The tournament opened at eight o'clock last Saturday morning in the Calera Jr. High School auditorium. There were six Chilton County Jr. High Schools entering, namely: Mt. Pleasant, Concord, Union Grove, Collins Chapel, Enterprise, and Thorsby, and three Shelby teams, Calera, Helena and Chelsea.

In the first game Mt. Pleasant triumphed over Collins Chapel out of the picture by the score of 30 to 19. Coach Curlee's boys went into the game with their usual confident manner and soon ran up a lopsided score on the Collins Chapel boys, but the last half of this game found Coach Lecroy's team playing a more consistent game of ball, by closing the wide margin in the score, but they were mastered by their opponents and were never able to rally with strength enough to overcome the big lead.

The second game proved a real gem of the day, and completely upset all pre-tournament predictions when Union Grove overthrew the grade Enterprise team by the score of 21 to 20.

The third game between Concord and Helena was another one of those rousing affairs which kept the fans leaping to their feet; but Dame Fortune decreed that Coach Glasscock's small but hustling team of Concord go down by the score of 30 to 28.

The fourth game found Calera easily trimming the Chelsea boys by a large score; however, the writer failed to get the exact score on the game.

MAZER'S WILL

Doors In Clanton

A broadside advertisement in this issue of the News tells of the huge sale that will open at Mazer's Department Store on Friday morning of this week.

"The event is in the nature of a 'Going Out Of Business' sale and Dave Mazer, owner of the store, with Milton Cohen, manager, stated that they will continue this sale at rock-bottom prices until everything is sold."

Looking at the two-page advertisement in this issue of the News would make anyone believe they mean what they say. Prices seem to be no concern with Mazer's in this sale, and the people of the county will do well to take these prices and attend this big sale.

Reynolds Urges Vote
Favoring Farm Bill

"The Chilton County News, Clanton, Alabama.

"I notice the farmers in Alabama will vote either for or against the new farm bill next Saturday, March 12. I hope that every farmer in the County will vote for this bill. In fact, it seems to me that it is the best thing for the farmers in our State. If one-third of the farmers vote no, I would ask you what would you have to regulate the farm business for 1938. We have twenty-five million bales of cotton on hand now, enough to supply our demands for two years and the new farm bill is the only means we have to regulate our production for 1938.

"Respectfully,

Republicans Swing To Democratic Side

WELL KNOWN FAMILY SAYS
CHANGE MADE

Letter From Former Republicans Urges Others To Support Democrats

That the swing to the Democratic party is becoming more noticeable this year and is increasing in this county is evidenced by a statement given the News this week by two members of one of the county's most prominent families of the county. The letter which is published here, is signed by Elmer Mims and J. E. Mims, the latter who is a son of the late J. M. Mims, former Republican commissioner of this county. This family is one of the most widely known and influential families of the county. The two gentlemen making this statement to the News also advised that their entire families would vote the Democratic ticket in the primary elections this year and that they had heretofore voted a straight Republican ticket.

Their statement follows:

Clanton, Alabama,
March 4, 1938.

"Editor, Chilton County News,
Clanton, Alabama.

"Dear Sir:

"With the candidates lining up over the county and the election right at hand, we feel it our duty and for the best interests of our county to say to the people now that we are going into the Democratic primary this year and vote the Democratic ticket.

"We believe that this ticket offers the best opportunity for the people of this county. J. E. Mims has always heretofore voted a Republican ticket, while this will not be the first time for Elmer K. Mims to vote a Democratic ticket.

"We would like to take this opportunity to urge all the voters of the county to go into the Democratic primary this year and cast your ballots. Our family has been one of the best known families in the county and have usually voted and followed the Republican ticket during the years, but we believe it is time to change and keep this county in line with our Democratic state and nation.

J. E. Mims."

ALRED DRUG COMPANY WAS FOUNDED
29 YEARS AGO BY ITS PRESENT OWNER

J. Hance Alred Has Kept In Step With Progress

Over twenty-eight years ago a young man of Chilton County had been convinced that the drug store business was his profession and established what was to become one of the most modern and most widely known drug stores in this section of the state.

Back in the year 1909, on October 15th, to be exact, J. Hance Alred established the Alred Drug Company of Clanton. Of course that was after he had received his education in the county schools and attended business college in Montgomery. On that date in 1909, almost twenty-nine years ago, Mr. Alred purchased the Hopkins Drug Company, at that time operated in Clanton by Dr. P. L. Hopkins, and changed the name to the Alred Drug Company. Since that date, this up-to-date concern has been known as "The Home Of Quality" and has lived up to its name.

Coolest Place

The Hopkins Drug Company was at that time one of the only two brick buildings in the block. Three large trees and a board walk made this place popular in Clanton for many years. In the beginning and for several years it was known as the coolest place in town, having a homemade "air-conditioning" outfit powered by a gasoline engine and pulling several large ceiling fans. The old familiar but almost forgotten hitching post in front of the building was used mostly by the doctors of the county for their horses.

Yes, Dr. Alred and many others, remember those things about the drug store in Clanton which is now the well known Alred Drug Company. Dr. Alred has endeared himself to the people of this section through his generosity. (Continued to Back Page)

PRODUCERS OF COTTON GO TO
POLLS ON 12THQuestion Will Be Whether They Favor Marketing
Quotas For 1938

On March 12th, which is next Saturday, all farmers who produced cotton in 1937 will go to the various polling places of their respective counties to vote on Cotton Marketing Quotas. The question to be voted on will be: "Do You Favor Marketing Quotas For Cotton In 1938?"

A considerable program to acquaint the cotton producers with the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938 has been conducted over the county by County Agent J. W. Fant, who made the closing address on this at the courthouse in Clanton Tuesday night.

It is understood that a majority of the leading farmers of this county and the state are urging other cotton producers to give this question a favorable vote this year due to the many advantages to be derived from its functioning.

Only those farmers who produced cotton in 1937 will be eligible to vote Saturday. The voting will be done in each community and in charge of the county committee, and the balloting will be secret as in other elections.

FINAL OKEH

WATER PLANS

Approximately Five Miles
Of Water Mains Will Be Placed In New Area

A statement that was released Monday by Mayor C. Fenn Jones will be of much interest to many of the residents of the City of Clanton, and especially those whose homes are located in that area taken as part of the city when they were extended recently.

Mayor Jones advised the News that he had just received a telegram stating that Clanton's application had been given the final approval for the project to extend the water mains to the newly acquired territory.

It was also stated by Mayor Jones that just as soon as the office handling these matters in Montgomery issued the order, work on the digging of the approximately five miles of ditches would begin, and the work of laying the mains would follow immediately.

Due credit was given Senator J. H. Bankhead, Senator Lister Hill, and Congressman Pete Jarman, for aiding Clanton in securing this work and improvement. It was stated that all this work will not mean any additional cost, nor assessment against property owners, as it is the duty of the city officials to have it done, and with the government aid, it has been made possible right away.

Mayor Jones stated that fireproofs would be placed in the new area, and that the watermain would be extended into practically all the territory in South Clanton, North Clanton, West Clanton and the Reynolds Addition east of the city.

(This work will mean the employment of a large number of workmen, so machines will be used in the digging of the vast amount of ditches, Mayor Jones stated.)

THE LEADER IS UNDERGOING A
REMODELINGWill Present New Improved Place When Work Is Fully Completed

Bringing to a successful close eighteen years of pleasant business relations in Chilton County, The Leader, one of the largest dry goods stores in Clanton, is going into its present year with a determination to present to the people of this section a most modern department store, according to Maurice Lande, the well known proprietor of The Leader.

During the past week, a crew of workmen have been busy replacing posts inside the store with heavy steel beams, bringing more floor space and better lighting. Mr. Lande also advised that a new and attractive metal ceiling would also be installed and that a new floor would be placed in the store. In addition to this new and modern counters will replace those formerly used and the store will present an entirely new appearance when completed.

Business went on as usual at The Leader during this remodeling and improving event as a great deal of the work was done at night.

Pride Of Ancestry

Honoring of parents or other worthy forbears is most commendable, but the extremes to which some people carry their pride of ancestry is somewhat amusing.

We see many worthless offspring from high-class parentage, while on the other hand many persons born in obscurity have made notable successes in life.

The divine right of kings was founded on ancestry, usually beginning with some political or military upstart. The American "400" was founded on the wealth of shrewd, uncouth traders and schemers of the early days.

While the fetish of ancestry is still worshipped by many, it is becoming out of date and nowadays a man must amount to something in his own right if he would be held in high esteem.

As a recent writer has well said: "Humanity's sense of justice would be outraged if descendants of a criminal justly hanged, say, three hundred years ago, should still lie under the infamy of that ancestor. Why, then, should glory attach to the worthless descendant of a hero?"

It is certainly more creditable to have overcome the handicap of early disadvantages than to try to "travel" solely on the prestige of worthy family connections.

Pride of distinguished ancestry is natural and proper, but its display is frequently overdone.

Airplane Accidents

In the early days of flying, if our memory serves us correctly, most persons involved in airplane accidents were killed outright. At least, a very large percentage were. It was a little surprising, therefore, to read a recent report which states that during the last few years only one out of seven persons involved in airplane crashes was fatally hurt.

Most surprising still is the statement that of all those involved in air accidents 60 per cent received no injuries at all. About 15 per cent were killed, 10 per cent were seriously injured and 15 per cent were only slightly hurt.

Causes of accidents have been studied, resulting in the conclusion that about 57 per cent were due to errors by pilots; structural failures in planes caused a little more than 9 per cent, motor failures 17 per cent, while miscellaneous and doubtful causes account for the remainder.

During the three-year period covered by the report there was a total of 2,994 accidents recorded, involving 9,558 persons, of whom 1,413 were killed, 947 were severely injured, 1,366 received minor injuries and 5,805 were unhurt.

Offensive Signs

In keeping with what is becoming a world-wide protest against offensive signs and billboards, the authorities of Paris have decreed that no signs shall be displayed on the famous thoroughfare, the Champs Elysees, which advertise any goods not actually sold on the premises.

Recently protests were heard in Europe concerning objectionable American billboards which mar the landscape. In this country the women's clubs and other organizations are waging a campaign against the billboard nuisance.

By their erection of signboards which spoil the natural scenery along the highways, and by their encroachment in residential sections of our cities, the billboard people have brought upon themselves the just resentment of that section of the public which has regard for appearances.

When we become more civilized the billboard will go the way of the town crier. As an advertising medium it is an anachronism already.

The True Sportsman

Some of the characteristics of the good sportsman are enumerated by Tom Ford, secretary of the Alabama Wildlife Federation, in a recent statement in which he tells sports the rights of the landowner and commands not do:

He obeys the hunting laws and insists that his fellow hunter does likewise. Re-what the conscientious hunter does and plies with the law by obtaining a permit to hunt on his lands. Cuts no fences, shoots near no barns, homes or other buildings; tramples no crops, and endangers no livestock by wild or careless gunfire.

He takes only a lawful amount of game, as his license does not permit him to shoot for another. Stamps out all campfires, including those left by careless hunters, and throws no lighted matches on the ground.

He does not shoot the last two pairs in a quail covey, or a doe, faw or turkey hen, but leaves them to replenish the game crop. For the same reason he feeds the birds and other game in winter. Finally, he gives all game the sporting chance to escape that he would like if he were being shot at.

If all hunters would observe the rules of conduct outlined by Mr. Ford, the cause of true game and forest conservation would be greatly advanced—and there is no excuse for not observing them.

Movies Raise Grades

Some interesting tests with a view to determining the benefits derived from supplementing ordinary instruction by motion picture films illustrating the subjects taught have been made in San Diego and other California cities.

In all more than 11,000 children were tested, each school being divided into two groups, one of which received both book and film instruction, the other being taught through text books only. The tests covered a period of ten weeks at the end of which examinations were held.

Pupils having the advantage of motion pictures made grades averaging 33 per cent higher in geography and 15 per cent higher in general science subjects than those who used books alone. This experiment appears to have been extensive enough to warrant the conclusion that the combined book-picture method is highly advantageous in such subjects as those mentioned.

Not only is this method beneficial to the individual pupil; but by reducing the number of failures in examinations, it reduces the number of pupils who must repeat courses, thus effecting a saving in expenses for school purposes.

The introduction of educational films is becoming widespread, and there is little doubt that they will become standard equipment for schools of the future.

Practical Education

A thoughtful contribution to the discussion regarding what is desirable in the way of present-day education was made by Dr. John J. Tigert, president of the University of Florida, who declared that the true purpose of education is to fit the citizen to serve as well as to live.

He draws attention to two schools of current thought, one of which would stress cultural education, while the other would place chief emphasis upon vocational training. He admits the validity of both, but he would not go to the extreme sought by the advocates of either. He favors a balanced program of education, with sufficient flexibility to meet the needs of each individual.

While not minimizing the value of cultural studies and their absolute necessity for those who would enter the learned professions, Dr. Tigert points out that "one can not live by culture alone; this is especially true of the great mass of our citizens who must engage in pursuits which involve the use of their hands."

Practical education should be planned in accordance with the needs of the individual in preparation for his life's work. At present too much time is given to preparing for college entrance examinations which only a small percentage of public school pupils will ever have the opportunity to take. The needs of those who must quit school at the end of grammar or high school courses should have more consideration.

Following is a clipping from a National Magazine, which is worth passing along to you. It is along the lines of Vocational Guidance, a program which is being carried out in this County, and which has met with favorable success.

Vocational Guidance

It was the commencement exercises of a small town high school. "Fine looking bunch of youngsters," remarked a man in the audience. "Yes," replied the local banker with a sigh, "but the big cities will get the cream of them, and this town will have to muddle along with the skim milk."

There is much truth in the thought that the best minds, the most energetic personalities of the annual crop of small town young people are lured away by the assembly and better opportunities of the big cities.

To some extent, this is due to the left-handed axiom which, disentangled, means that a prophet is without honor in his own town. It is true that many of us are not inclined to take a practical turn, and we want to keep the best boys and girls in the home town, we must favor them in every way, rather than passing them by because we have little confidence in the home town product.

Remember that an expert is only an ordinary fellow away from home.

For several years Clanton has been endeavoring to establish a public library in the city. It seems as though little could be done until now, but with the various civic clubs cooperating, things are moving forward to the end that Clanton will have this much needed library. The County Board of Education has generously offered the services of its secretary as a place for the books until a permanent location could be established and a librarian appointed.

C. R. Foss, formerly of Thorsby, and now residing in Clanton, is again connected with the Bank of Thorsby in the capacity of Cashier. Mr. Foss fills the vacancy recently created by the resignation of J. L. Mixson, who for several years served the people of Thorsby and surrounding territory, as cashier of this bank. We have known Mr. Foss for several years and we believe he will be of invaluable service to the farmers and business men of this territory. He has had wide experience in banking and has for the past few years been engaged in the grocery business, having operated a grocery and market in Thorsby and for the past few months connected with the Taylor Wholesale Grocery of Clanton.

We've got that old-time fishing fever. Maybe we're a little early but still there's no use trying to kid ourselves into thinking that we don't really want to go fishing one of these sunny afternoons. We're not much authority on just where and when certain species of fish are biting but a stop at the Bus Station and a chat with Ed. Foshee, Jr., Clanton's number one sportsman, puts a guy wise to these things. So if ye olde Observer comes up missing some Thursday or Friday afternoon, after the News has gone out, he'll be found on the Coosa River, at maybe one of the nearby dams, feeding fish. Guess maybe we'd better take our rule along and measure what we catch. It will seem hard, however, to throw even a minnow we catch back as our luck fishing has never been above par. But we want to be a good sportsman. Speaking of sportsmen, read the editorial on this same page titled "The True Sportsman." In this article Tom Ford, Secretary of the Alabama Wildlife Federation, mentions some things which are characteristic of the good sportsman. He doesn't say anything about fishing but we're in compliance with the fishing laws is understood.

The picture "Lost Horizon," which is showing now at the New Wadesonian Theatre, is rated one of the best of the year. It has all the punch necessary to make an exciting picture. There is quite an interesting story connected with the leading part, played by Ronald Coleman—how he became so interested in the part that he practically lived the exciting scenes. We haven't seen it yet but we'll be there tonight, which is, incidentally, the last night it will be shown here.

We don't know E. D. Acker of Lincoln, Alabama, the author of the article pertaining to the victory of the blue back speller fifty years ago in Clanton, but we got a real kick reading what happened at that time at the institute held here. It must be comforting to Mr. Acker on thinking back so many years ago of the part he played in the pioneer educational system of Chilton. This article was neatly typed and mailed to the News by Mr. Acker. Read it.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskell

From one of the Middle Western States comes the pathetic story of a widow who drowned herself and her child. She took the two-year-old girl in her arms and jumped into a swollen stream and ended it all. She left a note saying, "I have no desire to live because the neighbors are talking about me. After the bodies had been recovered the community set about the task to find if she had been justly accused. Not a single item of evidence could be produced to justify the wagging tongues of tattering neighbors. Her name and honor were cleared, but it was too late. That did not bring back the woman and her child. It has never been so that when wagging tongues tell imagination as the truth and rumor as facts, some innocent soul must suffer. These gossip assassins include men as well as women. "Guard well thy tongue," a Biblical injunction. It is so unfortunate that so few of us heed this injunction.

A hooded old colored man ran a ferryboat across a small stream in Missouri. Along came a tramp and asked the old man what he would charge him to put him on the other side. The ferryman replied, "Just three cents, Boss." For some minutes the penniless man walked up and down on the shore and then ventured to say, "I do not have three cents and old man, won't you put me over for nothing." The darkey ran his hand over his kings thoughtfully and then replied, "Well, no, Boss, you see it's this way—I figure it this way, if you do not have three cents it does not matter which side of the river you are on." Often we do pass hoboos on the highway. They thumb us for a ride. (They have no money, they have nothing to do, and the sensible thing to do is to pass them by. If they are hoboos they are just about as well off in one place as another. I believe in Christian charity and a brotherly attitude, but there is little use in helping folks who are no account from choice.

A dozen boys gathered on a hillside that was covered in snow. They planned a contest to write their names in the snow by each taking one section and then walking out the letters of the name and leaving the impression in the snow behind them. Each boy was located and at a given signal the boys started out to write their names in the snow. When it was all over they called their dads to come and decide the contest. The fathers looked over the work of each boy and they pronounced that it was all well-done, and that each boy had cause to rejoice over the record made. Each boy had done his best and

A waiter was behind the counter serving meals when a lawyer friend stepped in and said to him, "Young man, your rich uncle has just died and his will leaves everything to you." The young man untied the string of the apron that he wore and then flung it on the floor, saying, "I am no longer a servant. From now on the world will have to serve me." Saying this, he walked out of the restaurant to live a life that was free from service. In less than ten years his fortune was all gone, his health was shattered and his friends had slipped away. We staggered back behind the counter of a less important eating joint and served out the rest of his miserable life. His wealth had offered him the opportunity to serve, but he was too foolish to make good. No one can defend his right to live who refuses to serve. The more we have the more abundantly should we serve. If you want to put merit in your life be one who renders service.

YES, that's what we like to call ourselves because it's just eighty-eight years ago that we moved in. We bought some property then, laid some rails, and did some building here, and since that time we've seen a lot of changes—seen a lot of new faces come to town. In fact, we brought a lot of them in ourselves.

We feel proud that we've played an important part in the development here. We've paid our taxes every year . . . over $7,000,000 last year, much of this to help maintain schools, highways and governmental activities.

We furnished employment to 27,000 people, whose wages totaled up to $45,000,000. And every year we've been providing "Old Reliable" friendly freight and passenger service.

It would be nice to stay and chat awhile over old times, neighbor. We'd have a lot to talk about. But there isn't time. You're busy and so are we . . . on our second eighty-eight years.

The Blue Back Speller's Victory At Clanton, Alabama, Fifty Years Ago--April 26-27, 1888

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article was received by the News from E. D. Ackers, Lincoln, Alabama, who is interesting in that it carries a word picture of what transpired at a meeting of the Chilton County Teachers' Institute on April 26-27, 1888. Mr. Ackers was at that time connected with the educational system of this County.

"I am in a reminiscent mood today produced by the reading of the program of a teachers' institute held at Clanton, Alabama in 1888, fifty years ago. The officers, teachers and others who participated as shown by the program are as follows: Lawyer W. A. Collier, who delivered the welcome address; R. E. Hicks, the County Superintendent; Hon. Solomon Palmer, editor of Guntersville Democrat and State Superintendent and the following teachers: H. H. Hunter, J. W. Moore, Miss S. A. Pitts, W. W. Hinton, W. C. Roberson, J. M. Corderie, I. S. Logan, B. H. Jones, J. H. Harwood, J. L. Ruffin, Jr., E. D. Ackers, Miss Fannie Callier, now Mrs. Grimes of Tuscaloosa, Miss Gamma Middleton, A. J. Scott, Mrs. V. Z. Palmer and W. A. Struck.

"I am wondering how many of these are now living after the passing of fifty years. I know Collier, Hicks and Palmer are dead and I know that Mrs. Fannie Grimes of Tuscaloosa is still living. But as to the others I know nothing.

"Clanton, that prosperous little city of today with a hustling population of some 3,000, with many paved streets, with modern brick business houses, with schools, churches and residences in perfect harmony with the other improvements noted, was in 1888 nothing more than a cross-roads, with perhaps a half dozen wooden stores. In fact, if there was a brick building of any kind in the town, I never saw it. But the few citizens who lived there were equal in quality to the citizens of this day.

"But what made the greatest impression upon me at that institute was the great victory won by the friends of the Webster blue back speller. I had charge of the largest school in the county, at Verbena, with four teachers, J. L. Ruffin, Jr., a splendid teacher and graduate of the Peabody Normal, was principal of the school at Jemison, with two teachers and I think J. W. Moore was principal of the Clanton school with two teachers. All the other schools in the County were one-teacher schools and all of them used the blue back speller, because they had to use the one furnished by the patrons. The blue back speller was not used in the school, but the principal and teachers had been fed on its merits in other days and were not enemies of the precious little book.

"The institute was held on the 26th and 27th day of April, 1888, and there was a white frost on the ground both mornings. I had to go on an early train and arrived at Clanton some two hours before the convening of the institute. So I proceeded to the office of the County Superintendent R. E. Hicks, where I found him and J. L. Ruffin, Jr., engaged in conversation on some subject. I was asked to take a seat. Seated and listening, I learned that both of them wanted to adopt the form text books for the county and to prove the necessity for such a move, Ruffin proceeded to read his address on orthography which he was to deliver on the last day before the institute. He had gone through the blue back and found 126 ba's and ca's, words not found in the English language (notice he called them words) and he found a number of other defects. I took no part in the discussion, but resolved that I would be a friend to the blue back when I was needed.

"At 9:00 A. M., on the second day, J. L. Ruffin, Jr., took the stage to deliver his carefully prepared paper on orthography, the gist of which was a red hot attack on the blue back. On the stage, sat Solomon Palmer, R. E. Hicks and J. M. Corderie. I had casually met J. M. Corderie on the first day, but had very little chance to know his ability. Ruffin stated that he was a native of Coosa County where they used the blue back and left the impression that the audience should change and defects in his paper to his blue back training. J. M. Corderie was also a native of Coosa County and was clean shaved and stood about six feet and three inches.

"Ruffin was not long in reaching the greatest fault he had found in the blue back—126 ba's and ca's, words not found in the English language. Outside his attack on the blue back speller, his address was good. I was to follow him on school law; but before he closed, R. E. Hicks came to me and wanted to know if Palmer could have part of my time. I agreed for him to take all of it, if he so desired. So the State Superintendent followed with an attack on the blue back and when he had finished it was nearly time for lunch and I had made up my mind to talk only a few minutes.

"However, a surprise was in store for the institute. As Palmer took his seat, J. M. Corderie arose and looked like he might be seven feet in height. In a deep guttural voice, he said: "What, have I like Rip Van Winkle slept 25 years and suddenly awoke to find my friend Webster ruthlessly murdered and his her industry, improve her standard of living and consequently increase her purchasing power.

SAFE DRIVERS TO BE REWARD'D BY RATE CUT

Chilton County Motorists Expected To Earn Drivers Reward

The majority of insured motorists in Chilton and Chilton County are expected to earn the Safe Driver Reward of 15 per cent of a year's liability premium, amounting to $6.75 on a standard limits policy according to a survey made by the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters.

Since rates are the same as last year, the rewards will mean an actual reduction of $6.75 in cost of insurance for safe drivers.

If national averages hold in this territory, the survey pointed out, 88 out of 100 insured motorists will make these savings.

"For many years there has been a great need for a direct, individual appeal to the motorist to drive safely and we believe that the Safe Driver Reward Plan has that appeal," said William Leslie, general manager of the National Bureau.

"Our figures show that we can expect 88 per cent of the motorists insured by our member companies to earn the Safe Driver Reward. We also believe it will stimulate all drivers to be more careful and drive safely, thereby reducing the number who have accidents. With fewer accidents there should be fewer losses. In this event insurance rates can be reduced even more than they are now under the plan and, most important, the frightful annual toll of automobile accidents will be lessened."

The Safe Driver Reward Plan recently was introduced in this state by 32 stock company members of the National Bureau. Under the plan all private passenger car liability policies newly

MISSION STUDY COURSE IS HELD AT CALFEE HOME

Mulberry Baptist Church W. M. U. is deeply grateful for the Mission Study Course held Monday, February 28, at the home of Mrs. O. O. Calfee. Twenty members were present and all greatly appreciate Mrs. McLead's coming to teach the book, and to Mrs. J. D. Griffin, who accompanied her.

The March week of Prayer was observed by an all day program Wednesday, March 2, at the church with twenty-five members present, each making a contribution to the Annie W. Armstrong offering for Home Missions. The program was directed by Mrs. Wiley Tucker, Chairman of the Program Committee.

Mrs. F. Wells, general president, presided over a short business session.

MRS. SELIA ANN SCOTT DIED ON FEBRUARY 28TH

On Monday, February 28, 1938, the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Foshee and gently waited the spirit of Aunt Selia Ann Scott to realms of rest.

Mrs. Scott and her husband, the late Andrew J. Scott, were pioneer citizens of Mars Hill Community and were for many years identified with church and school activities in this community.

The large crowd at the funeral, the many sad faces and the many expressions of sorrow were sufficient evidence of the high esteem that this entire section held for this dear old lady.

May God bless the bereaved loved ones and give them comfort.

Mrs. Scott leaves three sons and three daughters, 45 grandchildren and 16 great grandchildren, with a host of other relatives and friends in whose hearts her place cannot be filled.

Exports From U. S. To Chile Increase

Exports from the United States to Chile during the first eight months of last year increased 44 per cent as compared with the similar period in 1936, according to a report made public today by the Chilean Consul General in New York.

The value of American merchandise and raw materials sold to Chile from January to August, 1937, amounted to $15,116,517 as compared with $10,551,881 last year. These exports consisted chiefly of cotton goods, woolen goods, fuel oil, rolled iron or steel, and machinery. Almost every branch of American industry was in some way, either directly or indirectly, affected by these Chilean purchases.

Approximately 25 per cent of Chile's annual foreign purchases during the last ten years have been from the United States, amounting to more than $241,000,000 for that period. Through the use of these American products, especially machinery and raw materials, Chile

"I Name Thee---Crusader"

Lily Pons, comely Metropolitan Opera star, spoke those words as she christened the new Reading Railroad luxury streamliner in Philadelphia. Beside Miss Pons is E. W. Scheer, president of the Reading Company and Central Railroad Company of New Jersey. The Crusader, the only stainless-steel steam drawn streamlined train in the east, was built by the Edward G. Budd Manufacturing Company of Philadelphia and makes two round trips daily between Philadelphia and New York.

Hints to Gardeners

by Harm Drexler
Ferry Seed Institute

Increasing Garden Yield

To increase yield from the vegetable plot, the home gardener should grow "combined cultures." Culture combination is especially recommended for those having limited space for gardens.

The theory is to plant in closely spaced adjacent rows vegetables that are harvested at widely different times, using one before the other begins to mature. One possible combination, for instance, is cauliflower, lettuce and radish.

Plant cauliflower early in rows three feet apart. Between the cauliflower rows plant lettuce and cauliflower plant radish. Radishes are harvested early, then the lettuce and later the cauliflower. Cabbages could be substituted for the cauliflower in this plan.

Following are several other combined cultures recommended for the very small home garden:

- Plant carrots and parsnips in alternate rows two feet apart; between the first two rows plant radishes; between the second and third rows plant lettuce and between the third and fourth rows plant spinach. Then repeat the inter-row sequence—radish, lettuce, spinach—until enough of them is planted.
- Plant spinach in rows two and one-half feet apart; between spinach rows grow early radishes in one or two rows. When the radishes have been pulled, set pepper plants between spinach rows. They will be given room in which to grow as spinach is cut for use.
- Plant spinach in rows three feet apart, use beets between the spinach rows and radishes between the rows of beets and spinach.
- Plant onion seeds early in rows two and one-half feet apart, and at the same time plant lettuce in rows between those of onion. Radish seed may be sown between lettuce and onion rows. Lettuce and radish are harvested in time to give onions needed space.

Parishioners of Rev. J. R. Kenney of Leeds, Eng., who is a non-smoker, presented him with a $500 smoking cabinet on his retirement.

"Keep my pipe for I may yet have a smoke in the beyond," said George Polson of Waukegan, Ill., in a note he wrote before committing suicide.

At his own request, the body of Llewellyn Meredith of Fritchell, Eng., was buried in a green coffin.

Farm Credit Administration Is Making Favorable Progress

William I. Myers, Governor of the Farm Credit Administration, Washington, D. C., was a visitor at the Farm Credit Administration of New Orleans this week where he held conferences with officials of the four farm credit units of the Fifth District, which serve the states of Alabama, Louisiana, and Mississippi. Dr. Myers was on his way back to Washington after having been in Berkeley, California, and Houston, Texas, for visits to the Farm Credit Administrations in those cities.

"Conditions throughout the districts which I visited appear to be satisfactory, and I am particularly pleased with the progress which is being made here in the Fifth District," Governor Myers said. "The annual meetings of stockholders of production credit associations and national farm loans associations which I attended in the west show rapidly growing interest on the part of the farmer in their cooperative credit systems."

"It is pleasing to see in the reports of this district that there was such large attendance of farmers at the 26 production credit association meetings which were completed last month in the three states of this district. The growing interest reflects a healthy situation and here is every reason to believe that the production credit associations will show a substantial increase in their volume of loans this season."

"The growth in the service of the New Orleans Bank for Cooperatives is also very gratifying. The volume of loans is now at its highest in the history of the bank, and indicates that it is rendering a worthwhile service to farmers' cooperatives in these states."

"Repayments of annual installments on Federal land bank loans throughout the whole nation continue to be satisfactory. Also good progress is being made in the sale of farms which the banks were forced to acquire during the depression. With the exception of July, the number of farms held by the Federal land banks have been decreasing steadily each month since August of 1936."

From New Orleans, Governor Myers will go direct to the Washington office, from which he has been absent for several weeks.

Payne Withdraws From Race For Tax-Assessor

Matter Of Registering Is Cause Of His Dropping From Local Race

J. P. (POPE) PAYNE

Due to a slight matter which he overlooked sometime ago, that of not registering as a voter in this county after registering in another county. J.P. (Pope) Payne, well known hardware merchant and business man of Maplesville has been forced to withdraw from the race of tax assessor of this county.

Following is a statement to the voters from Mr. Payne regarding this:

"To My Friends And Voters:

"I am very, very sorry and am embarrassed to advise you that I have been forced out of the race as a candidate for Tax Assessor of our County, through a very minor thing, I think, that of failing to re-register in this county. I registered in Chilton County in 1915 and left the county for five years, and registered in another and paid five years of poll tax in that county, and in returning to this county in 1921 did not re-register. The law provides that persons registering in one county or state and going into another and registering in that county or state, on returning must re-register to become a qualified voter.

"As it is impossible for me to see you in person I am taking this means of thanking my good friends for their support and the many nice things that has come to me from you.

"I wish to say to the voters in behalf of Mr. A.D. Martin and Mr. W.Z. Hodges, the other two candidates for Tax Assessor, that I do not hold ill will toward them. Mr. Martin and Mr. Hodges are two high-class men.

Friends and relatives are glad to hear of Miss Lorene Walker being back at her home and recovering nicely from an operation she underwent in the Selma Hospital.

Mr. Ralph Patterson celebrated his 14th birthday with a surprise party. There was a good crowd and everyone enjoyed themselves.

Miss Sarah Nell Walker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Walker, of Stanton, spent the week-end in Birmingham with her brothers, C. M. and C. C. Walker. C. M., Jr. returned home with her for a few days.

The W. M. U. met Monday evening with Miss Lorene Walker. The evening was enjoyed very much. The topic of discussion was "Missions."

WELFARE DEPT SETS HOURS FOR APPLICATIONS

Tuesdays And Fridays Set To Receive Applicants To Speed Up Work

It is the aim of the Department of Public Welfare to be accessible to those persons in need of assistance at all times. However, due to the very large number of applications filed with the department and the small administrative staff it has been impossible to make investigations as speedily as they should be made. In order that we may render more efficient and effective service to the public at large, we are asking that all applicants for assistance plan to come to the Department of Public Welfare office on Tuesday or Friday. By restricting the taking of applications to these two days each week, the Director and Visitor will have more time to spend in the field making investigations, which are necessary, before any applicant can be certified for any kind of public assistance. We feel that this plan will enable us to speed up clearance of the many applications now pending, and reach new applicants with a minimum of delay. We earnestly solicit the cooperation of the public in carrying out this plan, which we feel is the only way in which we can facilitate the handling of the volume of applications being placed with the department from day to day.

(Signed) Nolan Meroney, Director, Chilton County Department of Public Welfare.

MT. CARMEL

The W.M.U. met last Friday with ten members present to observe the week of prayer. We had a good service, and are glad to have had Rev. and Mrs. Nix, the ladies from Pates Chapel and several men with us. A nice dinner was spread at the noon hour and a plate was filled and sent to the sick ones of this community.

Methodist Missionary Circle Holds Meeting

The Methodist Missionary Circle held its monthly business meeting at the Parsonage Monday afternoon.

The work of Methodist Missionary Circles in their home communities was the topic of the program which had been well planned by Mrs. Earnest Arant. She opened the meeting with a meditation. The scripture was read by Mrs. Davis. Ira Smith read an article telling the fine work being done in the Bethlehem Settlement Houses.

Mrs. Foss and Mrs. Dieckendorfer gave a dialogue "A Discussion In A Beauty Parlor."

Mrs. Arant's illustrations of the social service work being done in the different states by our Missionary Circle was an inspiration and a challenge to all present. Some of the projects were Negro Clinics, a day nursery for colored children; recreation work done in cooperation with the WPA; the aiding of county nurses, the establishing of juvenile courts. Mrs. Arant is chairman of our Social Service Committee and is planning a community project for the Circles. If other Circles can accomplish such fine constructive work we cannot afford to overlook the many opportunities in our own town to follow their example.

After a prayer by Mrs. Gore the meeting was turned over to our president, Mrs. Sophia Jones, who called for reports from the different committees.

The committee in charge of the making of a chart for the checking of points earned by the individual Circles explained the excellent chart they had made. The circle having the most points at the end of the quarter will win $100 to be given by the losing circles.

The Parsonage Committee wished to thank everyone who contributed shrubbery for landscaping the parsonage. (They asked that we all save papers and magazines, tie them and deliver them to the church.)

Alfred Drug Co. has offered to give us all their old magazines each week.

Mrs. Earnest Arant was appointed as our delegate to the Alabama Methodist Conference to be held at DeFuniak Springs, Fla. from March 29th to April 1st.

Circle No. 1 reported that they are working on the cooking school. Circle No. 1 and 2 are serving the Pilot Club in March to earn money to buy silver for the church.

The Clara Mullins Circle reported that Mrs. Clara Mullins had given them a "crochet spread" to be used to aid in earning more money.

The three Circles are to serve the Pilot Club in April to earn money to buy new glassware and dishes needed by the church.

It was voted to discontinue the programs at these business meetings as they make the meetings so long. The same programs are to be given on the second Monday at each Circle meeting.

Mrs. Gore, Mrs. White and Mrs. Lawrence form a committee to plan a barbecue for the fourth of July.

There were four members present from the Clara Mullins Circle, eleven from Circle No. 1 and ten from Circle No. 2.

Warning To Drys

On What's Ahead

With Prohibition

Here's an earful which the Fayetteville Observer delivers to the Dry forces and others in North Carolina if the State should ever return to Prohibition:

It will bring back the moonshiners and bootleggers, who have folded up their tents and quietly stolen away. It will bring back the alley dives. It will bring back the pint peddlers who sell liquor at all hours to anybody with the price: children, criminals and drunks.

It will bring back front street bar-rooms.

It will bring back the closely organized, highly efficient underworld, financed with bootleg profits.

It will again make it necessary for many smaller business men who want to be honest, to handle liquor because their customers will trade elsewhere if they don't.

It will bring back every vicious element which has been swept out of Cumberland County by the ABC broom. It will bring back graft, and crime, and misery.

It will bring back everything except the revenue which the county now derives from the legal and orderly sale of cleanly made liquor.

Demonstrations Prove Value Of Nitrate Use

During the crop year 1937 the Chilaean Nitrate Educational Bureau through the cooperation of Vocational Teachers and F. A. Chapters collected 124 two-and-one-half-acre demonstrations on cotton and corn in Alabama. Results from 65 cotton and 38 corn demonstrations were received. The cotton was fertilized with a low nitrogen fertilizer such as 3-8-5, 4-8-4, 3-10-3, etc., before planting and after chopping, and before squaring two acres of the 2 1/2-acre demonstration were side-dressed with 200 pounds of Chilaean Nitrate per acre, one-half acre being left as a check. From 65 of these demonstrations in 1937 the average per acre increase from 200 pounds of Chilaean Nitrate was 328 pounds of seed cotton. On the 38 corn demonstrations the average increase per acre for 200 pounds of Chilaean Nitrate was 14.6 bushels per acre.

These demonstrations have been conducted over a period of four years and the average increase for 230 demonstrations on cotton on which results were received from 1934 to 1937 incl., was 316 pounds of seed cotton per acre for 200 pounds of Chilaean Nitrate.

These increases are in line with Alabama Experiment Station results and clearly indicate the advantage of side-dressing low nitrogen mixed goods such as 3-8-5, 4-8-4, 3-10-3 and 4-10-7. An ample supply of nitrogen is essential for high yields. Profits and high acre yields go together.

FOR STATE SENATOR

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the place as Senator from the Fifteenth Senatorial District, composed of the counties of Chilton, Shelby, and Autauga, subject to the action of the Democratic primaries of May and June, 1938.

I will deeply appreciate your vote and influence in my behalf.

IN MEMORY OF HENRY SANDLIN

Oh, Henry, why did you have to go? You left your loved ones and friends in a lurch.

You bade no one a last farewell.

You said goodbye to none.

Your loving heart had ceased to beat.

Before we knew you were gone.

Your cheerful smile and kindly ways.

We pleasantly recall.

You had kind words for everyone and died beloved by all.

We miss you most who loved you best.

God bless you, Henry, you're at home in the Savior's arms at rest.

Apples Give Tang To Sweet Potatoes

The apple and the sweet potato teach in its own kingdom a very popular fruit and vegetable enjoy a long season of activity during the winter months. Served alone in many of their guises the king of fruits and the yellow fleshed tuber bring variety to cold weather meals. When the sweet potato and the apple join hands in a baking dish, however, the result is a dish which pleases the most discriminating palate. The steatful tang of the apple serves to enhance the more palid virtues of the sweet potato adding greatly to the popular appeal of the vegetable. For sweet potatoes at their best try the following tested recipe:

Saker's Sweet Potatoes with Apples

6 medium-sized sweet potatoes
4 apples, cored and pared
1 cup sugar
4 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup water

Slice the sweet potatoes and apples and arrange in alternate layers in a buttered baking dish, topping each layer with sugar and butter. Pour the water and salt over the last layer. Bake uncovered in a moderate oven (350° F.) for from 30-45 minutes.

Yield: 6 servings.

IN MEMORY MRS. JOHN HOPPER

God has called our darling mother From this world of pain and woe. All the heartaches, cares, and sorrow She has left no more to know

She was a devoted mother, To her children was so true. Tried to make the weary happy, Cheered the sad and lonely too.

Children, why should you be dreary, We all know she's happy there. In her home she won't be weary, You'll be happy with her there.

God did not call another. Her place in Heaven she has filled. He called your darling mother, Leaving you to do His will.

Everybody knows we miss her, But we hope to meet her there. Where we'll feel her arms around us And we'll kiss her face so fair.

Mother dear, we hope to meet you Upon Heaven's welcome shore. Where we'll never leave you darling, And be happy evermore.

We'll ne'er have heartache and sorrow In that land of peace and rest. We will get a hearty welcome From the loved ones of the best.

—Miss Mildred Childress, Mt. Creek.

HIS Aim IS TO Serve YOU

As a telephone installer and repairman, he knows that the less you need him, the more satisfaction you get from your dependable telephone service.

He wages a battle with sleet, rain and wind, as well as with lesser troubles, such as carelessness in leaving the receiver off the hook which may require a personal visit by him.

He is winning his battles, too, for back of him in the constant effort to make your service more and more free from imperfections, errors and delays are the scientists in the Bell Telephone Laboratories who contribute the research; the Western Electric Company, which makes and distributes high quality, standardized equipment; and the training activities of his own group, which helps him to be more expert and efficient on the job.

It is a man-sized job. There were 1,079,692 Southern Bell telephones in service at the end of 1937. But this didn't "stay put," for installers connected 236,788, disconnected 159,241, and moved 106,512, this latter step requiring both a "connect" and "disconnect" operation.

Learning to do a constantly improving job is the aim of the installer and repairman, which is in harmony with the Bell System's desire to give the most telephone service and the best, at the least cost consistent with financial safety.

In March of the year 1920, J. Hance Alred was married to Miss Laura Calen, daughter of the late W.T. Calen, one of the most outstanding business men of the state and head of the Peoples Savings Bank of Clanton, until his death. His name will live forever in the history of the building of Clanton and Chilton County.

For a number of years Dr. Alred was a director in the Peoples Savings Bank and has been considered a most successful druggist and business man. In 1930 his entire store underwent a complete remodeling with the installation of new fixtures and an increase in the large stock of merchandise already carried there. Now the store has one of the most complete stock of drugs, drug sundries and field seeds in Central Alabama.

100,000 Prescriptions

Up to this date, Dr. Alred's famous "Home Of Quality" has filled almost one hundred thousand prescriptions for its customers, a most remarkable record and evidence of service well rendered. They keep in line with the trend of times with the modern methods of drug store merchandising.

DIXON TO OPEN CAMPAIGN IN GREENVILLE

Opening Address Will Also Carry Platform Of Candidate

Maj. Frank M. Dixon, of Birmingham, will open his campaign for governor in Greenville Thursday, March 17, at 11 A.M. Arrangements have been made for him to speak in the courthouse and loud speakers will be set up around the building so that the large crowds expected from all over South Alabama will be able to hear the candidate fire the opening gun in his second campaign for the executive's chair.

At the same time Major Dixon will release the platform on which he will make his race. While no inkling of what it contains has leaked out, despite many rumors from the opposition which were rank guesses, it is expected to be a forceful document dealing sanely and honestly with the problems that face the next administrator of the State's affairs.

The opening speech at Greenville will be the first in a series that will take Major Dixon over as much of the state as can be covered in the few weeks remaining before the primaries on May 3. His complete itinerary is being conditioned now and will be announced shortly.

Headquarters for the Northern part of the State have been opened at the Molton Hotel in Birmingham while Southern Headquarters will be at the Exchange Hotel in Montgomery.

THORSBY WINS

th day, when Thorsby and Mt. Pleasant locked horns. This was the swiftest and most exciting game played, both teams taking vicious cuts to get the jump on the other. Hayes, rangy left guard of Thorsby, looped a beautiful spot-shot to open the fire-works; Jones, of Mt. Pleasant, came through with a neat shot to match it. By this time the large crowd was in a roar. Thorsby soon leaped in front again with two nifty field goals from which tended to throw the Mt. Pleasant cagers off from, and resulted in their making several faulty and damaging passes. They regained composure temporarily and succeeded in tying the count at 9-all at the half. The second half opened with Thorsby again bounding into the lead when Deason uncorked a long-range shot from near center. From this part of the game, the lead exchanged twice, until, with four minutes to play, and Thorsby leading 14-12, Daniel of Mt. Pleasant, tied the count, and his teammate, Jones, placed the team in the lead when he registered a crisp-shot. The Thorsby players then bottled up their opponents and started drilling, for victory. A Collins, Thorsby reserve, brought the crowd to its feet when he tied the count with a nifty crisp-shot. Mt. Pleasant, retaining the lead, tried their goal, lost possession of it and fell back on their defense. The Thorsby players unrelieved beautiful passes in under the goal, but failed to register a score. In the wild scramble to gain possession of the ball, both teams were tense, but Hayes, of Thorsby, came up and with a back-handed flip over his shoulder, sent the ball tumbling thru the net for the coveted victory over Coach Curlee's County champions of Mt. Pleasant, by the score of 18-16.

The seventh game was between Union Grove and Holston, the former of which won the game by the score of 39-22. The eighth game found the Thorsby team pitted against Coach Walter's scrappy little team of Calera. The Thorsby players began netting the ball with a high degree of consistency, and held a fourteen point lead at the half. The second half found the Thorsby youngsters fast weakening from the hard game with Mt. Pleasant, but they succeeded in holding the Calera boys to 11 points; while the yadded eight to bring the game to a close; Thorsby, 29; Calera, 19.

The ninth game was between Chelsea and Helena, with the latter team winning. The writer failed to get the score on this game. This game was played at four o'clock.

This ended the games until seven o'clock, when Mt. Pleasant overpowered the Helena team to win fourth place honor.

The final game was played between Thorsby and Union Grove, with Thorsby by completely submerging Coach Shaw and his husky band of payers by the score of 46 to 15. Hayes, of Thorsby, registered 18 of the forty-two points that Thorsby was accredited with.

After the final game, Professor Allen, of Calera Jr. High School, distributed the various awards and medals. Thorsby captured the Gold Trophy, with their win of three straight victories; Union Grove clipped the second place by their 18 over Enterprise and Helena. Calera won the third place honors which was the bronze trophy. Mt. Pleasant picked up fourth place honors, which gave beautiful individual medals to each of the players. After this, individual awards were made to outstanding players. The judges selected the following players for the all-star team of the Tournament:

Forward—Blankenship, Calera.
Forward—Johnson, Mt. Pleasant.
Center—Jackson, Collins Chapel.

POTASH DOES MAKE A DIFFERENCE

DECIDE whether the acres you plant are going to work for you or whether you are going to work all season on land which will bring you little return. Properly fertilized, acres are always on the job. Make sure your cotton fertilizers give the land enough potash to keep the cotton crop growing, free from rust (potash starvation), to satisfactory yields of good quality which will pay you profits. Fertilizers applied at the rate of 400-600 pounds per acre should contain from 6-10% potash to insure young cotton plants receiving enough of this necessary plant food. Later in the growing season, more potash can be added in a nitrogen-potash top-dresser, if required.

Consult your county agent or experiment station about the fertility of your soil. See your fertilizer dealer about the right amount of potash in your fertilizer. Write us for further information and literature.

Things We Think

Things Others Think and What We Think of Things Others Think

—BILLY SMITH

Wildlife Week

Next Sunday, March 20th, marks the opening of National Wildlife Week and Alabama is planning to observe this event in true style. Chilton County chairmen are J. B. Atkinson and John Hollis, who, with Loren Smith, have taken a deep interest in the conservation of wildlife in this county. It seems strange to us that it should be necessary to have to arouse the interest of the people of the nation to an appreciation of the pleasure and economic value which wildlife and natural resources afford. Yet, it cannot be questioned that the people forget to realize the beauty of such things.

A Real Opening

Doing things up in great style seems to be the policy of Clanton's Curtis Billingsley, operator of the Billingsley Service Station and the Billingsley Service Store. We are among those who are eagerly awaiting the formal opening of the Billingsley Service Store in Clanton. Being familiar with the arrangements being made for this formal opening we are convinced it will be worth waiting for and going to. Especially will the ladies of this section want to attend this opening.

State Candidates

A letter from our good friend, Cullen Morgan, publisher of The Hale County News, at Moundville, tells us that he is seeking a place on the State Democratic Executive Committee and our warm reply to his letter is a decided "Yes, we will vote for you, Cullen." Mr. Morgan is rated by us as being among that group of young men of Alabama that is forging to the top rung of the business and political ladder. Then, we have our own C. H. (Claude) Pipes, who is seeking a place on the same state committee. Both these young men have our stamp of approval for these seats.

State Candidates

Our office is visited almost every day by one or more of the large number of candidates for state offices. Most of these fellows have been long-time friends of ours and now and then we are placed in the position of wishing we could elect them all. But, May 3rd will bring to an end that desire and some of them will cease to be candidates after that date. We are anxious to see one of the Democratic ballots for the primary of May 3rd. It's length, no doubt, can be measured only by a yard stick. To us it will be something like attempting to select a candidate from a rack containing so many they all look good.

Make Yourself Wanted

Our office was visited recently by two representatives of the Modern Educational And Religious Bureau, an organization furthering the interest of the Negro race. We were decidedly impressed with the pamphlet they left. Their motto, "Make Yourself Wanted" brings out their statement and advice to the colored race that "you will always be in demand if you make yourself wanted." After reading this literature the thought crossed our mind that perhaps some of the white race would do well to follow this advice.

Bombers And Barons

We received a pleasant call the other day from our friend, H. M. Hatcher, owner of the Montgomery Bombers, a baseball team attracting wide attention. Friend Hatcher advised that at an early date the Bombers would come to Clanton to play against the well known Birmingham Barons. We await that match with much impatience. Also we are looking forward to receiving a complimentary season ticket from the Bombers.

Ex-Service Men

Due to the interest now being taken in the re-organization of the Chilton County Post of the American Legion, we looked into the matter a little and were astounded to learn that there are approximately 400 ex-service men in Chilton County who are eligible to become members of the American Legion, while only about 30 make up the membership list in this county. With the American Legion being one of the strongest and most worthwhile organizations in the nation, we cannot understand why more interest is not manifested in its welfare in this county.

Ten Years Ago

May we call the readers' attention to two new features of the News. This week this newspaper begins mention of incidents which occurred five years ago and ten years ago.

CO. TREASURY REPORT ILLEGAL UNLESS ITEMIZED

Tax Payers Demand Semi-Annual Publication Of County's Business

Section 6766 of the 1923 Code of Alabama provides for the semi-annual publication of receipts and disbursements of County Commissioners' Court, Boards of Revenue, and other like governing bodies, C. L. Walton, president of the Alabama Press Association, said today in a statement issued to this newspaper.

Section 6766 as enacted in 1923 and amended in 1935 is as follows:

"6766. Publication of receipts and disbursements. The courts of county commissioners, boards of revenue, or five governing bodies shall make a semi-annual publication on the first days of April and October of each year, in a newspaper published in the county, of an itemized report, showing the receipts and expenditures of money for the county, specifying particularly the sources from which received, and the purposes for which expended. Said publication must also show the entire indebtedness of the county, of whatever kind and character."

35 NEW CASES MEASLES ARE FOUND HERE

Report Made By County Health Officers Shows Increase In Cases

35 new cases of measles were reported to the county health department last week according to the latest news release from the county health office.

The most recent outbreak occurred among the pupils of Oak Grove school north of Jemison. Practically all of the children enrolled who had never had measles were stricken last week after a case had developed in a new pupil recently moved from Birmingham, was declared by Dr. S. D. Sturkie. It is feared, he said, that many cases might develop at Jemison school when it was learned that one of the cases had ridden the school bus to Jemison.

"Every possible precaution," he stated.

New Grocery Store Will Open Monday

Clanton is to have a new grocery store and market when Clyde Mims opens his new place of business on next Monday morning.

The new store is located on the highway to the News Building.

Mr. Mims stated that his brother, Willie Mims, will be in charge of the market. The latter Mr. Mims is one of the best meat cutters and market men in the county, while both these men have had several years experience in the grocery business.

While the store opens Monday, the formal opening date has been set for April 2nd, Mr. Mims stated. They will carry a complete stock of fancy groceries and will make a specialty of Western meat. New shelving and counters have been installed. They will also operate delivery service for their customers. The telephone number is 242. Watch next week's News for the announcement of their formal opening.

MRS. BARNEY ROBERTS TO PRESENT PUPILS IN RECITAL

Mrs. Barney Roberts will present pupils from her piano classes in recital Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons, March 22 and 23, at three-thirty o'clock, at the High School auditorium. The public is invited to attend these recitals.

Mitchell Dam Wins Gold Medal Tourney

Mitchell Dam's crack basketball team came through victorious last Friday night at the Gold Medal Tournament held at the Y. M. C. A. in Montgomery.

Mitchell Dam played three games, noosing out the Nunn Battery team, Maxwell Field, and in the final game they defeated the Columbus Manufacturing Company team, after coming from under a big lead gained by their opponents in the first half. The final score, a close one, was 55-50 in favor of the Dammers. The team was managed this season by Steve Stanley.

BAND CONCERT AT COTTON MILL DECLARED HUGE SUCCESS

The free band concert held last Sunday afternoon on the lawn of the local cotton mill was declared a huge success. A large crowd attended and from comments heard, a fine program was rendered. This was the second time this band has rendered and a bright future is predicted for this band of musicians.

LEGIONNAIRES MET HERE ON LAST MONDAY

Prominent Visitors, Motion Pictures, Music Add To Excellent Program

Members of the Chilton County Post of the American Legion, and ex-service men guests enjoyed a splendid program last Monday night when a meeting was held at the courthouse in Clanton.

The meeting was opened by post commander John W. Fant, who addressed a fine attendance. Legionnaire Percy M. Pitts introduced the speakers for the evening. These were State Commander B. F. Austin and State Adjutant D. Trotter Jones, both of Montgomery.

These two Legionnaires brought with them a splendid motion and talking picture of scenes of the national convention held in New York. This was enjoyed immensely by the gathering. Both made interesting and instructive talks.

Music for the meeting was furnished by Archie DeLoach and his well known touring band. The received many orders and were asked to play again for the Legion. Cigars and soft drinks were served to all attending.

New Members In

At this meeting several new members of the local Post were brought in and introduced. This added much to the roll of the issues of the Chilton County News of March 24, 1932 and March 31, 1932, it brought back to memory one of the most harrowing experiences he has ever had.

To the writer, the finding of bodies under wrecked homes, injured persons lying in roads, ditches and fields and some of these had breathed their last—was a picture not much unlike that of war.

Hospital Closed

A day or so before the tornado struck, Clanton's hospital had closed its doors for lack of funds. It had been doing too much charity work, so they said. But, as the injured persons were brought in by carloads, truckloads and by ambulances, the doors of Clanton's hospital were swung open and the people of Chilton County saw then and there, the great need for an institution like that.

The hospital was overcrowded. The injured men, women and little children—all cut, bruised, and with broken bones—filled every available bed in the building. Soon they were placed in the hallways, on the floors, and some were screaming in with load after load of dead and injured. Yes, it was very

Six Years Ago Next Monday To The Date Chilton County Was Raked By

One Of The Worst Tornadoes In History

Next Monday, March 21st, 1938 marks the sixth anniversary of the visit made to Chilton County of the worst catastrophe this section has ever witnessed—the tornado. Monday, March 21st, was the date—six years to the day.

As the writer turned through the pages of the issues of the Chilton County News of March 24, 1932 and March 31, 1932, it brought back to memory one of the most harrowing experiences he has ever had.

To the writer, the finding of bodies under wrecked homes, injured persons lying in roads, ditches and fields and some of these had breathed their last—was a picture not much unlike that of war.

Hospital Closed

A day or so before the tornado struck, Clanton's hospital had closed its doors for lack of funds. It had been doing too much charity work, so they said. But, as the injured persons were brought in by carloads, truckloads and by ambulances, the doors of Clanton's hospital were swung open and the people of Chilton County saw then and there, the great need for an institution like that.

The hospital was overcrowded. The injured men, women and little children—all cut, bruised, and with broken bones—filled every available bed in the building. Soon they were placed in the hallways, on the floors, and some were screaming in with load after load of dead and injured. Yes, it was very

LOCAL COTTON PRODUCERS ARE FOR NEW QUOTA

Overwhelming Approval Is Given 1938 Plan By The Entire South

The cotton producers of Chilton County voiced a hearty approval of the 1938 Agricultural Adjustment Act in the special cotton quota election which was held last Saturday, as did cotton producers over the entire South.

The question voted on by those who produced cotton in 1937 was: "Do You Favor Marketing Quotas For Cotton In 1938?"

In this county there were 3,282 votes cast last Saturday, 3,119 farmers voted in favor of the marketing quotas and only 193 voted against.

The entire South polled a large vote favoring the quotas as proposed by the government.

C. H. Pipes Will Seek Place On Committee

Chilton County will again this year produce a candidate for a place on the State Democratic Executive Committee in the person of Hon. C. H. Pipes, well known young business man of Clanton and clerk for the city.

Mr. Pipes qualified some time ago to seek a place on the state committee and is the only one on the ticket from this county. The place has heretofore been held by Dr. N. S. Johnson, who is not running this year.

There are eight members of the State Democratic Executive Committee to be selected from this, the Sixth Congressional District, which is composed of eight counties. Mr. Pipes' election is assured and he will mean much to Chilton County as a member of the state committee.

Telephone Company To Start On New Building

T. E. Harris, district manager of the Southern Bell Telephone Co., advised Mayor Jones this week that the telephone company expected to begin work on their new telephone exchange for Clanton on or about April 11th.

The site for the new building for Clanton has not yet been selected. The improvement also calls for an automatic system for Clanton.

PLAY AT COLLINS CHAPEL SATURDAY NIGHT, MARCH 19

There will be a play at Collins Chapel school Saturday night, March 19, at 7:30 P. M., entitled "Mrs. Wigglesworth Gets Religion."

String music will be given between acts. Benefit of the Liberty Hill Church and Collins Chapel School. Admission will be ten and twenty-five cents and everyone is urged to attend.

It was more than an emergency, every doctor's office in Clanton, Thorsby and Jemison, was lined with injured people. Hundreds knew naught of the whereabouts of other members of their families. The shock was too great for immediate thinking on the part of those caught in the path of the now dreaded twister.

Women of the county, who could, became nurses within a few hours. Giving comfort here, washing blood from this patient and that one, preparing for the over-worked doctors to render first aid. There was little or no sleep for many that Monday night—remember?

The writer remembers well. We went with the first ambulance to answer a "small" call somewhere near Lomax. But that "small" call continued through the night and into the next day, and that ambulance went with became just one among many brought in from nearby cities.

Sixty-Three Killed

If we remember correctly, sixty-three white persons died as the result of this tornado in Chilton County. Approximately fifty were killed one night.

Then on the following Easter Sunday afternoon, the writer, like hundreds of others, faced a twister full in the face when visiting in the area.

COUNTY FAIR DATES ARE SET IN SEPTEMBER

This Year's Fair To Be Much Larger Than Last; Will Be Held At Airport

The dates for the holding of Chilton County's next County Fair have been set, the place designated and other arrangements are in the making, according to advise given out following a meeting of the officers and directors held last Tuesday morning in Clanton.

The Fair is scheduled to open September 20th and continue through September 24th and will be held at Gragg Field, Chilton County's modern airport.

These announcements will be of wide interest and the holding of the Fair at Gragg Field will give much more space than was had last year. A catalogue setting out rules and regulations etc., will probably be published for the Fair this year. For further information those interested are asked to get in touch with Dr. V. J. Gragg or J. Mel Martin.

Tiffin Receives Two Carloads Furniture

Two solid carloads of bed room and living room suites have just been received by the Tiffin Furniture Co. of Clanton. And, in addition to this a large shipment of kitchen cabinets, refrigerators and kitchen ranges was also received.

Mr. Tiffin stated that these shipments came direct from the factory at a very low prices and this enables them to pass this merchandise on to the people of this section at great savings. A large advertisement in this issue of the News list many of the bargain to be found at this large furniture store.

Kiwanis Club Holds Fine Meeting Recently

The regular weekly meeting of the Clanton Kiwanis Club was well attended last Thursday night and an interesting program rendered.

The program was in charge of Kiwanian John Fant, and was devoted mostly to soil conservation subjects and an interesting talk was made by S. R. Doughty.

Clanton Laundry Installs Modern Equipment For Dry Cleaning And Stretching Curtains

Complete equipment for the dry cleaning and stretching of curtains has recently been installed by the Clanton Laundry & Cleaning Co., according to F. L. Thompson, manager of this concern.

"We have also installed fluting equipment," Mr. Thompson stated, "and all this new machinery enables us to launder, stretch and flute curtains in the modern manner." All curtains are laundered in rain-soft water and even the daintiest of curtain material is safe under this new and modern equipment.

Only the purest of soaps are used in this and all other work done by the Clanton Laundry & Cleaning Co., Mr. Thompson stated. He also advised that their prices are right in line. In fact,

FARMERS URGED TO LEARN ABOUT NEW FARM ACT

Has Decided Bearing On All Farmers And Marketing Of Their Products

Cotton producers who have placed cotton in the 1937 Commodity Credit Corporation cotton loan should familiarize themselves with the provisions of the new Farm Act as it affects these loans and their cotton price adjustment payments as originally authorized in August 1937, the Agricultural Adjustment Administration announced today.

Numerous reports have been received that producers are being urged to sell their equity or interest in their loan cotton in order to be eligible for a cotton price adjustment payment on loan cotton. The sale or transfer of the producer-borrower's equity or interest is not necessary for such a purpose since the new Farm Act provides that cotton otherwise eligible for a payment which is in the loan on June 30, 1938, will be eligible for a payment based on the amount by which the price of cotton on the 10 spot cotton markets is below 12 cents per pound on that day. Furthermore, the new act directs that the maturity date on all cotton loan notes be extended to July 31, 1939. The maturity date was originally July 31, 1938. The only way cotton which has been placed under the loan can be sold so as to be counted as eligible for a cotton price adjustment payment is for the producer to pay the loan in full before selling the cotton. Any sale attempted while the cotton is subject to the loan would not be a sale of the cotton but only a sale of the right to benefit in whatever proceeds might remain after the loan had been paid in full with all carrying charges. Persons who have been buying such so-called equities cannot obtain any benefit therefrom since the loan agreement provides that any holder of the note is

SUNDAY MARKS THE OPENING OF WILDLIFE WEEK

National Wildlife Week To Be Observed Throughout This State

The little "orphan" of civilization, wildlife, gets a break during the week of March 20-27. Folks who never gave thought to the little stepchild will pay homage to him as the greatest benefactor of all to mankind, whether he be considered from the esthetic or the economic angle. Shorn of his rags, dolled up like a main street debutante she will step forth as the angel of National Wildlife Restoration Week.

Hunter, fisherman, naturalist, song-bird lover, scientist, sentimentalist, all will espouse her cause those seven days. During that week the Cinderella of nature will be in her glory, for folks will sing her praises.

And then on the eighth day, if we revert to form, the will again don her rags, resume her pitiful existence and pray for the break she has never really gotten. The only difference will be, that never before has she ever been thusly honored.

But that eighth day must not come. If that sorrow, the will again don her hunting and fishing pleasures is to be averted, the homage paying of March 20-27 must be followed by thoughtful action instead of thoughtless destruction. National Wildlife Restoration Week must serve that purpose, to

TIFFIN ENLARGES PREMIUM DEPARTMENT, OCTAGON SOAP

The Octagon coupon department of the Tiffin Furniture Co. has recently been considerably enlarged, according to Tom Tiffin, who is in charge of this department.

Heretofore they have had only 8 or 10 premiums and now they are carrying 35 to 50 premiums. Illustrated folders of premiums will be mailed out from time to time showing the premiums and their coupon values, Mr. Tiffin stated.

Thrift And Success

Opportunities come to everyone, but often the greatest opportunities can not be grasped because it requires a little ready money to enable one to take advantage of them.

This point is emphasized by a well-known financier, who in an article on thrift says: "Those who become leaders in the business world found the turning point in their careers wherein they were able to take advantage of a great opportunity because they had money at hand. In most cases the sum of money involved was small, but coupled with vision, ambition, clean living and selfmastery, these men were able to turn their nest eggs into colossal fortunes."

It is understandable that the habit of saving comes hard for most people, but having once made a start it is comparatively easy to continue. Nothing inspires the confidence of business men in a young person more readily than the knowledge that he or she is able to save money, even though the amount saved from month to month is not large. Many a young man has been enabled to make a most desirable business connection through a reputation for thrift and having a little ready cash.

Banning Of Firearms

Former Commissioner Whalen of New York favors legislation to prohibit the sale of firearms, on the theory that criminals would thereby be unable to get them. This brings up an old question, in which there is room for argument on both sides, but we doubt that a no-gun law would help much.

The trouble is that a professional crook would find a way, through smuggling or other unscrupulous means, to get his gun anyway. Even if all citizens were required to be registered it would take another army of inspectors to keep track of them. Besides every criminal would provide himself with a good-sized arsenal before the law could be put into effect.

Maybe the sole object sought by Mr. Whalen could be accomplished the other way around—by making it compulsory for everybody to carry a gun after sundown. Then the crooks would have a less advantage.

The Inventors

Of eight inventions which Dr. C. M. A. Stine calls "milestones of railroad progress", none was invented by a man whose business was railroads.

Morse, who invented telegraphy, was an artist. Pullman was a Chicago street contractor and the railroads were reluctant to adopt his sleeping car. Eli H. Janey, who patented the first automatic car coupling was a clerk in a dry goods store. The automatic block-signal system was originated by a retired textile manufacturer, Thomas S. Hall.

Westinghouse was a 23-year-old carpenter-machinist when he invented the air brake. A physician invented the vestibule buffer, eliminating open platforms. The refrigerator car was largely developed by packers. And the first electric locomotive was designed by Moses G. Farmer, a school teacher.

Charles F. Kettering, head of General Motors' research department and one of America's greatest inventors today, says a man seldom ever invents anything in the field which he is trained—he knows too much about the obstacles.

Kettering, incidentally, helped develop the fever machine now used by physicians to cure pneumonia, paresis and St. Vitus' dance.

One-seventh of all federal income is derived from taxes on tobacco.

Sitting--Gossiping

Time marches on, but the same group of loafers who used to sit on the shady side of the street 20 years ago during the Summer are still to be found on the same spot. They still know what is wrong with the town government, the state government, the churches, the hard-working business and professional men and the nation—Moulton Advertiser.

Steering Gear Alibis

An automobile expert has recently written an article debunking the ancient alibi of careless or drunken drivers who blame their accidents on failure of the steering gear. He states that the most rigid tests by manufacturers have proved that steering gear failures is practically unknown.

The fact is, no part of a modern car is structurally stronger or more certain of responding to the demands made on it than the steering gear. But the old excuse is still worked to a finish, and is usually accepted by those who should know better.

If the driver is drunk and weaving his way along when the crash comes, and he lives to tell the tale, he calls upon the ghost of his steering gear. If he is speeding on a slick pavement and goes into a skid, or was dozing and did not see the other car before he hit it—always the steering gear is blamed. And the steering gear can't talk back.

It's time we stopped listening to such alibis, which are false 999 times out of 1,000. Some 37,000 people are killed and more than a million are injured every year, and at least 90 per cent of these accidents are the result of foolhardy, careless or drunken driving.

If this ghastly toll is to be reduced, the dangerous driver must be punished, and not permitted to get away with the old steering gear alibi.

Approval Of Farm Quotas

As was expected, cotton and tobacco farmers last Saturday approved the imposition of marketing quotas by overwhelming majorities.

Of the planters voting in the cotton referendum, those favoring the restriction outnumbered opponents by more than 11 to 1, according to latest returns. Sentiment for quotas was not so overwhelming among the tobacco growers, but the ratio was better than 6 to 1.

Apparently a strong majority even of all growers qualified to vote in the cotton referendum favor the plan. Although about 1,000,000 of them did not vote nearly complete returns show 1,189,828 favorable ballots out of a possible 2,367,030. Of those who did not vote, it is possible a majority were against the plan, but, feeling that there was no chance of heading it off, did not vote because they did not believe their votes were needed.

The general outline of the plan set in motion by those approving referendums is quite simple, however intricate its detailed application may turn out to be.

A national allotment of cotton—about 11,000,000 bales—is proclaimed by the secretary of agriculture. It is calculated by figuring the number of bales which, added to the probable carry-over from last year's record crop, are estimated to be necessary "to make available a supply of cotton, for the marketing year beginning on . . . Aug. 1, equal to the normal supply."

This allotment is apportioned by the secretary to the states on the basis of their average production over the period of the previous five years. The state allotments are broken down into county and farm allotments.

The marketing quotas are the number of bales actually produced on the acreage allotments or the normal production for that acreage, whichever is greater.

The whole plan is designed merely to assure a larger portion of the national income to the farmers by limiting crops and bringing about a larger price for them. It is not intended to increase the total production of wealth directly, although the argument can be made that if the farmers of the country obtain, as a result of the law, a fairer share of the national income that is more nearly adequate to their needs, production in general will tend to be greater and more balanced.

All the democratic processes have been duly observed in establishing the plan. Strong congressional majorities approved the law. In cotton and tobacco overwhelming majorities of those most immediately affected have endorsed the general scheme. It remains now only to hope and work for the best results from the experiment.—Birmingham Age-Herald.

We Observe

By Bonnie Hand

It's always fair weather when good friends get together—or something like that. Anyway, it was certainly a beautiful day last Saturday for fishing, but then we didn't go fishing. But we did go to see a football game. (Yes, football). In company of our good friends, namely, Horton Walker, M.D., Foshee, Jr., Henry Apperson and Luman Hicks, we breezed over Tuscaloosa way to watch the big Spring training scrimmage game played at the Alabama Crimson Tide. The captain and alternate captain of the team chose sides—blue and green. This was more or less the game which decides which players will be on the first team of the Tide this Fall. A crowd of three or four thousand viewed the game which demonstrates the interest being shown in the team for this year. Our opinion, along with the opinion of others more qualified to pass judgement on the team than we, is that the Alabama Crimson Tide will soar to still greater glory this season. Clanton's own Jesse Frank Foshee is really showing his stuff and believe you me, in order to show up well on that team you have to have what it takes to stay out front. Competition in making first team is stiff, but we believe that Clanton's only representative on the team will go places—and how.

Clanton has another representative in the sports of the U. of A. in the person of Alex Hayes, who is making the grade as a baseball player. We don't know whether or not Alex has ambitions of following in the footsteps of his older brother, Jack Hayes, who is among the best in professional baseball, but we predict Alex will make a name for himself in baseball while at the University.

We saw several of the Clanton students on the campus of the University Saturday, among whom were Grady, Jr., Reynolds. If Grady is taking part in any great extent in sports we don't know of it, but that degree in law is not far off, Grady says, and then into law school. It looks as though the law firm of Reynolds & Reynolds in Clanton might be the next thing to expect before so many more years, as we're sure Grady, Jr., will meet all requirements of a number one lawyer.

We didn't get to see Clanton play in the State Basketball Tournament held at Tuscaloosa Friday and Saturday, as Clanton was eliminated Thursday night, when they met Lexington. The Clanton boys lost by a very small margin, and really gave the Lexington boys a run for their money, according to those who witnessed the game.

"Look Me In The Eye!" Sounds like somebody's going to get hypnotized, doesn't it? Well, we'll take that chance, when we see the play of that name, to be presented by the Senior III Class of C.H.S., Friday night, March 18. Rehearsals are well under way on this play and although there won't be any Clark Gables or Joan Crawford performing, the old spirit will be there just the same and Clanton owes the Senior Class of C.H.S. enough respect to turn out in large numbers to see their play, and we'll lay you two to one that you'll enjoy every act. More power to "Look Me In The Eye."

Although Clanton was defeated by a mere one point at the State High School Tournament at Tuscaloosa, Chilton County did not emerge from the tournaments without recognition. The Mitchell Dam team came back from Montgomery Friday night with colors flying, after having defeated some of the best teams of the country to win the Gold Medal Tournament held at the Y.M.C.A. gym. Mitchell Dam played the House of David team some time ago, and made a good showing. We congratulate these boys and their general manager, Steve Stanley.

M.R. Lancaster, down at the Bus Station has been doing a little remodeling recently. The purpose of this remodeling was to enlarge their kitchen. Must be getting ready to "dish it out" this Summer, but what we're wondering is whether or not Mr. Lancaster intends putting on a "Remodeling Sale" of that cream of the whip, St. Louis famous for, Anyway, sale or no sale, with that ice cream making machine they have there, we'll bet there will really be some "dishing out" of ice cream at the Bus Station this Summer.

MARTINS ARRIVE

The martins, considered by many as true harbingers of spring, started their northward flight through Alabama the latter part of February and early March. At Daphne in Baldwin County the birds came as early as February 20, left, and then returned March 2. Other points in Baldwin and Mobile Counties saw them February 28 and March 2. In Houston County they arrived March 3. Montgomery County reported martins on March 2, and in Birmingham at George Ward's "Vestavia" they arrived the morning of March 5.

When a father announced his intention to discuss the facts of life with his son, mother expressed the hope that father would learn something.

MORALECHOE

D. W. Haskew

A pastor arose and announced his text. He said that it could be found in the tenth chapter of first Ezekiel, the fourteenth verse and was as follows: "Cleanliness is next to Godliness." He paused for a moment and there was not a sound of surprise. Everyone took it for granted that the pastor was correct in his statement. In the place where there was no book in the Bible by the name of Ezekiel and in the second place "Cleanliness is next to Godliness" is not in the Bible, but that modern congregation did not know either. It is absolutely amazing to see the amount of ignorance to be found about the Word of God. The average man knows more about baseball and golf than he knows about the Word of God. The average woman knows more about movies and the latest fashions than she knows about the Words of Eternal Life. We would have a purer society, if we knew more about the Bible.

And it came to pass that Opportunity came to the door of a young married couple and knocked. Husband and wife ran to the door and both looked upon the visitor with amazement. One carried the air of sacrifice, one who had brawny hands, indicating hard work. They inquired: "And who are you?" The one at the door replied, "I am Opportunity. If you want to succeed I would like to walk in and make my home with you." They slammed the door in his face and said, "Sir, if success is dependent upon sacrifice and hard work, you can not come in." On hearing this, Opportunity turned his back and walked away. Verily, verily I say unto you, success never found shelter under that roof. The reason why so many people cannot find success is because sly old Opportunity goes around in the garb of hard work. Nothing succeeds like work and sacrifice.

One day a farmer returned from his field to be informed that the old family horse had fell in a dry well near the house. The well was so deep that the old horse had outlived his usefulness and the farmer was much perplexed as to what he should do. He walked up to the mouth of the open well and on looking down he saw Jim standing there as if waiting to be helped from his hopeless situation. After much consideration the farmer decided that the best thing to do was to fill the well and bury old Jim alive. He was sure that he would not survive long under the sand. So the old man went for his spade and located himself near the well and began to shovel in the dirt. When he thought that the well was about full he looked toward the place where he was pitching his dirt and there stood old Jim with his head and shoulders above the ground. As the old farmer stood up in amazement old Jim jumped out of the hole and ambled off toward the green pastures. As the dirt poured in on old Jim he kept lifting his feet and trampling it underfoot. "This he was lifted out of the well. Like the old horse who refused to be buried alive, in like manner we should use all of our troubles and misfortunes as stepping-stones to higher and better things. A man who is a man will brace himself against all forces that would hold him down and with courage he will keep battling on until he is on top of the world."

When we were kids in school we read a fable in one of our school books that told of a beggar who chanced to meet Fortune one day. Said the beggar, Fortune, "Will you empty your gold horn into my lap?" Good Fortune replied, "Yes, I will, on condition that every coin that you let touch the ground shall be turned to dust." The beggar accepted his proposition and held his lap to receive. When Fortune was about to cease pouring the gold from his horn, thinking that the lap could hold no more, the beggar would ask that he pour just a little more. The beggar kept begging for more and more until the ragged old beggar tore as all the gold fell out upon the ground and went away into dust. How many of us are greedy old beggars? The more we have the more we want. Often we do defeat ourselves by our morbid appetite for more and more. We keep on spreading out until we are not incapacitated to carry what we have. Our wants become larger than we are.

It is not often that a ship is found on the bosom of the ocean wide, but this thing happened on December 5th, 1872. A British ship by the name of Del Gratta was sailing along near the shore of Portugal and came upon the Mary Celeste, a brig of 282 tons. It was sailing in perfect order. The Del Gratta signaled and had no reply. They went aside the ship and could see no one. Then they cast out ropes and drew near and went aboard. They found the ship in perfect order, carrying a cargo that was worth about forty thousand dollars, but there was not a man on board. What happened to the crew has never been learned. There were no signs of violence. This remains to our day as one of the great unsolved mysteries of the sea. The remarkable thing about that ship was that no records had been made for ten days and yet the ship had sailed 750 miles in perfect order and straight in her direct course. I would like to use this true story of the sea to illustrate to you the value of a well-planned life. A life that is firmly set on its course will invariably continue on that course to the end. Set a human life right when it is young and when it is old it will not depart from it.

IN MEMORY OF VICTOR QUEN MOORE

On Tuesday, March 7, 1938, the death of Victor Quen Moore, Baptist Minister, occurred at the Baptist Hospital in Selma, Ala. from Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Moore, his parents. Victor Quen Moore was born in Alabama, and was a member of the Baptist Church.

He was only twenty with us thirteen months, but he had a place in our hearts that no other can fill. We will miss him so, but we feel like our loss is heaven's gain. God needed another little bud in heaven, so he gently waded the spirit of little Buddy to realms of rest.

The large crowd at the funeral with sad faces and expressions of sorrow were sufficient evidence for the love we had for this dear little one.

He leaves to mourn his loss his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D.E. Moore, two brothers, Denny and Johnnie, and a host of relatives and friends.

Goode Issues Statement To Voters of County

Candidate For Governor
Gives Views About State Problems

R. J. GOODE
Candidate For Governor

Following is a statement issued this week by Hon. R. J. (Bob) Goode, at present Commissioner of Agriculture and Industries of Alabama, and a candidate for Governor.

In spite of the fact that I have been more or less actively connected with State affairs for approximately a quarter of a century, this is actually the first time I have ever attempted to make a political statement in my own behalf. I have spoken for others and for causes but never for myself, and it is difficult to become oriented to the fact that I am now a full-fledged candidate out on the hustings in the interest of my candidacy for Governor.

Because of inadequate time and the further fact that my detailed platform is not yet ready to release, it has seemed to me to be appropriate to reaffirm to you the declaration of principles contained in my formal announcement, which you may or may not have already seen.

"In this announcement I stated that: 'I believe the people have a right to know the purposes and principles which will govern my conduct if I am chosen as their Chief Executive. By training, by environment and by education, I have been imbued with the belief that morality and religion are the source of human happiness, both for the individual and for society; that character should be exalted above knowledge; and that public service be esteemed a greater honor than private gain.'

"I do not believe that the people of the State are interested in mere ambition to hold office.

"Good will to all classes and interests, together with deep sympathy for those whose condition and opportunity must be improved in order to further their own and the general welfare, seem to me to be the first requisite for Government of Alabama. Destitution without health, despair without education; and toil without reward among a large proportion of our people are conditions which must be corrected. This is no class affair. It is a common interest and a joint responsibility.

"The second requisite is that the Governor should have a knowledge of the grave needs of our people and an understanding of the Government from practical experience in legislation and administration.

"It is because I hope that I can meet these requirements and be of real public service that I have felt justified in announcing. I will in due course state my platform and philosophy of government, and what I would strive to accomplish as Governor. At this time I feel that it is enough to say that I am party to no special interest, class, pressure group, or machine, local or state, and will never be.

"If I were asked to point out what I consider the first essential to the State, I would be friendly understanding, open conferences and a united body of citizens.

"My commitments will be made publicly to all the people.

"I shall promise no office.

"I have no hostilities to carry on.

"I harbor no bitterness.

"I would not care to be Governor unless I felt that I could, from my first day in office until my last, have the confidence of our people, regardless of class or station in life, and help to reconcile the class differences and misunderstandings of the past.

"With this conviction and this motive, I shall not be moved nor deceived to serve the purposes of any political machine, any class or pressure group, nor any wasteful or ulterior purpose.

"The training, the experience, the public record and the character of a candidate should be considered in connection with his platform and pledges. It is, therefore, for this purpose that I believe you are entitled to a brief statement of a personal nature.

I was born five miles from the small town of Gastonburg, Wilcox County, where I was reared and have since lived. My parents, grandparents, and great-grandparents were Alabamians—all principally farm people or interested in agriculture and the usual business, social and religious activities of the community.

"I was educated in the public schools, at Marion Military Institute, Marion, Alabama, where I was graduated with a scholarship to the University of Pennsylvania, which institution I attended two years. After leaving school I have been continuously engaged in farming and in the operation of a rural fire insurance agency.

"My legislative experience has consisted of four terms as Representative in the Legislatures of 1915, 1923, 1927, and 1931. My special and active interests have been agricultural, school, road and health matters.

"During my first legislative experience in 1915, I was impressed with the need for a road policy for the State. At that time the general road laws consisted of a hodge-podge of more than a hundred unrelated sections in the Codes providing for no definite policy. It occurred to me that it would be desirable on account of the difference of conditions between the various counties, to delegate to the governing bodies of the separate counties legislative, executive, and judicial powers so that each county could enact and enforce suitable provisions governing the board policy.

Many lawyers believed it impossible for the legislature to delegate these powers. However, it seemed reasonable to me and, consequently, I introduced bills repealing more than a hundred sections of the Code at one time and enacting in fourteen sections the first General Road Law for the State. This law has since been contested by various counties but has always been held good by the Supreme Court, and is at present the basis and foundation of our general road policy.

"Later I sponsored the legislation known as the Agricultural Code, which consolidated four separate boards or departments into one cohesive department,—the present Department of Agriculture. This code defined and separated the Research, Educational, and Regulatory functions of the State relating to Agriculture, thereby, preventing duplication, overlapping and conflicting work by the several agencies.

"The need for some provision by which there might be a coordination of agriculture and industry was recognized and, consequently, I secured the passage of legislation providing for the Industrial Development Board, which was established for the promotion of industrial expansion and cooperation with Agriculture within the State.

"During the 1927 Legislature I prepared and sponsored the present Experiment Station and Demonstration Farm set-up, to develop facts and information on which every farmer in the State can base his operations with more profitable results, and to demonstrate these facts to our farm people. All of these measures are now the fundamental policies of the State in matters which they relate and none of them have been declared unconstitutional by our Supreme Court.

"My administration as Commissioner of Agriculture and Industries, to which office I was elected without opposition in 1935, has had its principal objectives: (1) and expanded service to our farm people and the consuming public, and (2) a better understanding and relationship between our farm and rural people on one hand, and our industrial, business and urban population on the other.

"National legislation and policies have become more and more important as they affect and influence the economic and social welfare of the State, and I have given and will continue to give my whole-hearted support to the objectives and policies of the present Democratic Administration. Naturally, on account of my official position as Commissioner of Agriculture, my principal active interest has been in those matters pertaining to or affecting Agriculture of the State and nation. In addition to cooperation with the Administration's agricultural programs, it has been my privilege to have helped secure large benefits for our people. An illustration of such work was the initiation and successful conclusion of what seemed to be a hopeless effort to secure the cotton loan and subsidy payments on the 1937 cotton crop, and as much more saved by preventing further disastrous decline in the price.

"Activities and study in connection with protecting our people against the disastrous competition of foreign fats and oils, which cost our cotton growers many millions of dollars on cottonseed last season; protection against continued unwarranted losses caused by the foreign jute interests; discriminatory freight rates; and other economic policies directly affecting the welfare of all Alabamians have provided an understanding of the problems which will be pursued as your Chief Executive with more and further beneficial results.

"This brief summary will indicate my interest in the public welfare; that in the positions to which I have already been honored there have been accomplishments which I believe to have been worthy of the public interest; and that record of conscientious and honest performance of public trusts may accurately measure the future by the past.

Consequently, I pledge myself to all economies and efficiencies looking toward a progressive fair and just administration in the interest of all our people.

LANDOWNERS PROTECT FISH

Landowners on Pea River in Dale County have joined together in a cooperative movement to restock this river with fish and then protect it over a period of three years. Property owners on both sides of the river have agreed to refrain from fishing the stream during that period, and to assist authorities in breaking up seining and dynamiting, meanwhile restocking the river with fish.

NEW METHOD OF SAVING HOME SUPPLY OF MEAT

Auburn, Ala.—For farmers who have trouble in saving their meat during warm winters, the Alabama Experiment Station has worked out a brand new method of curing pork for home consumption. It is a very simple method and can be used successfully by any farmer during seven months from October to May.

The method was developed by W. E. Sewell, associate animal husbandman, who has just issued a special leaflet giving full information on results obtained through the experiments and the directions for farmers to follow in using the method.

In order to cure hams and shoulders during warm months it was necessary to remove the bones from these pieces before chilling the carcass," he says. "This procedure destroyed the original shape of the ham and shoulder, resulting in a ragged slab of meat resembling bacon, but the cured meat was desirable for food."

Directions for slaughtering the hog, cutting the carcass, and curing the meat are given by Prof. Sewell in the special leaflet, copies of which may be had free by writing Prof. Sewell at Auburn, Ala., or from county agents.

Negro Minstrel at Jr. High School

On next Saturday night one of the best Negro Minstrels ever arranged will be presented at Thorsby Jr. High School.

If you like to laugh, don't miss this one, but if you are one of those confirmed chroniclers who boasts of never laughing you had best remain away. If Judge Hopwood, played by Chester Maddox, don't lift you out of that sulky disposition, then we recommend your seeing your family physician because something is radically wrong.

Then too, there's Prof. Squeel who conducts a class in one of the most comical manners possible. Boy, this is a real button-buster. John Childress plays the part of the Professor. This one features is worth twice the price of admission.

Following will be several other features of great attraction, which will round out one of the finest little programs you have seen lately. See this Minstrel. Forget your worries. You'll feel lots better by having spent the evening in fun frolic, and music.

The price of admission will be ten and twenty cents. Ten cents for all school children, regardless of age. The program will begin at 7:30.

The pupils of Thorsby and vicinity had the pleasure of attending on March 11, in the Institute Auditorium, one of the best talent plays ever produced here. The members of the cast entered into their parts so well that the audience laughed and cried in sympathy with the plight of the actors.

Those who saw the play will not soon forget "Bobbie", Miss Lois Townsley; "Chandler", Mr. B. C. Brickett; "Walter Conrad", "Bobbie's" brother, Mr. Jack Petraggi; and Dr. Jimmie Reed, with ambition, Mr. W. C. Kelley. A touch of the tragic was brought into the play with the entrance of Robert Post, the visitor, Mr. L. L. Stanley. Other important members of the cast were Flo Gray, "Bobbie's" flapperish cousin, played by Miss Willie Littlejohn; Grandma, who proposed to Grandpa, played by Miss Mildred Littlejohn; and Lottie, a neighbor, played by Miss Ruth Higgins. The two negro characters, Zuzi and Zuzi's sister, Salamander Alexander, John Henry Jones, played by Mrs. Karl Christiansen and Mr. Rascoe Maddox, were well portrayed and caused much merriment.

The play "The Path Across The Hill" was presented by the Truth Seekers Class of the Congregational Sunday School. The class is sending the proceeds of the play to Miss Ella Frances Thompson who is a missionary teacher at Silliman University in the Philippine Islands.

STRAWBERRY CROP IS SEEN AS PROMISING

Outlook Over Entire State Seems Brighter This Year Than For Sometime

The condition of the strawberry crop in Alabama on March 1 is 83 per cent of normal, indicating a year of 314,000 crates compared with 197,000 last year, it was announced in a report issued by the Alabama Crop Reporting Service. The area devoted to the crop this year in this State is 5,300 acres, compared with 2,900 last year.

On February 1 condition of the crop was 82 per cent of normal. On March 1, last year, it was 80 per cent. The 10-year (1923-32) average condition on that date is 81 per cent. For other states producing early strawberry crops the March 1 condition was reported as follows: Florida 73 per cent, Louisiana 90, Mississippi 85, Texas 72, Louisiana, therefore is the only state where the condition percentage is higher than in Alabama—topping this State by a margin of only two per cent.

Conditions reported to the Bureau of Agricultural Economics from the early strawberry crop states on the first of the present month, it is announced, indicate a good crop this year, with an average yield per acre above both that of last year and the 10-year average yield. With an increase of 10 per cent in acreage and the higher indicated yield per acre, it is stated, production is expected to be about 16 per cent larger than in 1937, or 2,764,000 crates of 24 quarts each, compared with 2,388,000 crates last year.

Shipments from Florida, the report says, are now going to market at rate of about 14 carloads a day. Louisiana began shipping the first week in March with shipments in volume expected about March 30. Harvest of the crop in Texas was delayed by light frost in February and the first shipments in quantity are expected today.

Some berries in southern Alabama are now being picked and carload shipments are expected to begin within a few days, it is stated. There will be no carload shipments from Mississippi until later in the month.

May Start Work On Watermains Next Week

Work of extending the watermains in Clanton to the territory recently acquired within the corporate limits of the city is expected to start next week, according to Mayor C. Fenn Jones.

Mayor Jones stated that it appeared the city will be ready to start the work at that time as he has been advised by those in charge of the program of government that the funds are now available.

HOUSTON VOTES TO KEEP STATE STORE IN DOTHAN

Drys Lose Decisively In Own Referendum To Get Prohibition Back

Dothan, Ala., Feb. 28.—Houston County voted decisively today against a return of Alabama's prohibition laws in a referendum called by the dries.

With unofficial figures tabulated from 30 of the county's 34 boxes, the count stood:

For State liquor stores, 2,788.
For Prohibition, 1,836.

The four boxes missing are in rural sections, and normally cast about 250 votes.

In Dothan the vote was 1,442 for retention of State stores to 78 for return to prohibition in Houston County. Dries did not carry but six of the 30 boxes reporting tonight.

With approximately 7,300 registered voters in Houston County, today's vote was regarded as abnormally large for a special election and reflected the interest engendered by the issue.

Defenders of the State store system pointed out the monetary benefits accruing to the county's schools and welfare work from legal sale, as opposed to the absence of revenue from illicit sale.

Houston was one of 24 counties in Alabama to legalize sale of liquor in local option elections last March 10.

In that election, the county cast 1,731 wet votes to 1,209 dries. Houston voted dry, 1,500 to 1,331, in the 1935 referendum.

The state store here opened June 15, ending 22 years of legal aridity.

Dry circulated petitions for today's referendum under the provision of the local option law which permits such steps in either wet or dry territory.

Under the leadership of the Houston Temperance Alliance, the prohibitionists campaigned vigorously, sending sound trucks into rural sections to broadcast speeches to dry leaders.

DR. H. G. CAMP

Jasper, Ala.—Dr. H. G. Camp, prominent physician of this county and for the past four years, Chief Medical Director of the Alabama Penal System, announced his candidacy for the office of State Auditor on a platform which pledges him to abolish the parole racket and put the state parole system on a scientific basis.

“Born and reared in Talladega County, and educated at the University of the South, Dr. Camp removed to Walker County in 1908, where he practiced medicine for 28 years. On entering the public service, he turned his practice over to his son, Dr. Pete Camp, who is known to followers of football throughout the South as a star tackle on the University of Alabama's Crimson Tide of 1925. In addition to practicing medicine, Dr. Camp is a successful business man and formerly vice-president of the First National Bank of Jasper, which office he resigned upon assuming his duties with the state.

In the announcement of his candidacy, Dr. Camp pointed out that the State Auditor is a constitutional office with fixed duties, including service on the Board of Pardons, and the Board of Pardons, passing on bonds of public officials as well as other varied and important duties.

“I feel that my experience with convicts in my capacity as Chief Medical Director of our state's penal system, and my general business training has equipped me to render efficient and understanding service as State Auditor,” said Dr. Camp in his announcement. “I will oppose the parole racket, and seek inauguration of a scientific system for the handling of pardons and paroles. I also feel that my professional experience will be of value to the state in the work of rehabilitation of many prisoners applying for paroles and pardons.”

Letters To The Editor

A WORD FOR ROY ROPER

“Dear Editor:

“Please allow me a small space in your paper, for those who do not know Mr. Roper.

“I have been knowing Mr. Roper personally for years and find him to be an honest, trustworthy citizen, capable for the office that he is asking. And if you do not know him, ask those who do, and find out for yourself before the election in May.

“We all have first and second choice and we have other good men out for the office but we cannot elect all so let's pick out the one that we think better suited for the office.

“I like Roy because he is friendly and sociable, knows you today tomorrow. He is a farmer and knows what kind of a row we farmers have to hoe.

“Roy will be glad to do you a favor at any time, and will show his appreciation for your support.

“If you do not know him it will be a favor to you and him also, if you will ask someone who does.

“Well, as I am not up on writing letters to be published, I will close.

“With best wishes,

Senior Class Of C. C. H. S. To Present Play, “Look Me In The Eye,” Next Friday Night

At eight o'clock Friday night, the curtain will rise on a very laughable, rollicking comedy which will be given by the Senior III Class of the Chilton County High School.

Rehearsals have been very enthusiastic this week and the play promises to be one of the best presented this year.

Guy Alred is very convincing in the role of Sappington Tuppy, who hates Tabitha Todd, Geraldine Hollis. Deannie's performance as the hypnotized statues will bring many laughs.

“I like Roy because he is friendly and sociable, knows you today tomorrow. He is a farmer and knows what kind of a row we farmers have to hoe.”

handsome hotel proprietor, because Guy flirts with the Seniorita, no harm is done.

Can you imagine Rayhon Crew “reading Orvid Hughes asunder”? That's what he threatens to do to Orvid because he hypnotized Susie, Raybon's “finiance” and can't get her hypnotized. Raybon's “finiance,” by the way, is Mildred Popwell.

Marshall Lee Ware and Margaret as negroes, Myra Taylor as the young lady who breaks her engagement all on account of hypnotism, and Julia Hubbard Reynolds as the business-like young bride, promise to be good in their particular roles.

The curtain will rise promptly at 8:00 o'clock.

A Very Profitable Meeting
The meeting held by both club women and their husbands at the Court House Saturday was both interesting and very profitable. Mr. J. S. Browder was present and presented information on various water systems that would fit the rural people's needs. Mr. Ivey spoke on what the men folks could do toward the convenience of the home. Mrs. Hans Karl Christiansen explained the "Kitchen Improvement Contained" now underway and Meta E. Grace stressed cooperation of the men in working with their wives on improving the kitchen and urged the men to go home and score their kitchens and see if they scored high or low. If your husband did not attend this meeting, he will miss a chance of winning a prize. Don't forget—the prize is a new kitchen. If you read it to him so you both can have a general understanding of some of the things that can be done. Don't forget—the prize is a new kitchen. This was followed by the roll call and the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting by the secretary, Mrs. Horace Popwell gave a most interesting talk on her trip to California, which was greatly enjoyed by all. Miss Grace then made a few remarks on the Kitchen Contest meeting which was held at the Court House Saturday to get the men interested in improving their wives' kitchen. Alpine-Pletcher Club
Our meeting for February was postponed on account of sickness. We are planning a very active year. All members are very much interested in our club work. We hope to be a first class club by the end of this year. Our club will put on a play to try to show the advantages of buying household needs in large quantities instead of small ones. Miss Grace will be with us to put on a very interesting demonstration. We want all club members and their families present. Place and date will be announced later. Our motto at each meeting is to make the next one better and more interesting.

Extra Supply of Cucumbers
Will the club women please plant an extra supply of cucumbers. In May we are to have a special demonstration on "Pickling and Brining Cucumbers" and we want each woman to have a supply of at least five (5) gallons of cucumbers when the ferments have back home. Mr. Ruffin, of the Extension department, suggests you plant one-half ounce of White Spine, Kirby Stay Green or Long Green cucumbers.

FACTS FROM THE RECORD

Written by F.G. Stephens, Publisher of The Southern Democrat, Oneonta

Store Tax Division Of The State Tax Commission

The Chief Clerk of the State Tax Commission is charged with both executive and judicial functions. It is his duty to collect and supervise the collection of the Chain Store Taxes. In this connection he must compare the returns of previous years with those of the present year. He must check the corporate records for the indications of new business enterprises, with the end in view of subjecting them to the tax should they fail either through neglect or willfully, to make their returns as required by law. He must carefully supervise the issuance of the Store Licenses, to the end that the proper number of license be issued each individual or concern.

In his judicial capacity as the Chief Clerk of the Store Tax Department he must advise the taxpayers of the law as applied to the numerous complicated situations which arise in connection with the administration of the Chain Store Act. In this connection the Chief Clerk must necessarily work in close harmony with his Field Men, keeping in constant touch with their problems and advising them of the proper procedure as the occasion arises.

The Store Tax becomes due and payable from and after the first day of January of each year, and the act provides that it shall be unlawful to engage in business after such date without having obtained such license. All licenses issued expire on December 31, of each calendar year. A party failing to procure a license by March 1, may be cited as delinquent. The license is paid directly to the State Tax Commission. The proceeds from such license being turned over to the State Treasury to the credit of the Educational Trust fund.

The collection for Store licenses has increased steadily from year to year. The total collections for the last three calendar years are as follows: 1935, $104,502.89; 1936, $117,239.01; & 1937, $118,695.41.

4-H Club News

Last Friday the Enterprise 4-H Club girls met with Miss Grace. The club sang several songs, then Miss Grace discussed diseases with us. We learned certain foods will build up the system and keep down certain diseases. The majority of the girls from this club are looking forward to getting their certificates at the rally in April. Elvie Devaughn was elected from this club to ride on the float that will lead the parade through town on the day of the rally.

The club enjoyed a delightful tea party after everything else was finished.

Although next month is our last meeting of this season, let's carry on our 4-H Club work all during the summer.

School Bell Rings At Eastern "Pen"

The goat dairy at the Graterford Division of the Eastern State Penitentiary provides practical experience in one phase of farming for those enrolled in the agricultural courses.

SEVEN hundred prisoners at the Philadelphia and Graterford divisions of Pennsylvania's Eastern State Penitentiary are "going to school." Some whose education was neglected in their childhood are taking up the study of "The Three R's." Others are studying vocational courses to fit them to enter business or a trade and earn an honest living after their release.

The educational program, the first of its kind on a broad scale, was started in October, 1936, with the cooperation of the International Correspondence Schools of Scranton, Pa., and has developed as a combination of class room coaching and correspondence study. It represents, according to Dr. E. Preston Sharp, supervisor of rehabilitation, what the State of Pennsylvania hopes will prove a sound investment in the rehabilitation of men who might otherwise become a permanent drain to society and a constant menace on the State's resources.

The curriculum now provides 37 different courses including the various fields of agriculture, carpentering, masonry and bricklaying, automobile mechanics, draftsmanship, and a wide variety of commercial subjects. Men studying the vocational courses obtain practical experience related to their studies through the maintenance activities of the prison and through their work in the prison shops, offices, and on the farm at Graterford, 30 miles outside of Philadelphia.

Text material for the courses is furnished by the International Correspondence School, but lessons are graded and corrected by instructors selected from the men serving time and trained by the I. C. S. before the start of the program. When a man completes his course the final examination and sample lessons are sent to the I. C. S. for review. Provided the work done meets the required standards, the regular I. C. S. diploma is awarded. Up to the present time approximately 60 men have completed courses and received their diplomas.

"A large proportion of the men committed to the Eastern State Penitentiary are without skill or training in any trade," says Dr. Sharp. "Many of them are virtually illiterate. By showing them how they can overcome the handicap of illiteracy and acquire skill in a trade, the educational program has given them a new incentive to use their time in prison constructively."

Enrollment is entirely voluntary, but the interest of the men is shown by the number who enroll, and by the fact that the calibre of the work done compares favorably with the work of men on the outside who enroll with the I. C. S. for correspondence study.

Ala. Road Builders Plan Annual Banquet

All candidates for Governor have been invited and will attend the annual banquet of the Road Builders Association, to be held in Montgomery's new City Hall Auditorium at 6 P. M., March 28.

In addition to the gubernatorial candidates, the Association has also invited candidates for the Senate and House of Representatives and newspaper editors of the State with the view of acquainting them with Alabama's highway progress and problem.

Guest speakers at this year's banquet will include Congressman Wilbur Cartwright, of Oklahoma, chairman of the House committee on postoffices and post roads; Tom McDonald, chief of the Bureau of Public Roads; and Col. Willard T. Chevalier, of New York, vice-president of McGraw-Hill Publishing Company, and president of the American Road Builders Association.

A. G. Underwood, secretary-treasurer of the Alabama association, pointed out that the meeting would afford the members "an opportunity to associate with the candidates for Governor and many other public servants, thereby getting their views on public questions."

Underwood said invitations were also being extended to the highway department officials of Georgia, Tennessee, and Mississippi and to several others prominent in road building in adjacent states.

In the past the annual banquet of the Alabama Road Builders Association, which is affiliated with the American Road Builders Association, have been attended by more than 400 persons.

Officers of the Alabama organization are Alex Hancock, Mobile, chairman; Fred G. Owen, Woodward, Alabama, vice-chairman; and A. G. Underwood, Montgomery, secretary-treasurer.

These constitute the board of directors with the following: Clyde Mitchell, John Donelson, A. M. Boono, George Mattison, Jr., George C. McCullough, Charles P. Postelle, and J. D. Pittman, all of Birmingham; Thomas E. Kirby, Anniston; Eric Gellerstedt, Dothan; Fred Hooper, Jacksonville, Fla.; H.E. Wolfe, St. Augustine, Fla.; and Charles A. Long, Bessemer, Alabama.

Herman Douyard, fishing bait salesman of Northhampton, Mass., has invented and automatic worm vendor to serve customers while he sleeps.

Midwives Apply For License Renewals Here

Twenty-six Chilton County midwives had applied for renewal of their licenses. It was revealed in a review from the county health department. There were in addition 2 new applicants for permits. Each midwife is given a thorough physical examination to determine her physical fitness and is studied from the standpoint of the amount of education, mental alertness, personal neatness and freedom from communicable diseases before a permit is granted. This is in accordance with Section 1064 of the Code of 1923. It was pointed out by Dr. S. D. Sturkie, county health officer.

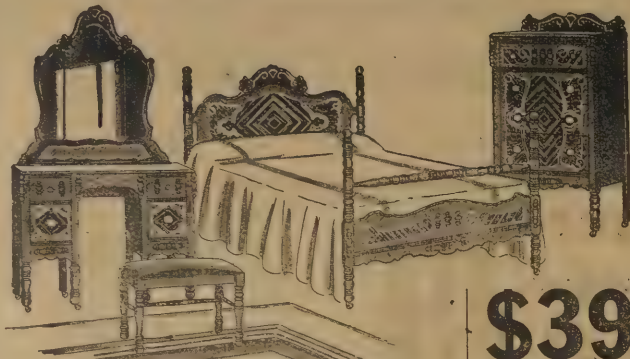

"The midwife program," he stated, "constitutes one of the most important phases of our maternity program. Its aim is to eliminate the illiterate, mediocre midwife and to supply to those mothers who because of the remoteness of their places of residence or because of their lack of money cannot have a doctor, a midwife clean, intelligent, and properly supervised by the health department. A formal course of instruction is given each licensed midwife at so-called midwife meetings. Standard equipment and the practice of a standard technique outlined by our State Health Department is required of each midwife whose failure to cooperate will result in her license being revoked. Much emphasis is placed on the midwife sending her prospective cases to a doctor for prenatal care, reporting to the county nurse and obtaining a doctor during the delivery if any abnormalities develop. The giving of teas or other medication and performances of examination by midwives are strictly forbidden."

"In its entirety," he concluded, "this program is one of great significance and benefit in Chilton since 30 percent of our deliveries last year were by midwives. Anyone engaging a midwife should always ascertain if she is licensed and avoid the unlicensed midwife. The patient should also be sure that the birth is properly recorded with the local registrar."

It is 639 miles from the source of the Coosa River to Mobile Bay. The waters from this river become the Alabama River in Elmore County and the Mobile River 36 miles north of the entrance to Mobile Bay. This lacks only about 13 miles being as long as the Tennessee River which crosses several states.

FERTILIZER VALUES SHOULD BE STUDIED

In the selection of fertilizers for cotton farmers are faced with the problem of determining which analyses and methods of fertilization will give them the desired amount of plant food at the lowest cost.

Several fertilizer practices are giving satisfactory yields of cotton although hope for her a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Deason and children of Wetumpka have been visiting the latter's mother, Mrs. Susan Owen.

Misses Jeanette Evans and Myrlene Smith honored Mr. Elsie Davis Saturday night with a musical entertainment which was very much enjoyed.

Mr. W. E. Deason of Selma spent a few hours Sunday afternoon with his mother, Mrs. Mary F. Deason.

Mr. Junior Evans had as his Saturday night guest, Mr. Herman Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Smith had as their Sunday dinner guests Mr. and Mrs. Enoch Mims and children of Jamison, Ala.

the cost of plant food in each varies to some extent.

The three principal methods of supplying plant food to cotton are (1) all at planting; (2) using a mixture low in nitrogen and high in potash and adding a nitrogen side application; and (3) a mixture with a medium amount of nitrogen and potash and making a nitrogen-potash side dressing.

In using either method it is important that at least 36 pounds of nitrogen, 48 pounds of phosphorus and 24 pounds of potash be provided for.

The efficiency of side applications of combinations of nitrogen and potash, such as a 10-0-10 mixture, has long been established by experiments and farm practice. The extra potash will guard against rust, increase growth and fruiting, make picking easier, and increase yields.

At current fertilizer quotations the average amount of potash used in mixtures can be doubled for the value of only a few pounds of lint cotton.

A preliminary survey of fertilizer practices to be followed by farmers in 1938 as shown by the demand for the various analyses indicates that mixtures high in potash are being given

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our many friends for their kindness and sympathy shown during the illness and death of our dear son, husband and father, Stanley Cooper. We wish to especially thank Miss Gracie Robinson and Dr. N. S. Johnson for their faithfulness and kindness; Preachers Larce Headley and C. V. Henley for their comforting words. We appreciate the nice floral offerings. We want all of you people to know that the burden of our great sorrow was lightened and made easier to bear by your sweet sympathy, gentle kindness and comforting words. May God's richest blessings be yours as our prayer. Please accept a deep and heartfelt "thank you" from—The Family.

A grade which is rapidly rising in popularity is 4-10-7 and it appears now that this mixture will again lead in percentage gain over all other analyses as it did in 1937.

A LOT OF CAR

for a VERY LOW PRICE

The Ford effort to make your dollars buy a constantly better car is well illustrated in the Standard Ford V-8.

It has all the basic Ford advantages. It is built on the same chassis as the De Luxe Ford V-8. It gives you a choice of smooth 85-horsepower or 60-horsepower V-8 engines. But it sells at low prices, and includes bumpers, spare tire, cigar lighter, twin horns and other equipment that make it a still bigger bargain.

With the thrifty 60-horsepower engine, the Standard Ford V-8 is priced especially low and gives the greatest gas mileage in Ford history. Hundreds of owners report averages of 22 to 27 miles a gallon—or even more.

Your pocketbook will approve of the Standard Ford in every way. And so will you when you drive it!

Saturday Night in Japan

"COME on in, the water's fine." Bathing in Japan is on a different plane from ours, as these two American gentlemen can tell you. Tubs are perpendicular there, instead of horizontal, and you stand in the water up to your neck. But we shouldn't laugh at this somewhat primitive scene, according to Consumer Information, which points out that only a hundred years ago, there were only 1,500 bathtubs in the United States, all of them in Philadelphia, where they had a city water system and taxed each tub $3.00. Farmers Should Become Familiar With The New Farm Act bound to turn over to the producer, however any amount realized on the sale of the cotton covered by the note remaining after paying the loan and all interest and carrying charges. Producers desiring to transfer the title to their cotton to the Commodity Credit Corporation in accordance with the provisions of Section 781 (b) of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938 should give careful consideration to the manner in which their interests will be affected before actually making such transfers.

This section of the farm bill provides that before July 1, 1938 any producer may transfer his right, title, and interest in loan cotton to the Commodity Credit Corporation and directs the Corporation to accept it and to assume all obligations of the producer with respect to the loan on the cotton transferred. The Corporation is then directed to notify the Secretary of Agriculture of the cotton so transferred to it and the Secretary of Agriculture is directed to pay to producers a sum equal to 2 cents per pound on the cotton they transferred to the Corporation. The amount so paid to be deducted from any price adjustment payment to which they are entitled. Since no appropriation has been provided out of which these payments can be made directly, it follows pursuant to this provision that the producer of the cotton is entitled to a cotton price adjustment payment pursuant to the provisions of the Third Deficiency Appropriation Act, fiscal year 1937, as amended by Section 381 (a) of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938. These provisions require a producer to comply with the 1938 cotton program in order to obtain a cotton price adjustment payment. It will, therefore, be impossible for a producer to obtain any cotton price adjustment payment to which he is entitled at an earlier date by surrendering title to his loan cotton and receiving the equivalent of 2 cents per pound on the amount of loan cotton so transferred; nor will a producer be able to obtain any larger payment than he will otherwise receive from his cotton. On the other hand, producers who transfer the title to their cotton to the Commodity Credit Corporation will lose all opportunity to benefit from an advance in the price of cotton above the loan rate. Furthermore, any transfer of the title to the cotton might otherwise accrue to them by reason of the fact that their cotton may grade out at a higher basis than established as a basis for loans. Since the cotton loans are made without recourse against the producer if he complies with the provisions of the 1938 agreement, a producer will not incur any obligations to the government by reason of his failure to transfer title to loan cotton to the Commodity Credit Corporation.

VARNELL BEGINS BASEBALL AT C.C.H.S. IN BIG WAY

Coach Varnell started baseball last week but due to so many basketball tournaments, going on he couldn't start the full amount. This week all the boys are home and started practice in full swing. Coach says he expects to have 18 to 25 boys out within the next week or so.

As far as players are concerned Coach Varnell doesn't have to worry. He has most of the boys from last year's team with all the rookies, although L.D. isn't here to chunk the rock this time. Bill Armstrong and Durwood Williamson are back fighting for dear life.

The opening game of the season will be held here Friday afternoon with the Jewison kids. Who will play what position is what Coach is worried about, but he says "the best man wins."

CITY DOES IMPROVEMENT WORK ON SIDEWALKS

The city recently completed a small job of improving a stretch of sidewalk in front of the Yellow Rose Store. The walk had become broken up considerably and was torn away being replaced with new concrete.

acter, specifying particularly the amount of bonds outstanding, their character and when due; the amount of the outstanding warrants, whether interest bearing or not, and if interest-bearing, for what purpose said warrants were issued and when due and payable.

The Attorney General of Alabama has held in a recent opinion that the semi-annual reports of such bodies should be published to conform to the intention of the legislature which definitely determined that the tax payers of the counties should be apprised of the purposes for which county revenue was being expended. The latest opinion of the Attorney General reads as follows:

"I am of the opinion that said Section requires that the publication provided for therein should show specifically the purposes for which any money was expended. In my judgment, it would not suffice to merely set out the classes of expenditures without specifying each particular warrant. While this practice will no doubt be more expensive to the counties, it seems to me that the Legislature definitely determined that the people of the particular counties should be apprised of the purposes for which county revenue was being expended."

Under the ruling of the present Attorney General and all others since the law was enacted it is held that reports to conform to the law must be itemized.

Some county governing bodies are publishing abbreviated forms, some are publishing none, and others are publishing reports in keeping with opinions of the Attorney General. Mr. Walton said, "A careful check is being made of the counties publishing reports not conforming to the law, he said. The tax payers are entitled to a statement of the county's affairs and this year as never before are demanding the publication of these facts, he added."

ed, "is being taken to prevent the spread of this outbreak. All homes in which measles have been found have been placarded and all susceptible children are being excluded from school for a period of two weeks. Parents are being urged to consult their family physicians for immunization of small children who have been exposed. Usually if either whole blood from the parents, or serum from a convalescent person, or immune globulin, which may be purchased from drug houses, is given during the first five days after exposure, the child will be temporarily protected from measles for a period of several weeks. If these agents are given on the 6th or 7th day, the child will have a modified rather mild form of measles. The danger of broncho pneumonia and inflammation of the ears, which occur frequently in young children following measles, makes it highly desirable to postpone this childhood malady until the child is past 5 years of age."

stricken a week before.

Then there was the case of the little girl who was found some distance from her home, blown there by the winds. She remained in a doctor's office in Clanton for several days. The Chilton County News received calls for several days from well-meaning people over the state, wishing to adopt the child.

Her parents had been separated in different hospitals that night, both seriously injured. Her injuries were slight. They named her "Little Tess" since she was found in the storm—remember? We learned a year or so ago that "Little Tess" died from pneumonia which was not caused by exposure from the storm, however.

It was all a gruesome sight and it is needless for this writer to remind many of that terrible night. Yet, many of us remember to be thankful for those things which we now have and may those whom Death separated from their loved ones in this storm and stripped them of their earthly possessions, continue to have the strength and courage to carry on as they did in the days following this disaster. D & P L COTTON PRODUCERS SAID TO BE THE LARGEST

The Delta & Pine Land Co., of Scott, Miss., is said to be the world's largest cotton producers. Plant breeders on this great farm are ever striving to improve D. & P. L. Cotton, and their marvelous success is shown by improvements made in the last ten years.

D. & P. L. No. 4-8, which was grown ten years ago, was a good yielder with inch staple, and required 1400 pounds of seed cotton for a 500 pound bale.

D. & P. L. No. 4-8 which is the largest development, is a good yielder with inch staple, and requires but 1150 to 1200 pounds of seed cotton for a 500 pound bale.

WORK STARTED ON NEW WATER LINES OF CITY

Sixty Men Placed On Job Of Digging Ditches For New Water Line

Work got underway in earnest Tuesday morning on the extension of the city's water lines when approximately sixty men went to work on the first line of ditching preparing for the laying of the line.

This first ditch started at the intersection of First Street and Third Avenue, just west of the creek near the Reynolds Addition. The line will tie in there and extend into the Reynolds addition, serving residents there with city water and fire protection through the placing of fire plugs.

L. M. Matthews, county representative of the Works Progress Administration, who has charge of the placing of the workmen, stated Tuesday that they may place more men on the job but right now, they had a sufficient number.

Mayor C. Fenn Jones announced two weeks ago that the government had approved the application for the project whereby the city would receive approximately $29,000.00 for labor. The entire project will cost approximately $44,000.00, the balance to be borne by the city.

Due to the proposed paving of six miles of the Lay Dam road, beginning at the courthouse, it was advisable to place the new water mains in that section before starting in other sections, Mayor Jones stated.

The Leader Will Make Special Spring Showing

Although workmen have been busy inside of The Leader for some time making it one of the most attractive stores in this section, Maurice Lande, the genial proprietor of this popular dry goods store, advises the News that this will not interfere with their annual showing of the newest Spring merchandise.

Mr. Lande stated that while the work of improving his store is not yet complete, he is postponing some of the work in order that The Leader's spring style show will not be bothered. "We have a slightly big happened on account of this work which has caused us a small delay in our Spring show," Mr. Lande stated. "However, the show will go on. Our store is full of the new Spring merchandise, so come in and let us present to you the latest in these styles. Anyway, we want you to get an idea of what a modern store we will have when we have completed the job," Mr. Lande concluded.

Temporary quarters for the library will be furnished by Mr. Little in a part of his office. For a while, the books will be cared for by Mrs. T. E. Jefferson, the lady in charge of the lower grade school books for the department of education.

Other and later developments of the organization and things of interest pertaining to the library will be released for publication from time to time.

City Asks That All Taxes Be Paid Now

In a special plea to delinquent taxpayers of the City of Clanton, city clerk C. H. Pipes is making request that these taxes be paid at the earliest possible moment.

Mr. Pipes stated that with a great amount of work now being done for and by the city government, there is something of a need for these funds. The deadline for paying city taxes has already past but, Mr. Pipes states that this doesn't mean they don't need the money badly. A notice to this effect appears on the back page of this issue of the News.

Clean-Up Campaign To Begin Here Next Week

Advent Of Spring Brings Thoughts Of Clean-Up
And Merchants Of Clanton Are Cooperating
With The News To Brighten Up City

With the coming of Spring, home owners usually turn their thoughts to house-cleaning, yard cleaning and beautifying of their yards, maybe a little painting, and maybe fishing.

Spring has officially arrived, according to the calendar and the merchants of Clanton are planning a splendid idea for aiding homemakers and other property owners in doing their Spring house cleaning, painting and general improvement of property throughout the city.

The idea seems to be in the air, as even the city officials themselves have the improvement fever and are stressing every point to bring several improvements for the people of Clanton—

Pneumonia Is Second In Causes Of Death

Pneumonia, which ranks in second place in Alabama as a cause of death and was responsible for 2612 deaths in the State last year, on the basis of provisional figures, saddened homes in all but five of Alabama's sixty-seven counties during the month of January, according to the provisional monthly report of the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the State Department of Health. The five counties in which no pneumonia deaths were reported during the month are Autauga, Clarke, Marengo, Washington, and Winston. Six deaths were reported from Chilton County.

January pneumonia deaths for the State as a whole totaled 360, as compared with 364 in December and 280 in January, 1937. The Alabama pneumonia death rate for 1936 was 94.7 per 100,000 population, as compared with a rate of 96 per 100,000 population in 1926, 85.8 per 100,000 population in 1930, and 86.5 per 100,000 population in 1935.

The idea has met with such splendid and wholehearted approval that it will no doubt turn out to be county-wide. This will occur since Clanton merchants in all lines will join hands and make such exceptional bargains on paints, brooms, mops, hoses, rakes and everything a person would need to push the clean-up campaign.

It is hoped that when this campaign (Continued to Back Page)

Formal Opening Of New Store Is Set This Week

RUFUS GANN

W. C. (Curtis) BILLINGSLEY

Public Is Invited To Attend Opening Of Billingsley Store

The public in general and housewives in particular are extended a cordial invitation today to attend the big formal opening of the new Billingsley Service Store of Clanton.

This new place of business has one of the most elaborate plans for a formal opening ever staged in Clanton, according to W. C. (Curtis) Billingsley, owner of the store and W. J. Billingsley, general manager.

Beginis Today

The program of the formal opening begins today with a corps of clerks and assistants to take care of the crowd that is expected. Located on the corner next to the Exchange Hotel, the Billingsley Service Store has attracted much attention. The formal opening program will continue through Friday and Saturday.

Souvenirs, refreshments and demonstrations are on the program. Mrs. Gann, the genial young manager of the Firestone department of the store, will be on hand to tell visitors about the Firestone tires, tubes and other Firestone products handled by the store.

J. R. Tucker, experienced electrical appliance man, will be there to explain to anyone about most things of appliance to be had. Fred Thompson, son of John Thompson, of this city, will be there to assist these men.

Special Feature

A special feature of interest to all women, will be the demonstrations to be given by Mrs. Earline Hubbard, experienced home economist of the Kelvinator Company. Mrs. Hubbard arrived in Clanton Wednesday to set up her demonstrations at the store. She is a most pleasant woman and her demonstrations will be an added feature of the formal opening for the entire three days.

ENLARGED SEWERAGE SYSTEM WITH PLANT IS ON PROGRAM

Twenty-Three Year Old Present Sewerage System Becoming Outmoded By Growth
Of City And Increase In Water System

The twenty-three year old sewerage system of Clanton has become too old and too small to adequately handle the sewerage of the city, according to Mayor C. Fenn Jones and other city officials who have given this matter a careful investigation following some complaints made to the city. Not only this, it was learned this week, the present system of sewerage disposal will necessarily have to be enlarged in order to take care of the recently acquired territory of the city into which water mains are now being extended.

STREET LIGHTS BEING PLACED IN CITY AREA

Power Co. Extends Service
To New Sections Of City
For Street Lights

Street lights are being placed in the approximately six miles of new water mains into the area included in the recent extension of the city limits has already been started Mayor Jones stated Tuesday that the city has plans to propose to extend the city sewerage system into sections including South Clanton the Reynolds and Willis additions and the Negro section and to also erect a sewerage disposal plant.

These plans, if carried out would completely eliminate the present system of sewerage disposal which has become most unsatisfactory to many residents of the city, it was stated.

Application Made

Due to this need of Clanton, application has been made to the Works Progress Administration for government funds to aid in the costs of the project. Mayor Jones stated that in the application was also a small paving project for the city.

Mayor Jones advised that if the government approved this project and agreed to bear a part of the cost which was would necessarily be placed entirely into labor, then the city officials would ask the citizens of the city to authorize the issuance of bonds in an amount sufficient to take care of the city's part of the cost of the entire program.

Before residents of the territory acquired by the city through the extension of the corporate limits may enjoy the conveniences of modern water works systems, it will be necessary to extend the sewerage lines into this area as well as extending the water mains.

In mentioning the possible issuance of bonds, Mayor Jones reminded that during his term of office as mayor, the city had reduced the bonded indebtedness of the city by nineteen thousand dollars, recently calling in two bonds of one thousand dollars each for payment. These latter bonds were issued during the paving program of the city of thirteen years ago and were drawing six per cent interest.

This is most commendable and shows a gradual pick-up in the administration and financing of the city, as well as a large saving in interest.

SHOWALTER QUARTET HERE FOR CONVENTION, CONCERT

The Showalter Quartet, from Dalton, Ga., will be in Clanton for the county singing convention the second Sunday in April, according to a recent letter from Prof. W. M. Devaughn, now teaching in Dalton. The personnel of the quartet is: W. Lee Higgins, Floyd Grant, Floy Devaughn and W. M. Devaughn; Miss Marthy McCoy plays for the quartet.

Chilton County Can Now Boast Of Having Produced A Commander In The United States Navy And Be Rightfully Proud

A native son of Clanton and Chilton County has become a Commander in the Navy of the United States of America, a place that is honored and coveted.

And this native son of this county has risen to this outstanding position in the United States through his own efforts. And, Chilton County is proud of him.

This is Clanton's own Dr. Samuel E. Johnson, who is welcomed by every citizen on each of his visits here and familiarly addressed as just "Sam" by his many friends.

Way back in June, 1917, Samuel Johnson joined the Navy. He received his early education in the county where he was a member of one of the county's most prominent families, being the son of the late Dr. J. S. Johnson, a brother of the late Dr. Arthur Johnson and of Dr. Napoleon Johnson, who is at present an outstanding physician here.

After his education in the county schools was completed, Samuel Johnson attended Randolph-Macon college, then entered Vanderbilt University where he graduated in medicine. He practiced his profession in Clanton for a while, later going to Montreal, Canada to study advanced work for a year.

After entering the Navy at the beginning of the World War, his services became badly needed by his country which he has served well and, which has proudly rewarded him. He served as a doctor in various places wherever the government sent him. He has been around the world, visiting practically every country in his line of duty and spent three years in China before returning to the United States.

He has been Lieutenant-Commander Johnson, having been promoted from his early ranking position during these years. And the Navy has now promoted him to the position of Commander, which he will assume within a few months. Chilton County is justly proud of Samuel Johnson and proud that one of its sons has been able to occupy and fill this responsible and honored position.

Get More Cash From Cows

There are three basic reasons according to Dr. Tait Butler, writing in The Progressive Farmer for March, why there should be more milk cows on Southern farms:

"1. There are not now enough milk cows on Southern farms to supply the people living on those farms with sufficient dairy products for maintaining good health.

"2. The dairy cow probably furnishes the best market for the legumes, pasturage, and other forage these states must grow in order to prevent soil erosion and maintain and restore soil fertility.

"3. The South needs the additional farm income which efficient dairying will bring."

But Dr. Butler knows of no sort of successful farm production that is fool-proof, easy, or certain, and notes particularly some requirements for success in dairying:

"I know that dairying requires more work, knowledge, and business judgment than many other kinds of farming, but I believe that it pays as fair a wage (if not a better one) for all the labor and intelligence put into it as any other line of farm production."

Regarding "the man" as the first factor in successful dairying, he says:

"The factors which largely determine success in dairying are, first, the man, second, the cost of suitable feeds, and third, the quality of the dairy cows. At present the South does not have dairymen who are the equals in experience, knowledge, and efficiency of those of other dairy sections, nor do our cows average as high in production. But of course there is no great obstacle to improvement in both these lines. That is, only one of the most important components of the factors, he cost of suitable feeds, to be compared."

Youthful Criminals

As reported by the Department of Justice, statistics show that two-thirds of the arrests for crime, during the period covered by the figures given, were of persons between the ages of 15 and 24, those of 19 years exceeding the number in any other age group.

The greatest number of youthful criminals were arrested for larceny and burglary, and contrary to the general belief, more native-born than foreign-born were arrested, relative populations of each being considered.

The report also shows, contrary to belief again, that Chicago's murder record is relatively low when compared with many other cities, while the highest murder rate was made by Chattanooga, Tenn., closely followed by Jacksonville, Fla., and Memphis, Tenn. Of 89 cities for which statistics were given 19 reported no murders during the half year covered by the survey.

It was observed that January and February were the months of fewer arrests for murder and aggravated assault, while during these months robbery and burglary were unusually prevalent. Previous reports showed that for some reason this variation was usual during the winter months.

Plenty of statistics are available concerning the high prevalence of crime in the United States, but in spite of all efforts little progress is being made toward suppressing criminal activities.

New Care For Hubby's Grouch

Talking to other women about window views and plants for window decorations, Lenore Hassell Frels in the March Progressive Farmer suggests a new cure for hubby's grouch. She goes about it this way:

"When your husband wakes up in the morning with a grouch, maybe it is because the view from his window is ugly. Perhaps the first thing he sees is the washpot. A grapevine might effect a cure."

Could Have Saved 24,000 Lives!

Twenty-four thousand lives would have been saved and nearly a million injuries prevented between 1926 and 1935 had the national trend in motor vehicle accidents kept pace with the reductions made in states having standard drivers' license laws, according to the National Safety Council.

This conclusion is reached in a new study of license regulations, entitled "Saving Lives Through a Drivers' License Law," prepared by the Council for free distribution.

Here is irrefutable evidence that the human element, not the mechanical, weather or any other agency, is the principal cause of highway slaughter. In states without adequate drivers' laws—and unless such laws are periodically overhauled to keep pace with changing conditions they are almost certainly inadequate—persons who are congenitally careless and incompetent have accident after accident, and they keep on driving. Furthermore, almost anyone can get a license to drive, irrespective of his qualifications.

The standard drivers' license law, which has been adopted by a number of states, does not demand too much. It simply requires that no one shall drive an automobile who is physically or mentally incapable of operating it safely and that all drivers shall through tests, show that they are reasonably competent to handle a car, and have a good knowledge of traffic laws and regulations. Also, a sound drivers' law must provide for the automatic revocation of licenses motorists who refuse to abide by traffic rules, or who are continually involved in accidents.

The cold statistics prove that a modern license law will save lives and property. Every state should have such a law.

Tagging Our Brains

In recent years there has been an ever increasing effort on the part of psychologists, psychiatrists, psychoanalysts, and what have you, to determine and classify the mental deficiencies of the well-known human race.

Some time ago a comprehensive survey of mental diseases by specialists in psychiatry and allied fields was undertaken. After nearly three years of labor, a new classification of such diseases has been published, the chief divisions of which are:

Amnesia, neuroses, and psychoneuroses, schizophrenic neuroses, psychopathic constitution, affective and emotional psychoses, toxic psychoses, epileptic psychoses, organic brain disease psychoses, and other miscellaneous types. Which ought to catch nearly everybody on one count or another.

It is interesting to note in this connection that a recent diagnosis of Sigmund Freud, high priest of psychoanalysis and dream interpretation, revealed that he himself was a bit goofy, through "lack of inward integration."

Whether all these investigations in mental science and pseudoscience are doing us any practical good is a moot question. To a great extent, the conclusions reached by the so-called experts appear to be so much bunk although some discoveries of value may have been made.

A close analysis would probably reveal that all of us are a little cracked, either habitually or occasionally. In fact, as someone has said, "crazy people are just like other people, only more so." And if, as some contend, crazy people are the happiest, why worry? But perhaps it is more fun to be nutty with a fancy psychosis.

How Farm Cooperatives Operate

John Jones is a dairy farmer in a famous dairy state. All the surrounding counties are likewise largely occupied by dairy farmers.

For years John Jones had sold his products for whatever he could get—and his bargaining power was practically non-existent.

Finally, John Jones and a number of other farmers got together. They formed an organization through which the products of all of them would be sold through one central office. They put up their money to get the organization going and to hire a manager.

The result was a vast increase in bargaining power with buyers and fairer prices. There, in a few words, is the simple story of how most agricultural selling co-operatives start and operate. There's no mystery about them—they simply represent proven business principles applied to farming.

Eager to give his girl friend a thrilling evening, Walter Walsh of New York City, pulled a fire alarm. Police took Walter off to jail, and the girl had to go home alone.

THE PLAY—

"We were pleasantly surprised when we walked into the auditorium of the High School to discover that there was standing room only left. The occasion was the annual Senior III Class play. This play was entitled "Look Me In The Eye," and was enacted nicely by the members of the cast.

STREAMLINING—

While in The Leader Store the other day we saw some results of all that night work that has been going on by carpenters and other workmen that are needed in remodeling their store. We were impressed with the appearance of the store with the absence of the posts that formerly stood there. Large and powerful steel beams have replaced these posts, giving more room and a more streamlined appearance to the store. More work is to be done, we understand, in the near future to make the Leader one of the most up-to-date dry goods stores in this section.

IN LANETT—

Editor Vernie Teel, of the Chambers County News, Lanett, Alabama, saw fit to reprint in his editorial columns last week, an item carried by this column some time ago pertaining to trading at home. Mr. Teel, as you probably know, was at one time editor of the Chilton County News. We feel honored that Vernie should see fit to pass some of our writings on to his readers, as the Chambers County News is, in our estimation, one of the leading weeklies of the State, although founded only a few years ago. And we're proud to see Vernie doing so well at Lanett. It was under his guiding hand that we learned the ups and downs of the printing trade—how to be patient with a temperamental Linotype Machine, and many more things that is, and always will be, a great help to us. We are sure there are many people in Clanton who hated to see Vernie leave, as he was an asset to this community, taking a leading part in religious activities, and backing one hundred percent in worthwhile progressive work. We could flounder around all day, but we think we would never come across the right words to express how we feel about Vernie Teel.

THE GOOD WORK—

Last week the columns of the Chilton County News carried the following notice, which we think the parties mentioned deserve commendation:

Notice To Methodists

Any men or women who have no way to get to church and are unable to walk, please call Mrs. John Powers at 25 or write Mrs. E. L. Arant, Box 522 and a way will be provided for you to get to and from church. Do not hesitate to call on us. We want and need you in church.

Isn't it true that many of us who are physically able to attend church and have ways and means of so doing and yet are inclined to seek other things to do on Sundays? This is an example of church loyalty and a will to do good by members of the Methodist church.

BASEBALL—

Coach J. B. Varnell has opened up baseball in a big way we notice. Mr. Varnell turned out a fine team last year and we have reasons to believe that Clanton's team will win many games this year. We understand they are already off to a fine start by winning the first game of the season from Jemison High School by a safe margin. But even if they fail to win many games, we predict this sport will be carried out in a fair and square way under the coaching of J. B. Varnell. Drop by the News Office, Mr. Varnell, and we'll present you something that may aid you in carrying on the good work.

CCC BIRTHDAY—

We understand the local CCC Camp, Company 3481, will hold open house in observance of the fifth anniversary of the founding of the CCC. Much work is being done out at the camp in the way of aiding the farmers of this county in erosion control, conservation of wildlife, all of which comes under the Soil Conservation Department. The enrollees of this camp also have many advantages in that they are privileged to pursue phases of work in which they might be interested. The staff of officers and all enrollees are extending a cordial invitation to the people to visit their camp and tour the work be carried out.

AN INSIDE LOOK—

We know more about what takes place in the motor of an automobile when it is in operation since viewing the two cut-away chassis of the new Ford V-8 passenger car and truck which have been on display for the past few days across the street from the Clanton Motors building. The entire moving parts were chromium-plated and were electrically driven. And did you know that there is an investment of something over eleven thousand dollars in these two chassis?

MORALECHOES

D. W. Haslow

In the days of childhood about ten grandsons had gathered on the land our grandfather and we were having a game of ball. One of the larger boys struck the ball with all of his strength and sent it rolling down among the bee hives in the corner of the yard. So intent was my cousin in recovering the ball that he dashed after it. His swift movements among the gums enraged the bees and they covered his head and started a barrage of stings. After we had beaten the bees from his head and body we asked him if he did not know better than to chase a ball among the bee hives. He said that he certainly did know better, but he was not looking and neither was he thinking. Christ never uttered a greater command than when He said, "What I say unto you, I say unto all, WATCH!" Often we see young and old who are chasing something wanted without thinking and watching and before they are aware of it they are covered with the bees that sting. To stay out of danger it pays to keep your mind with you and to keep your eyes open.

While talking to a good friend of mine he remarked with pride, "I guess you have noticed that I have not been drinking of late." I told him that I had and that I was highly pleased and I would like to know why he had stopped. His reply to my query was that the doctor had told him that he had to quit or die, and then he remarked, "Doctor, you know a fellow will do a lot to live." What that man knew that whiskey was going to kill him in less than a few more weeks if he did not stop drinking, he quit imbibing. That was sensible and right. How I do wish that I could get this same truth burned into the minds and hearts of many other people today. It is a truth that can not be denied that there are folks all about us who have got to get away from the bottle or die. Sometimes whiskey is slow in killing folks, but it will do its work sooner or later. It is just beyond me why sensible folks will drink. A cancer is far safer to life than drinking habit.

My wife and I sat in the reception room next to the business office of a prominent business man. We were waiting to see him when he closed the conference in which he was engaged. On opening the door and looking out he saw us and threw up both hands, as if he had been ordered to do so. He advanced toward us with a smile and wanted to know what we would have him do. I addressed him thus, "Mayor, we are not after a donation this time, but are here to thank you heartily for what you have already done." This made him smile broader and I knew why. For some reason folks grow to think that a generous man never merits gratitude. We see a person in your town or community does an act of generosity or do you ever go to that one with an expression of gratitude? I sometimes wonder how some folks can just keep on doing the unusual while people show such little appreciation. Even a hog will grunt his appreciation when the perrmission from his feet.

I carried my car to the dealer after having it on the road for two years and asked for a trade-in value. The dealer informed me that he could allow me quite a bit more than the listed value of my car. I told him that I had taken my car. The dealer was saying to me that the real value of the car did not come from the age of the car but the care of the car. By the calendar a car can be used only six months and yet in wear and tear it can be a piece of junk. What is the value of a car is a true of the human body. A man's age is not to be determined by the calendar, but in the way we care for ourselves. We see people who are old at forty-five and others who are young at fifty. How foolish it is for young folks to say that it does not matter, "I am young and as strong as a white leather. Nothing will hurt me." Listen to me, young people. You can make your body a veritable rattle-trap by the time you are thirty-five and all because of the dissipation of youth. Age is not a matter of the calendar but the care that you take of yourself.

A successful hotel manager of his given the suggestion by one of the biser sort, that if she would put a bar in her hotel that she would meet with added prosperity. To this suggestion the good woman replied, "If I should put a bar in my hotel, I could not ask God to prosper my business, because I would bring dishonor upon myself and add harm and hurt to my fellowman." This woman knew that it was far better for her to have peace of mind and purity of heart and not so much of prosperity, than it was for her to engage in a money-getting game that would kill the noble aspirations of her own heart and destroy the character of those with whom she was dealing. It never pays in the long run to engage in any kind of business on which we can not pray the blessing of God. There is no law that is going to be enforced more completely than this one: "Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap."

Charging that for years she and her husband communicated with each other only by messages written on the tablecloth and letters picked from alphabet soup, Mrs. Rose Wach of Chicago sued for divorce.

Jack Burchard of Hollywood earned his living by inspecting the 500 telephones on a movie lot daily and winding the earpiece cords until they are free of kinks.

Gulf Refining Co.

Lease T. V. A. Land

The Gulf Refining Company has leased approximately ten acres of land near Guntersville, Alabama, from the Tennessee Valley Authority. John B. Blandford, Jr., General Manager of the Authority, announced today. Approval of the lease has been made by the TVA Board of Directors, Mr. Blandford announced.

This is the first lease of reservoir lands for industrial purposes granted by the Board. The land has deep water frontage. It is understood that in seeking the lease Gulf Refining Company wants to expand its tank or bulk storage facilities.

The site leased has water, rail and highway connections, and is upstream from the Guntersville Dam now under construction.

It is expected that closure of this dam will take place in approximately one year. By that time there will be a minimum year round navigable depth capable of accommodating vessels of approximately four and one-half to five feet draft from the site to the mouth of the Tennessee River at Paducah, Kentucky. Completed TVA dams between Guntersville and the mouth of the river will include the Pickwick Landing, Wheeler, and Guntersville Dams. These, together with the Wilson Dam, will provide a navigable channel capable of accommodating vessels of 9-foot draft from Pickwick Dam to and including that Guntersville reservoir. From Pickwick Dam to Paducah minimum year round navigation will be restricted to boats of four and one-half to five foot draft until Gilbertsville Dam is completed.

"The inauguration of barge service on the Tennessee River by the Gulf Refining Company is indicative of the commercial use that may be made of the river in the transportation of freight as a result of channel improvements," Mr. Blandford said. "Substantial savings are possible not only in the transportation of petroleum products but of many other commodities of common production and consumption in the Tennessee Valley and contiguous areas."

PROSPECTS BRIGHT FOR UNIVERSIST BASEBALL TEAM

Prospects are bright for a title winning baseball team at the University of Alabama this spring, with experienced men on hand for every position on the Tide Nine.

Shifting of Perron Shoemaker to the outfield and the elevation of Al Grete to the catching post have put the "Bama diamond team in order with the exception of the third base position, which is being competed for by Alex Hayes, Gus Solfritti, and Sam Scalzi.

Joe Kilgore is expected to take over the first sack duties, while Blackie Zeigler, second base, and Henie Laurie, short stop, for the second consecutive year will work the keystone territory.

Veterans Vic Bradford and Johnny Roberts have taken over regular berths in the outfield.

Alabama's mound staff should be one of the strongest in the conference this year. Hugh Kirkland, Buddy Teague, Hugh Bedient, and "Slim" Davis are returning for service this season, and the pitching corps will be strengthened by the addition to it of three reliable freshmen recruits, Smmy Nix, "Red" Lee, and "Gordo" Davis.

Following is the 1938 schedule:

March 28-29, Louisiana Tech at Tuscaloosa; April 4-5, Louisiana State at Baton Rouge; April 7-8, University of Mississippi at Oxford, Miss.; April 12, Howard at Tuscaloosa; April 15-16, Northwestern University at Tuscaloosa; April 18-19, Louisiana State at Tuscaloosa; April 21-22, University of Mississippi at Tuscaloosa; April 25, Goodyear Rubber Company at Gadsden; April 27, 28, Georgia Tech at Tuscaloosa; May 2-3, Mississippi State at Tuscaloosa; May 6, 7, Mississippi State at Starkville, Miss.

For the second successive year the "Big Ten" meet Northwestern of the "Big Ten Conference" in a two-game series. Last year the Wildcats and the Capstaners split their series in Tuscaloosa.

Thomas Waters of Buffalo moved when his landlord sued to evict him because he had paid no house rent for 5 years.

FOR MEMBER BOARD OF EDUCATION

I hereby announce myself a candidate for membership on the Board of Education of Chilton County, Alabama, subject to the action of the Democratic primary to be held May 3rd, 1938.

I will greatly appreciate your vote and influence in my behalf.

IN MEMORY

On Tuesday morning, March 8, 1938, the sweet soul of our dear grandmother, Mrs. W. W. Williams, took its heavenly flight to join her loved ones there. She leaves to mourn her departure seven children, namely, Mrs. O. H. Sims, Mrs. W. B. Deason, Mrs. Dock Culver, Mrs. C. O. Owen, Eugene Morrison and J. D. Williams; twenty-four grandchildren; two great-grandchildren; three brothers and one sister, and a host of relatives and friends.

We loved her, yes we loved her, But angels loved her more, So they have sweetly called her To yonder shining shore.

She has left to us her loved ones, Who have gone on before, And she taught us to meet her When our life on earth is o'er.

We miss her presence ever, In our daily walk of life, But we know that she has gone Where there is no toil or strife; Grand-daughters, Mrs. J.R. Kilmer and Beth Williams.

D. W. Grisby of Polk City, Iowa, who operates a dairy, has trained his cows to sleep on the backs of the cows of cold winter nights.

NEGRO MINSTREL AT THORSBY
JR. HIGH SCHOOL MARCH 26

Due to inclement weather the Negro Minstrel, which was scheduled for last Saturday night, was postponed for one week. This program will be given next Saturday, March 26, at 7:30 P.M., in the auditorium of the Jr. High School building.

The public is cordially invited to attend this entertainment. The sponsors recommend it as one of the most laughable comedy programs possible to see. Prof. Squeel's Radio School is a genuine laugh producer; then Judge Hoptoad's Court is one grand riot of fun and laughter. These two comedy features are just a small part of the program. Several other attractions are booked to win your hearty applause. This program demands a large quantity of material and equipment, hence it can be given only once. Don't miss it. Admission ten cents for all school children and twenty cents for adults.

Letters To The Editor

LETTER FROM REV. E. W. BUTLER
Canandaigua, New York.

"Dear Mr. Smith:

"I believe you asked me to write you a letter. Here it is:

"March came in like a lion all right. It is lamb-like enough just now. But the friends assure us we may have big storms yet. Mark Twain is credited with the remark, 'Folks talk about the weather a lot, but they don't do anything about it.' That is true here. When the snow begins to fly the men get very busy. They get out their big snow plows and they make the snow fly for sure. The highways must be kept open.

About fifteen buses a day pass through our city each way. New York City, Albany, Syracuse, Rochester, Buffalo are among the cities reached from here directly. The last three cities named have over a million people, and they are in our neighborhood.

"We haven't tried the buses yet, but we may have Spring really arrives. We certainly must see Niagara Falls before next winter.

We are enjoying our new home very much. Canandaigua is a town over one hundred and fifty years old. It is at the north end of a lake of the same name, a lake seventeen miles long—one of the so-called 'Finger Lakes'—located on the map of Western New York they look like a hand-fall of fingers pointing to Lake Ontario, which their waters all find their way to. (Lake Ontario is about twenty-five miles away.)

"Our town has about 2000 residents. It is one mile long, running north from the foot of the lake to the south of our home, which is two miles from the lake, main street is 135 feet wide, of which forty-five feet is a paved highway and on each side of the pavement is a park-way of forty-five feet. These park-ways are beautiful with their large trees and beautiful sod. They are not disfigured with advertisements. They may have traffic directions and signboards, also they may have markers of historical interest. In front of our home and park is this permanent marker, steel, raised letters—Granger, Homestead; Home of Gideon Granger, Postmaster General in Cabinet of Jefferson and Madison. Resident here 1814-1822.

"Mr. Granger was Postmaster General for thirteen years. It is said that President Jefferson brought from Paris to his friend Granger the plans for the mansion he built here in 1814. When Mr. Granger's great-granddaughter, Miss Antonette Granger, a woman of advanced years with no near relatives, died here about eight years ago, it was found that she had left her beautiful home to our Congregational Board to be a home for retired ministers, their wives and widows. She left also a large additional legacy in the care of the home. She left a dear friend, a woman much younger than herself, who had often assisted Miss Granger in the gracious acts of hospitality which she so much enjoyed to extend. It was Miss Granger's desire that this dear friend should become the hostess of the new home to be established. The friend accepted the responsibility.

"We are the last people so fortunate as to be accepted guests in this unique home. Like all the other guests it has taken us only a very little time to fall in love with our most gracious hostess. Imagine—it takes a great amount of graciousness to be hostess to a bunch of permanent guests, all of them well along in years. But our hostess does it and we are happy.

"My one criticism of our home is of a condition which is in the nature of things unavoidable. We are missing the young life which has meant so much more to us than we realized. So my last word at this time would be to our friends, especially our young friends: Come and see us: this is a beautiful country. Come and see it and stop at Granger Homestead, Canandaigua, N. Y., and ask for Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Butler."

IN MEMORY OF JOHN HENRY WILSON

Last Monday evening, March 14, about 7:00 o'clock, the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Ruebeck of the Isabella community and took from their midst their beloved son and step-son, John Henry Wilson. John Henry has never been physically well all of his life, but it was only about two weeks ago that he took his death bed.

John Henry was loved by everyone who knew him. He loved everyone and he wanted them to love him. He appreciated every little thing anyone did for him and especially did he appreciate what his grandmother, mother, stepfather and Dr. DuBoise did for him. He was very cheerful, even until the end.

We know that we will never meet John Henry again in this dreary world of sin and sorrow, but if we'll live right we will meet him again in a better world. It was hard to give him up, but we know that it was for the best that God took him. We don't feel that he is dead, but peacefully sleeping. He was twenty years old on January 3.

He leaves to mourn his going, a mother, stepfather, grandmother, two half-brothers, two half-sisters and a host of friends.—A Friend.

Chilton County 4-H Club News

B. N. IVEY, Assistant County Agent in Charge of 4-H Club Work

Attention Club Members And Farmers!

The Alabama Ton Litter Show and Sale will be held in Montgomery, Alabama, September 15 and 16. If you are producing hogs to sell it will pay you to feed them out on home grown feed instead of selling them at 8 weeks old. Litters that sold at this show last year averaged 11.5 cents per pound. Cost of feed production average 6.5 cents per pound. This is 5 cents per pound net profit above feed cost.

If you are interested see me before your pigs are three weeks old so I can get your applications in on time. Below you will find rules of the contest:

- Purpose
1. To encourage the production and marketing of hogs by farmers and 4-H Club boys in the Montgomery trade territory.
 2. To teach the fundamentals of proper feeding, breeding and management in the production of market hogs.
 3. To teach farmers and 4-H Club boys the advantages of producing the type of hogs wanted by the pork trade.

- Object
1. To make one litter of pigs weigh one ton or more at six months of age.

General Rules

1. Any person farming in Alabama is eligible to enter the Alabama Ton Litter Show and Sale by making application to Tom McCord, Union Stock Yards, Montgomery, Alabama, before his litter is three weeks old. No entries will be accepted after June 1, 1938.

2. All contestants must keep a record of date of birth of litter, amount of feed fed to the sow after farrowing and the number and amount of piglets fed to the litter up to the date of the show. The amount and cost of feed must be shown on a placard on show day in order to be eligible for premium money.

3. Pigs must be counted and ear-tagged by the county agent or his representative before the pigs are three weeks old in order for a litter to be eligible to show.

4. All entries must be at the stock yards in Montgomery not later than 10 A.M. September 15, 1938 to be eligible for the show and sale.

5. Litters must weigh a minimum of 50 pounds and individual pigs in the litter a minimum of 160 pounds at Montgomery on the date of the show

6. All entries will be taken off feed and water by 6 P.M. September 15, 1938, and final selling weights will be made as soon after 6 A.M., September 16, 1938, as the hogs can be put over the scales.

7. All entries that qualify will be sold at Chicago price for each grade on the date of sale. Entries that do not qualify will be sold at market prices prevailing on the Montgomery market and will not be eligible for premium money.

8. Entries will be judged on (1) individuality, (2) total weight of litter, and (3) feed cost of producing litter.
9. In order to make adjustments for difference in age of litters exhibited the judges will add 1.5 lbs. per pig for each day the litter is under 180 days of age and will subtract 1.5 lb. per pig for each day the litter is over 180 days of age.

10. Litters must be farrowed February 15, 1938 and May 15, 1938 to be eligible.

Premiums For Alabama Ton Litter Show And Sale

First, $25; 2nd, $20; 3rd, $15; 4th, $10; 5th, $5; 6th, $10; 7th, $10; 8th, $10; 9th, $10; 10th, $10.

Our Country--Our County

"True Democracy And Liberty"

A leading American educator and university president has written: "The future of this nation (United States), as the future of the world, is bound up with the hope of a true democracy that builds itself on liberty." True democracy! That is an arousing thought! built on "liberty" such a democracy promises real freedom, that is, fairness, justice, equality, security, protection, for peoples and governments. It forecasts safety, satisfaction, and serenity for all the world.

The constructive citizen has a vital interest in his country, his county, his city, and the proper functioning of governmental administration. Aimed by patriotism and loyalty, he desires to be of service to his country at all times. Recognizing honest purposes and straightforward practices as paramount, he endeavors to push beyond merely sentimental and superficial issues, and to adopt sound views and sound doctrines. Thus his efforts are invaluable. Through systematic right thinking, he aids in accomplishing right results. "That country is the fairest, which is inhabited by the noblest minds," said Emerson.

The concept of one's country involves not only boundary lines, inhabitants, and countrymen, but also a controlling power of government. Consequently an aggregation of inhabitants and their government is definitely regarded as a country. But, in order to have a good, responsible country—a country which is noble and fair, there must first be a correct estimate of the qualities which are fundamentally necessary to build up and sustain such a country. We should begin with our cities, our countries, and select those we desire to fill the respective offices of our local governmental agencies, on their merit and qualifications, determined from observations gleaned from their activities in civil life, and their attitude and conduct towards their fellowman. We must expect "action," not "promises"; we must expect "results," not "excuses," by those entrusted with the administration of our public affairs. We need educated men, trained men, and we need also to have our educated men take stands, count for things positive rather than negative, in a world where the affirmations of the ignorant and the aggressions of the dumb are so increasing and sure. We do not need those who are educated to the point of negation and confusion, who offer no answers because they are without either the courage or the coherence to make any, who are crippled by what they know, rather than made active by it.

In a recent article by Dr. Carmichael, he declared: "The problems of a racial by changing social and economic order cannot be solved by men, however erudite, if they are incapable of forming independent judgement and of setting new patterns of thought." Loose thinking, glib solution, the rushing in of fools where angels fear to tread, are the second worst threat to the world's stability and progress today. But the even greater threat, the firm ranking one of all, is hemming and having, never getting beyond a lot of "ifs," "buts" and "howevers," seeing both sides, and all the facts, but never being able to take a side or evaluate a fact. Unless the educated individuals and the democratic nations stand for things, and stand hard, there is no hope for civilization. Unless we do our part, beginning at home, in our home county, to support fair and noble practices we cannot expect such practices to result universally.

Within a very short time we are going to the polls, using our constitutional rights, as citizens of the United States, to select candidates to be nominated for election in November. Among those seeking office are several who have never before offered themselves, others are seeking re-election to the same office, and it is from among these gentlemen and citizens of Chilton County, we will make our selection. The local offices which are to be filled are: County Sheriff; Tax Collector; Tax Assessor; Commissioners for District One and Two; Superintendent of Education; State Representative; Members of School Board. These are all very important offices, and well worthy of our most careful consideration in selecting those men who are most perfectly fitted to be intrusted with the responsibilities coming under their offices.

Therefore, let us all, individually and collectively, do our part to sustain and maintain true democracy and liberty, based on Principle, and the definition of democratic rights and privileges incorporated in the Bill of Rights in the Constitution of these United States of America.

Signed: Thomas J. Arledge,
Road Supervisor.

Asks That Rubbish Be Kept Off Public Roads

We are having considerable difficulty maintaining a smooth riding surface on quite a lot of the public roads, throughout the County, due solely to the unthoughtfulness of quite a few of our citizens living along these roads, who are throwing all the brush, briars and other rubbish, cleared from their fence lines, into the drainage ditches along the sides of these roads. All of us know that this rubbish will drift into and stop up the culverts and drain boxes and pipe with the first rain. The stopping or obstructing these drains naturally forces the flood water across the top of the roads, causing that cross rutted condition we are all very familiar with a condition that our motor patrols or light grader cannot remedy satisfactorily. In some cases this stopping of proper drainage causes the flood waters to run down the middle of the roads and causing more serious damage.

A lot of this rubbish is left in the roads and ditches by the various logging operations of our mill and lumber dealers.

This practice of blocking the road-side ditches are in violation of the road laws, which I cite as follows:

"Section 32: It shall be unlawful for any person firm or corporation, to cut or place any tree, brush or other obstructions along or across the public road so as to interfere with or impede public travel." (Road Law 1924).

"Section 30: That the digging or opening for the drainage of any field or premises by any person so that the water thereon is conveyed into the public roads or highways of the County is hereby prohibited." (Road Law 1924).

"Any person who throws, deposits or leaves in any public highway, bottles, fragments of glass, tacks, nails or other things likely to injure persons or vehicles passing along the highway, must, on conviction, be fined not less than twenty-five nor more than fifty dollars and may be sentenced to hard labor for the County for not less than thirty nor more than sixty days." (Acts. Ala. 1919).

These are your roads—my roads—our roads! Let's see if we cannot do all in our power to at least keep the rubbish from the side ditches. If we find a bridge or culvert pipe stopped so that the water cannot get through, don't wait to see the Supervisor; clear it out and report to your district overseer or road foreman and he will see that you are amply paid for the work you have done. If you find a tree fallen across the road—if you find any obstruction that you can remedy, fix it and report to the road foreman.

Thank you.

—Thomas J. Arledge,
Road Supervisor.

DAVE BIRMINGHAM VISITS IN CLANTON RECENTLY

Clanton received a visit Tuesday from Dave Birmingham, who is a candidate for Secretary of State. Mr. Birmingham has been connected with the convict department of Alabama as chief clerk and is widely known over the state.

William Traver of St. Louis talked two bandits out of two-thirds of their loot when they held him up recently. "I've only got $9 to feed the kiddies with for the rest of the week," he said, and the robbers promptly refunded $6 of their booty.

MRS. ANER WILLIAMS DIED FOLLOWING FALL AT HOME

The entire community of Mt. Nebo and surrounding communities were saddened on March 8 to learn of the death of Mrs. Aner Williams. The day before her death she suffered a fall, and her heart being weak, the shock from this fall caused her to pass on to her beautiful home.

Mrs. Williams had sent beautiful material to her Heavenly Father for her home and her eternal life. She was a noble woman, one of a splendid character, patience, truthfulness, and an earnest worker for her Master. There was not anything she loved more than reading the Holy Book and trying to help someone else build themselves a Heavenly Home.

She is not dead, she is just sleeping that sweet, peaceful sleep in the arms of Jesus. God didn't take our dear mother away from us to make us sad but He had something for her to do in His Kingdom after she had done such beautiful work here.

There is just one more thing we can do for her that will make her rejoice. That is to begin now to serve the One and Only Master she served and when we are called up higher, help her enjoy the Eternal Glory.—A Daughter-In-Law, Mrs. J.D. Williams.

Anthony Casazza of Brooklyn was fined $5 for cutting off a bulldog's tail with a hatchet.

PRESS WILL MAKE TRIP TO WASHINGTON

Alabama Press To Again Invite Outsiders To Enjoy Pilgrimage To Capital

Washington is the city which the Alabama Press Association has chosen as the objective of this summer's trip, and the latter part of June will find several hundred Alabama newspaper men, their families and friends, on their way toward this goal.

A gala time is in store for them. Several days in the capital of the Nation, with sightseeing and many courtesies, among them being a visit to the White House, will be but one part of this interesting trip, as the party is planning a visit Annapolis, Mt. Vernon, Arlington and possibly to go on to New York and home by water.

The trip will be a week of pleasure and sightseeing, at a very moderate outlay.

Two years ago the Press visited Havana, the capital of Cuba, and opened the trip to those others who desired to take advantage of the pleasures arranged for the newspapermen. This June's trip will also include those others who desire to accompany the Press Association, and this newspaper will shortly have full details for those of its friends who are interested in making the trip.

Complete itinerary is now being made up and as soon as it is available, the details of the trip will make interesting reading.

For 25 years August Schoening of Sebewang, Mich., has been raising families of pet crows and teaching them to speak English and German.

Local SCS Camp Ala.-7 To Observe Fifth Anniversary Of Establishment Of CCC

Five birthday candles will gleam at SCS Camp Ala.-7 on Friday, April 1st when the camp will pause in its program of demonstrating soil conservation methods to observe the fifth anniversary of the establishment of the Civilian Conservation Corps.

Plans for an "open house," to which everyone is invited include a tour of representative farms in the area.

Erosion control work on cooperating farms in the camp area has now reached a stage where the coordinated program is readily apparent, Superintendent Wood said. The work shows up particularly well lat this season of the year, he pointed out.

Visitors during the anniversary observance will have an opportunity to see such farming practices as strip cropping, terracing pasture improvement work, reforestation, woodland and wildlife management, and other methods of erosion control which have been established on cooperating farms in the area.

The importance of conserving human resources through employment of enrollees in healthful, outdoor work, should not be overlooked as an important phase of the CCC program, Superintendent Wood commented.

Enrollees are not only doing valuable work in demonstrating Soil Conservation methods, but they are also preparing themselves through job training courses for other work when their enrollment period is over, he pointed out. They are acquiring the viewpoint of conservationists which will stay with them throughout life, he added.

Sanitary Survey Of

Thorsby Completed

Completion of a sanitary survey of the Town of Thorsby by Mr. Fred H. Buckelew, new sanitation officer of the county health unit, was reported today from the local health office. A total of 172 homes were included in this investigation which was conducted to determine the sanitary status of toilet facilities and water supplies in each home.

"Mr. Buckelew's finding showed, stated Dr. S. D. Sturkie, county health officer, that there were approximately 106 dwelling and business houses with satisfactory types of toilets. Among the 66 with unsatisfactory methods of excreta disposal there were 36 sanitary pit toilets in need of repair, 8 surface privies, 2 box and cat privies, 6 with no toilet facilities and 14 with septic tanks emptying into open ditches. A number of business houses were found to have the latter very unsanitary method of disposal, with reference to the water supply, there were 97 houses available to the city water but only 46 actually connected. A total of 99 open wells were found."

This survey shows," he continued, "that as far as toilet facilities are concerned Thorsby's sanitation is fair, there being, nevertheless, 40 per cent of the houses without toilets which are safe from a health standpoint. Particularly undesirable is the emptying of raw sewage from septic tanks into open ditches such as is being done by several business houses. In the matter of individual water supplies a majority of Thorsby's homes are without safe drinking water, this apply to those with open wells which are as a whole entirely unsafe unless protected with a pump and a water tight cover and casing."

A more detailed report with recommendations as to the best plan for correcting the unsanitary conditions existing will be made to the city council. It will be suggested that the city itself plan a definite program which will take into consideration both the economic and public health aspects of the situation in each home," he added. A similar survey is being planned for Clanton.

Nothing takes the place of a good side dressing with Natural Chilean Nitrate of Soda—"Natchel Sody", as Uncle Natchel calls it.

Like children, crops need lots of food when they really start to grow. That's why it is so important to side dress your crop with Natural Chilean Soda—to supply quick acting nitrogen just when it is needed.

Chilean Nitrate is valuable not only as a source of nitrogen, but also to furnish or build up a reserve of small amounts of other plant food elements naturally blended with it.

SELMA CLUB TO TAKE PART IN BIRTHDAY

Clanton Club Is One Of The

SHERIFF GIVES WARNING THAT COUNTY IS DRY

Recent Decision By Supreme Court Says Whiskey Is Illegal In County

Clanton County comes again into the column of officially "dry" counties according to a decision of the Supreme Court of Alabama which was made last Thursday.

This decision, relative to the question as to whether state stamped whiskey could be legally possessed in this county provided it was purchased in a "wet" county of the state.

Illegal Here

Clanton, Alabama,
March 28, 1938.

"Dear Friends:
"Due to my not having been in the county and not having been able to see the people like I would like to, I feel I should explain to the voters why I have not been to visit them in behalf of my candidacy for Representative from this county.
"My time has belonged to the company with which I am employed and due to this business connection I have been forced to be away from the county most of the time, which has prevented my visiting the people.
"I want the voters of the county to know that I am anxious to see each one of them, and if I am fortunate enough to be in the run-off election I shall request my company to give me a leave of absence from May 3rd after the first primary so that I may get over the county and make a personal visit to you as I would like to do now, and I hope the voters of the county will understand and appreciate my position which keeps me from making a personal contact with you at this time.
"I want to take this opportunity to express my thanks and appreciation for the splendid support and the fine reports I have been receiving regarding my candidacy for Representative. And, I also want to say that your continued support in my behalf will be greatly appreciated.

"Respectfully,
"C. B. COX."

Different Mobs

The federal anti-lynching bill was smothered in Congress by Southerners who sought to explain conditions peculiar to the South. And although the bill was defeated at least temporarily the opponents never were able to make certain New York representatives understand some of the South's reasons for attacking the measure.

New York state now has an anti-mob law of its own. The law defines a mob as three or more persons engaged in unlawful acts of violence against an individual. Mobsmen can be given 20 years to life imprisonment for mob violence that does not cause death.

Oddly enough, however, the law especially exempts from the act any violence involving gangsters or labor trouble.

Mob action, violence and death, it would seem, is all the same thing, no matter what motivates the mobsmen. But, of course, there are peculiar conditions in New York that Alabamians cannot be expected to understand.—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Women And Life Insurance

In 1915, women life insurance owners totaled but 3 per cent of all policyholders.

Today new life insurance written on women represent 15 per cent of the total.

And the proportion is constantly rising.
This is due in part to the fact that many more women are self-supporting than in pre-war days. But that doesn't tell the entire story. Women have developed a much broader understanding of the economic problems of the individual—and, as a result, are taking steps to protect themselves against the exigencies of the unpredictable future.

The figures speak well for the foresight of modern American women.

The Way Of Dictatorship

One of the outstanding lessons the world has learned from dictatorships is this: No dictator can force himself into power and stay there so long as his people retain free speech and free, uncensored, newspapers.

Hitler, Mussolini, Stalin, and all of their lesser imitators learned that. But now Hitler, fresh from his Austrian conquest, is irritated by comments of newspapers in free countries. So he proposes international treaties establishing official government control of all newspapers. What he means is this: "You see that your newspapers say only nice things about me and I'll do the same for you."

Up speaks Dr. Carl W. Ackermah, Dean of the Pulitzer School of Journalism at Columbia University, a lifelong student of newspapers and their problems and duties. After pointing out that such a treaty would require amendment of the American Constitution, he adds:

"I consider these developments so ominous that I think the foreign press policy of the German government should be fully explained and earnestly studied. If governmental control of the printed and spoken word is a requirement of peace with Germany, we should know the conditions now and not later."

Hitler's plan doubtless suits some Americans. A United States Senator said in a radio speech the other day that 98 per cent of America's city newspapers are biased. What he meant was that they did not agree with him.

How different he is from Voltaire who once said: "While I might not agree with what you say I shall defend to the death your right to say it!"

Americans doubtless will agree with their own Constitution and with Voltaire rather than Hitler as the Senator, for down he Hitler-Senator road lies dictatorship.

Some More Blue Laws

Recently a press report told of a revolt against certain ancient blue laws by citizens of Bellows Falls, Vt., which caused a Chicago reporter to look into some antiquated statutes of the Windy City.

He found, among other things, that it was unlawful for a lady to allow her hatpin to protrude more than half an inch beyond the crown of her skypiece; also that her bathing suit was rather rigidly regulated by a city ordinance.

Kids were informed that they were prohibited from flying kites in Grant Park, or being on the streets unaccompanied between 10 at night and 6 in the morning if under 16 years of age. Shooting air rifles within the city limits is banned, and wearing a mask, even on aHollow'en, is unlawful, except with the mayor's permission.

When an automobile frightens a horse the motorist must bring the old bus to a full stop until Dobbin quiets down, and no musical instrument may be taken upon a public beach without a written permit. As to whether ukeleles and saxaphones are considered musical instruments the law is silent

Where The Money Goes

A large eastern corporation has just issued a special annual report to its 11,200 employees. The report points out that 51 per cent of the money received by the corporation last year was paid to the workers in wages and salaries; that stockholders received 11½ per cent and that the other 37½ per cent was required for maintenance, expansion, advertising, research and taxes.

In paying an aggregate of nearly five times as much to its workers as to its stockholders, this corporation was no exception, but, on the contrary, typical of American industries today.

In support of this, the Department of Commerce recently estimated that the total compensation paid to employees in 1937 amounted to $45,000,000,000, while total dividends were only $9,000,000,000.

With these facts before us it is not difficult to see that workers in the aggregate have a far greater stake in the stability and prosperity of business than many persons believe and that their stake is even greater than that of the millions of American stockholders.

Crossed Fingers

Those who wondered if Homer Martin, President of the CIO's Automobile Workers unit, had his fingers crossed when he recently announced the union had abandoned the sit-down strike, apparently are now in the position of being able to say "I told you so."

The latest large sit-down strike to be called since Martin made his announcement is in the plant of a farm machinery company in Minnesota. Employees of the plant are members of the Automobile Workers unit. To enforce their demands for a sharp increase in wages in face of falling business, they called a sit-down strike.

With cooperation of all elements to overcome the recession and return us to the road to recovery the desperate need of the moment, it would appear timely for the labor leaders to not only announce abandonment of such tactics, but to enforce the abandonment.

Tax-Wise

The movement among Birmingham merchants to raise $250,000 by subscription to keep the schools open rather than submit to extra license or taxes, shows that they are patriotic and interested in the schools to the extent of their dollars, but that they are also tax-wise. They know from experience that once an emergency tax goes on it ceases to be an emergency but becomes a permanent necessity.—Talladega Daily Home.

Where Estates Come From

Only about 3 cents out of the American investment dollar goes into life insurance. Yet 7 out of every 8 dollars left by men to their families, are life insurance dollars.

In other words, somewhere around 90 cents out of each dollar invested by the average man is lost or spent and does not become part of his estate.

Here is more proof of the fact that a systematic estate-building plan of the life insurance or trust fund nature, is essential to protection of dependants.

We Observe

NO MORE DARKNESS—

Some time ago we stated in this column just how much we, and other residents of the new additions to the City of Clanton, would appreciate the conveniences of water works. As in answer to our plaintive plea, news reaches Clanton that the Federal Government had approved the project by extending the water mains to these new additions, and through the co-operation of the Mayor and City Council work begins almost immediately on laying the pipes. So it looks as if we'll have water. Now we asked for water works, and what do we get? Water, and street lights thrown in for good measure. Boy, that's what I call service. Is Clanton growing—or is Clanton growing?

NEW NEIGHBORS—

Along comes Clyde Mims and opens up a modern grocery store next to the News office. We're always glad to welcome new neighbors, and so here's our hand of welcome, Mr. Mims. This new store is in the building formerly occupied by the Western Tire & Supply Co. A cafe and grocery store practically in our doorway. This north side of the business section of Clanton is keeping in step.

MORE BASEBALL—

Some one asked the question the other day: "Why doesn't Clanton, Lay Dam, and th local Cotton Mill Baseball teams form a club and sally forth to victories in a big way this season?" Not a bad idea, we think. Games could be played on Thursday afternoons this summer, or whatever afternoons the stores decide to close (and they will close—we hope, we hope) and have games on Sundays at Lay Dam if they prefer. Just one big happy baseball family, so to speak. But, then, what's the opinion of two against the opinion of many?

REMINISCENT—

What We'd like to be: A school teacher at this time every year when the A.E.A. meets in Birmingham.

What We'd like not to be: A weekly newspaper man on Tuesday nights at about 11:30 o'clock.

Something We want to do again: Go fishing—but this time when the fish are biting.

Something We'll never do again: Let a friend talk us into doing something we don't really want to; and suffer the consequences.

CLEAN-UP CAMPAIGN—

"A Clean City By Easter" should be the slogan of every citizen of Clanton, in the Clean-Up Campaign being sponsored by the Chilton County News and the merchants of Clanton. Now that spring is here and that means beautiful, warm weather, why not make Clanton beautiful to match the Spring weather. The merchants are offering bargains in the necessary tools required to clean up, generally, the homeplace. Easter Sunday is a beautiful holiday—its meaning is beautiful—the day is usually beautiful, and it more or less marks the beginning of the beautiful summer months. Grab a hoe, rake, and pitch the fishing net a few days and let's clean up Clanton.

W. B. CORLEY, SR.—

We are indeed sorry to learn that our good friend, W. B. Corley, Sr., is seriously ill at his home in West End. Mr. Corley was at one time editor of the Chilton County News. We have very little recollection of the days when he was at the helm of the News, but the few months following our connections with this newspaper, and as long as Mr. Corley was able to be out, we looked forward to his regular visits to the News office to shake hands with the boys here. He has been in ill health for several years, and the force of the Chilton County News joins his many friends in wishing him the most speedy recovery possible.

THE EZELLS—

The resignation of Rev. S. J. Ezell, as pastor of the Clanton Baptist Church, terminates fifteen years Rev. Ezell has served in this capacity. During this fifteen years Clanton has grown to love Rev. and Mrs. Ezell. They have accomplished much good here and their going will bring regret to the hearts of many, who wish them success and happiness in their new field of work.

Two years ago Judge Cornelius Shea of Hartford, Conn., imposed a 10-day sentence on a thief who stole one of his suits. Recently he gave the same thief the same penalty for the same crime.

Although his life was in danger after he was bitten by a water moccasin, Harry Tetraf of Kalamazoo has recovered, but the snake is dead. Sand in its mouth choked it to death.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

A man went to sleep and in a few moments he started tossing and groaning as if in great distress. His wife shook him but he refused to answer her call. For some time he tossed and on his bed, but after so long he succeeded in getting him awake. His first words were, "Oh, wife, I have had a terrible nightmare. I dreamed that my son was a minus sign in a mathematical equation, and I just wore my fingers off trying to pull him away from that place." That father went to sleep worrying over the worthlessness of his grown boy and in his dreams he was just a minus sign. In all likelihood that was all that his boy was in the equation of life—just a minus sign. He took from his parents happiness, he took from their small income he took from their outlook in life—he was a minus sign in the equation of life. Young men and young women, what are you in your parents' home? Do you add to their joy, do you add to their income, do you make life bright as they look out into the future? Be ashamed of yourself if you are just a minus sign—taking from, not adding to.

A well informed, handsome young man was employed as manager of a ball team in a certain Alabama town. The young fellow knew how to play ball, but his methods of training his boys bright as they look out into the future while the young men were in action, and if one of them made a mistake the manager became furious and would abuse the one making the mistake. Friction arose and there was great discord among the men. He could do nothing in training them because he bore down with an unkind hand when a mistake was made. Suppose that God should deal with us in that manner as we try to play the game of life before Him. God does not abuse us and belittle us when we make mistakes. He has sent His own Son to walk with us and to show us how to play. When we make an error, or when we fall down in our efforts to play, Jesus is there to correct us and to lift us up an instruct us how to avoid that mistake again. That one who makes but one mistake is the one who is growing to better things. How foolish it seems to see folks bumping their heads in the same place every day.

In one of the battles in Tennessee during the Civil War, the Confederate soldiers looked out toward the line of the enemy and they saw a lone horseman charging their lines. He was waving in his hands and shouting at the top of his voice. They admired such bravery and let him ride on to their front breastworks and then arrested him.

They found that he was a raw recruit and that his horse had run away from him. The bits in the horse's mouth were broken and he had brought the rider to the lines of the enemy against his wishes. When he arrived he was scared stiff and was as pale as death. On dismounting the quivering captive said: "Please do not shoot me. I am a dissipated character and not fit to die." The Confederate soldiers had been broken and he had brought the rider to the lines of the enemy against his wishes. When he arrived he was scared stiff and was as pale as death. Sporting With Sports

MARVIN W. MARCUS, Sports Editor

I've been given the honor by the Chilton County News, to edit a Sports Column each week and I'd like to say that I'll give the very best in me in keeping up with the sports of our community in a way that will be of interest to its readers, and there is one request I'd like to make of you. That is, I need your help. I want you to offer any suggestion that will make this a real sports column. Write me or see me in person with this information and I will thank you.

In following our boy, Jack Hayes, we notice where the ole jinx is cropping up with the White Sox already. Luke Appling, their short stop, had the misfortune of breaking a leg sliding into a base last Sunday in an exhibition game with the Cubs.

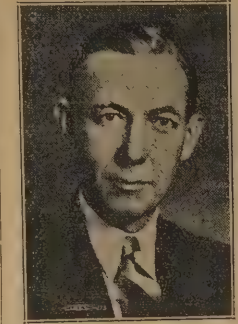

This, we expect, will force our own Jack into service at short. What a bad break both for Luke as well as the Sox. It could not be said just how long he will be out of the game.

Quite a bit of talk has been circulating as to the possibilities of a combine of Lay Dam, Alabama. Mills and Clanton combining their efforts and organizing a strong baseball club. I think you have something there. It seems quite a fast ball club could be organized in this combine and as these mentioned places are right here at home, plenty of interest could be had.

It has been requested that those interested in such a move have a representative at a meeting called for Monday night, April 4th, at 7:30. As the meeting place has not yet been arranged, you are asked to call at Alred Drug Store for this information.

O-O-O

Candidate For Governor Of Ala.

JAMES H. ARNOLD
Birmingham—Pledging his efforts towards removing the schools of Alabama from politics, demanding a full nine months term, adequate pay for teachers and emphasizing all school teachers will receive their salaries before the Governor, James H. Arnold, Birmingham clothing merchant, and "people's candidate," this week carried his campaign for governor into South Alabama.

Speaking before the convention of the Alabama Education Association in Birmingham last week, Arnold brought cheers and applause from his audience when he stated: "when I am Governor of Alabama I shall see that the school teachers are paid before I get mine—and this I shall do."

Continuing his tour of the state, Arnold emphasized the need of a business man instead of a politician in the Capitol. He conferred with friends in the Caloosa, Pickens, Fayette and other counties last week.

"The four men running against me are nothing short of professional politicians," he said. "Everywhere you see them you find them surrounded by a group of parasites hanging around hoping to get some easy job at the taxpayers expense. The more I am in my campaign, the more I am convinced the people will cast their vote for a tried and true business man who knows nothing of the viles of politics but has the interest of the people at heart."

"I want to correct the erroneous report being circulated over Alabama that I am not carrying on an active campaign for Governor. I am very much interested and I am in this race to win. I have already visited more than 100 towns in the state and before May 2d roll-around, I will have visited all 67. The response to my campaign has made me feel very good and I have made many new friends over the state who have joined in the crusade to restore the government of the State of Alabama to the people."

SWP HOUSE PAINT

A LITTLE COVERED A LOT OF BILL!

Why are more homes painted with SWP?
... than with any other brand of PAINT?

● A simple question—and just as simply answered. SWP gives every homeowner each and every feature he wants in a fine house paint!

Beauty... color... richness of finish... SWP has them plus. Complete and lasting protection... SWP has a tougher, "tighter" protective film of unequalled durability. Economy... SWP covers more surface with a thicker blanket of paint per gallon; is quick and easy for the painter to apply; and finally, it's washable.

Extra grinding of SWP pigments assure better coverage. SWP has greater "hiding power"... covers better. SWP colors combine beauty, uniformity, permanence. You can wash SWP easily and save a repainting. SWP retains its smooth, beautiful surface.

See the 32 beautiful SWP colors at our Show and get your free copy of "The Truth About House Paint."

"Entertaining In The Home"

How very essential it is that we pause by the wayside now and then to share our friends and exchange our greetings and good will as we journey along life's pathways and then life becomes more interesting, one's cares fade and the finer and sweeter qualities of our friends are seen. Good food is not only essential but its flavors may be stronger emphasized if taken in a gay lighthearted mood and in many instances may be soiled with wit and fun enjoyed by having and enjoying one's friends, for—"It's the giving and the doing for somebody."

On that all life's splendor depends, And the joy of this world when you've summed it up, May be found in the making of friends.

April 14 comes the next leadership school and here comes both pleasure and knowledge at the same time. Entertaining in the Home is the subject. "Midnight Spread" and "Afternoon Tea" will be given. This is most essential for a climax to our year's work and can and will be used all the coming summer.

Be sure to be present at 9:45 o'clock and let's have a worthwhile meeting. All leaders especially are urged to come.

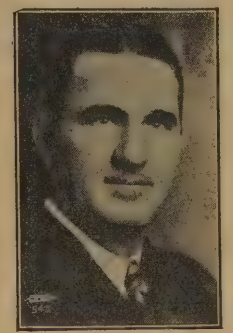

Meeting of Women's Federated Clubs will meet in Auburn, April 19-21. Any of the Home Demonstration Club women are invited to attend these meetings in behalf of the County Council. The Council will also send an official delegate at this time to represent us in the making of future laws and election of our officers.

Liquor Board Bans Minors Serving Beer

The Alabama Alcoholic Beverage Control Board, cooperating with the State Department of Labor, today forbid its 2,000 licensed beer dealers to employ boys and girls under 18 to "serve or dispense" beer.

The Board's regulation, effective April 1, carries the penalty of revocation of license for any violation. Under the ABC law, enacted by the 1937 Legislature, no person under 21 years of age is permitted to "sell or dispense" liquor but the law did not cover employees of beer licenses.

Today's regulation, adopted unanimously by the Board, provides: "No retail licensee duly licensed to sell malt or brewed beverages shall employ any person under the age of 18 years to serve or dispense such beverages."

Robert R. Moore, state commissioner of labor, said in his annual report to Governor Bibb Graves that the practice of minors working in establishments selling liquor and beer prior to repeal, "had been quite a problem."

"Repeal," he said, "has helped this department," adding that sale of liquor through the ABC system of state stores had "greatly decreased the hazardous or immoral influences" caused by minors selling and dispensing alcoholic beverages.

FARMERS TO AID IN PRESERVING WILDLIFE OF CHILTON

Many farmers in the erosion-control area near Clanton are planning to develop border strips along their field and woodland edges this spring to provide food and cover for wildlife on the farm, according to Mr. Wood.

Such borders usually represent unproductive areas which are especially subject to erosion. Mr. Wood said. A narrow strip of lespedeza, sericea, shrubs, and other plants along these field and woodland edges will control erosion and at the same time will favor the development of desirable species of birds and animals.

The clean cultivation of large areas of farm land has been an important factor in the depletion of wildlife, and thus favored the increase of insects which native birds and animals on the farm tend to keep under control.

From a wildlife standpoint, the development of border strips of protective vegetation is more desirable than the same area of vegetation in a compact block, he said. Such strips provide travel lanes for birds and small animals and afford more extensive range into adjoining field and woodland.

Gullies and other severely eroded areas also provide ideal sites for the use of plants and shrubs that will serve the dual purpose of controlling erosion and improving wildlife environment on the farm. Shrubs which can be obtained locally for such plantings include elderberry, American beauty berry, blackberry, privet, and coralberry, Mr. Wood said.

Soil Conservation Service workers in the Clanton area will be glad to discuss this phase of the erosion control program with interested farmers. A new Farmers' Bulletin, "Wildlife Conservation Through Erosion Control in the Piedmont", is available from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C. at five cents a copy, Mr. Wood said.

Mrs. Lenora Ingersoll of Galveston, Tex., who was married in August, 1935, recently sued her husband for divorce on the grounds that he was female.

Jemison Home Economics Class Puts On Show Of Own Dressmaking Recently

On Wednesday night, March 2, the girls of the Jemison Home Economics department were presented in a fashion show in which dresses made during the year were displayed.

Dresses shown were school dresses, short afternoon dresses, and long afternoon dresses. Twenty-six girls participated.

Winners in the first group—school dresses—were Frances Lee Matthews, first place; Doris Martin, second place, and Myrtalene Hayes, third place. In the short afternoon dresses, winners were Geraldine Hubbard, first place; Mildred Little, second place and Mary Lane Cobb, third place. Myrtle Lou Crim won first place in the long afternoon dresses; Floya Grey, second, and Elizabeth Bald, third place.

First place winners will represent Jemison in the clothing contest in the Inter-High School Meet in Montevallo. Judges were Miss Jenny Cook, Home Economics teacher of Clanton, Mrs. Lake Thompson of Jemison and Miss Nolan Meroney of Clanton.

An attractive feature was the chorus of Home Economics girls. Lyrie Dee Conway was pianist and Frances Glass, vocalist. A humorous one-act play, "Elmer," followed the show, with Horace Clackley playing the lead.

An unusually large number attended the show, and the audience gave the dresses much favorable comment.

I WAS TOP-DRESSED WITH POTASH

I WAS UNDRESSED BY RUST

Use POTASH IN A NITROGEN -POTASH TOP-DRESSER TO PREVENT RUST AND INSURE PROFITS

Would you spend $1 to $2 to get back $18 to $25? Then use 50-100 lbs. of muriate of potash per acre in a nitrogen-potash top-dresser on your cotton immediately after chopping. Experiments have shown that where potash was not applied in the top-dresser, damage from cotton rust (potash starvation) lowered the value of the crop $15 to $25 per acre. Where additional potash was applied, it produced larger yields, heavier seed, heavier bolls, more lint per seed, better grade, longer staple, stronger fibers, and a higher percentage of normal fiber.

Consult your county agent or experiment station about the fertility of your soil. If you did not apply enough potash at planting time to control rust, see your fertilizer dealer or manufacturer about adding the equivalent of 50-100 lbs. of muriate of potash per acre in a nitrogen-potash top-dresser.

Isabella F. H. A.

The Isabella Chapter of the F. H. A. rendered a very interesting program on Wednesday, March 23.

The meeting was called to order by the president. Devotional was read by Ethel Lee Griffin. This was followed by roll call and reading of the minutes, by the secretary.

The program was as follows:

- "Gifts For The Home A Student Can Make," Lavern Crane; "Improving The Girls' Room," Velma Conway; "It," a poem, by Willie Mae Wills.
- Miss Callen read to the Club an article on "Your Blighted Life." This was a very good article and every member seemed to enjoy it very much.

Election Day Sale Of Liquor Banned

The Alabama Alcoholic Beverage Control Board today gave final warning to licensed clubs, hotels, restaurants, and other establishments that the sale of whiskey, wine or beer during election hours on election days would result in fines ranging from $50 to $100 and subject violators to possible loss of license.

Administrator David E. Dunn issued the ultimatum after check-up by field agents showed 12 licenses violated the law during the special election in the Second Congressional District March 22, which resulted in the nomination of George to Troy to Congress.

"Since there has been a misunderstanding over the law on the part of some licensees regarding operation on election day, we are merely warning the violators who were apprehended March 22," Mr. Dunn said. "But in the future all violators will be punished to the full extent of the law. Our field force will be concentrated in the 24 wet counties at all elections this year and licensees are given this final warning they can not sell liquor, wine or beer on election day until after the polls are closed."

"State stores, under the law, will not operate at all on election day, and the licensees can operate only after the polls close."

This law, Mr. Dunn said, applied to general, municipal, special or primary elections.

20 Cases Measles Reported Here In Month Of February

Twenty cases of measles were reported from Chilton County to the Bureau of Preventable Diseases of the State Department of Health during February, according to the records of the Bureau, which show that 2,817 measles cases were reported during the month from the State as a whole.

"It is unwise for parents to take the attitude that measles is not a dangerous disease, as so many do," Dr. J. N. Baker, State Health Officer, warned today. "Instead of being so trivial an illness that one need not take the trouble to escape it, this is one of the most dangerous of illnesses to which children are susceptible."

The records of the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the State Department of Health show that considerably more than half of the 1936 measles deaths in this State were among those less than two years of age.

ISABELLA HOME DEMONSTRATION CLUB MET RECENTLY

The Isabella Home Demonstration Club met Friday afternoon, March 18 at three o'clock. The meeting was called to order by the President and everyone sang "America The Beautiful". The Devotional was then given by Mrs. E. S. Jones. The roll was called and the minutes read by the secretary, Mrs. Odie Cooper. Hazel Jones then gave a poem, "An Ideal," after which, "America" was sung. The Club discussed at length the question: "What Does My Community Need To Make It A Better Community In Which To Grow American Citizens?" Mrs. J. H. Wells told about The American Nation as told by Theodore Roosevelt, after which another song was sung. Miss Callen then read the poem "If" by Rudyard Kipling. Following, a short business session, was held and then the meeting was turned over to Miss Grace, who spoke on Spring Gardens and urged each club member to make an effort to plant two new vegetables in her garden this year. It is hoped that each member will try to do this and thereby have a wider variety of vegetables for her table this spring. We hope that we will have a large number at our next meeting April 15.

FRANK DIXON

He came to Clanton sometime ago and delivered a most interesting and inspiring address to the local organization of Young Democrats. His talk at that time went straight to the hearts of the young and old who were fortunate enough to hear him.

Chilton County has been awaiting this coming appearance of this able lawyer, citizen statesman and gentleman. He will speak at the courthouse in Clanton on Wednesday night, April 6th, at seven-thirty o'clock. This announcement was made Tuesday. In fact, Major Dixon changed his speaking schedule in order that he would be able to come back to Chilton County at the earliest possible time.

Every citizen is urged to come to the courthouse next Wednesday night and hear the message from this man.

possible to make this campaign a success. Mayor Jones, in a statement issued this week stated:

"With merchants of Clanton, the homemakers of our city and other citizens showing a splendid cooperative spirit to brighten up our city, I wish to say that the City of Clanton will lend every aid possible. Let me take this opportunity to urge every citizen of the city to put forth a special effort during the coming week to make Clanton one of the brightest little cities in the state.

There is always a pile of rubbish here and there that could be removed with very little trouble. Maybe there is a vacant lot in the city that could be made look better by spending a little time on it. The city will be glad to use its trucks in hauling this rubbish away, and we would like for those who are engaged in this campaign to place such rubbish in containers, if possible, and in a convenient place for our employees to pick up."

Some Have Started It is noted that in some sections of the city, both in the residential and business sections, some work is being done to improve the appearance of these places. So, get in the swing and make Clanton more attractive by doing that Spring cleaning of your yards and property during the coming week. Study the advertisements in the News for Spring cleaning bargains.

Senator Hardy Riddle Spoke In City Friday

Hon. Hardy Riddle, State Senator from Talladega County, and a candidate for Governor, spoke to a large crowd at the courthouse in Clanton last Friday morning.

Senator Riddle is perhaps the youngest candidate in the race for Governor of Alabama and his remarks last Friday drew a great deal of attention from his listeners.

DR. HAYES PLANS BUILDING SMALL BUILDING IN CLANTON

Dr. J.P. Hayes stated this week that he planned erecting a small building in the little vacant lot between the rear of the Watts Hat Shoppe and the Murray-Bell Hardware Co. Dr. Hayes stated he had no particular business in mind to occupy the building and that it would be for rent.

Judge R. C. Burwell of London declared in court that if women controlled their tongues half the lawyers would be out of work.

Billingsley Store Has Fine Opening

Last Thursday, Friday and Saturday, a formal opening day of the new Billingsley Service Store, of Clanton, were red letter days also for housewives and others of this section who attended this gala formal opening.

W.C. Billingsley, owner of the store, W.J. Billingsley, manager and Rustus Gann, manager of the Firestone department of the store, expressed their deep appreciation for the splendid response given their announcement of the formal opening. Each day, the store received crowds of interested spectators to see the fine displays of electrical appliances and other modern merchandise for the home.

Kiwanians Hear Instructive Talk On Modern Method Of Shipping Fresh Fruits, Vegetables

Last Thursday night, at the regular weekly meeting of the Clanton Kiwanis Club, those present heard a most interesting and instructive address relative to the modern method of shipping fresh fruits and vegetables.

The program was in charge of Kiwanian V.J. Gragg, who had as guest speaker for the evening Kiwanian R. Brooks Taylor, who is chief Research Engineer for the Tennessee Valley Authority and also consultant Research Engineer for the University of Tennessee.

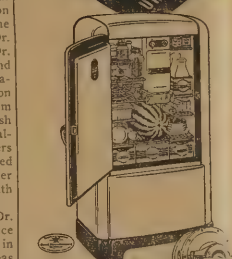

Mr. Brooks went into the new method of shipping fruits and vegetables a long distance through freezing the commodities before leaving for their destinations. This method was recently developed and has been proving most satisfactory in many parts of the country. Mr. Brooks told the club.

He also told of findings of the research departments of his organization relative to this matter pointing out that this new idea is a coming industry, and suggested that citizens of this county look into the matter at the earliest possible time.

Things We Think

Things Others Think and What We Think of Things Others Think
—BILLY SMITH

Chilton Benefits
In an article appearing in the News this week and released from the Alabama Alcoholic Beverage Control Board shows that Chilton County received something over four thousand dollars as part of the net revenue from sales of liquors, etc., in the State of Alabama during the period from May 5, 1937 to December 31, 1937, although the county voted "Dry" in the referendum on the sales of alcoholic beverages. Over two thousand dollars of this went into the Public Welfare fund of the county and a like amount went into the general fund. Here it seems to us, Chilton County has food for thought and a matter to be considered if and when the county expresses its wishes regarding the sales of alcoholic beverages.

Excellent Cooperation
We had the privilege and pleasure of attending the regular meeting last Friday evening of the County Council of Community Workers. We went there, not knowing just what to expect, except that we would be among a group of outstanding and highly educated people. However, whatever we would have expected in the way of information on our county government, was exceeded by the realization. We have attended as a guest, many gatherings of informed persons but the meeting of the County Council has given us a better insight into the work, achievements, aims and problems of those persons whose tasks are to carry on the various departments of Chilton County's government. We sincerely hope we may have the privilege of attending more of these meetings.

Political Platforms
Striking the keynote and stirring up a hum on our sentiments regarding political platforms, the intellectual and straightforward editor of The Tuscaloosa News, Bruce Shelton to be exact, had the following to say recently:

"The use of a platform, as a vehicle for an elaborate set of definite promises, is a dupe at the start. It is bred of a lie and born a deception, for the simple reason that no man—no matter how noble, how sincere, how capable—can predict what tomorrow will bring. He pledges to deliver certain things, then fails, he is a liar. If he pledges to deliver certain things, and insists upon these things when changing conditions make them dangerous and inadvisable, he is a fool who binds himself to a shackle."

Time after time, the politicians of Alabama have promised us the world with a fence around it and, like idiots, we have accepted these promises at face value. These politicians, like medicine men, have charmed us.

The day has come when we must refuse the medicine man. The time has come when to gain what we desire, we must judge a candidate not by what he promises, but by what he refused to promise. We must judge a candidate not by his ability to be deceptive, but by his anxiety to be forthright, and by his refusal to be tied down to the dead words of a dead age."

Included on the varied and entertaining program were Miss Virginia Hancock, who rendered violin solos, and local solos by Miss Marion Smith, a charming young daughter of Kiwanian Charles Smith, president of the Selma Kiwanis. Open The Door For Crippled Children By Buying Seals

Open the door and make way for a little fellow who can spend his play hours on crutches and still smile.

This lad, one of thousands in the country who haven't received quite an even break—physically is coming in from a rather restrained somp to spend a little time with his books at a school for crippled children. It's time for geography and arithmetic.

You don't get that confident smile he is displaying from spending months in bed and looking forward to many more months on crutches. You don't get it from such simple things as the sun above and the flowers blooming outside the door and from the knowledge that someone cares and is doing something to help you along.

Thousands of youngsters, starting out with crippled bodies, can tell you of the multitude of things which are being done to give them a better life. Thousands more are yet to be reached. First there must be adequate facilities.

JOHN BRANDON

State Treasurer John Brandon, candidate for the office of Secretary of State, is carrying on the political tradition that has made the name of Brandon a familiar one in Alabama's history.

Mr. Brandon, a brother of the late Governor W.W. "Plain Bill" Brandon, held the office of Secretary of State from 1927 to 1931 and is thoroughly familiar with its duties and the work of state pardon board member which

LARGE CROWD HEARD DIXON LAST NIGHT

Popular Candidate Swings More Support To His Race For Governor

Lashing out at abuses in government, yet giving full credit for what has been accomplished, Frank M. Dixon, candidate for governor, addressed an overflow audience of Chilton County voters here last night. He met the issue of the sales tax squarely, and told his audience that he would not advocate sales tax repeal if it meant the closing of schools and the destruction of other essential services of a modern government. However, he pledged himself to the repeal of the tax if it were possible to maintain good government without it after every possible economy had been made in state administration and useless political appointees had been discharged.

"A political promise is worth no more than the integrity of the man who makes it," Dixon warned his audience. "We have had such promises before," he said. "I have here in my hand a token of one such promise. It is a sales tax token, the symbol of a broken political faith."

Dixon devoted a considerable part of his speech here to the problems of Alabama.

Why The Constitution?

Something over eight months ago, a German citizen, The Reverend Martin Niemöller, and outstanding anti-Nazi Protestant pastor, was arrested in Berlin because of his outspoken opposition to the dictatorship of Adolph Hitler.

Later he was found guilty of the "crime" of having discussed and criticized government measures from the pulpit. He was sentenced to seven months in prison and a substantial fine. Because he had been in prison for a longer period awaiting trial than that to which he was sentenced, he was set free. But—he was immediately arrested by Secret Police and without trial was sent to a prison concentration camp.

All too often we take our own Constitution and the rights it gives us too lightly.

In contrast to German, the Reverend Niemöller under the protection of the American Constitution would in the first place never have been arrested for criticizing the government or its acts; he would not have been held for eight months awaiting trial and then upon his release could not be arrested and sent away to a prison camp without trial. All because such things are forbidden by our Constitution.

Truly, we take too lightly this document which guards our every right to Americans.

Men And Machines

The thumb rule of courts is that "ignorance of the law is no excuse" and this could well be extended to our everyday life and say that "ignorance of facts is no excuse to make false statements."

Today there are many misinformed and misguided people who are setting up the machine as the big bogymen responsible for unemployment. So the Machinery Institute set about getting at the facts and used as the basis of its study the official reports of the United States Government's Census Bureau and other governmental agencies.

Here are the facts revealed by the Institute's study: "It is not logical to assume that the machine is the cause of unemployment."

"Factory employment today is 83 per cent above the 1899 level when little machinery was used, while population is only 72 per cent above the 1899 figure. Had there been no increase in mechanization since then a ninety-four hour work week would be required for factory workers to produce the goods necessary for the current standard of living."

Politicians And Publicity

Publicity is meat and drink to politicians. What most of them do not seem to realize is that the same is also meat and drink to newspapers.

The Andalusia Star in a recent editorial said that it had received the platforms of all of the candidates for Governor, adding:

"We also received Major Frank Dixon's platform with an order to publish same at advertising rates and his platform appeared in the previous issue of this newspaper. If the platforms of the other aspirants appear in this newspaper they will appear on paid advertising basis. This is a business institution and not a political organ. Our Space is our stock in trade and all we have to sell is our advertising space and if we should donate it to candidates for office we would be establishing a policy which would lead to penury and want. Hence, we repeat what we have said on many previous occasions. We do not propose to finance the publicity of any aspirant for political office and those who send copy to be run at our expense would just as well save the postage."

Commenting on the foregoing from the Star, The Tuscaloosa News says:

"Not in a long time have the editors of Alabama, and especially the weekly editors bristled up over this free publicity matter as they have this year—and it's a good sight to see. No politician would dream of walking in a store to demand that a grocer give him a bushel of potatoes free of charge, so why should he take any more liberties with the newspaper editor than with the grocer?"

"The politician needn't worry. When he has something of real news value, the editor will get it and print it. But the editor isn't yet ready to convert himself into an unpaid agent for the promotion of any office-seeker who happens to be on the scene."

The problem is not easily broken down. It is complicated by the fact that the antics and the opinions of candidates have a certain news value. It is complicated also by the fact that the radio is a business competitor of the newspaper, and by the fact that human vanity being what it is, a human being likes, to make a sound with his voice, he likes to imagine that when he goes on the air with his message teeming millions tune in to hear his melodious phrases swim and dive through the ether. What he does not know is that possibly all but a handful of radio owners turn off when he comes on, and thereupon go ahead with their sweeping, scrubbing, grunting and other exercises that cause housemaid's knee.

The politician buys and pays for radio time, and afterwards asks the newspapers to print his fulmination without cost. Naturally newspapers buck at this. Their policies vary, but so far as The Advertiser is concerned it will not print the text of a radio address without charge in any instance except when the president of the United States, the Pope of Rome, and abdicated King of England take wings in the ether paths. If they pay our radio competitors they must pay us too. We were here first, anyhow.

Even so, this does not simplify matters as much as we should like. Our formula is not scientific and will not always stand the wash. We happen to be engaged in the business of printing news. It often is true that what is said by some neo-Aristotelian figure over the mike is news of such value that something must be printed about it. That is when editors perform as artists rather than scientists.

Even so, newspapers wish to print only what they regard as news of politicians. They are particularly annoyed when a speech that politicians delivered over the radio at the usual rates is handed to the editors with the cavalier suggestion that they should print it free as "news."

It is time for newspapers to re-educate politicians who entertain this mistaken point of view.—Montgomery Advertiser.

Drivers' Licensing Restrictions Vital

It is widely believed among safety authorities that passage of the standard drivers' license law by all of the 48 states is an essential step in solving our automobile death and accident toll.

States which have adopted the law find that it is definitely in the interest of public safety and better driving.

The law is not designed to materially lessen the number of persons operating cars—it is designed to force them, if need be, to become reasonably competent and careful. Under the terms of the law applicants are given an examination on traffic rules and a driving test. If they fail the first time they may take the examination again later. Ultimately, only a small percentage of drivers fail to earn licenses—and all licensed drivers are more capable pilots of automobiles.

But the law does prevent the licensing of persons whose presence at the wheel of a car would constitute a menace to life, property and health. These include persons under the legal age limit, habitual drunkards, narcotic addicts, the congenitally reckless and incompetent, etc.

Today many states have not provision whatsoever for examining drivers. Other states have outmoded or ineffective restrictions. In these states thousands of men and women are legally entitled to drive cars, who are mentally and physically incapable of operating their machines safely and prudently. That is largely responsible for the automobile's horrible annual harvest of 36,000 lives.

MEET THE NEWCOMERS—

In recent weeks Clanton has had several newcomers. Among these newcomers is Rufus Gann, a likeable young man, who hails from Nashville, Tennessee, and is connected with the Billingsley Service Store, the formal opening of which took place last week. Rufus has charge of the Firestone Budget Plan at the store, and was trained by the Firestone Company for this job. A more recent newcomer to Clanton is E. B. Aycock. Mr. Aycock comes to Clanton from Russellville, Alabama, up in the northern part of the State. He has accepted a place with the V. J. Elmore Store in Clanton. Mr. Aycock is a young man just out of college and says he likes Clanton just fine. Glad you like Clanton, Mr. Aycock, and in turn we're sure Clanton will like you. To these young men we extend a hand of welcome.

"SPORTING WITH SPORTS"—

Speaking of newcomers in the paragraph above, we have a newcomer to the columns of the Chilton County News. None other than Marvin W. Marcus, esq., whose column "Sporting With Sports" broke out last week. Marvin is familiar with sports indulged in by Clanton and Chilton County, and we feel sure he will give our readers a fair, impartial report on what's happening in the way of sports in this County. The current sport is baseball, so get our baseball lingo to working, Marvin, we're waiting.

BINGO PARTY—

Bingo! And somebody gets a nice prize. That's what's going to happen tonight (Thursday) at the big Bingo Party being staged by the Pilot Club of Clanton, benefits of which will be donated to the Public Library Fund. This party will be held in the City Hall Auditorium and everybody is invited to participate in the fun. And when we say fun, we mean just that. The price of admission will be only "two bits" and for that you will enjoy an evening of entertainment; be served refreshments (one investigation that party thoroughly) and many useful prizes are being donated by the local merchants. We're serving notice right here and now that we're in the market for two tickets, (we might be in the market for two tickets, if you should like to take them, as we can't afford to pass this up. You've probably heard many times at carnivals for just one game of Bingo, while at this party you get to play all evening for the said low price. Let's help push our Library forward by attending.

WE'D LIKE TO KNOW—

How Earl Parrish could possibly get this column confused with another.

If we guessed correctly the name of a Clanton girl who teaches school in another county, whose picture appeared on the front page of the magazine "Alabama" last week.

Whether or not the Pilot Club will give that dance for the benefit of the Crippled Children's Clinic.

How many storm pits were filled in Clanton last Friday night; and how many people wished they had one in which to enter.

How many political candidates we've shaken hands with since Christmas.

NAMES, NAMES, NAMES—

And more names. That poll list published in the News last week was a golly-whopper. In fact we thought we'd never see the like of that list. We Olde Observer and the boys at the News office labored far, far into the night. But all this is just fine. We're glad to see so many people in Clanton voting this year. And to the candidates we say: If you'd had the nice job of setting up these qualified voters' names in type, you'd almost know each voter by his or her first name by the time you finished. In fact we kinda wished about 3:30 o'clock, Wednesday A. M. we had a few of you here to help out. "Candidates' Delight" we'd call that list.

THE BIG RALLY—

Make way for the 4-H Club boys and girls next Saturday for this is the day set for the rally to be held here, and according to B. N. Ivey, this promises to be one of the biggest rallies yet. A float, a brass band, speakings and many more big doings are in store for the 4-H Clubs of Chilton County. Yes, sir, Saturday will be "4-H Club Day" in Chilton County.

PERFORMING MICE—

The big circus which came to Clanton for two performances last Monday carried with it many interesting acts and sights worth seeing, but the "Mouse Circus" in the show window of The Leader store was, to us, about as interesting as the big circus. Inside a large glass encasement are several mice, some black and some white and some black and white, (get what we mean). A miniature ferris wheel, a revolving round board, and two pendulum ladders is the attractions offered the mice, and on which they perform to the delight of onlookers. This circus is an advertisement of Keds shoes.

MORALECHOS

D. W. Haskew

They were holding a Sunday School picnic near a Texas town. A great crowd had gathered mostly young people. The dinner was spread on the table about eleven-thirty, and then the speaker of the occasion was invited to deliver his address. He spoke on until twelve-thirty and while he was in one of his flights of eloquence, a mule that was hitched near by started one of those loud, long, drawn out brays that drowned out the voice of the speaker. He hushed and when the mule had hushed also a boy of nine years of age said, "By Golly, that mule has more sense than the speaker for he knows when it is dinner time." I was not there but I am quite sure that the man did not resume his speech. You can bet your last dime that a boy and a mule knows when it is dinner time. However, I have heard some few speakers who have not had that much sense. Even some preachers do not have quitting sense.

A distinguished professor of Sociology in a New York college was invited to deliver an address in a Southern college on the question of making safe the society of the South. This learned man in rather an important air opened his address with this statement, "My young friends, the Society of the South needs the constant use of four brushes, and I shall proceed to elaborate on each one of them." Then followed what he had to say on the hair brush, the clothes brush, the shoe brush and the tooth brush. That man may have been a teacher of rhetoric, but it is evident that he did not know how to make safe the Society of the South. To clean up and to polish the outside may be a step in the right direction, but nothing is done for society until something is done on the inside. Many a man, many a woman, who have well-dressed hair, well-dressed bodies, shining shoes and teeth, have in them the lowest ideals of living. No one claims that clothes make the man.

Some one said that we have three different classes of folks on our church registers. We have the active members. We can count on them to be present in our services and we can count on them to do a Christian part in every task of the church. They never fail us. Then we have many on our church book who are numbered among the honored dead. They lived to shine as Christians until God saw fit to transfer their lights to the windows of Heaven. Their memory will ever be sacred to us. Last of all, we have on our church rolls a host of dead heads. We can never count on them to be present in our services. We can never count on them doing anything toward the finances of the church. They go along with us as members, but they are "Dead Heads." On the railroad a man is "Dead Head" when he sits in the coach and does nothing but ride at the expense of the railroad. In our churches we have the active members, on our roll we have the honored dead, and on our roll we have the dead heads. How disgraceful to be a dead head.

In North Georgia there was a woman who joined a church where the membership voted on the reception and where the applicant must have a vision to relate. At first this lady said that she had no vision and she was refused membership, but after a second thought she said that she did hear an unusual sound one night at her window. She thought it to be a spirit scratching her window, but on going to investigate the noise she found it to be just a cat. When she related this the deacons would not say that she had no vision that would justify membership. However, one deacon took her defense and addressed the church in this language: "Brethren and Sisters, we have many members in this church who have never heard so much as a bug scratch on a window at night and I move we receive her into full fellowship." She was received. How many folks get into all our churches without any experience? Not even so much as hearing a bug scratch on a window at night.

I have seen many things in my life that were unusual. I have seen pigs with five legs, I have seen calves with two heads, little chicks with four feet, pups with two tails, etc., but there is one thing I have never yet seen, and that is a man born six feet long and wearing whiskers down to his waist. While I have never seen six-foot babies with long whiskers, yet I have seen six-foot men with whiskers who were nothing but babies in the Kingdom of God. These men were born as infants and for twenty-five years they grew into physical manhood. Many of the same individuals were born into the Kingdom of God twenty years ago and yet they have never grown spiritually. They are still babies in Christ and yet they are six feet long and wear whiskers like an old man. Tell me your reason for feeding your body and at the same time starving your soul. Our command is to "Grow in Grace."

STANDING EDUCATIONAL LEADERS TO SPEAK AT TROY

Ala. —(Special)—Outstanding leaders in American Educational circles have been signed to lecture during the summer school courses to be held at State Teachers College, June 6-August 19.

In order to meet the demands of current trends in Education, the college is offering three special seminars for the six weeks' term. These will be held in addition to elementary teaching planned to aid them in understanding their own school and community problems. These special courses are in addition to the regular subjects of study.

Dr. J. N. Nossaman, Teachers College, University; Dr. J. N. Nossaman, Bristol, supervisor Montgomery County schools; Professor Irwin Hammett, Troy College Extension director; President C. B. Smith will handle special course in "Problems of Curriculum Development in the Elementary School." This will embrace all that's new in this field.

Economics Course Is Feature

A course called "Problems of Community Life in the South," dealing with social and economic conditions, will be held under supervision of Axford Dean, of Troy College; assisted by Dr. M. Beech, Rosenwald Fellow at the University of North Carolina; Professor Hammer and President of the State Teachers Association.

Another interesting feature will be a visit to the lignite deposits near Troy. This section of the State abounds in this low grade coal which, through recent developments, now can be processed for efficient and inexpensive heat. Its commercial possibilities are most interesting and promising.

With meetings being conducted simultaneously in four rooms, dozens of papers will be read by experts. All attending will be kept informed as to what is going on in each division and a person may go from room to room, selecting discussions which appeal to him most.

These meetings are open to the lay public, and on previous occasions, many outsiders have come in to listen.

To avoid hitting a calf near Argos, Ind. Harry Johnson swerved his car and crashed into a machine driven by Mary Elliot of Kaukon, Mich. Both cars were wrecked, five occupants injured, and the calf was killed.

Colorado's oldest automobile driver, Frank Benham, 91, advises all drivers who wish to avoid collisions to keep their feet near the brakes. He has driven 100,000 miles without an accident.

Pilot Club To Be Represented At Convention

Misses Gerie Fiquette, Willie Maude Kelly and Lona Thompson, three of Clanton's most enthusiastic Pilots have accepted Birmingham Club's invitation to attend District Four's bi-annual convention to be held with Birmingham Club as hostess, Saturday night and Sunday, April 9th and 10th.

District Conventions of Pilot International have reached such a scope until much greater good and enjoyment are realized by attending them. With international headquarters located in Alabama this year, International officers have been able to attend many of the district conventions in the State, thus making them more educational to those attending.

Birmingham cordially invites any of Clanton's Pilots to attend this convention.

The Atlanta Club has also invited the Clanton Pilot Club to attend their District Convention, April 23 and 24. It is hoped that Clanton will have representatives at this convention also.

He introduced legislation to pave the way for rural electrification in Alabama.

At the age of 14, he left home to go to Washington, D. C., where he served as a page in the National House of Representatives and later became secretary to his Congressman the late George W. Taylor. He attended business college and studied law at night, and graduated from the law department of Georgetown University at Washington in 1899.

Returning home, Harrison entered into law partnership at Demopolis with Taylor and Benjamin F. Elmore, now a circuit judge. He later served as circuit solicitor in Marengo, Clarke, Choctaw and Monroe counties and as court reporter in the circuit as now known. He is now a resident of Gallion, Marengo County, and 58 years of age.

W. Y. Keel Writes To Voters Of The County

"To The Voters And Patrons Of The Schools of Chilton County: I am taking this opportunity to express my appreciation of the support I am receiving from those who know me in behalf of my candidacy as a Member of the School Board of Chilton County. Since the primary is only a few weeks off, it will be impossible for me to see each voter personally and solicit his or her vote. So, therefore, I am taking this means to ask for your support.

"For your information, this is the first time I have ever asked the voters of Chilton County for a public office. I have, however, served as a Member of the Democratic Executive Committee for my beat for many years. I have also served for a number of years as trustee of the Enterprise school. I have always taken an active interest in school matters and I have the interest of the children of Chilton County at heart. If elected to represent you as a Member of the School Board, I will put forth every effort to establish a nine-months term for the high schools and at least a seven-months term for every elementary school in the county. I will further state, if elected, I will promise to discharge my duty to the best of my ability and no one will have cause to regret casting his vote for me. METHODIST MISSIONARY CIRCLE HOLDS MEETING

The monthly business meeting of the Methodist Missionary Circle was held at the parsonage on Monday afternoon, April 3rd.

The twenty-four members present were delightedly entertained by Mrs. Truett's report of the meeting of the Alabama Conference Women's Missionary Society M. E. Church, at First Church, Florida. It is a difficult task to review a conference which lasts several days but Mrs. Truett did it in such an enthusiastic manner that we could feel the warm Florida flowers could glimpse the gay spring flowers and actually shared in their ardent hospitality. We noted the spiritual strength gained at the quiet hour each morning. We were encouraged by the spirit of earnestness and enthusiasm.

At this time when the spirit of individualism is so strong it is comforting to hear that in our own state so much love and brotherly help is being done to other races by this large group of women of which we are a part.

The Circle appreciates Mrs. Truett's attempt to share the joys of the conference with us—Mrs. John Powers, publicity chrm.

Chest Clinic Held Here Last Tues. And Wed.

Sixty-four persons were scheduled for chest x-ray at the office of the county health department. It was announced by Dr. S. D. Sturkie, county health officer. The traveling chest x-ray of the State Health Department in Clanton on April 5th and 6th, stated.

"This clinic," added the local health official, "is sent to the county at the invitation of the local medical society. Free chest x-rays are provided to many persons who are financially unable to pay the cost of such an examination. All cases admitted are referred by the family physicians. Being purely a diagnostic clinic for tuberculosis, results are made only of the presence or absence of tuberculosis. This affords very valuable service to persons suspected of having tuberculosis in diagnosis can often be made early, a stage when the chances for attaining a cure are greatest."

One case of smallpox in a negro living near Maplesville, was reported recently to the county health official. In addition seven new cases of measles occurred in the county last week.

Her husband forced her to live in a garden home footed, Mrs. Nelda B. of Oklahoma City testified at her divorce hearing.

Because the law forbids Sheriff Joseph Van Meter of Camden, N. J., selling a garage he owns to his judgment, the county coroner, Dr. Ernest Larossa, had to sell her out.

Well Known Citizen Endorses C. B. Cox For Representative

April 4, 1938

Editor,
Chilton County News,
Clanton, Alabama.

"Dear Sir:

"I would like to use some of the valuable space in your newspaper to say a few words in behalf of one of the outstanding candidates in the field. Mr. C. B. Cox, who is a candidate for Representative from this county in the state legislature.

"On account of some criticism I have heard being circulated about Mr. Cox, I feel my duty to call a few matters to the attention of the voters in fairness to him. The comments from political enemies of Mr. Cox fail to say anything about the laws he advocated, supported and aided in passing that are of great benefit to the people of Chilton County and of the State of Alabama.

"I have watched the actions of Mr. Cox since he has been serving as our Representative and can recall several of the more outstanding laws he has helped pass and which I believe have been a help to everyone concerned. He supported and aided greatly in the passing of the Homestead Exemption law which has saved homeowners many dollars.

"Mr. Cox was a strong supporter of the law that freed the toll bridges in Alabama. He voted for the law reducing the interest rate in Alabama.

"He was a strong supporter of the Bill which created Public Welfare Departments, and was in favor of the law providing for the Old Age Pensions and the law providing for free school books in Alabama up to the third grade.

"Mr. Cox was a supporter of the law for the maintaining of a Health Unit in every county and has supported our local health unit, the welfare department and the county agriculture department. Of course there are many other good laws that were supported by Mr. Cox while serving as our Representative. But, if these I have mentioned are just some of the main ones.

"Now, if any of the citizens of this county are not in favor of the laws listed above that have meant so much to the people of this county, then they are not for Mr. Cox for Representative. But, if the citizens are for these good laws, then they are for Mr. Cox and should support him.

"I have known Mr. Cox practically all my life and have had lots of dealings with him and have always found him to be very honest and sincere in his beliefs and purposes. Therefore, while on the face of any matter which might have appeared as a mistake on his part, I have never questioned his sincerity and have always believed him to be conscientious in his actions.

"I believe Mr. Cox will at all times work for those things which he truly believes are for the best interests of his county and its people. He has proven this many times in the past and I want to take this opportunity to urge all voters of this county to send him back as your Representative in the body of lawmakers of Alabama. His past experience there will mean much to our county during the next term.

"Yours very truly,

"W. J. BEST,
Clanton Route 6."

Hints for Homemakers By Jane Rogers

START with your windows first when you start with your spring refurbishing! Look at them with a severe eye! Are the curtains crisp and dainty? Are the window shades underneath sparkling and clean? Are they the right new color to tone in with your summer draperies and slipcovers?

Another thing we've discovered, many women are putting up double shades—that is, one color for the inside of the room and a second color, usually cream or white, to face the street. In this manner they achieve smart and complete uniformity. It is a good idea, don't you think?

CO. COUNCIL HAS SPLENDID MEETING HERE

Problems And Aims Of Units
Are Discussed Recently
By Department Heads

One of the most important and interesting meetings held in Clanton last week was the annual get-together of those constituting the Chilton County Council of County Workers, the heads and assistants of the various departments of the county government.

The meeting was held at the Exchange Hotel with Miss Meta Grace, home demonstration agent, acting as chairman. Several guests were present and each person present was asked to introduce himself or herself.

Following the song "Alabama" and the introduction of guests, Miss Grace opened the business session with the reading of the minutes of the last meeting by Miss Edith Green, of the Board of Education. After a discussion of business matters, the meeting was turned over to Judge J. Lee Smith, who conducted the remainder of the program.

Guests who took part on the program in short talks were Dr. V. J. Gragg, Hon. L. H. Reynolds, Billy Smith and Lieutenant Bridges who is Commander of the local CCC Camp. Little Miss Helen Hayes appeared in a dance and songs. Mrs. Percy M. Pitts served as pianist. Commissioner Howard Oden gave an interesting talk on work of the Commissioners Court of the county.

AN ENDORSEMENT FOR GOODE FOR GOVERNOR

"Chilton County News,
Clanton, Ala.
Gentlemen:

"The writer will greatly appreciate it if you will let the following appear in your next issue.

Attention School Teachers and School Bus Drivers!

"In a very short time it will be your duty to aid and assist in the election of a governor for Alabama.

"After checking over the list of candidates, and the past records of the candidates, I feel confident that Mr. Goode will make for us the best governor Alabama has ever had.

"I am sure that you teachers and bus drivers will remember how it was back in 1933 when the state owed you for teaching and hauling children to the schools, you must also remember that Bob Goode, a member of the legislature, worked faithful to the end that the state paid its debts to teachers, bus drivers and others.

"Had it not been for the faithful work of Mr. Goode in this instance I doubt very seriously that you would have ever been paid.

"Mr. Goode is a real friend to the farmers and the other working people of the state.

"Back in 1932 we built the Billingsley High School building and the state failed to pay us as per contract; we have to wait two years for our money, and had it not been for the good work that Mr. Goode did while he was a member of the legislature, we do not believe we would have ever been paid.

"In conclusion let me insist that you give Mr. Goode your serious consideration when you go to the polls to select a governor.

"Yours very truly,
"CHAS COOPER,
"Mountain Creek, Alabama,"

Alabamians Advised Consume More Milk

"Alabama should consume more milk," says W. B. Burrell, livestock specialist, Alabama Extension Service, in calling attention to the fact that "over 11 percent of Alabama farm families do not have a milk cow and the average consumption of milk in the State is less than one-half pint per capita."

"By increasing your milk consumption you are not only increasing the health of your family but you are building a more permanent and prosperous agriculture in Alabama," he states.

"If Alabama children could all receive one quart of milk per day and all adults would consume at least one pint it would be necessary for us to double our present dairy cow population to supply the demands," he points out. "This would furnish a home market for thousands of acres of improved pasture and hay crops and also thousands of tons of velvet beans, corn, oats and cottonseed meal which can be grown under the new farm program. It would also provide work for many additional farm people as it has been estimated that it takes approximately 150 man-hours of labor per year to look after a milk cow."

In addition to consuming proteins, carbohydrates, fats, and calcium for the body, milk is rich in vitamins A, B, and C, all essential to body development.

Warning Issued About Cow Disease Outbreak

A warning was issued this week by Dr. W. L. Parrish, well known veterinarian of "Black Leg," a disease that is affecting cows in the county and a dangerous affliction.

Dr. Parrish stated that the proper thing to do now is to have cows vaccinated against this disease since there is no cure after the cow is once stricken. Cows that die from the disease should be burned, Dr. Parrish stated, in order to prevent the spread of the germs.

Cows afflicted with "Black Leg" will show a very acute and severe lameness. Dr. Parrish stated he would be glad to render assistance and give any advice which he may be asked for regarding this disease of cows.

C. Reese Mullins Urges Voters Support Sparks

Clanton Alabama, April 4, 1938.

"Editor, Chilton County News, Clanton, Ala.

"My Dear Sir:

"It is now only a few days until May 3, and on this date we are to take one of the most important steps that we shall have the privilege of taking again in the next four years, voting for a man to guide and direct the affairs of this great state of ours—a governor.

"I want to express to you and to every voter in Chilton County my whole-hearted endorsement of the candidacy of Judge Chauncey Sparks of Eufaula. I would appreciate it very much if you and everyone who may read this letter, would support Judge Sparks and line up all your friends in his behalf. His record in the Legislature shows that he is a sound man and stand solidly for sound government. He is a man of conviction and has the courage of his convictions, and is of the highest character. We have some other good men in the race, but I know Chauncey Sparks personally, and I feel sure that he is head and shoulders above the rest. He is no visualist, but is a practical man and believes in economical government and in government confining itself to governing. I know Judge Sparks is just such a man as we all would take great pride in as a governor.

"I am trying to contact every voter in this county personally in behalf of Judge Sparks, but you know this is impossible, so I ask you all to accept this letter as a personal appeal in his favor.

"We will have this distinguished statesman to address the voters of Chilton County at our courthouse here in Clanton on Friday morning, April 15, at eleven o'clock. You are all urged to come and hear him and meet him.

"I want to say to the school teachers of this county and state that, in my opinion, there is not a man in the race for governor that has the interest of them and education more at heart than Judge Sparks. Why do I say this? He was reared on a small farm in a rural section of Barbour County; he was left an orphan when quite a lad; and he had to work his way through school and college. Why then, knowing him to be a big-hearted and broad-minded man, should he not be interested in giving the school teachers and the children of this state first consideration?

Judge Sparks is the only candidate for governor that comes out flat-footed against the sales tax, a tax we all are

Monroe Benson Endorses Cox And Urges Voters To Give Him Support

Jemison, Alabama April 5, 1938.

"To The Voters of Chilton County:

"With the election only a short time away I want to add my endorsement to the many others of Mr. C.B. Cox for our Representative in the Legislature.

"Back in my younger life, I was raised in this county and a close neighbor of Mr. Cox. I have always known him to be one of the best men in the county. I look back even as he is now, he was always ready to help anyone he possibly could.

"I think the record Mr. Cox has made as our Representative is fine and I also believe he is the man to go back to the Legislature to represent the people of Chilton County. I know also, that Mr. Cox always has the interest of the people of this county in his heart. I have heard some criticism of Mr. Cox, but it is my opinion this criticism is unjust and has no grounds whatsoever.

"I don't believe anyone can say that Mr. Cox has done anything which he did not believe would help his county, and his people and that he is the man to send to the Legislature this year. I want to urge all my friends to go to the polls on Tuesday, May 3rd, and vote for Mr. C.B. Cox for Representative. His record is clean and he will mean much to our county in that office.

"Respectfully,

"G. M. BENSON."

Hints For Homemakers

By Jane Rogers

COOL tones in window shades are the vogue! They're designed to subdue the glare of the sun and keep the rooms livable even on torrid days.

We have discovered there are two such new dainties—a larkspur blue. Both of them soft, muted, and delightfully restful to the eye.

Another household hint for this spring in decoration is that green in its varying tones promises to be particularly important in draperies, slipcovers, cushions, chairs and pottery. And no wonder, for a soft green seems to bring the whole beauty of the countryside indoors!

Much Cotton Sold To Chilean Republic

Eleven hundred bales of American cotton were recently shipped from the port of New Orleans consigned to the Republic of Chile, according to Fernando Dahmen, Chilean Consul in New Orleans, who also points out that Chile's purchases of goods from the United States are larger than from any other country.

"This shipment of American cotton demonstrates how foreign trade benefits everyone," stated Mr. Dahmen. "Chilean interests were able to buy this American cotton because of America's purchases of Chilean products, including natural nitrate of soda. Chile buys more from the United States than from any other foreign country, her purchases here in 1937 totaling nearly twenty-four million dollars. Such a volume of trade was made possible largely because the United States is the leading consumer of Chilean nitrate of soda."

This American cotton will be unloaded at the ports of Arica and Valparaiso where the boat that carries it will pick up other goods consigned to the United States.

Citizens of Belvidere, Ill., unanimously shunned an opportunity to make $5. All they had to do was roll up a 20-foot python and carry it back to the carnival from which it escaped.

A Farmer By Trade

R. M. (Roy) ROPER
Candidate for Tax Collector

Chilton County Born

TO THE VOTERS OF CHILTON COUNTY-

Being a farmer and a grower of strawberries, it is now, necessary that I spend considerable time gathering my crop. I am not a man of wealth and these strawberries are my bread and butter for myself and family. I know you will be fair and if I do not get to see you personally I want to advise you of these facts.

My campaign thus far has been clean. It will continue to be clean. If I am the next Tax Collector of Chilton County, I intend to do my level best to demonstrate to the youth of this county (your boy and mine) that cleanliness in politics pays just as it does in any form of life. Can I count on YOU to help carry this principle forward in politics?

I have not slandered or spoken ill of any candidate. I have not and I will not buy even one vote. Give me the office clean or don't give it to me at all.

Thanking you for your support, I am,

Yours very truly,

R. M. (Roy) ROPER

This Is National Negro Health Week

The people of Alabama were urged today by Dr. J.N. Baker, State Health Officer, to take part in the twenty-fourth annual observance of National Negro Health Week, beginning Sunday, April 3 and continuing through Sunday, April 10, and thus acquaint themselves as fully as possible with the health problems of the State's colored population.

"Although much progress has been made during the past two or three decades in combatting those diseases which are particularly fatal to Negroes, the colored death rate in this State is still approximately 54 per cent higher than the white death rate," he said. "For certain diseases, such as tuberculosis, typhoid fever, syphilis etc., the colored death rates are twice or three times as high as the white rates. It is hoped that as the general public becomes better acquainted with the problem of Negro health, which is the main purpose of the annual observance of National Negro Health Week, this disparity between the death rates of the two races will be greatly reduced."

Dr. Baker pointed out that National Negro Health Week was inaugurated by an Alabamian, the late Dr. Booker T. Washington, then president of Tuskegee Institute.

IN MEMORY

On March 29, Mrs. E.B. Owens closed her eyes in endless sleep. She leaves her husband, six sons, four daughters, a host of friends and loved ones to mourn her going.

She is gone but not forgotten, Never will her memory fade; Sweetest thoughts will ever linger, 'Round the grave where she was laid. The angels kissed the loving eyes, Closed by the white-winged reaper. The pulseless heart is now at rest; God guard the silent sleeper.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. H. H. Fallows, were six grandsons, Curtis, Cales and Julius Deason; Shelton, Johnwill and Charles Owens. Interment was in the Shiloh cemetery. —A Friend, Mrs. J. D. Mullins.

Keg Of Powder Gets Special Service In Delivery To Farmer

Mullica Hill, N.J. (IPS)—There is little doubt these days in the mind of Farmer Amos Kirby about the services rendered by modern American industry. Farmer Kirby recently wanted only enough blasting powder to remove a stump from one of his fields. He asked for a couple of ounces of powder at the local general store operated by Mrs. Emma Bunning. Mrs. Bunning did not have the powder in stock so he phoned in order to a Wilmington, Del., manufacturer, and thereby hangs this story.

The manufacturer loaded the small can of powder on an empty freight car. The car was shunted onto a barge and towed across the Delaware River to Camden. Since the law forbids storage of explosives in a railroad yard, overnight, a special train—locomotive, freight car and a caboose—was made up and a special crew was put aboard. There is no direct line from Camden to Mullica Hill, a distance of only 18 miles. The train had to trudge down to Williamstown Junction, switch over and back to its destination, covering thirty-nine miles in the process.

Mrs. Bunning was on hand in Mullica Hill to receive the can of powder since the town has no freight agent. Next day she mailed a check for $1.00 to cover freight charges. She sold Farmer Kirby 55 cents worth of the powder. He blasted the stump and estimated the wood from it was worth 40 cents.

Railroad officials declined to estimate actual cost of transportation via special train.

A burglar broke into the police court room at Wheeling, W. Va., and rifled the money boxes in 28 slot machines which had been seized in raids.

A young matron drove through downtown Indianapolis with two women friends. Trailing from her motor car were tin cans, old shoes and streamers. A sign said: "Just Divorced."

Not a child has been born in the Scottish village of Kilmuir on the Black Isle, Moray Firth, in the last 24 years, records reveal.

Sporting With Sports

MARVIN W. MARCUS, Sports Editor

There seems to be a certainty of an outstanding ball club for the fans of Clanton territory. Organization plans went forward in great style Monday night at a meeting held at the city hall.

The following officers were elected, composed of a group of business men from Alabama Mills, Lay Dam and Clanton: John Armstrong, president; Sam Powers, vice-president; L. D. Woodson, secretary; G.C. Harris, treasurer; M.W. Marcus, business manager.

Directors of this organization will be Mr. Roberts, Mr. Venable, Mr. Butler, Mr. Bates of Alabama Mills; Mr. Powers, Mr. Woodson Mr. Grit Jones Mr. Tommie Thompson of Lay Dam; Mr. Armstrong, Mr. Harris, Mr. Victor Heard and M.W. Marcus of Clanton.

This baseball organization expects to put one of the strongest ball clubs on the field that this community has had in a number of years.

Further announcement of progress will be found in these columns next week. Step out, fans, and give these men all the support you can in giving us a club that we will be proud to call our own.

What! Chilton County High School ball club takes place in honest-to-goodness league! A league composed of the following high schools: Clanton, Centerville, Montevallo, West Blocton, Plantersville and Columbiana. These teams play a regular schedule and is known as the Central Alabama High School League.

Chilton County High opened the season at Columbiana Tuesday, April 5, and the schedule of games are as follows:

At Columbiana April 5.
At West Blocton April 8th.
Columbiana here April 13.
Open date April 15.
West Blocton here April 20.
At Centerville April 22.
Montevallo here April 27.
Centerville here April 29.
Open date May 4.
At Montevallo May 6.
At Plantersville May 13.
Plantersville here May 20.

Chilton County High has already played several games with outside teams, showing real improved class over several years ago and it is expected they will wind up the season well recognized.

The C.C.H.S. held a meeting last Monday evening electing Bill Armstrong captain and "Ducky" Williamson alternate captain.

The boys have had several years of good baseball. Armstrong last year played quite a bit with Clanton town team and Alabama Mills. Williamson also played with the town team, and was an outstanding outfielder and catcher for Lay Dam most of the last season.

Deep Sea Rodeo Dates Set For August 8, 9, 10

Alabama's tenth annual deep sea fishing rodeo will be held this year on August 8, 9 and 10 in Mobile Bay. It was announced by the rodeo association committee (March 30) at Mobile after consultation with the Government weather bureau and coastal fishermen.

Each year nearly 600 deep sea anglers from 25 states attended the event which is one of the largest sporting events in its kind in the country.

Headquarters again will be at historic Fort Gaines on the eastern tip of Dauphin Island, where the rodeo association maintains a landing pier, a large restaurant building, power house and other equipment. The army barracks are used for sleeping by those who do not stay on boats.

The committee's decision to hold the rodeo on August 8, 9 and 10 was based on a tide chart of the Dauphin Island region and the weather bureau's listing of the moon position. Capt. Earl Bryant, veteran Bayou LeBatre boat operator and fisherman, assured the committee that an expected incoming tide on the 1938 dates will bring good fishing.

Hundreds of dollars worth of prizes donated by fishing tackle manufacturers and sporting goods stores annually are awarded for the best catches in two score classifications. Early registration is necessary to secure the best accommodations and names and addresses of committee members will be announced within a few days.

Fish Creel Limits, Sizes
The Department of Conservation offers the following information for the benefit of the fishermen: Size limits on game fish; bass, not under 14 inches; bream and rock bass (goggle eye), not under four and one-half inches; white lake bass, 8 inches; Crappie, bass and white perch, including calico bass, 8 inches; wall-eyed pike, jack salmon or pickeral, 12 inches. All measurements from tip of nose to fork of tail.

Creel limits: not more than 10 bass; 15 crappie or white perch; 25 bream in aggregate of all kinds; 15 rock bass or goggle-eye; 20 white lake bass; and not more than 35 in aggregate of all game fish. A resident fishing license costing $1 is required of all persons over 16 using rod and reel or artificial bait, lure or fly.

will be found in these columns next week.

The fans of Chilton County will have an opportunity to see what, as we all know, real professional baseball here next Saturday, April 9th, at the High School Park. The Birmingham Barons will play the Montgomery Bombers in an exhibition game, giving maybe quite a number an opportunity to see their first real professional game of baseball or at least see fellows play who not only get fun from it, but get nice pay as well. We are showing the possible of the Bombers for this game. We were unable to secure the line-up for the Barons:

Cruthers and Borein, 3rd base.
Walker, right field.
Fineberg, shortstop.

That's how much coal the L & N hauled in 1937... over 600,000 carloads.

Think of the far-reaching importance of coal in our daily living... in producing power... in generating light... in heating our homes... in giving employment to thousands of people.

Indeed, carrying coal... or any other commodity... helps to develop the community where it is produced and adds to the comfort and welfare of the section where it is consumed. That's why the L & N for over 87 years has played such an integral part in the development and growth of the Central South. That's why we like to consider ourselves your neighbor, for the progress of the communities we serve promotes the well-being of all.

What is the transportation job you want done, neighbor? Big or little, the Railroad of Friendly Service is at your service.

hama agriculture. Declaring that "the future of Alabama lies in the land," he pledged strong support to the extension service and other recognized farm agencies. He scored the policy of state operated prison farms in competing with Alabama farmers.

"For some reason, the State has thought it wise to go into competition with its own farmers," Dixon said. "The State Prison farm at Attmore, as farmers of Alabama well know, raises commercial vegetables and puts them on the market in competition with its own people. We have been trying to bring high-bred stock to Alabama. Yet the bulls and hogs at Kilby, instead of being sold at market prices to the people of our State, are auctioned off at breed prices, and go to other states, whose people are better able to pay. These things should be stopped for the good of Alabama and its people."

Dixon announced his advocacy of an eight months term in the elementary grades of public schools and nine months of high school and declared that children in rural Alabama are entitled to the same school advantages as those who live in cities.

He denounced "policies which permit the building of a tremendous political machine, and pledged himself to rid the state of useless political employees. He condemned the hiring of legislators to control legislation and the abuses of the present system of pardons and paroles. Dixon drew cheers and prolonged applause when he said:

"I hereby notify those convicted of crime in Alabama that if they want to get out by virtue of political patronage and become ravening wolves feeding on the decent people of this state, they had better make their escape from the prison bars before January 1939" ties for treating the children and adults to give them the maximum use of their crippled muscles. There must be education—impossible through normal channels. Adults require the aid of professional workers who can help in rehabilitation and vocational programs. Children need special education and helping hands to adjust them socially.

This is the season to help—the season when the brightly colored Seals of the International Society for Crippled Children and its State and local affiliates go on sale.

The Seals carry the message to all parts of the country. They provide money for carrying on this vital work, for interesting others in its accomplishment. The 1938 Seals, bearing the slogan, "A Better Life for Crippled Children," go on sale here today.

C. B. Cox Bears Out His Statement On Road LawCandidate For Representative Points Out His Views Regarding Repealing Of Local Road Law

Clanton, Alabama,
April 5, 1938.

"To The People of Chilton County: "As everyone knows, there was a local Act passed in the 1936 session of the Legislature of Alabama creating the office of Road Supervisor of Chilton County. At the time this idea and plan was conceived, there was no thought of any political effect it might have. Our only thought at that time was that it would be to the best interest of the county.

"My political enemies would have some believe that I passed this law over the protest of all the citizens of the county and without any regard or consideration of the taxpayers. The fact is that before this Bill to create a Road supervisor in Chilton County was advertised and introduced, it was read and discussed in a meeting held in Clanton to which thirty-six outstanding citizens and heavy taxpayers were invited. Twenty-four of the 36 attended this meeting and 23 of the twenty-four voted for the Bill to be introduced and passed as it now appears on the statutes.

"I have merely mentioned the above fact to show the people of the county that I tried to secure the advice and opinions of a good representative body of our citizens and taxpayers before introducing this Bill in the Legislature.

"I want to state again, as I did in a letter to the public of September 3, 1937, that if I am elected your Representative this year my first official act when the Legislature convenes will be to abolish the present Road Supervisor Law of Chilton County. My reason for making this statement at this time is due to my understanding that some of my friends, and foes, are questioning my stand in regard to the Road Law.

"I also want to take this opportunity to respectfully ask for your support in the behalf of my candidacy for Representative in the coming primary election of May 3rd, 1938.

"Respectfully,
"C. B. COX."

Mouse Circus Attracts Crowds At The Leader

The large crowds one sees in front of The Leader in Clanton are not looking altogether at the new Spring merchandise on display there. They are more than likely enjoying the little member mouse circus in the window.

This circus, composed of mice, was brought to The Leader by the United States Rubber Co., manufacturers of "Keds" shoes which are handled by the local store. The circus is attracting large crowds of both young and old and will remain in the window through Saturday night, Mr. Lande stated.

Things We Think

Things Others Think and What We Think of Things Others Think

Fortune And Misfortune

Chilton County is feeling the damaging results of last week's heavy rains and considerable inconvenience is being caused travel throughout the county. Of course, that inconvenience is a small matter when the tremendous expense the county is being put to in order to repair bridges and roads damaged by the water is considered. It was most unfortunate and yet Chilton Counties may, at the same time, feel fortunate since the county treasury contains over $100,000.00 and is able to take care of this emergency. Chilton County officials are to be congratulated on having handled the affairs of our county government in such a manner as to be able to avoid the borrowing of funds to meet such an emergency as we are now facing. There are very few rural counties in Alabama that are able to finance such an emergency without being forced to negotiate a loan. This goes for the City of Clanton also. The city is having to bear its share of the burden also with considerable damage to streets and large bridges within the city limits. We understand that members of the Commissioners Court and the Road Department are working together to repair the hundreds of more bridges and the miles of damaged roads as fast as possible. We are sure the citizens of the county must realize that it will take considerable time to complete this work and that they will be patient with the officials and workmen.

We Need A Camera

Tuesday morning we needed some information about damage and repair to streets and bridges within the city and so to find Mayor Jones we went. But, the Mayor was not in his office. We found him at the creek near the Reynolds Addition and where the large bridge was torn away by the water last week. With him was Charles Cox, both with their coats off, trousers legs rolled up and shoes generally covered with mud. Mr. Cox had apparently forgotten that he was in the midst of a political campaign as he was in order to work on the bridge, spanning the creek with a temporary bridge, and voluntarily aiding wherever he could. Mayor Jones thought for the time being, dismissed thoughts of paved streets, sewerage disposal plants, etc., and was arranging for bridge materials and workmen to push the repair work on the city's bridges. Yes, we would have liked a picture of that. There's one thing about it, Chilton County folks know how to cope with an emergency.

The Sales Tax

This comment is not intended as an argument for or against Alabama's sales tax. We are merely noting some facts recently released. We find that Chilton County paid in as sales tax $55,211 during the period from January 1, 1937 to March 18th, 1938. We are also informed that Chilton County received from the sales tax $68,645, showing a net profit of $13,434. $43,515 was paid to education in this county, while $12,470 went into the general fund, $12,669 replaced the homestead exemption tax in this county. So, it seems Chilton County is doing very well in that respect.

Even We Read It Now

Most newspapermen are accused, and some rightfully so, of not reading their own newspaper. We cannot leave entirely innocent of that charge. However, it has reached the point now that we find ourselves reading some of the features in our own paper, particularly Bonnie Hand's column "We Observe," which appears on the editorial page of the News each week. In fact, we find ourselves learning some things by reading that newsy round of comments. Then comes Marvin Marcus with his column "Sporting With Sports" in which he covers, with comments, the sporting angles of the county in a true sports fan manner. We don't think Marcus has quite been reconciled since we received the season ticket from the Southeast League with full courtesies of the grounds and all games even though he is the sports editor.

Distinguished Visitor

Clanton is seen daily by many distinguished citizens of the state and nation as they whizz through the city in their motor cars, but we very seldom see them. One distinguished citizen paid our city a visit last week on purpose, stopped at the News office long enough for a chat with the writer and to have lunch at N-E's, East Shoppe with us. This was Pitt Tyson Maner, private secretary to Governor Graves and national president of the Young Democrats of America. Mr.

Carmichael Assured Lieut.-Governor Post

FRIENDS SAY STATE TO GIVE HIM MAJORITY

Is Well Qualified To Hold Important State Place; Deserves Promotion

That Albert A. Carmichael, present attorney-general of Alabama will be the state's next Lieutenant-Governor, seems definitely assured, according to reports received by his friends from over the entire state.

In announcing his candidacy for the position of Lieutenant Governor Carmichael stated that he believed that there were a number of vital issues which would be of great concern to the people of Alabama in the selection of the next Lieutenant Governor. He stated that he expected to make his position known fully on all issues at the proper time and that between now and the time of the primary elections that he would personally carry these issues to the voters of every county in the State in an aggressive campaign.

Carmichael is a member of one of the oldest families in Alabama, a family that has long been prominent in the political, legal, judicial and educational life of the state. He is a son of the late Charles D. Carmichael of Geneva and Dale Counties and a grandson of the late Judge J. M. Carmichael, and is a nephew of A. H. Carmichael of Tuscaloosa. BRIDGES ARE DEMOLISHED IN BIG DOWNPOUR

Thousands Of Dollars Damage Done To County's Roads And Farmlands

REPAIR WORK GETS WELL UNDERWAY

Chilton County came in for its share of the damage done over the state last week by the heavy rains and is suffering from badly damaged roads and wrecked bridges over the entire county. As the News went to press the exact number of broken and wrecked bridges could not be determined but it was estimated that approximately 125 were either badly damaged or completely demolished by the swollen creeks. This would include bridges of all sizes. At this time, no estimate is available on the extent of the damage to roads in the county.

Among the larger bridges that were either completely washed away, caved in or otherwise damaged is the bridge just east of Clanton on the Lay Dam road, the large steel bridge over Yellow Leaf Creek, the concrete bridge on the Birmingham highway just north of the city, the steel and concrete bridge on the old Montgomery highway just south of Clanton. The bridge near the Reynolds Addition was a total loss.

Repair Work Underway

Work of repairing the roads and bridges got underway Monday after the high waters had receded enough for workmen to reach the damaged spots. Traffic was at a standstill on the Lay Dam road and workmen were busy Tuesday erecting a temporary span over the large creek. This bridge and the one located just south of the business section come within the city limits and the cost of the repair and rebuilding will be borne by the city.

Estimated At $75,000

Continual rains through Wednesday and Thursday of last week placed the high water mark in this county to a new level with creeks spreading over acres and acres and the swelling rush of water doing great damage. A rough estimate was made at something over $75,000 to bridges in the county alone.

Fields Damaged

In practically every section of the county, newly plowed fields were badly washed and much planting will have to be done again.

Many families residing in low regions and along creeks were forced to leave their homes as the water began to rise at a rapid rate.

The Commissioners Court and the Road Department are cooperating to rush the work as much as possible and it is understood that approximately one hundred WPA workers as well as other men of the county are being employed in the repair work.

Temporary bridges are replacing the most important ones damaged and detours have been arranged so that vehicles may travel with safety until permanent structures can be erected.

Arledge Comments On Changes In Personnel

"The Editor, The Chilton County News, Clanton, Alabama.

"Dear sir: "It has been brought to my attention on several occasions that some people are ever ready to censure Mr. C. B. Cox for whatever changes I have made in my road department personnel because these changes did not meet with their approval. "I deem it only fair at this time to make a statement to the public to the effect that Mr. Cox has had no part in effecting any changes in the Road Department of this county in more than a year. Mr. Cox has made no effort to even influence me in any changes that have been made. "I sincerely hope this statement will clarify the rumors that have been brought to my attention regarding this. "Respectfully,

"T. J. ARLEDGE, Road Supervisor."

Buying Of Easter Seals

The Easter season brings with it the bright Seals of the Chilton County Unit of the Alabama Crippled Children Society, an affiliate of the State Society, as harbingers of joy in a joyous period.

These Seals bring to the attention of the public the work being done for children and adults, unfortunately handicapped by crippling diseases or accidents, and the need for pursuing the effort unceasingly. The work of these organizations should receive the support and encouragement of all persons.

Modern science and modern methods have brought a new life to many persons whose afflictions once were considered hopeless. But these modern blessings are not available to all who need them. There is still much to be done.

The national organization has for its main purpose the focusing of attention of these afflictions.

Such an aim cannot help but attract the sympathy and support of the community. The best is offered by making the purchase of an out standing success. It costs but a penny.

In A Dry County

It is noted that in Montgomery, Ala., the prohibition is now in effect for a second year during the prohibition days for public drunkenness.

"On the other hand, in spite of the efforts to close them up, the dives that infest this county (dry Cullman), have multiplied to ply their trade and several have been the result, with young people still able to make purchases of the law."—Anniston Star.

Is Prohibition Coming Back?

Being the second in a series of excerpts taken from a collection of five feature articles prepared by "Iffy The Dooper," and appearing in the Detroit Free Press.

"I voted for the Prohibition Amendment. I am frank to admit Old Iffy should have known better.

"We back in 1907 I got a lesson on that. We all did; that is to say, those of us who were traveling with the Detroit Tigers down south that Spring. Up to the day we visited Little Rock, Ark., in the Spring of 1907, I, Old Iffy himself, had never smoked a cigarette in my life.

"Back in those days we had been educated by the Sunday School teachers to believe that there was something inherently evil about smoking a cigarette. It was all right to chew tobacco or smoke a foul-smelling pipe, but a cigarette was something that would stunt your growth, make you into a sissy. The boys in the back room had a special name for it.

"The Tiger ball team arrived in Little Rock, and Joe Jackson and I headed for the hotel. On the street we met Cy Young, the famous old Boston pitcher.

"What and the hell sort of a town is this?" Cy demanded of us.

"We asked for an explanation of his indignation.

"There is a State law here," he said "which prohibits the sale of cigarettes!"

"What do you care?" we asked. "You don't smoke cigarettes!"

"No," he said, "but now I want one because they say I can't have one."

"Well, sir, by nightfall all of us were bribing fellows and buying cigarettes. Bought 'em from bootleggers by the carton. In Arkansas three days and never smoked anything else. First time I ever smoked one of the things.

"Our next jump was to Louisville, where we could buy all the cigarettes we wanted right over the counter. And not a darned one of us ever bought one or smoked one of them we had bought in Arkansas."

Safety Follows "Clean-Up Week"

Spring clean-up week, which is an annual observance in thousands of American communities and should be in all of them, is in the offing. The week was started primarily as a beautifying movement—old shacks are torn down, vacant lots are cleaned of debris, homes are painted, grass-grown fields are cut and the harvest burned. It's amazing how little is needed in many cases to change a squalid street to one that is pleasant and charming to the eye.

Furthermore, something other than a better looking town results from a clean-up week that is loyally and enthusiastically supported by all citizens. For a sound, thorough clean-up process is one of the best possible ways of getting rid of fire hazards. A town which rids itself of old, unused buildings, and which does away with litter and grass-ridden lots, becomes a far safer place in which to live and work.

Clean-up week should not stop at exteriors. As the National Board of Fire Underwriters points out, everyone should go through his home inside as well as out in search of fire dangers. A congested attic or basement, filled with ancient magazines and broken furniture and clothes that will never be used again, is the perfect starting place for a blaze. Frayed or amateurishly repaired light cords, improperly stored inflammable liquids, dirty or worn heating units—from such things as these come fires that destroy hundreds of millions of dollars worth of property and thousands of lives.

Every town should make this year's clean-up week the most thorough in its history. It's an easy job, if everyone does his bit to help. And it will pay big dividends, in beauty, safety and cash.

An Opportunity For Local

Aviators

Second Assistant Postmaster-General Harlee Branch announced today that the Post Office Department will celebrate the Twentieth Anniversary of the inauguration of regular air mail service by observing the first National Air Mail Week from May 15 to May 31, 1938. General James A. H. Smith will be honorary national chairman of the committee which will arrange for fitting observation. Paul R. Younts, Postmaster at Charlotte, North Carolina, will be active chairman of the campaign.

W. Cooper Green, Postmaster at Birmingham, Alabama, will be State Chairman for Alabama.

An official cachet will be authorized at Kitty Hawk, North Carolina, the birthplace of aviation, to honor the Wright brothers. Every other post office in the United States of which there are over 45,000, will be authorized to arrange its own local cachet.

Thousands of privately licensed pilots will be given the opportunity of becoming air mail pilots for a day to fly the mail from interior offices to air mail stop points.

We Can Have Safety

We'll get highway safety—when we want it!

That is the opinion of W. Earl Hall, President of the Iowa State Safety Council.

"When nine out of ten persons want safety, we'll be on our way to having safety," says Mr. Hall. "It will work out this way:

"The nine will turn to the educator, the engineer and the enforcer—the personalities behind the three E's of safety—and say this: 'We want this problem solved. We're willing to pay the price and we're willing to cooperate in the fullest measure.'"

We have all the essentials of safety at hand. Our road builders have made remarkable strides in giving us streets and highways designed to eliminate as many of the hazards of driving as possible. Our automobile makers have worked miracles in improving lights, brakes and other mechanical safety factors. Over a long period of time, our state traffic codes and standards of law enforcement have tended to steadily improve, even though much remains to be done.

Where, then, is the fault? Why did last year's automobile death toll reach an all-time high in excess of 40,000? The answer is plain. We talk about safety—but a great many of us aren't willing to do the things that create safety. It's easy to pan the other fellow—and at the same time to excuse faults in ourselves. We condemn recklessness—and then go out and drive at high speeds. We argue convincingly that courtesy in driving is vital—and then hog the right-of-way. We have nothing but condemnation for the drunken driver—and then we go to a party, drink all evening, and drive home.

Yes, we can have safety—when we really want it. It's squarely up to us all.

TAXES AND EDUCATION—

According to The Education Bulletin, published monthly by the Alabama Education Association, in Montgomery, the taxpayers of Alabama paid into the State Treasury last year $71,548,045. Included in these receipts were refunds and transfers used for accounting purposes, that total $13,273,387. This leaves a total of $58,274,658. $33,339,669 were Federal funds and non-revenue receipts. $15,349,416 were County and City Funds and Unemployment Trust Fund. This leaves a total of $34,585,073 for the support of the State government. The bulletin states that the total amount assigned to education was $12,622,389.16, or approximately 22 per cent of the $58,274,658.

THE BIG RAIN—

Ye Olde Observer thought for a while last Friday morn he'd have a substantial excuse for staying at home to gather in a little sleep. The bridge on the Montgomery-Birmingham Highway just north of the city and on our route to and from our place of abode and work gave way under the pressure of water from the heaviest downpour of rain we have ever seen fall in two days. But then there is most always a detour and so we arrived at the News Office only a few minutes late. Many bridges gave way in this County, before the onrush of swollen creeks and branches. To rebuild the roads and bridges in this County will cost the County of Chilton, many dollars, but the order of the universe is no respecter of persons. Commissioners Courts or Road Supervisors and the only alternative is to rebuild as quickly as possible.

THE 4-H'ERS—

Cold winds and washed out bridges failed to keep the young members of the 4-H Clubs of this County from attending the big annual rally held here last Saturday. They came from all directions, east, west, north, and south, and they gathered to enjoy a day of real enjoyment and contact with each other. Too bad the baseball game between the Birmingham Barons and the Montgomery Bombers was called off on account of the wet diamond as the boys and girls had been invited to attend this game free. Under the able direction of B. N. Ivey, Assistant County Agent in charge of 4-H Club work, the youngsters profit in many ways from these activities. More power to the younger citizens of Chilton County.

RUMORS—

We hear rumors here and there concerning new businesses and improvements in businesses in Clanton. One big additional service to a certain popular establishment, if rumors pan out to be true, will be something Clanton has never had before and in our opinion will be something Clanton has a real need for. Well, all we know to do is just hang around and look, listen and observe—or something.

CALLED OFF AGAIN—

We're not inclined to be pessimistic, but to us it looks like it's not in the cards that Clanton be the scene of a professional baseball game. For the second season now the game scheduled between the Barons and Bombers has been called off on account of bad weather. As we state we're not pessimistic, but we wonder what will happen next year if a game is scheduled at Clanton.

FOR THE SECOND TIME, TOO—

And that bingo party the Pilot Club was going to sponsor last Friday night and at which we were going to have so much fun, was postponed for the second time. But on a night like Friday night, we're in favor of postponing lots of things in favor of the dear old storm pit, but we haven't given up hopes yet, for according to those in charge, tonight is the night.

YOU CAN HELP—

We know of no cause more worthy than that of aiding the crippled children of our County and State. The annual sale of Easter Seals is under way, being handled in a big way by the members of the 4-H Clubs of the County. These Seals sell for only one cent each, and your purchase of same will gladden the hearts of many crippled children right here in Chilton. With the 4-H Clubs selling and you buying, there is no reason why we should fall short of our quota. We should go far over. Yes, you can help.

In Wilson, N. C., Carson White rammed Oliver White's white milk truck against John White's car, which was driven by William White. The accident was investigated by Officer Robert White.

When a hold-up victim failed to find the robber in a police line-up in Pittsburgh, Public Safety Director George Farley ordered the guilty man to reveal himself. Charles Smith stepped forward, acknowledged his guilt.

MORAL ECHOES.

D. W. Haskew

We learn in church history that one day a traveler came to a town in England, and stopping at the village hotel, he inquired where he could find a drink of whiskey. He was told that no store in the city handled it. The traveler went out on the streets and walked from place to place in search of his drink, but he could not find it. Then in his wanderings he came to the street corner and abruptly asked, "Why in hell can't a man find a drink in this blankety town?" The man replied, "Nigh unto a hundred years ago a man by the name of John Wesley came our way and since then no man in this city has wanted to sell whiskey." Who is in any town or city who want to tell whiskey? People who fail to catch the John Wesley spirit and who fail to live up to the John Wesley standard of life. The weight of a good man in a town should linger long after he is dead and gone. That town was so very different to what took place in a certain town in Alabama. A stranger approached a citizen and asked, "Where can I buy a drink in this town?" He was pointed out a church on the square and replied, "You can buy that stuff in every house on this square except in my house." May God prosper His churches and bless all good men.

I saw a good woman as she sat by the fire reading "Times", a magazine that has a wide circulation. I noticed that now and then the would stop reading and yank out a page and fling it into the fire. Seeing her do this several times, I said to her, "Corrie, why are you mutilating that magazine in that manner?" Listen to her reply, "I like to pass my magazines on to my friends to read, but I can not afford to pass them on when they carry liquor advertisements." It did me good to see her jerking out page after page of that magazine. It has always seemed to me that if publications carrying liquor advertisements, could know the aversion that right thinking people have toward a whiskey bottle, they would print pages that they would keep them from reaching the public for the sake of their trust. To be honest, do you really think that printed matter is worthy to be passed on when it all besmirched with whiskey ads?

I was turning the dial on my radio when I came across sounds of sweet music. I tuned in correctly and the melody charmed my very soul. The music skipped along and I was delighted. Just then some one in the radio station started to sing a song that I did not please me. In fact the sound of the human voice was so unsmooth and uninvited that all of the music was ruined. In listening to the radio many a time I have wanted to shout to the station and say, "For goodness sake, make that bear hush and let me hear the music." Many a time have I been reading along enjoying a newspaper or magazine, when my eyes would fall upon a whiskey advertisement and I felt just like always feel when a poor singer ruins the sweet music of a good song. How I am longing for some man to come along who can regulate the world. Some man who can take static out of the radio, poor singing out of sweet music, and whiskey advertisements out of good reading.

On entering a factory I saw this sign prominently displayed, "The man who is like a wheelbarrow and only goes as far as he is pushed is not likely to succeed here." A life that is without the inward urge of enthusiasm is none other than a drab, a list, tasteless thing. Men despise the fellow who is nothing and then not much of that. The man who loses his enthusiasm only travels a job in the pace set by the wheelbarrow. He only makes time and speed when he is pushed. While I was a boy I drove a mule at a cane mill, and every time I stepped from behind the mule he would stop. Some folks sing at their work, while others only fuss and curse. Enthusiasm is the overflow of God in us that makes us out in joyous service. Do you work only when you are pushed?

The story is told of a woman who dreamed that she died and went to heaven. An angel met her and showed her about over the place. On her journey of sightseeing she came to a room that was filled with bundles. As she looked over she was astonished to find that each bundle had her name on it. As she looked them over she remembered having prayed for each one and she asked the angel why they had not been sent to her at the time of her petition. The angel replied, "Yes, my good woman, you prayed for all of these and we were sent to deliver them on a rush order, but on our arrival we found that you were not expecting them and had gone away from the place of petition." Then the angel added solemnly, "No finding you in waiting to receive, we were ordered to bring them back and store them in this room." When we pray do we expect God to answer us? Do we linger and wait for the coming of the blessing asked from God? How many things do you have stored up? Heaven that you asked for and yet you did not wait to receive them?

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to take this means of expressing to our many friends our sincere thanks and appreciation for the many acts of kindness shown during our recent bereavement. Especially we wish to thank Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Armstrong for all they have done for us. We wish to thank each of you who sent the beautiful floral offerings. —Mrs. W. R. Corley and Children

Unity-Chilton Institute To Be Held July 5, 6, 7

At the Executive Board meetings of both Unity and Chilton W.M.U. plans were made for a bigger and better Mission Institute than has ever been held before, but if this is to be, we must plan NOW. The dates are July 5, 6, 7.
Please save those dates and let nothing be planned to take them. Already firm speakers and missionaries are being secured. It really will be a great meeting this time. The church at Clanton has requested the Ezells to continue to reside in Clanton. We will certainly be at the Institute to do our part as usual.

We are asking each church to report to your Quarterly meeting, the name of your lunch chairman, and to make any suggestions that you think would improve our Institute. We want what the majority want and will get it for them if we can. I urge you to tell your W.
M.U. Superintendent or write me all your suggestions about speakers or anything else that you think would improve the Institute, but above all, I beg you to pray, that we may be led aright in all our plans and in securing all our speakers, teachers, lunch chairmen, and all the numbers of other assistants that we must have.

You have been so lovely in the past.
I look forward with joy to working with you again.

Yours for the very greatest institute,
Mrs. S.J. Ezell, Director.

SCO-CO FERTILIZER BEST FOR CORN, SAYS TATUM

Farmers in this section will grow more and better corn this year than ever before, according to G. Tatum, Jr., manager of the Montgomery plant of The Southern Cotton Oil Company, manufacturers of SCO-CO fertilizers.

Mr. Tatum states that many farmers seem to have realized that they can grow their cotton quota on less acreage growing a good commercial fertilizer, and that the acreage thus released from cotton can be used for a very profitable corn crop.

He says he is manufacturing and selling more SCO-CO fertilizer for corn growing than ever before because farmers want to increase their corn yield per bushel. This means increased profits per acre whether the farmer feeds the corn to his own live stock or sells in the grain market.

Many farmers through the state are growing corn to feed their own live stock because they make a better profit on live stock and dairy products. This makes them less dependent on the whims of the cotton market. Mr. Tatum says that corn properly fertilized with SCO-CO gets a quicker and more vigorous start, grows away from grass and weeds and hence is easier to cultivate. He says SCO-CO corn-fertilizer also contains slow-acting plant foods that will not leach out but remain in the ground to stimulate the plant when the ear is maturing, thus producing larger ears and more of them.

Mr. Tatum says he was talking to a well known farmer only a few days ago who said, "I used to think that the more corn acreage I planted the better chance I had to make money.
Now I know that bigger yield per acre is the way to make money."

"It is all a matter of production costs, and the same as a factor. If I lose money on a poor corn crop, the more acres
I plant the more money I lose. I assure myself of a big corn yield (and a profit) by using SCO-CO fertilizer on corn just like I do cotton."

SIDE DRESSING OF CROPS
PAYS HIGH DIVIDENDS
Farmers have learned from years of experience that a side dressing of 100 to 200 pounds of natural soda after chopping cotton and corn is about knee high pays real dividends. The side dressing comes at a time when the plants can take up the nitrogen quickly. It feeds the crops—no grass.
Under general average conditions, 200 pounds per acre of natural soda usually gives cotton an adequate and profitable supply of nitrogen. Experienced farmers often use considerably more than the average user. It should be split, however, to about 50 pounds under and 150 pounds side dressing about chopping time. The side dressing is the secret of the results obtained by "money" farmers.

The Rev. George H. Kirker, minister of the Presbyterian Church at Marion Junction, stated, "I have complete confidence in your ability to discharge the duties of this high office, your fairness of judgement, your desire to do what you believe is right, and your integrity of character."

The Rev. Kirker has been minister of the church to which Goode belongs for more than 15 years.

The organization of Goode forces in every county of the State is rapidly taking place and reports being sent to headquarters in Montgomery, Mobile, and Birmingham are said to be highly encouraging. Goode himself is now on a speaking tour which will take him in to every county.

4-H Clubs of County Aid In The Selling of Easter Seals

The Chilton County Unit of the Alabama Crippled Children's Society has engaged the wholehearted support of the 4-H Clubs of the County in the sale of Easter Seals for the benefit of the crippled children of the State.

Following is a letter being mailed out this week to members of the 4-H Clubs by Mary Pearl Griffin, president of the County Council of 4-H Clubs, and active leader in this work:

"To All 4-H Club Members:

"The Chilton County Unit of the Alabama Crippled Children's Society in their last regular meeting held on February 24, passed a resolution requesting the 4-H Clubs of Chilton County to actively support the annual Easter Seal Sale for the benefit of the crippled children of this county. At the annual 4-H Club rally last Saturday, this matter was brought to the attention of the officers of both the boys' and girls' clubs. It was unanimously agreed that the 4-H Clubs of the county would undertake this task. I was requested to serve as County Chairman of the Easter Seal Sale campaign.

"A package of seals and sales material has been prepared for your club and will be either mailed to you or delivered to you in person. Please stay th this task until you have made a success of selling all the seals allotted to your club. They are to be sold for one cent each. Please make your report on or before Saturday, April 30, either to me or to the office of the Superintendent of Education.

"May I again urge your wholehearted support in this most worthwhile task.

"Sincerely yours,
"MARY PEARL GRIFFIN,
"Chairman, Easter Seal Sale Campaign"

According to figures at the office of Luther E. Little, County Superintendent of Education, and who is serving as chairman of the County Unit, Chilton County's quota last year was set at $300. By this $300 raised, the crippled children of this county received hospital services totaling $1500. This year the local unit has been asked to raise $250, and at the present time there are nine operations on the waiting list which alone will total something over $1200. Thus it is seen that this county receives much benefit from this worthy drive for funds.

Mrs. Little and Miss Griffin are urging the people of this county to buy seals so that Chilton County may go over its quota this year.

Pilot Club Holds Interesting Meeting

The Clanton Pilot Club varied their regular program last Wednesday evening by having a "Package Auction Sale." This sale was made possible by the contributing articles which were wrapped and named for the store or individual who donated them and by the donation of an article by each club member. These packages were all most attractively wrapped and decorated and all the fun came in the biddings of club members for these packages. Miss Gertrude Fiquette acted as auctioneer and put the sale over in a big way. The committee for the sale was composed of Mrs. Olive Welch, Miss Bertha Dennis and Mrs. Mamie C. Smith.

Other parts of the program added much fun to the evening. Don't forget the Bingo Party Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. Judging by the tickets that have been sold this is going to be one of the biggest parties of this kind ever to be held in Clanton. Come on out and let's play.

Miss Gertrude Fiquette and Mrs. Olive Welch are making plans to attend the Atlanta District Pilot Convention to be held in Atlanta, Ga., on April 23 and 24. The Atlanta Club has taken keen interest in the Clanton Club since it was first organized and any Clanton pilot who wishes to attend this convention will be assured of one grand time.

School Health Program Is Nearing Completion

Work of the health department in Chilton County schools for the current school year had been completed except for giving smallpox vaccination in Clanton and Concord, it was announced by the local health department today. A total of 1,110 pupils in 22 schools have received school health examinations, the report revealed. 1,710 children were vaccinated against smallpox and 530 were protected against diphtheria with toxoid. Besides regular health examinations, 2,178 inspections of children for scabies (itch) and pediculosis (lice) were made, the report showed.

Chilton County school teachers who have shown excellent cooperation with the health department, according to Dr. Sturkie, were urged to return all Compilation Charts and letters to parents which had been signed by family physicians.

The regular health examination of 4-H Club workers for the health department had begun yesterday. Dr. Sturkie stated. The local health department cooperates with the 4-H Club work and Home Demonstration Agent is conducting these examinations.

SPRING
If spring began
With the warm winds dirk
I could not turn away
And go back to my work.
But spring begins
With much sabbler things,
In winter's frozen heart,
It smoulders, later sings.
My heart begins
Without thought of time—
It's unescapable,
And can't be put in rhyme.
It's budgeting time that eliminates Less important duties and helps one to accomplish things that are more vital. Sufficient rest and sleep each night is essential. The diet is also important, especially when one is very busy and perhaps tired. The pleasant spring week ends are best to enjoy fresh air sunshine and outdoor exercises. It is economy of time, effort and materials as well as furnishings that are the important factors in raising our living standards. Too many possessions require excessive time and effort for their care, subjecting the homemakers to a perpetual slavery that keeps her from enjoying many of the social and cultural opportunities of life.

If You're Planning To Build
By W. S. Lowndes
Director, Schools of Architecture and Building
International Correspondence Schools

IN THE Spring many American families think of building new houses and plan homes which will be more ideal in every respect. Of course architects and building experts have to supply the technical knowledge, but if you are planning to build there are numerous little things to keep in mind. You should have some knowledge of the methods of construction and the building materials to be used. Keep in mind that the primary object of house-building is to make it into a harmonious unit. It is also important to know something of landscape gardening which will aid you in planning walks, lawns, trees and other decorative features.

The first object in designing a house is to provide comfort and protection, the second is to make it beautiful, and the third is to do these things in an economical manner. Saving in the first cost of a house is effected by making it as small as possible without sacrificing any of its essential requirements. Every house should be built so that it will be pleasing to the average house buyer. Expensive construction and decoration often interfere with the sale of a house, or compel the owner to sell at a sacrifice.

Beauty is an asset to any house. This element is not necessarily a matter of expense, but may be obtained by the application of thought and good taste to the design and arrangements. Certain elements, such as simplicity, symmetry, balance and harmony, are of proportion and appropriateness, always contribute to the external beauty of a building.

It is better to get more from less than someone else has, than to get less from more than another possesses.

Scientific research by both methods and materials is creating knowledge in which the homemaking tasks can best be accomplished and the things that make this possible thereby making it possible for millions of homes to enjoy the benefits of better living standards. This is true concerning our foods, health, recreation, etc. Come, let's watch our "time" and make the most of it.

Chevrolet dealerships on the Pacific Coast.

Three other promotions, necessitated by the same move were also announced. W. G. Lewellen, who has had charge of used cars in the western field, is placed in the eastern, and J. E. Johnson, Southwestern Regional manager, returns to Detroit to assume Mr. Lewellen's former duties. The post which he vacated at Dallas, Texas will be filled by Roy W. Hill, who is promoted from assistant regional manager in the Great Lakes region.

Mr. Keating's service with Chevrolet dates back to 1919, when he joined the organization in New York. After varied experience in the field, he entered the Central Office in July 1927, being assigned to special work. He became city sales manager at Pittsburgh, on August 1, 1927, winning promotion to zone manager at Philadelphia one year later. On November 1, 1933, he was transferred to St. Louis as manager of the Midwest Region embracing six important zones. He served with distinction in that capacity until March 1, 1937, when upon Mr. Holler's creation of a separate used car organization, he was called to Detroit as assistant general sales manager in charge of used car operations in the eastern half of the country.

Mr. Lewellen, who was trained as an engineer, was connected with the engineering department in Chevrolet from the time he joined the organization, early in 1919 until May, 1925, at which time he entered the Central Office promotional work. On May 1, 1927, he was appointed sales promotion manager, in which post he served until the fall of 1933, when he was promoted to management of the Kansas City zone. With formation of the Chevrolet Mass Selling Department, he was recalled to the Central Office December 1, 1934 and placed in charge of the activity, which he directed until March 1, 1937, the date of his appointment as assistant general sales manager in charge of used car operations in the western half. He leaves the latter to succeed Mr. Keating in the east.

Mr. Johnson joined Chevrolet in 1923 as a factory representative in Janesville, Wisconsin. In September, 1926 he became assistant sales manager in that zone, but in less than a month was promoted to city sales manager in Milwaukee. The following year, he was called into the Central Office. Experience, there; and in subsequent posts of increasing responsibility, in Knoxville Tennessee, Pittsburgh, and Baltimore, led to his appointment, on November 1, 1933, as manager of the Detroit zone. That post he held until June 1, 1934, when he was named manager of the large Southwest Region, with headquarters in Dallas. He remained in Dallas until his present appointment.

Mr. Hill has been with Chevrolet since November, 1925. Before reaching the post which he now leaves to succeed Mr. Johnson, he had served successively as a traveling representative and city sales manager in Los Angeles, assistant sales manager and sales manager in El Paso, sales manager in Jacksonville, and zone manager in Minneapolis and Chicago.

VIOLATOR SENTENCED

A Federal game law violation case, involving people from California to New York City and taking more than a year to complete, has been closed with a penitentiary sentence of two years for Jack Horner, proprietor of a night club near Fort Worth, Texas, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Horner catered to a wealthy clientele, serving wild duck, quail, plover, dove and other wild birds, both in and out of season. Texas authorities, under direction of W. J. Tucker, secretary of the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission, cooperated with Federal agents in working up the evidence which resulted in the conviction of Horner. The case attracted national attention, with many groups and sportsmen's clubs urging vigorous prosecution.

Do you want to SAVE MONEY?

The Standard Coupe

The Standard Ford V-8, with 60-horse-power engine, gives you a lot of car for a little money. 300,000 new owners acclaimed the "thrifty 60" last year. Hundreds a day are buying it in 1938. Why? Because it is priced low—including essential equipment without extra charge—and goes farther between filling stations than any Ford car ever built. Owners all over the country report averages of 22 to 27 miles on a single gallon of gasoline. But economy isn't all the story by any means. The Standard "60" is built with the same precision as the De Luxe "85," and has the same 112-inch wheelbase chassis. It is easy to look at and ride in—as well as easy to buy and run. There's a Ford dealer near you.

The Mineral Springs Home Demonstration Club met March 30 at the home of Mrs. M. Gore with fourteen members present. We enrolled two new members, Mrs. J. B. Sammons and Mrs. Ruby Kimbrel.

Several educational games were played while the demonstration was being prepared. Our leaders, Miss Gertrude Gore and Miss Maude Rutherford gave a very interesting demonstration on "Pies and Pastries."

We elected a committee on the Kitchen Improvement contest to score the club members' kitchens who are entering the contest. This committee is composed of Miss Gladys Dobbs, Chairman and Miss Bertie Lou Gore and Miss Maude Rutherford. Delicious lemon chiffon pie and hot chocolate were served at the end of the meeting with the leaders explaining how the demonstration was conducted. The meeting adjourned until next month and the place of meeting will be announced later.

Care in Planting

PLANTING and the immediate preliminaries to planting demand care as the first step toward a successful garden.

Though soil may be rich, a gardener will have indifferent success if he does not prepare it thoroughly. The ground should be worked deeply and the top three or four inches should be made as fine and loose as possible. And the best time to whip the weed enemy is while the soil is being prepared, using rake and hoe.

A primary consideration in planting is to have the soil favorably moist, that is, damp but not wet. If circumstances demand that you plant when the ground is dry, moisten trenches or drills before dropping the seed, using enough water to wet the soil, but not enough to cause caking.

To retain moisture after planting, cover seeds with fine earth and press down firmly. In small gardens, the firming may be done by laying a board over the row and walking on it. Some have found it a back-saving practice to cover medium-sized seed by driving a broom over the top of the rows, pulling the dirt onto the seed.

Consider temperature at the time of planting. Too high a temperature is often as detrimental to seed germination as one too low. Generally, a temperature between 65 and 75 degrees is most favorable.

Depth of planting is important and it varies, of course, with different seeds. Generally, seeds approximately the size of turnip seed should be covered not more than half an inch. Larger seeds, such as peas, beans and corn may be planted one to two and one-half inches deep.

Soil must be loose so that stems or seedlings can push through and roots will be able to find plant food. Fine seed must not be planted when the ground is wet. Where a heavy crust does form, however, it may sometimes be broken sufficiently to let seedlings through by gently pricking the soil with a rake.

There are times when weather conditions render it impossible for seedlings to survive. In such cases, replanting is the only recourse.

WANTS HARDY ELECTED FOR TAX COLLECTOR

G. M. Benson Urges Voters To Support Sheriff For This Office

Jemison, Alabama, April 12, 1938.

"To The Voters of Chilton County: "On Tuesday, May 3rd, the voters will go to the polls to cast their vote for Tax Collector and other officers of the County. I want to take this opportunity to express my views on the race for Tax Collector.

"I would like to urge all my friends to nominate Mr. J. R. Hardy for this office. I have known Mr. Hardy for a number of years and he is one of the most accommodating men I have ever known. He is familiar with the needs of the people, having been associated with the farmers of this county in various ways.

"Mr. Hardy has made us a good sheriff and believe he will serve us just as well in the office of Tax Collector. He has a good record and the people of the county should show their appreciation of his past services by electing him to this office.

TALLADEGA TO BE SCENE OF AMERICAN LEGION MEET

Talladega, Ala.—Area Commander Otis Burton, Monday issued a call for the annual convention of the Central Area of Alabama, American Legion, to be held at the Wren Memorial Hall here May 5.

Legion members will assemble for the opening of the session at 2:00 P. M. Each post in the area is entitled to 5 delegates for the post charter and one delegate to reach 20 members, or major portion thereof.

The principal purpose of the convention shall be to nominate candidates for Area Commander and for District Commanders of the fourth, fifth, and sixth Legion Districts for the year 1938-39, Mr. Burton said.

The nominations which are equivalent to election will be confirmed at the subsequent state convention in Montgomery.

A dinner will be served at 7 P. M. for the delegates to the convention.

Distinguished Legion members who will head the speaking program will include Dr. B. F. Austin, Department Commander; State Adjutant D. Trotter Jones; and Vice-Commander Bob Ward.

The meeting will be held on Thursday, a departure from the previous custom of holding similar conventions on Sunday. "In view of that fact, it is hoped this will be an outstanding meeting," Mr. Burton said.

In a previous article, combined cropping with "small garden" vegetables, for the purpose of increasing yield from garden plots of limited size, was discussed. A similar practice may be followed with home garden crops, such as cucumbers, melons, and peppers, which require somewhat more space.

Following are some combined culture recommendations in which vegetables of this type are considered: Sow dwarf peas early in rows four to six feet apart; plant radish between rows of peas, and plant one row of cucumbers between every two rows of peas. Radishes are harvested first, then the peas, leaving all the room for the cucumbers. Cantaloupe may be substituted for cucumbers.

Set cauliflower early in rows two feet apart; one foot on each side of each cauliflower row plant spinach; sow radishes between spinach rows. When radishes are used as seed tomato plants in the space they occupied, properly distanced, of course. Peppers or eggplant may be substituted for tomatoes.

Set cabbage plants as soon as practicable in rows two and one-half feet apart. Between cabbage rows sow one or more rows of early radishes. After radishes are pulled plant one row of dwarf beans between every two of cabbage.

Sow early turnips in rows three to four feet apart; later plant a row of corn between the turnip rows. The turnips will be harvested before the corn requires space.

Plant radishes early in rows eight feet apart; between these rows, at two foot intervals, plant rows of lettuce or spinach, or both. Plant watermelon seeds in rows made vacant when radishes are pulled.

In all cases of combined cultures, however, care must be taken to give the ground ample supplies of fertilizer, because of the increased amounts which will be required for the multiple crops.

B. N. IVEY, Assistant County Agent in Charge of 4-H Club Work

The Annual Chilton County 4-H Club Rally was held Saturday April 9, at the Chilton County High School. The program started at 10 A. M. with a varied program. The 4-H Council was in charge of the program which consisted of band music furnished by the Alabama Mills Band, negro minstrel, talk by Miss Elizabeth S. Deloney and Mr. Homer Fisher, Health medals, banners and certificates were given out to those earning them during the past year. The parade which was held was led by the band and a float was in the middle with the 4-H Council officers in and on it.

FARMERS ADVISED TO RID THEIR CATTLE OF LICE

It will pay Alabama farmers to examine their cattle for lice and to treat them if lice are found, advises Dr. R. S. Sugg, livestock specialist, Alabama Extension Service, in reporting heavy infestation of lice in many areas of the State.

"The majority of cattle, especially those in large herds, become infested with lice during the winter months," he says.

Lice are usually located around the sides of the neck, brisket, root of the tail, and along the back and between the thighs, but when numerous may cover the entire animal. The same treatment is effective for all three types of lice.

Dipping in arsenical dip is the most effective method of treating large herds. Concentrated arsenical dip can be purchased from wholesale druggists. Full directions are given on the container. From 7 to 10 gallons of the concentrated solution is usually necessary for an ordinary 150-gallon vat.

If a dipping vat is not available, the cattle can be crowded into pens or stalls and sprayed with the material by use of an ordinary orchard bucket spray. Where only two or three cows are to be treated, hand applications of a mixture of one part kerosene and two parts lard or oil can be applied; however, not more than one-third of the body should be greased at one time. Dipping or treatment should be repeated in 14 to 16 days.

An effective dusting powder can be made by mixing 20 pounds Derris powder, 10 pounds pyrethrum, 8 pounds naphthalene and 62 pounds kaolin. This powder, 10 pounds pyrethrum, 8 pounds gun or applied by hand.

"Editor, Chilton County News
Clanton, Ala.

"Dear Sir,
"I just received a letter from my brother who lives in Los Angeles, Cal. He was a Chilton boy born in Clanton and at one time worked for the L&N Railroad between Birmingham and Montgomery, and is now with the Santa Fe Railroad at Los Angeles.

He writes as follows: 'They are still finding dead bodies in the Lowlands under mud and I think we will never know just how many people drowned in that one day and night. It was bad and I came very near going down the river myself as I was towed as a passenger train over the WP and SP to the Santa Fe depot and was the last one to use Dayton Avenue bridge on the SP Railroad and I saw with my own eyes the bridge go down. All trains are running again now and business is good.'

"G. C. Lowe left the L&N Railroad and went to Panama and stayed there until the Canal was finished and then went West and has been with the Santa Fe for the last nineteen years.

OLD FAITHFUL Spouts Hot Water Once An Hour

ELECTRIC Water Heaters Give You Hot Water Any Second!

"Old Faithful" spouts once an hour with a big fuss. Electric water heaters never "spout," and yet, just at the turn of a faucet you get all the hot water you want, at any season of the day or night! And so dependable are they, that after you have an electric water heater installed in your home, you soon forget it's there. It requires no attention. It has no moving parts. Costs a lot to operate? How true! But when you have an electric water heater, the cost of your electricity comes to you as you use it.

CENTRAL ALABAMA HIGH SCHOOL LEAGUE

Chilton High took the second game of the season from West Blocton, Score, 6 to 3. On Wednesday afternoon, April 6, they went to Columbiana and trimmed Shelby County High. Bill Armstrong led the Sheliabians down with four safe hits, all of them singles. The Tigers shelled White for eight safeties, with Williamson and Reynolds leading the Tiger pack with a pair each.

Monday afternoon, April 11, they went to West Blocton, taking the hi school team there in tow, as Baggett got a 5-hit game out of his system, though Chilton got only five off Moore, Crocker and Grady. Williamson led the Tigers with a pair of hits, with Carroll leading West Blocton with a pair.

Coach Varnell has a scrappy little baseball team at Chilton High this year. The boys are up and going, and gives promise of a great year.

The editor of this column hopes to be able to give more details of this school in the future, showing the standing of each club in won and lost column, but as this is somewhat new baseball to the boys it will take some time to get the necessary records to get this information together.

The Chilton Tigers played the Columbiana team here yesterday (Wed.). Details of the game will be found in this column next week. Extra special effort was to be put forth in yesterday's game by the local boys as a regular American League baseball was to be used in the game. Following is a letter from the team to Mr. Hand, editor of the paper:

The boys, their coach, and supporters, are grateful for the recognition of Editor in showing his loyalty by contributing a Major League baseball autographed by "Babe" Ruth. This ball will be used in the opening game in the League series, to be played here Wednesday, April 13, at 3:30 o'clock, versus Columbiana.

Three big cheers for you, Mr. Editor, for being a regular fellow. Let's all get behind these boys and give them the necessary support to be good winners.

Mr. Editor, you have set the example we will follow!

The combined team of Lay Dam, Alabama Mills and Clanton is rapidly becoming a reality. Mr. (Bully) Spicer, the High School Coach, has been appointed manager of the team and has called general practice for Friday and Saturday evening at 3:00 P. M. at the High School Park, whereby he expects to whip a team in shape to play the Kilby team Sunday.

WANTED—A NAME—The baseball team just organized by the three above named places is without a name, and at the regular meeting of the Board of Directors it was decided to run a name contest. So get busy and name this team. If your name is accepted you will be given a season pass to all home games. Send in your name for the team to Sports Editor, Chilton County News, and the winner or winners will be announced at the opening game here in a week or two. The exact date has not yet been decided upon.

Yep! Turkey hunting comes under the head of this column, so here's what we hear. Dr. Odum takes his old trusty gun and goes out for the large feathered fowl but reports, for some reason, they wasn't biting. But not to be outdone, he leaves again, with fair weather, next Wednesday afternoon, with fair warning, biting or no biting, that ol' gobbler had better take heed—We'll see what we'll see.

Speaking of Turkey Hunting, its suggested by yours truly to see those Foshee boys, Jesse Frank and M. D., and kinda feel them out you might get their secret of success some few days ago. Jesse bagged a beauty and the later reports are his brother, M. D., killed one weighing seventeen and one-half pounds Wednesday morning across the river into Coosa. Maybe they know when, where and how. What do you think?

'At's all—til next week.

Things We Think
Things Others Think and What We Think of Things Others Think
—BILLY SMITH

"There is but one straight road to success, and that is merit. The man who is successful is the man who is useful. Capacity never lacks opportunity. It cannot remain unused, because it is sought by too many anxious to use it."

And we are greatly impressed by the forthcoming visits of some of the notables of Alabama and of the nation. Chilton County is being honored for the next two weeks by the visits of Postmaster-General James A. Farley and Mrs. Dixie Bibb Graves, wife of Alabama's Governor. Being the wife of Alabama's Governor is one thing. Being a former successful United States Senator is another. We are honored twice in these two capacities in which Alabama's First Lady has placed herself. Chilton County must put its best foot forward and put on a bright dress for the visits of these two distinguished personages.

The women of Chilton County have a rightful place in politics and some of them think we will turn to these clear-thinking homemakers and place under their control their place in our government. We can imagine now that when Mrs. Bibb Graves stands before the Chilton County women tomorrow afternoon she will incite them by her words to such an extent they will show a much more decided voting strength this year than ever before. She will no doubt point out to these ladies that the Democratic ticket of Chilton County holds the only hope for a continuation of good government for their children and their children's children; that the Democratic ticket of Chilton County reaches far beyond merely the home line; that any other political ticket in Chilton County loses small influence the minute it prebends to be able to have a voice in State National government. We imagine Mrs. Bibb Graves will tell her audience of fairer sex that in Alabama democracy holds the spotlight, always has and always will, and that it is as much responsibility of the women as of the men, to fight for Democracy where lies the brightest opportunity for manhood, childhood and manhood. We believe Mrs. Bibb Graves will state these facts and many more, and, despite the absence of a skirt, she will be allowed to hear this address tomorrow afternoon.

Jim Farley should address the young people of Chilton County here, we believe, tell them some of the facts of life they are soon to face their responsibility of being a part of the nation of free people. He would tell these young voters that if they have the privilege of helping select the Governor of Alabama, the United States Senator, State Treasurer, Secretary of State and many other officials, then they should realize this opportunity is presented to them only on the Democratic ticket. In fact, we imagine Mr. Farley would also say that the Democratic ticket of Chilton County is the only ballot through which these young men and women who vote in this county, may have an influential voice in the selection of the nation's President. These are only a few of the many facts we imagine Mrs. Farley would tell us. However, he would place them more squarely up to the young men and women of our county. He would probably remind these voters that the Democratic ticket is the only ballot in Chilton County that does not lose its voice outside the county, and that is heard all the way to Washington.

If we should be called upon for a speech along political lines, we would remind the people of these facts. We would also bring out that if any of the young men, young women, or the older voters wished to cast their vote for Bob Goode, Frank Dixon, Chauncey Spivey, Hardy Riddle or James Hard for Governor on the third day of May, they would necessarily have to vote the Democratic ticket. We would also ask them if they would like to vote for Pete Jarman for our Congressman. If the answer was "Yes," we would then direct them to the only ballot on which his name will appear, that of the Democrats. Pete is a young man, has the interest of the young people in his heart and is making a poor Congressman. The next Attorney-General of Alabama is a young man and Democrat. Of course, all you young voters may have an ambition to be an

Cox Says People Did Not Vote On Bill Of Road Supervisor

"Chilton County News, Clanton, Alabama:
"I understand that rumors have been circulating stating I passed the Bill creating the office of Road Supervisor over the protest of a vote of the people of the county. Since this is not true, I feel in fairness to myself, I should correct these statements.

"The referendum these rumors refer to was held on April 7, 1936 and the people did not vote on the proposed Road Supervisor Bill at that time, nor any other time. There were only two propositions submitted to them in that referendum. These were the Bill affecting the Commissioners Court and the Bill affecting the office of the County Solicitor. The people opposed these bills and they were not passed by me in the Legislature.

"I hope the citizens of the county will keep this in mind and correct the rumor that I passed the Road Supervisor Bill over a protest vote of the people.

"Very truly yours,
"C. B. COX."

Governor Or Good Government?

(Editorial published in The Prattville Progress, March 31, 1938).

In the present crisis of American Democracy, five candidates have offered themselves for the office of Governor. But the supreme issue is neither Arnold nor Dixon nor Goode nor Riddle nor Sparks—not all of them together. The supreme issue is good government. Good government, the prosperity and happiness of our people, depends upon Agriculture, Education, Health, Industry, and sound financial administration. The capital question is—Who knows with intimate and exact knowledge the most about Agriculture, about Education, about Health, about Industry, and about sound finance? Who? Who has had long and successful experience in these things together with experience in the affairs of government? Who? Who has lived and worked most intimately with the people? Who seeks the welfare of all the people, of the State as a whole, and not his own self-aggrandizement or the interests of a city, section or party? Who?

This should be the issue and argument. A man who is an opponent or of the present administration is not an intelligent and honest opponent. Let the people of Alabama choose the man whose interests in the advancement of Agriculture, Education, Health, Industry and Finance—and not the ambitious self-interest of any candidate.

Let another man praise thee, and not thine own mouth."

The Falling Womacks

The conviction of eight members of the Womack family recently by a Federal District Court in East St. Louis, Illinois, turns the spotlight on one of our major rackets. The Womacks were liability claim fraud artists par excellence. Pretending to trip over every conceivable object, they staged falls in streets, department stores, taxies, and buses. Then they pressed claims for damage against owners or their insurance companies.

The family fell so many times that they became known as the "falling Womacks." According to the evidence which put them in the Federal penitentiary, they made 59 fake claims and obtained 39 settlements from insurance companies at a cost of thousands of dollars. How much farther their unlawful operations reached, investigators can only guess.

"Until I heard the evidence in this case," commented Federal Judge Fred L. Wham, "I wouldn't have believed such a thing could have happened." The self-inflicted wounds, "flopping," and feigned injuries with all other necessary artifices are still a mystery to the public. But to the Index Bureau, and agency established by casualty companies through the Association of Casualty and Surety Executives, to many municipalities, to public utilities and others, the fake accident is an old story.
